"The Telephone" will be performed by soprano Emily Benner and bass-baritone Jeffery Norris. Mezzo-soprano Jayne Sleder and tenor Mark Puchala round out the cast for the opera concert. Orchestral scores will be performed on piano by Victoria Mushkatkol. All five musicians are Michigan artists. Benner just graduated with several scholarships from the master's degree performance program at the University of Michigan and the other four perform frequently throughout the Midwest.

Sleder is also artistic director for the concert, and she has worked with the local guild and the other artists to choose some of the most beautiful and well-known opera arias, duets, trios and quartets to complete the program. The entire quartet will "bookend" the concert, opening with a quartet from Verdi's "Rigoletto" and closing with the quartet "Make Our Garden Grow" from Bernstein's "Candide."

Puchala

Sleder will perform the "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen" and "Du bist der lenz" from Wagner's "Die Walkure." She will also team up with Puchala for the duet "Si, la tanchezza m'opprime o figlio" from Verdi's "Il Trovatore" and with Benner for the famous duet from "Delibes' Lakme."

Benner

Norris will perform an aria "Non piu andrai" from Mozart's "LeNozze di Figaro" (The Marriage of Figaro). He will team with Puchala for a duet from Puccini's "La Boheme." Puchala will also sing the aria "Il mio tesore" from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Tickets are $15 and include admission to the concert and an elegantly catered afterglow at the concert site. Tickets are available by contacting guild vice president Ellen Addington at (616) 536-7018, or ticket chair Dave Smith at 547-1817. Tickets are also available at Bridge Street Book Shop, 547-7323, Pointes North Inn 547-0055, and through the Crooked Tree Arts Council at McCune Community Arts Center, 347-4337.

The concert is supported by a grant from the Cheboygan Area Arts Council Regranting Agency, money made available for distribution at the regional level by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, and by administrative support from the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

Paging Dr. Joy, Dr. Dennis Joy. This is to inform you that your patient is actually making a serious effort to follow your instructions this summer.

The doctor has been lovingly after me for a long time to get into some type of regular exercise routine. Well, when the warm weather finally arrived, I made up my mind that it was past time to try (not to mention a sweet saint saying one Sunday morning, "Why Pastor, you certainly have filled out over the winter).

So, I've been walking. Not necessarily the leisurely kind of sauntering that so many of us are prone to do in the summer. I'm faster than that (about 20 minutes for a mile), and I'm even beginning to explore power walking. In my first month, I actually managed a little over 50 miles. So far this month, I'm sneaking up on 30 miles, but there's still time to stay on the pace.

What I've come to enjoy about walking is what you can see when you get those feet up and moving. What has surprised me about walking is how the same territory can look different depending on what time of day you cover it. For instance, in the morning there is this red wing blackbird who has a problem with hats. When I wear a hat she chases me and sings a very worried song. When I don't wear a hat, she let's me go by her part of my walk without a peep. In the early evening, there's a pair of swallow that love to engage in an aerial dogfight over my head when I pass their segment of the block.

We have a pond on our road. In the morning there's this Mamma Duck who just recently hatched a huge clutch of eggs. She watches over her brood in a very proud fashion that is clearly visible to all. At night, there are frogs that sing (and they don't sound anything like those croakers who advertisers are using for beer).

I had forgotten about how much fun watching clouds can be. When I was a kid, there were more than a few of us who liked to look up at the clouds and see what kind of shapes we could imagine them to be. It kind of renews your faith in being young at heart when you do something like that again.

I am quite envious of several neighbors who clearly have superb green thumbs. Their summer flower gardens are a tapestry of changing color that is wonderful to behold. It's so neat how they have them planted, where as one flower fades from the scene, a new variety takes its place to fill the gap.

And then let's not forget why you and I visit like this. Walking is a wonderful time to open your heart to the wisdom and wonders of the Lord. From over in Isaiah, this verse has popped into my head on more than one occasion, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. They shall mount up with wings like eagles. They shall run and not grow weary. They shall walk and never faint ..."

Yes, Dr. Joy, I'm really trying hard this summer. But what's more important, I look forward to daily walks in God's marvelous creation and the time it can give us all to renew our strength from Him.

County adds project to list of summer road improvements

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The Charlevoix County Road Commission has added a new task to its summer to-do list.

Later this month, they will regravel a one-mile stretch of Phelps Road in Marion Township, from Old Railroad Grade to Blanchard Road.

The project will cost $21,300, which will be paid from the township's road millage fund.

Three other summer projects, one in Hayes township and two in Eveline township, will not begin until late summer, perhaps even fall.

"The weather has held us back, and we needed to get caught up on our work," road commission engineering manager, Fred Welch, said.

The two-mile project on Old 31 in Hayes township, from Burgess to Murray roads, and one mile of Mountain Road in Eveline township, from Gaunt to Ferry South, will be advertised for bids Monday, July 28. Welch said he hopes those projects will begin sometime in August, with both projects taking about four weeks to complete. He said the work shouldn't require any closings or detours, just a slowing in the traffic flow.

The proposed work for Ranney Road, from Whitfield to M-66, however, may not begin at all this year. Welch said he has not received any preliminary field plans. A public hearing about the project is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, July 29, during the road commission's regular meeting in Boyne City.

"This project will require a lot of thought," Welch said, of the road going up and down through hills. "There are some steep hills, and we don't want to develop any snow traps. We'll need some imagination."

As the road approaches M-66, it's bordered by large pine trees. Welch said the road commission hopes to protect them, despite plans to widen the road three and four feet.

Welch said he expects to advertise bidding for the job in August.

The work on Ranney Road has been estimated at nearly a quarter of a million dollars, with two-thirds of the cost being covered by a grant from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, who plan to relocate their community center to Ranney Road.

The remainder, as well as total costs for the other two projects, will come from road millage collections of the township. The Old 31 project is estimated to be cost just over $100,000 and the Mountain Road work just under $150,000.

Welch said four other projects loom, but still are in beginning

Eye doctor elected to hospital board

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

A new member for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors has joined the ranks of the veterans.

Steven M. Hufford was elected at the annual meeting July 15, along with incumbents Rebecca Haney and Norman Perkins. They were chosen from a field of seven candidates, including Nannette Binns, Suzanne Budd, Dianne Foster and Roy C. Hayes.

The seat Hufford filled was vacated by Al Ranger, who decided not to run for re-election after having served on the board for 12 years.

"I was honored that the room selected me as the only new member on the board," Hufford said, adding that he wants to keep the hospital moving in the positive direction that it currently travels. He has become a board member of a hospital that shares his philosophy for personal health care.

"We want to know the people's names and not their Social Security numbers," he said of his offices and that of the hospital.

Hufford is owner of Hufford Vision & Eye Care in Boyne City where he has been a resident since 1990. His involvement with Charlevoix Area Hospital goes back to his working there as a nurse's aid for three summers while he was in college. He is a Charlevoix native, the son of Walter and Ann Hufford.

"I've played all the different gamuts the hospital has to offer," he said, noting his previous employment there, and having been a patient, expectant father and concerned family member in the hospital's halls and rooms.

He holds a bachelor's degree in physiology from Michigan State University and a bachelor's degree in visual science from Illinois College of Optometry, and is a board member for the Summer Tree Residential Home, previous chamber of commerce board member and volunteer with the Special Olympics.

Haney is co-owner of Don's IGA in Charlevoix and has served on the board of directors for six years. She is past president of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild, and is active in the Charlevoix Area Garden Club and the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan. Haney is past board member and president of the Charlevoix Historical Society, a volunteer at the Bergman Center and Xi Epsilon Gamma Sorority president.

Perkins has been a board member since 1985, having served as past president and secretary. He holds a master's degree in learning disabilities from Michigan State University and a bachelor's and master's from Eastern Michigan University in special education. He is a resident of Central Lake, where he served as township supervisor for 10 years.

The rest of the board is comprised of Mary Jason, chair, Sulane Hamilton, vice chair, Thomas Carey, Mark Eckhardt, Richard Fish, Dr. Mitchel Carey, William Jackson, Ed McGee, Dr. Merle Plagce and Alan Weston.

Hospital sees increase in home care and outpatient treatments

hospital in all its patient areas, with the exception of after-hours clinic patients, which remained about the same. The largest increase in patient care came in births, respiratory therapy, EKG and stress and laboratory tests.

Throughout the year, the hospital — along with most of the nation's hospitals — saw general increases in outpatient treatment and home care. It opened a general practice clinic in Boyne City, where two physicians have received visits from 850 new patients, started a three-year health occupations program with Charlevoix High School and started an adult daycare program in East Jordan.

An ongoing project is the hospital's campaign to raise money to purchase a computerized tomography scanner, or C.T. scanner. The equipment performs internal scans without incisions. The hospital is expecting to receive its certificate of need from the state by the end of July, according to Jackson.

Even though the hospital is finding itself financially sound, private contributions in the March 31 fiscal year exceeded $280,000, according to hospital board of director's chair, Mary Jason. Also, more than 11,000 hours were donated by volunteers.

"Our volunteers come in all shapes and sizes," Jason said. "They also come from throughout our service area."

The 78-year-old hospital has services people throughout Charlevoix and northern Antrim counties.

One continuing challenge for the hospital includes cuts that are being legislated for Medicaid and Medicare.

"We're going to need strong support," Jackson said. "With that support, we're going to move into the next century — not just as a small hospital that's surviving, but one that's thriving."

Air balloon to fly Saturday

The Re/Max balloon will be flying in Charlevoix Friday, July 25, during the Venetian Festival.

Depending on the weather and wind conditions, the seven-story balloon will be flying over Round Lake during the early evening or taking shorter trips on a tether.

Generally, the balloon is flown by its pilot and crew over Round Lake before the boat parade begins. It has yet to be determined where the balloon will be inflated.

School board again investigates May Street land

History seems to favor a new building. Back in 1927 a bond issue to expand the school on Grant and Mason streets to accommodate extra grades only passed after two miserable defeats at the polls within a nine month period, a scenario similar to recent events.

In March of 1927, after passage, it was reported that gleeful students rang bells and that the school's band paraded down Bridge Street in a championship-like celebration. Whether similar emotions will result from a bond issue passage — the district has not done so since 1990 — remains to be seen.

"We have a lot of fences to mend before we should ask the voters for something," board president Alan Telgenhof said.

The board has begun investigating possible sites for a new middle school. One of the first to be discussed is land on May Street.

Three lots are for sale adjacent to the school's bus garage, and Ike Boss said the planned apartment complex on the north side of that area has stalled with the owner contacting him with a desire to sell the property to the district.

"I'm very interested in seeing the feasibility," Telgenhof said of the May Street possibilities, "but let's not marry the district to that one choice."

Ike Boss also pointed out that land behind the Archway Motel and across the street from the Dairy Queen is also for sale, which would give the district "plenty of room to expand."

Conversations with local real-tors revealed in Barney Way's words that "everything out there is for sale," although for how much money remains to be seen.

Despite the rush to replace the middle school, Way is not ready to line up the wrecking ball in front of the old one.

"This building needs to be used for something," he said. "It's a solid building, but maybe it's overgrown for the school system."

He said whatever is done, saving the gymnasium at the middle school is important and that the rest of the building might be used for offices for the county or city.

Way said the board needs to be thorough when reviewing its options, including reconfiguring the grade schemes into two buildings, a K-6 and 7-12.

Although some board members are looking toward a sooncoming bond election, Telgenhof said the board needs to step away from tackling any major projects. He suggested giving the public time to mull over what they feel is the future of Charlevoix schools and "let it bubble up to the board from there."

Roads get facelift

planning stages.

In Bay township, a quarter-mile stretch of Sho-Sho-Nie Road and 3,000 feet of Ericson Road, from Old Horton Bay to Alpine Hills subdivision, could see a facelift.

Over in Wilson Township, regraveling may be done on a two-and-a-half mile stretch of Barber Road, between Pesik and the Boyne City-East Jordan Road, as well as portions of Rogers Road.

Despite between four to six county roads receiving improvements, road conditions continue to deteriorate, said Welch, thanks to a dry, hot June. Roads are rough, dry, dusty and some are "just plain wore out," he said.

Welch said some roads in Chandler Township appear to be most severely damaged. Springvale, McGee, and Cobb roads have seen their gravel wear out from June's heat. Recent rain storms have only helped slightly.

Village draws businesses

Local businesses will be the first to expand to a new location in Bay Harbor's Marina Village Shops.

Six local retailers, and one from Traverse City, have opened new shops at Bay Harbor. Located at the eastern end of Bay Harbor Lake, next to the new Harbormaster building, the shops are modeled after the seaside retail kiosks popular along the Florida coasts.

"By accepting Bay Harbor's invitation to participate, these first retailers are providing an invaluable service to Bay Harbor," said Tony Lennon, director of sales and marketing for Bay Harbor Properties. "They offer an excellent assortment of items for the pleasure and convenience of Bay Harbor residents, guests, marina tenants, employees and hundreds of boaters attending four major rendezvous this summer."

The vanguard of Marina Village Shops retailers includes McLean & Eakin Booksellers, Kilwin's ice cream and chocolates, Kelly's Cards and Flowers and Roast & Toast Cafe & Coffee, all of Petoskey, an art gallery with art and crafts by Valerie Shumway and Camilla Haverstick, By The Bay nautical gifts of Harbor Springs, and Grand Bay Kite Co. of Traverse City.

The shops will be open Thursday through Monday for the balance of the season, with hours for each shop varying between 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. and closing at 6 p.m. Live band music in a tent adjacent to the kiosks is provided by Bay Harbor for the enjoyment of shoppers every Saturday and Sunday afternoon throughout July and August.

The ship's store in the harbor master building, operated by Walstrom Marine of Harbor Springs, will sell boating equipment and apparel. Future services at Bay Harbor Marina Village shops will include a Northwest Savings Bank ATM and a car rental service.

Charlevoix Community pool opens to public

The Charlevoix Community Pool opened to the public Monday after passing inspections by local, county and state authorities. The announcement by Todd Welscott, pool manager has been awaited by many since the pool was dedicated May 31.

According to Charlevoix Friends of the Pool, builders of the pool, the water is heated to 83 degrees and features the same Vantage system as used at the summer Olympics. It automatically feeds bromine into the water to provide a more pleasant swimming experience. There is also an automated pool cleaning system.

Work on the patio begins this week, where imprinted bricks will be laid. Many are memorial gifts with others in honor of friends and family. Fencing and landscaping will follow.

Pool hours will be limited at first. Initial activities on opening day and rest of the week include Adult Swim, 1-3 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; Senior Swim 10-11 a.m., Tuesday and Thursday; lap swim, 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and Family/Open Swim 6:30-8 p.m. Monday-Friday this week.

Aqua-therapy sessions also began this week. They are scheduled by Charlevoix Area Hospital therapist Linda DeGrow. Recently, a special wheelchair for pool ramp use was donated by the hospital.

Swim lessons begin Monday, July 28. Already, 40 families have requested applications and will be enrolled on a first-come, first-served basis.

About 700 free swim passes were issued last spring to elementary school pupils who completed the American Red Cross water safety course. These may now be honored.

All swimmers must bring their own towels. Call 547-0982 with questions about pool fees and schedules or brick purchases.

Golf pro offers advice to locals

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Making a grocery list of every item you don't want is like a golfer stepping onto the course meditating on all the mistakes he or she can't make.

"It's just not efficient," said Patti Butcher, a golf pro who visited Charlevoix Thursday to work with children involved in the Junior Golf Program and speek at an adult luncheon at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Butcher spoke on the mental aspects of the game, giving self-talk as much credit for success and failure as a swing, posture or grip.

Nearly 100 young people received tips from the former LPGA golfer, who now coaches golf at Grand Valley State University in Grand Rapids. The adults, too, listened closely.

"Throughout the years, golf has been my greatest teacher," Butcher said, noting how many life-lessons can be gleaned from the game.

While a student at Penn State, Butcher found herself just missing the cut to play in collegiate tournaments. Her coach personally escorted her to a sports psychology class. There she learned about nerves and self-talk.

"The next thing I knew, I was winning," Butcher said. "And my golf swing had not changed one iota."

As Butcher sees and teaches it, golf is really about the athlete's perspective. Each player needs to ask themselves what they believe about golf, why it's fun to them and what they want to accomplish.

The next step is being realistic. Setting goals higher than a commitment level causes frustration. For example, if a golfer wants to drop 20 strokes, they can't expect to do so while playing once a month.

As Butcher travels to golf clinics around the country, she finds that children are the easiest to teach. They haven't gained bad habits along the way. They naturally watch the ball when golfing because they watch the ball when playing other sports. They rarely have a bad swing.

"Kids don't have years of over-breeding," she said.

For adults who want to undo all the don'ts, they should start by not keeping their head down. Like the kids, they should follow the ball through, looking to where they want it to go. Women should seek teachers who are familiar with how their bodies work. Butcher said it's clear that women's hips don't swing the same as men's. And they can't be worried about looking lady-like and have a great game.

"When it doubt, stick your butt out, and then stick it out some more," she said.

All golfers should seek a teacher who will be honest with them about their swing and who will challenge them.

Lastly, golfers need to stop worrying about who they play with and how their game is compared with a partner. Each player should come on to the course determined to golf their best game, regardless of how that compares with others.

Golf pro, Patti Butcher, throws a golf ball to a young golfer Thursday at the Belvedere Golf Course to show that people really do know how hard to hit the ball. We learn the intensity like we learn how hard to throw a ball.

Yacht club races continue

A. Nony Mouse

It was just another perfect evening in Paradise. North!

Mike Miller's program shows total boats scored as 32, which means that some registered contestants did not start. One of those yachts was, when new, the black and chrome beautiful S525 that was the pride of A. Nony. Since then, it has been sailed so capably by Hank Cawthra. Bandit is en route to Harbor Springs (our poor sister community across the bay). Shed a tear with me, but let's also wish the new owners the best of luck. Bandit has always been a lucky ship. Her good luck once brought me a perfect spring and summer series. I then sold her to Hank.

To get down to racing business, the second race of the series started in less than promising conditions July 16. Light air at the first gun went even lighter.

By the time the starting sequences were completed, the first leg ceased to be a beat as the wind shifted to the west and filled in. Sarah Belle, having missed last week, showed lack of practice, as she was last to finish at 8:11.31 p.m., but by only seconds after Stalworth, at 8:11.23 p.m.

Among the spinnaker fleets, all the best times were in the J-22 Fleet E. Hussy finished in 1:03.36 for a hat trick and a wonderful whiff of corditen. Hussy finished, first overall and first in its class. Floyd, with 1:03.52, was 16 seconds behind for second place in both. Cathach, H.S. Moisture, Paleface Lite and Gecko followed in order in a great race. All were just a bit faster than Hoo-Aah, 1:08.55, who captured Fleet A honors. Gotcha, 1:11.31, second in those big boats, was less than a minute ahead of Fleet B winner Newsense, 1:12.06. Splash Dance grabbed the second in Division B.

Blasen III, 1:17.12, got back in the swing of things over Original Sin, 1:19.35, and Cygnus, 1:20.39, for honors in Fleet C. Fleet D had Flash, 1:18.22, well ahead of Cheemaun, 1:22.36.

Sailing Lesson 2. The Starting Line is a line that runs between the Committee Boat (the one with the cannon) and the buoy at the other end of that line. The line is painted the same color as the water, making it hard to see. Being anchored just off the end of the line and having a perfect view, we came to the conclusion that most skippers need help with Lesson 2, which is simple: Be very near, but not past, the starting line when the cannon is supposed to go BANG, or even click. Complete race results are as follows:

Division A: Hoo-AaH, Gotcha, Kamikaze and Mint Julep.

Division B: Newsense, Splash Dance, M 3, Our Thyme II, Mi Joy, Babe, J Hawk and Bald Eagle.

Division C: Blasen III, Original Sin, Cygnus, Lost Vermonter and Stalworth.

Division D: (Jib & Main): Flash, Cheemaun, Red Comet, Booma, Apothecary and Sarah Belle.

Division E: (J-22): Hussy, Floyd, Cathach, H.S. Moisture, Paleface Lite, Geeko, Unnamed, Reckless and Swine Flew.

Charlevoix grad plays soccer in international competition

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

People are attracted to the world of sports for many reasons: Competition, accolades and teamwork, to name a few.

Overlooked, though, is sports' ability to open doors for athletes to see the world.

Noel Kammermann's deft touch with a soccer ball has led him into the world of collegiate athletics, and last week to Blaine, Minn., for one of the world's prestigious soccer tournaments. Blaine, 20 minutes from downtown Minneapolis-St. Paul and a confluence of three major highways, is defined by the sport of soccer.

The exclamation point is a $17 million, 132-acre National Sports Complex that is home to 55 soccer fields, including the 12,000 capacity Exhibition Field, home of Major Soccer League's Minnesota Thunder.

"It was world class facility all the way," Kammermann said. It has hosted a handful of Olympic festivals. Its track saw Carl Lewis' relay team break a world record in 1990. And, it has the only cycling velodrome in the states.

> "I'll always remember it, from Pele, to the international teams, to all the people I met. It was unforgettable."
> — Noel Kammermann

This July, a 786-team field, representing 37 states and 24 countries, gathered at the field to compete for the USA Cup. Teams included the Northern Michigan Central United Select U-18 team, a club comprised mostly of players from the Gaylord and Roscommon area. However, Kammermann, a 1996 Charlevoix graduate, was found playing at midfield.

Kammermann made the club in 1996 and was an automatic selection for this year's squad that plays in a statewide U-18 league and enters a variety of pool-play tournaments throughout the summer. This year they played to a 6-1-3 league record and competed, with mixed results, in the Canton and Kalamazoo invitationals before setting their sights on the USA Cup. It was the team's first appearance in the event.

Kammermann's squad was placed in a five-team pool with a local Minnesota team, two teams from Wisconsin and a national team from Hungary.

United only reeled in one victory in pool play, a 3-1 win over River Falls, Wisc. That qualified the team for the "B" tournament.

United advanced in the first round, downing Littlefield United Blue from Colorado, 2-1, but fell 3-0 in the quarterfinals to the Italia Flyers from Canada.

"They were all so good," Kammermann said, "you could tell everyone played soccer all the time."

Foreigners ruled the U-18 boys' tournament. The Hungarian team, which downed United 10-1 in pool play, swept to the U-18 "A" tournament, outscoring their opponents by 30 goals. Royal China Express took the "B" tournament.

Weather played a factor as humid afternoons, which forced trips to the water bucket every five minutes, led to evening deluges. One morning, Kammermann said, they awoke to find the fields partially flooded. The hottest day was the first, when teams gathered for an Olympic-style opening ceremony, complete with a parade of teams and a flame-lighting ceremony.

Kammermann recalled the crowd working into a frenzy twice. Once when the always scintillating Brazilians marched in and, then, when a helicopter landed in the middle of the field bringing to the crowd the inimitable Pele, soccer's greatest player.

Pele, along with a leukemia patient, lit the torch. He then spoke to the crowd about the game of soccer and his pleasure in seeing so many people turn out for the sport. Kammermann came inches from high-fiving the icon.

"He definitely made it a moment," he said.

While the task was winning soccer games, Kammermann enjoyed the week socially as well. The games were spaced out so players could enjoy all the extras involved, including dances every night, trade booths, mini 3-on-3 games, skill competitions and the variety of people to talk with. Kammermann joked that during one match he got the chance to banter back and forth with some opponents in Spanish.

"Everybody wanted to win, but everyone seemed to be having a good time," he said. "They design the week so you can go out to meet people and do other stuff."

Kammermann, who plays soccer for the fancy footwork, will finish the summer working for his father, Eric, at Northwest Marine. But he will be conditioning himself for his sophomore year at Wabash College, a Division III school in central Indiana. He plays on the Little Giants soccer team and runs the 400 on the track squad. As a freshmen, he played little, however, in the four games in which he saw action, he tallied a goal and an assist.

Perhaps the past week was not as intense as the Little Giants grudge match with Depauw (this year a Wabash player was red carded for mauling a Depauw player who happened to be his brother) but nothing could compare for fun.

"I'll always remember it," he said, "from Pele, to the international teams, to all the people I met. It was unforgettable."

Sheriff's department tightens down on water sports

Due to the increase in the number of complaints, violations and accidents from the careless operation of personal watercraft, the Charlevoix County Sheriff Marine Patrol will be strictly enforcing marine laws. The sheriff has established a zero tolerance policy for marine officers dealing with Charlevoix water craft. No warnings will be issued as of this date, only citations. Some of the key laws involving personal water crafts that the marine division will be paying close attention to are as follows:

— Any operator or occupant must be wearing a Coast Guard approved personal flotation device that fits and is in good serviceable condition.

— The water crafts shall not be operated from sunset to sunrise.

— The vessel must be operated at an idle-slow, no-wake speed whenever it's within 100 feet of an anchored boat, raft, dock, pier, buoyed swim area or swimmer.

— A personal water craft shall not cross within 150 feet behind another vessel, other than another personal water craft, that is traveling at a speed greater than slow, no wake.

— A personal water craft shall not be operated by anyone under 12.

— A person 12 through 15 years old may drive only when accompanied by a person 16 years of age or older or when in possession of a boating safety certificate, owners or supervising adults will also be held responsible.

— The vessel shall at all times be operated in a reasonable and prudent manner. Maneuvers that unreasonably or unnecessarily endanger life, limb, or property constitute reckless operation.

— Weaving through congested vessel traffic or swerving at the last possible moment to avoid a collision also constitute recklessness.

During the July 4 weekend, there were nine boating accidents reported in Charlevoix County. Two of the accidents involved personal water crafts. In the first accident, two minors were making sharp turns when they were thrown from the vessel. The passenger struck her head when she was thrown, requiring 10 stitches. The second accident involved an inexperienced adult operating his craft close to shore. The operator lost control, driving up over the stern of a docked hoat. The vessel finally came to rest inside the boat. The owners had just gotten out of the boat. They had been sitting in the seat where the personal water craft landed.

19th Century schooner gives free tours Venetian weekend

The Madeline, a replica of a 19th-century schooner, will be open for tours in Charlevoix from 1:30-6:30 p.m. Friday, July 25, and Saturday, July 2. There is no charge, but donations will be much appreciated. Maritime-related souvenirs will be sold.

The schooner, launched in 1990, was built with Michigan pine by a nearly all volunteer force from the Maritime Heritage Alliance of Traverse City, a non-profit historical organization established in 1982.

In her quest to spread Great Lakes maritime history, the 92-foot vessel makes good will tours throughout the Great Lakes region. Her home port is Traverse City.

The original Madeline had a long and varied career on northern Lake Michigan. She mostly served her owners as a trading schooner, carrying barrels of apples, potatoes, fish and other goods. Schooners were used not only to distribute supplies but also helped safeguard the north country and settle the surrounding wilderness. They could also be thought of as the "pick-up truck" of those days — an all-purpose vehicle capable of a wide variety of duties.

The Madeline of today was built using both old and new technology. The square nails that hold her planks to the frames are the same types that have been used for centuries. But the modern schooner carries all the essentials necessary for safe journeys including radar, a cellular phone and radio.

The schooner was invited to Charlevoix by the Chamber of Commerce as part of the Venetian Festival activities. "I am so delighted we were able to bring the Madeline to our harbor during the Festival," said Jacqueline Merta, director. "She is a wonderful educational opportunity for our citizens to step back in time and experience what life was like back then."

Hospital gets foundation grant for CT scanner

Robert Tambellini, executive director of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, presented Mary Jason, chairman of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors, with a $2,000 check at the hospital's annual meeting July 15.

"It has been a pleasure working with the hospital," Tambellini said, "and we are happy to provide this check to go toward the acquisition of a CT Scanner."

He pointed out that the Foundation manages the hospital's scholarship funds and has had a very good relationship with hospital management in the past several years.

The hospital currently has a community campaign in progress to raise $500,000 for computerized axial tomography, which is capable of doing internal scans of body organs. The equipment has become a standard of care for diagnosis of disease and treatment of injuries.

The $2,000 grant brings the total raised to-date to $186,000. The hospital hopes to have the equipment in place by year-end.

What newspaper ? ? ?

1. Goes into more Charlevoix homes than any other newspaper?
2. Supports the community editorially?
3. Provides a forum for citizens to express their views?
4. Documents the history of the community?
5. Provides glimpses into our community's past each week?
6. Is the only newspaper devoted to the interests of the Charlevoix community?
7. Provides in-depth reporting of local issues?
8. Has served the community for over 110 years?

If you answered "Charlevoix Courier" to all eight questions you scored 100%. The Charlevoix Courier does all of these and is proud of its tradition of service to the community. We, at the Courier, know the importance of a community having its own newspaper and we will continue to serve the area.

American's coins express patriotism

By Larry Laske
Courier columnist

Last month, I reminisced about some of the days of my youth when I experienced the first goose-bumps while reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and hearing the Star Spangled Banner. It wasn't until much later on that I was able to associate those kinds of feelings with "patriotism."

Somewhere, in the second- or third-grade, I was profoundly aware of what patriotism was all about. I may not have been a lot of things, but I was certainly very patriotic. I knew that the word patriotism meant: "Love of or devotion to your country." So I was, and I remain to this day, a real honest-to-goodness patriot because I certainly love the good, old United States of America and all that it stands for — liberty, freedom, choice, and "being all that I can be."

Being aware of my country was a bit ironic because I sure didn't know much about other countries at that young age. Oh, I may have seen some pictures of other countries in magazines or in the movies of the 1930s & 40s, but I had no first-hand knowledge until many years later, when my military service caused me to serve and visit many other countries.

As a youngster, I was made aware of many "neat" things. Did you know that every coin — penny, nickel, dime, quarter, half and silver dollar — has the word liberty stamped on it? Did you know the same thing can be said about the words "In God We Trust" and "The United States of America." Also, last but not least, the Latin words E. Pluribus Unum are found on each coin. I'm waiting to discuss the Latin phrase to see if you'll learn about it on your own.

Back to the subject — U.S. coins. Can you believe all four of those phrases are on each of our coins? Just having that knowledge may win you some bucks on some television quiz show; so, store it in your memory.

Why liberty on all of our coins? Here in these great United States, we know how very important liberty is, what it's all about and what it represents. It has to do with freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom to peaceably assemble, freedom from unreasonable search and seizure, and many others — all of them put under one umbrella gives us one word to tell it all — liberty. Someone very famous once said "Give me liberty or give me death."

Stars and Stripes Forever

Take away our freedoms and what is left — tyranny, fear, apprehension, insecurity, instability, chaos, etc. So folks, "liberty" sums up the ideals of America. It's what we're all about, what we stand for, what we seek to safeguard and protect. It's us — you, me, everyone. It is truly representative of this great country of ours — liberty is, in fact: the United States of America.

Next month, more on what's up with U.S. coins.

DDA pays for ornamental bases

200 block and runs in front of the Rainbow Shoppe, will have archways.

City planner, Gerry Harsch, said the archways are part of the the development authority's ongoing efforts to improve the downtown area since 1985. The authority is paying for the ornamental bases for each archway and the balls that will top off the decoration, which will cost about $800. It will also cover the costs of making the signs that will hang overhead, in the center in the arches.

Since the development authority has paid out much of the taxes it had collected from businesses within the central business district for the Bridge Park project, it is looking for inexpensive changes for this summer, said authority chair, Hugh Mason. The DDA had previously put the job of building the archways out for bid.

However, DCL, decided to do the work for free, said company president, Reinhard Matye.

"We're happy to contribute to the development of the downtown area," Matye said. "It's a little something that we could do for the community."

> "We're happy to contribute to the development of the downtown area," Matye said. "It's a little something that we could do for the community."
> — Reinhard Matye, DCL president

DCL manufactures bulk loading and dust control equipment for dry materials such as coal, grain and cement. It markets five product lines.

Designs for the arches were submitted to the company by the city. The bases will reach up each side the of alley with a slightly arched overhead sign with circular designs on each side of the signs.

Matye said he hopes to have the archways out of production by the end of July. Harsch hopes to see them installed in the next few weeks.

Volunteer firefighters host car wash

The Charlevoix Volunteer Firefighters Association is holding a car wash from 5-7 p.m Thursday, July 25, at the fire hall.

The money raised will be used to buy equipment for the department. The firefighters will be washing and drying vehicles for donations.

Venetian rocked by fireworks explosion

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier reporter

With sirens still blaring — signaling continued rescue efforts — a sheriff's deputy places a large, black piece of metal into a patrol car on Bridge Street.

The twisted object looks helpless. However, it is one of many hot pieces that sprayed through the crowd when several fireworks tubes exploded at about 11 p.m. Saturday, during the Venetian Festival's final moments.

Mangled pieces of metal and bits of glass became deadly shrapnel that forever changed the dreams and lives of people from throughout Michigan and other states. Rather than pick up blankets and leave railside seats following joyful oohs and ahhs, people in Charlevoix ended the night by calling for help and comforting distressed family members and strangers.

As the days pass, the comforting continues. Much of this small, northern Michigan town will remain changed by a still unexplained explosion that killed Mark Yager and injured 15 others.

Yager, 43, and his family had traveled from their Pincherry Road home to the edge of Round Lake to watch the boat parade and fireworks. He died after being rushed to Charlevoix Area Hospital, then Northern Michigan Hospital, with a severe head injury. He had been hit in the head by flying debris from the explosion that lit up Bridge Park and caused downtown business windows to be blown from the inside out. Even the trailer on which the fireworks sat was blown apart.

Along with Mark, his wife, Deborah Yager, 42, was injured. She is in good condition at Northern Michigan Hospital.

The annual family event was instantly turned into a community tragedy. Some people ran away, others stood and stared. Many continued to watch the fireworks that lit up the sky, not knowing that the explosion had critically injured people arbitrarily.

"We want to know what went wrong," said Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson.

So do the thousands of people who gathered for the fireworks, and now a nation of curious people who have heard news reports of the accident.

Halverson remembers the cries for help and people stepping over bodies and body parts.

Grief programs scheduled to help community cope

"It was hell," he said. "It was something I hope I never have to experience again."

In addition to the 16 people injured, one who had an arm and leg amputated at Charlevoix Area Hospital, Halverson is concerned about the "secondary victims." He described these people as "shell-shocked," those who are suffering from mental anxiety from what they witnessed.

Grief recovery programs are being held throughout Charlevoix to help people cope with the trauma. Public and private sessions have been scheduled by the Charlevoix County Emergency Management office.

Mark Ellis was in a frenzy minutes after the blast as he and his friends saw that holes had been blown into the side of the Beaver Islander. Also, a nearby Suburban and Pontiac were badly damaged.

Ellis had come to his native home for the annual festival. He left remembering the fierceness of an explosion that twisted metal as though it were pipe cleaners. Fireworks tubes from the trailer were missing, bent and some on the ground.

"It blew like a bomb," he said. "The whole side of that trailer blew. It was like a bomb."

Ellis, like hundreds of people, found themselves in the peacetime war zone of Bridge Park. The blast was so severe that a piece of the trailer on which the fireworks sat was also part of the flying scrapnel. One piece was discovered across Round Lake, about 1,200 feet from where it started.

Much of the crowd was thrown to the ground from the force. When the fireworks continued to explode in a colorful array in the sky, people watching from a distance thought everything was fine.

> "It was hell," he said. "It was something I hope I never have to experience again."
> — Dennis Halverson, police chief

Julie Hartzell knew better. She had just left the Beaver Islander because the boom of the fireworks were deafening. She took refuge in the boat company's storage bay behind the boat before the explosion occurred.

"When it all blew, we saw the flames coming," she said. "We all got back."

However, one girl, who was with a group of young kids near Hartzell, was sitting below the storage office's window and didn't have time to get up and run behind luggage carts. She was thrown into the alcove and stabbed by flying glass.

Hartzell watched as emergency personnel tried to keep her warm and calm until an ambulance arrived.

Injuries were so widespread that people were prioritized by ambulance crews from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey. All the patients — who were scattered from being near the fireworks, half a city block away or up in the grassy area by Anchors on Bridge Street — were taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital. They were treated and were some stabilized before being transferred to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Venetian chairman, John Taylor, was aboard the Acacia during the explosion, sitting near the lighted boat parade judges, Rep. Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena, congressman Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, and Lt. Cmdr. Karl Schultz, of the Acacia.

Taylor said the event organizers are devastated by the accident.

"The whole community is devastated," he said Monday. "I've talked to a lot of people today who are just on the verge of breaking down.

"If there is anything we could do to make it all better, we would."

Before the night was over, the entire waterfront park was roped off by police and scanned — inch-by-inch for more debris.

A cement wall and sidewalk area was sprayed with a fire hose to remove the puddle of blood that had ran from an injured man.

Cars inched out of town. Sirens stilled.

Funds set up to help families

A Yager Memorial Fund has been established at First of America Bank to help the family of Mark Yager, who died early Sunday after being hit by flying debris during the fireworks explosion.

To contribute to the fund, send a check to First of America Bank, 12853 U.S. 31 North, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Donations can also be made at any First of America Bank.

A fund has also been established for the Tad Dobrowolski family at Charlevoix State Bank.

Donations can be sent to the bank at 111 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Banks are also being placed around town for both families. The money will be emptied into their funds at the banks.

Investigation of mishap continues

Larger buffer zone needed

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

It will likely be weeks before the cause of Saturday's fireworks explosion is known.

"It's a very meticulous process," said Sgt. Mike Tilley, of the Michigan State Police. "We are still putting pieces of the shrapnel back together."

The state police dive team has been scanning Round Lake's bottom in search of the pieces that once stood as tall tubes that held Charlevoix's Venetian Festival fireworks.

In addition to the dive team, the state police fire marshal, bomb squad, reconstruction experts and detectives are involved searching for clues as to why the fireworks shredded the tubes that direct the clusters skyward. Police are interviewing witnesses and experts as part of the investigation.

Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson turned the case over to the state police.

"We don't have the expertise or the depth in our department to do an adequate job at this," he said, noting that as many as 13 state police have been on the scene at a time investigating the cause of the explosion.

Also, in addition to day-to-day duties, the Charlevoix department has been flooded with national media calls.

"This is every bit as intense, or even perhaps more intense than the Ramsey investigation," Halverson said of the onslaught of inquiries. "It's hard to believe."

In the hours following the explosion, state police worked within the area that had been secured by city, county and state officers during the early morning hours Sunday.

The fireworks were being shot off where Pine River Channel meets Round Lake, next to where the Beaver Islander regularly docks.

Onlookers were within 100 feet of where the display was being set off, according to Tilley.

There are no laws mandating the amount of feet between a fireworks display and the crowd. However, there are recommendations.

According to Sgt. Russell Benson, of the Michigan Fire Marshall's office in Gaylord, there was not enough of a buffer zone in Charlevoix.

Mark Yager, who died, was about 280 feet from the display. Tad Dobrowolski, who has had an arm and leg amputated, was about 360 feet from the source.

Benson said that a buffer zone well beyond 360 feet should be used when firing 12-inch projectiles.

When considering distance, distance from the crowd and a field over which to fire both need to be considered. In Charlevoix, boats are anchored in Round Lake during the display.

The buffer zone used in Charlevoix has remained the same for years. However, next year's Venetian could see changes.

Because the buffer zone distances are mere recommendations, Benson

Mayor comments on accident

"This to express condolences to all affected by Saturday night's tragedy during the Venetian Fireworks display. Our hearts and prayers are with the departed, the bereaved and the injured.

"Our sympathy goes out to all involved, but especially to those of us who are facing the trauma of being a part of the activities or to those of you who may be feeling the shock of simply being a nearby spectator. The city has requested the presence of a Crisis Intervention Team and expects to quickly advise how people can get assistance.

"I would like to express deep gratitude to all those who simply showed up where they were qualified to assist. The doctors, nurses, paramedics and others who stepped out of the crowd or came in from their homes made a major difference in the extent of the tragedy. I was on the Boat Parade Committee Boat monitoring the Coast Guard and witnessed their response. It was very quick, professional and effective.

"Thanks also to our "regulars" — Chief Dennis Halverson, his crew, the fire and ambulance teams, the members of the city staff and, of course, all at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital.

"I am not prepared to discuss the cause or future effects. This is simply not the proper time. This, is instead, the time we must all come together to help heal the terrible wounds this city and its people have suffered," Josh Barnes, mayor.

OPINIONS

Community saves the day following tragic explosion

EDITORIAL

People seem to be driving a little slower in Charlevoix. Bottleneck traffic is less frustrating. Slight anxiety is present when loved-ones are out of sight while going about the duties of the day.

Life is more precious than ever.

Saturday's explosion of the fireworks — and all the grief it has caused — is an unfortunate tragedy that will never be forgotten by those who gathered for the boat parade and fireworks on and around Round Lake. Charlevoix was hit by a great tragedy when a celebration turned into disaster during its final moments.

We wish to express our sympathy and sorrow to the families of the injured and deceased. The property damage that mares the $5 million Bridge Park project is irrelevant compared to the loss of life and innocence from such a devastating event and the stolen joy of a summer festival.

However, during the worst of the mayhem, we learned more about our community than some people will ever know. We watched emergency personnel rise to the occasion, regardless of how unpleasant and sad it was. They cared for and comforted the wounded while others manned ambulances and police cars. They left their families during a fearful time for the benefit of others. It isn't often that we realize their day-to-day sacrifices for us.

Police officers from every surrounding agency helped us get to our vehicles and get home safely as they waived the traffic flow through town. They held the crowd back from areas of investigation.

The Acacia crew — hardly noticeable before the explosion — were everywhere. They pulled out fire hoses immediately following the explosion in case the remainder of the display detonated. Crew members worked to contact people on boats for the hospital who were treating their family members. The crew's obvious emergency training added an air of calmness to a chaotic situation. There are many more reasons why Charlevoixians should work to keep a buoy tender in town than the economic boost it offers us all.

The presence of Charlevoix Area Hospital may never have been more appreciated than on Saturday. Doctors, nurses and volunteers worked throughout the night to treat the injured. The emergency room took on the look of a war-time M.A.S.H. unit, with shrapnel being pulled from the victims. Patients had to be treated, some hospitalized locally while others were sent to other medical facilities.

During Richard Krueger's speech at the hospital's annual meeting July 15, he said that it's nice to have a hospital close when an emergency arises. His words were never more true than Saturday.

Throughout the emergency, cooperation and compassion conquered fear — whether downtown or at the hospital.

As dark as the world seems from time-to-time, there was a great light of humanity shining in Charlevoix Saturday. We wish to thank everybody who spoke a soft word to the injured, observed police instructions, responded at the hospital and helped in any way to help keep a bad situation from becoming worse.

Letters to the editor

Pastor responds to fireworks explosion

Editor:

This last Saturday we saw a tremendous tragedy in our community at Charlevoix's Venetian Festival fireworks display. Being present, I was extremely impressed how Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan, Petoskey, and other communities worked together in a very difficult situation. The stress was high but everyone's utmost concern was for the safety and well-being of those who were injured and their family members. From the Coast Guard to the good Samaritans, from the ambulance drivers to the hospital staffs at Charlevoix Area and Northern Michigan hospitals, I saw excellence. These people pulled it together and saved lives. They deserve your "thank you," encouragement, and support. For most, it was their first time of dealing with a tragedy of this magnitude.

I was there first-hand to see these people in action. I personally want to thank them. But there is one story I would like to quickly highlight to explain a little more of what I saw. After the explosion, one family received some injuries to both the father and mother, leaving their children, a 17 and 7-year-old, to deal with the crises. A nearby group of teenagers and young adults from the Flint area responded quickly to this crisis and took care of these children. I watched them hold the kids and comfort them. They filled a need until family and friends could be contacted. Even within our tragedy, compassion and excellence took center stage.

But still our hearts ache. Our families, friends and communities hurt. We wish we could wake up from this "nightmare." Yet, reality tells us we cannot. It happened, and it's real. Our hurts drive all the "why" questions we've been asking. Why them? Why not me? Why did we choose to sit here and not there? Why, God?

We'll never know all the answers, but we need to deal with the pain. This is where God comes in. He is there to give us the comfort and healing. Too many times we seek to blame God for tragedies of this nature. He didn't mastermind or cause a display to malfunction. Yet through this tragedy, we have been brought face to face with our mortality and the way we live our lives today.

God will comfort our pain and hurt. He is the one we should turn to find the answers to our mortality and where we need to change our lives and put our time. He has allowed us to experience the hurt. Let's take that hurt, pain and confusion and draw closer to Him.

Hospital president thanks volunteers

Editor:

The medical staff and administration at Charlevoix Area Hospital wishes to express a loud and resounding thank you to all who provided assistance in any way that they could on Saturday night.

It was a remarkable coming together of community members and hospital staff at a very trying time. We thank Drs. Robert Johnson, of Burns Clinic; and Gilbert Mosher and Terrance Sherwin, of Bay City, for lending us their expertise in this hour of need. We also appreciate all that the Coast Guard did to assist. And we are so grateful to all of the area ambulance personnel, some who responded without even having to be notified.

It seemed anyone who had a service or way to make the load lighter stepped forward. Oma's Restaurant gave a free Sunday breakfast to hospital personnel, which offered a chance to wind down after a very chaotic night.

And, above all, we thank all of our employees and medical staff who left the evening's activities and voluntarily came to the hospital. Our surgeons Drs. Lame, Wendt, and Gonzales worked

Many other staff physicians stood by in case they were needed. Employees in all job descriptions knew they would be needed and went to their jobs without hesitation. Even our regular emergency room volunteer, Rebecca Budzinski, provided invaluable help all through the night.

And, we appreciate the mutual cooperation of all at Northern Michigan Hospital. It is impossible to name everyone, but, needless to say, the response was a model of teamwork between community and hospitals. Charlevoix showed it cared, and cared a lot. Thank you to everyone.

Save Mason Street trees from removal

Editor:

Perhaps it's time to rethink parking space requirements before downtown Charlevoix loses more trees and green space to make way for additional parking.

Our well-being, mental, spiritual and physical health is greatly dependent on trees and greenery.

I support JoAnne Beemon's practical solution for the parking lot on Mason Street. She suggests preserving existing trees and using a grass paver system to create a grassy field. During the height of tourist season, the space could be used for parking. Off-season, the grassy lot could be used for recreation or picnicking.

Look at the success generated by past compromises between the city planning commission and property owners. Several years ago ex-Shade Tree Commission member John Gaskin suggested a configuration for a new bank lot which preserved a mature tree without sacrificing a parking space. Also, the green belt was preserved in front of Burger King because BK and planners agreed to one less parking space.

Let's remember the saying: "Where there's a will, there's a way."

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

You have undoubtedly noticed the many "now hiring" and "help wanted" signs in our area.

There's more than one good reason for the shortage of help, and restaurants are particularly hard hit by the drought in the labor pool. Some of our finest establishments have had to reduce their hours, eliminate lunches or close off a section of the dining room.

Restaurateurs tell me they have inexperienced, young job applicants who are only familiar with mugs and microwaves, and they don't recognize a saucer or a toaster when they see one.

The primary reason for the tight summer job market is the demographic change in our population. Former baby boomers, who vied for positions as busboys and waitresses when they were in their teens, are now the patrons demanding service. Secondly, with both mom and dad working, people are eating out more often. Thirdly, with full employment, people are able to enjoy the luxury of eating out far more frequently than their parents were able to afford. Also, the children of the baby boomers are not job hunting these days. They are being sent off to soccer camp, music camp and exchange programs overseas. And lastly, with so many blended families, many sons and daughters are scheduled to visit a parent during summer vacations.

Alarmed at the situation, restaurants, hotels and clubs are fighting back as best they can. While they are searching for all level positions from dishwasher to executive chefs, local employers have formed the Little Traverse Bay Area Hotel and Restaurant Job Bank. They are offering incentives, such as flexible hours, paid vacations for full- and part-time workers, retirement plans, insurance, free golf and skiing, and room discounts to little or no avail.

Nationally, the shortage of staff is the No. 1 topic among restaurateurs. Micky Baskt, who used to run Charlevoix's Pete and Mickey's and is now maitre d' at the ultra upscale restaurant, called Tribute, in down state Farmington Hills, deplores the fact that we don't have the well-paid professional wait staff in the United States that they have in Europe. Instead, we depend on young kids working their way through college, with the view of going on to bigger and better jobs.

Professional service help hard to find

Another major lack we suffer up north is housing for these young people. During the 1930s and 40s, hotels and clubs provided men's and women's dormitories for their help, but times were different then. In those days, there was also no shortage of "rooms to rent." Today, there is no inexpensive housing available for summer help. Besides, it's not easy for young people to come up with the first and last month's rent for middle income housing if one is lucky to find some. The only facility available in our area, I am told, is the dormitory at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. They charge $25 a night single, and $35 a night double.

Is there a solution one may well ask? One local wag suggested staffing our restaurants in the summer with imported help who would live on a cruise boat parked in Round Lake! In the meantime, no matter how hungry we are, it is better to be patient and pleasant, even if it kills us. Until table-waiting is accorded the respect it deserves, the national problem will continue and restaurants will keep on struggling.

Wedding

Sutton-Wurst

Deborah Sutton and Randall Wurst, both of Charlevoix, were joined in marriage at the Community Church of God May 31, 1997, before about 250 guests. The church was decorated with green ivy and white, satin bows.

Deborah is the daughter of Richard and Jean Sutton, of Charlevoix. Randall is the son of Charles and Sheryl Bergmann, of Charlevoix, and Donald Wurst, of Boyne Falls.

The double-ring rites were performed by pastor Bruce Hamilton.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, Richard Sutton.

She wore a white, satin, Alfred Angelo gown with a V-back and sweetheart neckline. The long sleeves were accented by cutouts and appliques, and were finished with pearls and sequins. The gown was highlighted by a cathedral-length train, which also displayed cutouts of scalloped appliques. The top of the train was decorated with a cluster of satin rosettes, which flow down the train.

Music for the ceremony was provided by pianist Beck Blissett.

The maid of honor was Julie Murdick, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Brenda Sutton, sister of the bride, Kim VanMeter, cousin of the bride, and Lynn Misiak, friend of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Elizabeth Blosh, cousin of the bride.

They wore deep purple, Alfred Angelo gowns accented in velvet with a Queen Anne neckline, three quarter length sleeves and floor length, iridescent taffeta. They carried cascading bouquets of purple iris, pink roses, pink mini carnations, Queen Anne's lace and green ivy.

Flower girls were Keely Blosh and Jordyn VanMeter, cousins of the bride. They wore dresses matching the bridal party and carried white satin and lace baskets filled with silk purple iris, pink mini roses and green ivy.

Ring bearer was Robert Blosh, cousin of the bride. Best man was Mark Rowbotham, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Lenny Merriam, friend of the groom, Rich Wurst, brother of the groom, and Rich Sutton, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Brian VanMeter, cousin of the bride, and Art Sutton, uncle of the bride.

A reception, given by the bride's parents, was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Charlevoix. It was hosted by Wayne and Robyn Blosh.

A rehearsal dinner, given by the groom's parents, was held May 30 at Alexander's of Charlevoix.

A wedding trip was taken to Arizona. The couple are making their home in Charlevoix, where Deborah is a secretary at Buday's Sound Advice and Randall is a water treatment plant operator for the city.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

My heart goes out to every loved one whose pain and loss became so real during the unfortunate fireworks explosion at the Venetian Festival Saturday night. In that one awful moment, some hearts and lives were changed forever. But in the midst of that crisis, some very special folks went all out to come to the aid of those in trouble. They were a blessing. Though many would say they were just doing what they were trained for, I say thank you for a job well done on behalf of a grateful community.

Those closest to the scene were the crew of the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia. Many of them had their family and loved ones aboard to watch the show. When the blast occurred, they grabbed emergency gear and went to help as fast as they could. For some of the fellows, it was their first time "under fire." When you're 19 or 20 and away from home, even the most thorough training doesn't prepare you for the harsh realities of an emergency. They acquitted themselves with a bravery and a compassion that lived out their motto of "Semper Paratus," always ready.

The members of the Charlevoix Police Department under Chief Dennis Halverson began coordinating disaster response teams moments after the shock wave passed. The blessing of each officer being trained as a paramedic reaped an unanticipated harvest as they brought comfort to the injured and ushered unhurt spectators out of harm's way. Their colleagues at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department stood shoulder-to-shoulder with them bringing a whole new meaning to law enforcement's tradition of "to protect and serve."

The emergency medical service crews and the fire department mobilized and ministered with a professionalism and promptness that made miracles happen. I found myself reliving a ride or two in the ambulance as a patient as I watched them make run after run from Bridge Park to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

And speaking of the hospital, the esprit de corps that every nurse, technician and doctor showed was awesome. Many were called in, but many more came on their own to be sure there were enough hands present to give the treatment and care that has made our hospital the priceless treasure it is. They functioned as a well oiled team and responded to the challenge before them memorably.

Even some of the businesses that saw their windows shattered in the concussion of the blast got unexpected blessings in the form of folks from Wolohan's and Twin Bay Glass coming in the wee hours of the morning to repair the damage.

For those who needed a listening ear, the most often repeated comment was a sense of helplessness and frustration that they could not have done more to assist those in pain. Some were even struggling with what I call a case of the "if onlys." "If only" they had done this, then maybe that might not have been so bad. To all of you who were on the frontlines in responding to Saturday night's emergency, don't second guess yourself even for a moment. It doesn't matter if this was your first time under pressure or your tenth time, you responded. You made a difference.

You helped. Each and everything you did mattered whether it was great or small.

Jesus put it another way. "I command you to love each other in the same way I loved you. And here is how to measure it — the greatest love is shown when people lay down their lives for their friends." A lot of people did that Saturday night and to each and everyone of them, I say God bless you!

The morning after the blast, the Beaver Islander was left nearly windowless. The Michigan State Police Bomb Squad has its equipment on site for the investigation as to why the explosion occurred.

This is the trailer on which the fireworks sat while they were being shot off Saturday. Even the wheels are twisted the force of the explosion. Parts of the trailer became shrapnel just as the tubes for the fireworks did.

During explosion, this metal beam framing the loading door of the Beaver Islander was bent from flying shrapnel.

Eric Richey, co-owner of B.C. Pizza, rings up another pizza pie-starved customer. The Charlevoix store is B.C.'s seventh opening. They offer free delivery throughout the day at 547-9999.

New pizza pie producer in town

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

As national chains begin to gain a foothold in the area, one of the more successful local chains, B.C. Pizza, has opened up a new pizzeria in Charlevoix.

Located on M-66, next to Sears, this is B.C. Pizza's seventh location, having outlets in Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Gaylord, St. Ignace and Indian River.

Don Jarvis and Eric Richey co-own B.C.'s venture into Charlevoix. Their helping hands were in the pizza dough when Chris and Wayne Nelson began their first pizzeria in Boyne City 10 years ago.

"The business over there was just unreal," Jarvis recalled. "There really weren't any other paces — then bam — there was one that also delivered."

Delivery is a key component to this venture. B.C. Pizza offers free delivery from the time the doors open at 11 a.m. to when they call it a day at 11 p.m. However, unlike most of the other B.C. locations in smaller store fronts for more limited pick-up and delivery, Charlevoix is the franchise's largest facility, seating 48 people.

"We're the biggest one of the bunch," Richey said. "When we searched for a place to open, we wanted to be big enough for a dine-in."

Richey and Jarvis had searched for a home for their venture only to be delayed by other business set-ups. Jarvis had been in the trucking business while Richey was tied up in the vending business. A "let's do it attitude," finally overcome them and they settled in Charlevoix.

> "People have been coming in for the buffet and to watch Sportscenter highlights."
> — Eric Richey, co-owner

"It's a nice community to be in and be a part of," said Richey, who is originally from the West Branch area.

So far, business has been "better that what we thought," Jarvis said, especially at lunch when hungry souls have taken advantage of the all-you-can-eat buffet.

"People have been coming in for the buffet and to watch Sportscenter highlights," Richey said. The pizzeria is equipped with a big screen TV, which the pair said will usually be tuned to a sporting event.

With a new adventure before them, the duo realize that pizza, though sounding simple can be a tricky business with countless topping combinations.

"The good thing about pizza is that everyone can have their own little deal," said Richey, who said he prefers a little meat and a little vegetables on his pie.

Live firework found laying on the ground after festival

said that there is little chance that the fireworks company or local governmental body will face criminal charges. However, civil suits may arise.

According to state police, the operators of the display said they had checked the area following the explosion and found no apparent injuries. They continued shooting fireworks from a second trailer where the display was interconnected with fuses.

During the investigation, police found one live firework in a tube and two live ones that had broken free from the trailer being used by Fireworks North, a company out of Central Lake that had handled the display for years. The company was contracted by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Owner Richard Davis was not available for comment.

The four people involved in shooting off the display were asked to take Breathalyzer tests by the Michigan State Police. Three tests show no signs of alcohol in the blood. One person, however, refused to be tested until a warrant was sought. He was driven to Charlevoix Area Hospital where blood was drawn. It has been sent to a Lansing lab for analysis, according to Sgt. Mike Tilley. Test results should be available in a week or two.

Tilley said breath and blood tests are routine in similar situations.

"Anyone running a piece of machinery that ends up killing someone ... we'd be negligent if we didn't test them," he said.

Tilley said the man who refused the breath test didn't appear to be intoxicated.

"I saw the individual, he wasn't falling down drunk," he said.

Police continue searching for an explanation of what did go wrong.

Drenth runners face high humidity

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Under hot and muggy conditions, the Drenth Memorial Foot Race kicked off the day's Venetian schedule Saturday. And despite confusion over course layout, Scott Collins of Auburn Hills won the 10K event with a time of 31:22.

Originally disqualified because officials thought he had cut short some of the course, it was later discovered that Collins, as well as much of the top 10, reran portions of the course. After retracing steps to get back on the right route, Collins actually ran a longer distance.

> "It's not the Olympics and there is no money riding on it. It just didn't make sense to do any disqualifying."
> — Paul Gelderblom, organizer

Race director Paul Gelderblom said race signs had been removed and damaged by vandals sometime after the race had started. The result: Collins and a handful of others reran the clockwise path around North Pointe and had to backtrack to the original course on Mercer Blvd.

"It's not the Olympics and there is no money riding on it," Gelderblom said. "It just didn't make sense to do any disqualifying."

Ryan Shay, who just completed a magnificent running career at Central Lake High School, was second. His younger brother, Nathan, placed third.

The top Charlevoix runner in the 10K event, Matt Inman, placed seventh.

Overall, 381 runners of "every kind" ran in either the 1 mile, 5K or 10K. An evening rainstorm and leftover morning drizzle kept the number from surpassing 400, Gelderblom said.

Still, Gelderblom said the event hopes to raise more than $1,000 to go towards cross country and track scholarships.

"It was warmer than most of the runners were probably used to," he said. "It was not hot, but the humidity was high. The race ran slower than if it had been dryer and cooler."

Gelderblom was pleased with the 1 mile event, which was promoted as an event the whole family could enter. He said more than 110 ran the event when usually the number hovers in the eighties.

Runners begin to spread out during the beginning of the 5k and 10K Drenth Memorial Foot Race Saturday. The runners started and finished at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Overall results for the top three finishers from each race are as follows:

One mile, men's division: Jacques Hennings, Harbor Springs, 5:02; Don Jess, Charlevoix, 5:18; and Brian Livingston, Charlevoix, 5:23.

One mile, women's division: Jenny Drenth, Central Lake, 5:59; Adrienne McCabe, Athens, 7:13; and Karianne Miller, Charlevoix, 7:31.

5K, men's division: Mike Bush, Charlevoix, 15:41; Bill Crook, Charlevoix, 15:48; and Mike Newkirk, East Jordan, 15:51.

10K, men's division: Collins, Auburn Hills, 31:22; R. Shay, Central Lake, 31:54; and N. Shay, Central Lake, 34:49.

10K, women's division: Katy Hollbacher, Petoskey, 39:58; Wendy Johnecheck, Petoskey, 42:25; and Kara Kays, St. Joseph, 42:30.

Placement of new weather marker changes race atmosphere

A. Nony Mouse

Just as in the second race of the summer series, the wind veered during the starting sequences of the third race. A quick easy procedure for compensating for such shifts was needed to ward off a boring, follow-the-leader exercise and turn it into a dog-eat-dog competition!

Our suggestion would be to permit a substitute weather mark to be established as soon as a major shift is obvious. Two guns with the display of the letter indicating which buoy would be the new weather mark could be followed by a starting sequence for the fleet due to start. Subsequent starters would use that mark while those already started would follow on their second windward leg.

The fastest time overall for July 23 goes to Flash at 1:04.59, which emulated the first week's hat trick by Hussy. First to finish in (Fleet D, Jib and Main) and first overall is a very special trio! Flash was only 18 seconds faster than Cheemaun, (1:05.17). Booma (1:07.13), was third in both Fleet D and overall.

'Twas a sad day for Kamikaze (1:29.03 in Fleet A), Cabaret (1:33.07 in B, Sandpiper (1:29.22 in C) and Unnamed J-22 (1:28.28 in E), as all were last in their class and over 1:28.00 in corrected time.

Fastest time in the spinnaker fleets again went to J-22 Fleet E winner, Hussy, at 1:18.37, which was faithfully followed all around the course by H. S. Moisture (1:21.11) with Reckless (1:22.48) grabbing the third spot. Newsense (1:19.19) is first in B, trailed way back in the competition in the more stable Fleet C with Lost Vermonter (1:21.47), Stalworth (1:22.50) and several others at just about one minute intervals. Gotcha (1:23.44), Hoo-aah (1:26.37) and Mint Julip (1:28.37) were spaced almost exactly two minutes apart in the Fleet A winners.

Lesson 3. A few boats were fortunate that today's lesson was not taught at a protest hearing last week! The buoy end of the starting line was significantly favored and many of you recognized that. (If you did, here's a pat on the back.) In the resulting crowd in two classes, a starboard tack, leeward yacht headed up slowly to squeeze in below the others, above the pin. Some rules experts yelled, "No room at the mark" - sorry, but that's not true. This is not barging!

Barging is when a windward yacht tries to squeeze in below a pin, above other yachts. In this case, the leeward yacht had the right to head up slowly, giving the windward yachts time to keep clear. Each windward yacht must immediately start to keep clear, including those further up the chain! Last week in criticizing the starts I said, "I'll be watching!" I was, and a great many of you did a good to very good job of being on the line. The J-22's had about six within one boat length at the horn. Good Show!

Race Results

Division A: Gotcha, Hoo-aah, Mint Julep and Kamikaze.

Division B: Newsense, Babe, Splash Dance, Our Thyme II, Bald Eagle, M 3 and Cabaret.

Division C: Tireless, Lost Vermonter, Stalworth, Cygnus, Blasen III, Original Sine and Sandpiper.

Division D: (Jib & Main): Flash, Cheemaun, Booma, Red Comet, Apothecary and Sarah Belle.

Division E (J-22): Hussy, H S Moisture, Reckless, Floyd, Gecko, Swine Flew, Paleface Lite, Cathach and Unnamed.

Venetian Festival weekend packed with events

By Karen Lerch
Special to the Courier

It was a changing of the guards, so to speak, at Friday's Drum and Bugle Corps. competition as Rachel Newcomb won the 1997 Miss Charlevoix Venetian Competition and Wendy McKeown took over as event organizer.

The Miss Charlevoix Venetian Scholarship Competition, as it is formally called, gives young women the opportunity to represent Charlevoix in a variety of cities throughout the year while gaining a $1,500 scholarship.

While many may remember the traditional Venetian Pageant, with its talent, evening gown and bathing suit competitions, the revised selection process simply uses a different "vehicle" to land at the same destination.

Instead of bathing suit modeling, group dances and full pageantry, the current competition focuses on the contestants' overall demeanor, including how they react under stress, present themselves in public settings, and their deliverance of a speech and answers to impromptu questions.

"This competition is not a popularity contest, that is why the judges are not from the area. All they know about the girls is what they see during the competition. We're really looking for the 'hidden flower' who perhaps is not the most popular girl — someone to be the idol of the community," Phillips said.

One difference from the competition of the past is the young women today are not judged on their educational background. 1974 Venetian Queen, Tori Fisher, remembers intelligence and school work being a large part of the selection process.

"I think one of the reasons I was chosen was because I had a 4.0 GPA and had 11 varsity letters," Fisher said.

Yet despite this difference, the Venetian candidates seem to compete for the same reason. Both Fisher and 1996 Venetian Winner, Amy VanGuilder, were involved in the competition for honor and fun.

A new face will be heading the 1998 competition. Wendy McKeown will take over the organizing of the event. Though Phillips has enjoyed being chairwoman for the competition, she is relocating to California. Not only will be a change in leadership, but Phillips and McKeown are hoping in future years to have the winner more involved in the community, like lighting the Christmas tree, or working with elderly, Phillips said.

VanGuilder agreed, stating she'd like to see more activities oriented towards public speaking and being a role model. Though VanGuilder does like the changes that have taken place in the selection process of the competition, she would not like to see it go back to a pageant.

SCRAPBOOK

Round Lake marina's beaten down days

By the time World War I had come to an end, the docks on Round Lake's waterfront were in deplorable condition. Some spots had to be fenced off, especially in places where the water traffic was heavy and the danger of someone stepping through the rotted planks was greatest. This is shown in the above picture, taken from the S.S. Missouri as she approached Wilbur's Dock.

Most cars owned by the summer people were not driven here, but were brought on the passenger ships, such at the Manitou, the Illinois, and the Missouri, and most were accompanied by a chauffeur. Few owners cared to make the long trips from the cities on the bad roads, trips that usually took many days and were hard on the tires and cars.

A Pierce-Arrow can be seen on the far left, the only car in the world at that time to have the headlights on the fenders. Today most are so placed.

Society sponsors local history program

The Charlevoix Historical Society is sponsoring a history program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, at the Railroad Depot Museum.

The history of the Belvedere will be told with photo displays and artifacts from the society's archives and the Bob Miles Photo Collection. The program will include a round-table discussion to collect more information and personal stories. This will be added to the museum's archives and the present exhibit.

The public is invited to attend. Donations or a loan of information relating to the history of the Belvedere Hotel, Belvedere Golf Club, etc. would be appreciated. Please contact Betsy Reynolds at the Harsha House Museum at 547-0373 or 547-4640.

4-H adds youth fishing program

The Charlevoix County 4-H program has announced their newest program, 4-H Youth Fishing Education.

"With so many area lakes here in northern Michigan, it only seems natural to host a 4-H Fishing Program," said John Wurm, Charlevoix County 4-H Youth Agent.

The program will be offered from 3-5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays from Aug. 12-28, and will be conducted with four sessions for youth ages 5-16. There will be one week in between classes for youth to practice their skills with other family members. In addition, youth may take a loaner pole during the week that the program is not offered. The youth will meet at the Veterans' Park pavilion in Boyne City.

The cost of the program is $8 and includes all the necessary equipment, bait and educational handouts.

"The program will be very hands-on with most of the time being spent fishing," said Cory Sulak, who will be serving as one of the Junior 4-H Fishing Instructors.

If the program fills a need in the Boyne City area, it may be offered in other surrounding communities by next year.

Some of the educational topics that will be covered include basic casting, fish identification, tackle usage, live bait use and fishing safety. Those who have some fishing experience and are between the ages of 12-16 may apply to become Junior 4-H Fishing Instructors. In addition, adults with an interest in fishing are invited to participate.

To receive a registration packet or to register contact MSU Extension - Charlevoix County 4-H Youth Programs at 582-6232. Class size is limited to 25 participants.

Thee-part harmony comes to East Park

Musicians R&R & Mary D. will perform in the seventh concert of the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau's summer concert series at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 31, in the Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

Known for their three-part harmony, the group offers original and familiar music. They describe themselves as folk singers, whose eclectic mix is neither rock'n'roll nor easy listening. Randy Marquardt, a member of the trio, says their sound is "60s folk, both acoustic and acappella."

The trio is composed of Marquardt, Bob Snideman and Mary D. Bowman. Marquardt originates from downstate, and is currently a vocal instructor in Harbor Springs. He and Snideman played in another popular local band, the Keelhaulers, for nearly eight years.

Snideman is an art teacher in Harbor Springs, and has been active in the music community for more than 26 years.

Mary D. has been performing children's concerts in the area for more than three years, and currently has two albums out. She joined the trio a year ago. Both Marquardt and Bowman are members of the Little Traverse Choral Society.

Because of their experience, the group is able to play by request, causing every program to be different. Along with requests, they perform new arrangements of songs by artists such as the Grateful Dead, Peter, Paul & Mary, and David Wilcox, as well as music for children, and a few comedy numbers.

The next concert in the series will be performed by Corporate Brass, a skilled brass quintet playing both variety and jazz.

The concerts will be canceled if it rains.

World War II plane flies in survival stories

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

When Ernie Martin pulled away from the airport and the Yankee Lady Sunday, he saluted an uncle who was killed before his birth.

Ernie was born in 1947. His twin brother, Emmett Burke, was named after Thomas "Emmett" Burke, who was shot down over Germany in a similar B-17G during World War II, at the age of 31.

Only one of 10 men survived. He traveled to Beaver Island to tell the family about Emmett's death.

For years afterward, Ada (Burke) Martin had her brother's purple heart displayed on the wall with his picture. When the twins were born in her living room, she named Emmett in remembrance of him.

When Ernie heard that the plane was going to be in Charlevoix, he took the boat to the mainland and paid his respects. As a Vietnam veteran, he knew the importance.

"I went over there to see where he had gotten killed because I almost got killed," Ernie said. He also received a purple heart after being shot in Vietnam.

Many veterans visited the plane during its stay at the Charlevoix Airport Friday-Sunday. Children, who know nothing about wartime tragedies, also toured the plane. The Yankee Air Museum offered tours of the plane. Crewmembers, some of whom were actual pilots of B-17 bombers during the war, were on hand to answer questions. The "Flying Fortresses" are known for their dangerous daylight missions over Germany. Their creation enabled the allies to fly longer missions with a 10-member crew without refueling.

Before restoration, the Yankee Lady and its bay doors were used to dump fertilizer and put out forest fires.

Members of the museum bought the plane for $250,000. Another $350,000 was used to restore it. What parts couldn't be found were built.

"We have stripped, and polished and dug this airplane from wing to wing," said Bill Hanney, crewman. The restoration took nine years, three months and 10 days.

"But who's counting," Hanney said.

The air museum now has four planes that it takes on tour most weekends of the year. Its members pay their dues and travel from town

Placing blame will not help the victims of the Venetian Festival fireworks explosion.

That is the view of the members of the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims Fund, a group that formed Sunday to help victims financially, emotional and physically. About 200 people have volunteered their time or money to help all the victims — whether from Charlevoix or out of the area — recover from their injuries, and sift through insurance paperwork and legal dealings.

"We have plenty of time throughout the winter to find out what went wrong and how to correct it," said group spokesman John Winn Tuesday. "And frankly I don't think they (investigators and city personnel) need my help doing that."

Rather than focus on fault, the group is looking at how to help the victims from the explosion. For example, Francis Ladi, 71, just returned home from the hospital. She needs help dealing with health insurance forms, rides to the doctor and watering her flowers. Much of these needs extend beyond writing a check. And Winn is finding plenty of people who are stepping forward to help.

"The group keeps growing and growing," he said. "I've been on the phone all morning."

The group has formed to offer a cohesiveness to the many fundraisers in the community. The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has volunteered itself to receive and distribute 100 percent of the money raised. According to foundation executive director, Bob Tambellini, a selection committee has been formed to determine criteria for distributing the money among the victims. However, contributors can designate to which family or victim their money will be sent.

The group is acting fast by setting up a booth for donations at Saturday's downtown art fair. Subcommittees are being formed by business representatives of common interests to organize large Eight Michigan State Police scuba divers completed their search of Round Lake Monday, unless new information is discovered, said Det. Sgt. Bruce Dykehouse.

However, the investigation of what caused the July 26 explosion during the Venetian Festival fireworks is weeks away from being solved.

"We're still plugging along," Dykehouse said.

By next week, officers are planning to piece together the wreckage of the fireworks, the 12-inch tubes that held them and the trailer from which the display was shot.

In the meantime, each piece is being placed where it belongs in a storage building used by the police for reconstruction exercises. Dykehouse said he hopes that the pieces will tell exactly where the explosion originated and what its cause was.

Federal and local police are involved in the investigation.

"There are no revelations as of yet," said Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson.

Police continue to interview people either involved in or that witnessed the fireworks explosion. Tuesday, the state police met with Richard Davis, the owner of Fireworks North, Inc., which shot off the display. Today, they are interviewing the suppliers of the fireworks, police said.

Hanney looks around and remembers the 10 people who were fighting for their lives in similar planes. He sees the awe on children's faces as they board the large planes and see the guns. And he watches the veterans' eyes well up with tears as they are able to touch a piece of the past.

"People want to know about these airplanes and what went on," said Linus French, a museum member who flew 34 missions as the pilot of a B-17G. "It's amazing to see the interest people have in these old war birds."

Ernie Martin's interest was as personal as anybody's. His uncle was one of five men from Beaver Island killed in the line of duty during WWII. Since his visit, Ernie now knows more about "Pops," the uncle honored with his visit Sunday.

Kayla Potter remembers all the victims of the Venetian Festival explosion with flowers.

Flowers in Bridge Park express families', community's grief

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Flowers have gathered where onlookers of the Venetian Festival fireworks once did.

To Dorothy Snyder, of Greenville, each flower is a colorful representation of the community's concern for the 16 victims of the explosion and their families.

"It shows that a lot of people care," she said, after taking the time to read the satin banners, cards and a poem written by a Charlevoix woman.

Snyder was in Iowa during the explosion. When they arrived in Charlevoix last week, they had heard of the disaster that took one life and maimed another man. Her granddaughter was in Charlevoix helping hold a IV bag for an injured girl.

Kayla Potter, 8, was on her way home when the explosion occurred. Her family had stopped the car on Marion Center Road to watch the colorful bursts in the sky.

After hearing about the injured people, Kayla asked her mother if she could put a wreath in the park. It now sits where Tad Dobrowolski was when he was hit by flying shrapnel seriously enough to lose his arm and leg. Her wreath reads, "Our neighbors and friends." Kayla paid for the wreath with her own money in hopes that the pink, white and green of the carnations and greenery would represent all the men and women who were injured July 26.

"I thought there should be a wreath for all the victims," she said.

Kayla remembers Mark Yager, who died shortly after the blast. He had helped her through a CAT scan five months ago when she was going to have surgery.

When Kayla's grandfather died of cancer three years ago, she remembers the bright flowers at his funeral.

"They were so beautiful, and they were there for him," she said.

To Kayla, flowers are a way of honoring the people who were hurt in Charlevoix on July 26. It's her of helping.

"Maybe it will bring some relief to the families and the children who saw the accident," Kayla's mother, Deborah Potter, said.

As people left Mark Yager's funeral Friday, some of them came to Bridge Park to see the memorials in the grass. As they looked and read, a young boy played ball with his mother nearby.

County jail begins collecting more 'rent'

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Crime may not pay, but in Charlevoix County it does pay rent.

A program that has been run since 1991 is beginning to show an increase in collections.

Inmates are billed $10 for each night's stay, but those granted work release are charged $15 a day, plus an hourly wage while they're out on work release, according to county jail administrator Babette Meggison.

Prior to the hiring of a jail administrator in the spring of 1996, the fees weren't pursued much by volunteer staff. The program brought in an extra-$8,000 a year. However, the last nine months of 1996, more than $62,000 came into the county's coffers from inmate housing fees. So far this year, after the first quarterly reports, $22,000 has been collected. Meggison said she hopes to push that total above $100,000 this year.

While state legislation has allowed sheriff department's to collect rent since 1984, only recently have area counties begun to take advantage.

Emmet county has been billing prisoners the same way Charlevoix County does, but only for the last two years, said sheriff Jeff Bodzick, bringing in "well over $100,000" each year.

Cheboygan and Antrim counties have been running their own programs for the last year, but only accumulate over $20,000 each in collections. Cheboygan county puts a limit of $1,000 on the bill a prisoner can compile, while Antrim County's housing fees are collected by a downstate firm in Novi, which creates a "hit or miss" situation said Antrim County Jail Administrator Louis Basso.

Charlevoix has no cap on rent bills. Collecting money, beginning upon release, is done out of Megisson's office.

Typically, a "reasonable" payment plan begins within 30 days of release.

"You don't have much of an income while you're in here, so we can't expect someone walking out of here with a high bill to pay it right off," Meggison said.

If payments stop, the jail proceeds like any landlord: Giving notice and upon no response, referral to a collection agency.

The resolution passed by the county commission claimed inmate housing to be an "increasing drain" on the budget. For 1997, the jail has a budget of $418,000. Prisoner board is the second largest expense at $32,000 dollars, about 8 percent. Wages, budgeted at $294,000, is the largest expense.

As for the money, it goes directly into the county's general fund where it is spent on renovation projects and new equipment purchases. Board chairman Phil Johnson said some of the money collected may be directed to help cover the costs of a future jail expansion.

Charlevoix's Round Lake Harbor - There's nothing else quite like it. 2,700 sq. ft. 4-bedroom, 4-bath, Harbour Club Condominium. Panoramic views from nearly every room and 2 extra large boat slips, $690,000.

Secluded Country Log home with full basement and 2-car garage and beautiful fieldstone fireplace. Panoramic views of countryside on 5 acres with an apple orchard, $176,900.

Two adjoining condo units, purchased together or as independent units. One has fireplace and kitchen, the other with jacuzzi. Good rental history, $58,500 and $67,500.

Take care not to look for relief from grief in vindication

EDITORIAL

Insurance is bought and sold to give people peace of mind during a tragedy.

Enough hurt and worry invades someone's life during an accident that financial concerns don't need to be at the forefront.

The Venetian Festival's fireworks explosion is no exception.

We are thankful to see the community raising money to help the families of the two Charlevoix men who were killed and seriously injured, and other victims. Fund-raisers are being held throughout the community for residents and Charlevoix's guests during the festival. The money raised will help cover the many miscellaneous costs that spring up during such a time.

Mark Yager worked in the radiology department at Northern Michigan Hospital. At 43, he died in the prime of his life, leaving behind a wife and four children. Tad Dobrowolski, who lost an arm and leg from the explosion, is the owner of Tad's Restaurant, where he and his wife jointly run the business. The restaurant is closed indefinitely.

It will take patience, courage, understanding, time, energy and financial assistance to help usher these families into a brighter day — to even convince them that the days aren't eternally dark.

What won't help the families is for people to busy themselves with a "witch hunt" of who's at fault for this accident. So often, when people are hurt at a public place, some people take it upon themselves to cast blame, point fingers and make nasty accusations toward the city officials, employees or volunteers.

We urge the community to use discretion over the Venetian Festival explosion. Many of the event's organizers are local businesspeople who volunteered many hours to organize the festival. They have followed a successful outline that began decades ago.

There are already too many professional finger-pointers casting blame on everyone who had anything to do with the Venetian Festival. We didn't hear anyone speaking out against the distance of the crowd from the fireworks before the explosion occurred. There were no groups protesting, no letters to the editor and no comments at city hall.

Why, then, should people begin to attack our community leaders now, especially since we are all guilty of wanting to be as close as possible to the lighted celebration.

Letters to the editor

Blood donors come through for victims

Editor:

Last Saturday night's tragic fireworks explosion in Charlevoix highlighted several important lessons for all of us here in northern Michigan.

One lesson is that medical staffs at Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey performed extremely efficiently and extremely well. Another lesson is that our ambulance crews showed true professionalism and concern for the injured and their families. Everyone who helped ease the suffering should be praised for a job well done.

Another round of thanks should go to Red Cross blood donors, who had already done their job, and supplied the blood we had on our shelves to help serve the injured.

The Red Cross shipped the hospitals in Charlevoix and Petoskey about 45 units each of platelets and fresh frozen plasma immediately following the explosion. Patients at the two hospitals used at least 20 of those units of blood, as well as all the platelets and fresh frozen plasma.

If more blood products had been required, the Red Cross would have delivered them — on time — when needed — where needed. The American Red Cross is a community-based blood center, headquartered in Petoskey and serving northern Michigan, but we have a national reach. Thousands of Red Cross blood donors throughout America are ready to help any other area in the country during an emergency. These healthy, volunteer blood donors were standing behind our Michigan blood donors. When we need them, they will roll-up their sleeves and offer their blood to any of us.

Right now, we need the help of every healthy blood donor in northern Michigan. On Thursday, Aug. 7, the Red Cross will conduct a blood drive at the Red Cross Building in Petoskey. The drive will be held from noon-6 p.m. and is being sponsored by the Rotary Club of Petoskey. All people interested in donating blood are encouraged to call 347-5984 to make an appointment.

Just as all of us have the right to receive blood to save our lives, we all have the responsibility to donate our blood to save the lives of others. Please donate your blood through the American Red Cross, and let us save lives together.

Sincerely,
Carolyn S. Matzinger

Calmness over rode possible panic

Editor:

Something should be said about what didn't happen the night of the fireworks explosion: Panic! With so many people in a small area and bloody injuries scattered throughout the crowd, panic could have easily taken over. I think this additional problem did not occur for two reasons. First, because the fireworks display was not cut short after the explosion. And, second, because we are fortunate to have very well trained emergency per-

If the display had been cut off, more people would have focused on the blood and shouting and fear may have started them running. People more remote from the explosion, many inebriated, would not have understood why their fun was being shut down. Oddly, it was fortunate that the display could not be shut off once the timing devices were activated.

Our police, sheriff, Coast Guard, fire department and emergency volunteers were superb. They did not act surly or overly authoritative, but did their jobs in a very professional manner. It was very tight quarters getting ambulances in and the crowd out and these emergency personnel performed in a way that we, and they, should all be proud.

Attend county meeting to speak out about smoking

Editor:

As you may know, on Aug. 13 the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing on adopting an ordinance to make all county buildings and vehicles smoke-free. It would also prohibit smoking within 50 feet of a building entrance.

The Charlevoix-Emmet-Antrim Tobacco Reduction Coalition first introduced the concept of the ordinance to the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (formerly District Health Dept. No. 3) Board of Health. The ordinance was approved by the board June 3, with a recommendation that each County Board of Commissioners consider the ordinance for adoption in their respective counties.

The ordinance was introduced to the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners on July 9, and the date for the public hearing was set. Anyone from the county who wishes to make a comment on the ordinance is encouraged to attend the hearing.

Because secondhand smoke is the third leading cause of preventable death in the United States, the Tobacco Reduction Coalition introduced the ordinance to decrease the community's exposure to secondhand smoke. The coalition strongly encourages the board of commissioners to adopt this ordinance to protect the health of our community as they use our County facilities.

Sincerely,
Mary Ann Cox, RN, BSN

Sign at Captain's Corner not controlling traffic

Editor:

I am a Boy Scout in Charlevoix, and I am working on my Citizen in the Community Merit badge. For one of the requirements I had to select a city, county, or school problem or issue under consideration from the local newspaper and write a letter.

Well, I am not sure if this is a city or county problem, but I think it needs to be looked at a little better. It has to do with the parking lot at Captain's Corners. A "no left" turn sign has been placed there, at the first driveway, probably to help with traffic problems on M-66. I spent five hours out of my summer day sitting at the bank across the street to do a survey. I wanted to see how many cars would go ahead and turn left in to the first driveway even though they had put up the no left turn sign. I could not believe some of the things that I saw. I watched a county transit bus, the Petunia watering truck and about 60 other vehicles turn left there. There were about 100 vehicles that went down to the next drive like they were supposed to. I even saw a car turn left, at the wrong driveway, in front of a city police car.

Either the "left turn" sign was a big waste of time and you don't have to follow the law, or the sign needs to be taken down. I guess there is one other possibility, maybe people are so used to all the traffic signs, they didn't even notice this new one. Maybe by publishing this letter more people will notice the sign and quit breaking the law.

Karen Lerch

Two months ago, when I set up my internship with Charlevoix Courier Editor, Janenne Harrington, I had no idea what was in store for me. I am fortunate to have had the opportunity over the Venetian weekend to work with the staff at the Courier. Being a teacher at Charlevoix High School, it was nice to get some "street" experience under my belt and working at the Courier was a perfect choice since I teach publications.

Char-Em, the intermediate school district, offered a program this summer for educators to visit work sites and interact with employers. This was a fantastic opportunity for me to learn the ins and outs of putting a newspaper together, and because the Courier is a weekly, the pace was a little slower and more relaxed than a daily.

On Wednesday, July 23, my week began. When I arrived, the staff had just finished their "week" and we're waiting for the paper to be delivered.

When Janenne came in, she commented about what a "bear" the 24-page paper had been to layout. Journalism is the only profession where a person essentially begins each day (or week in this instance) from scratch. It is almost depressing as you hold the finished copy in your hand and are reminded that your job isn't complete — you need to start fresh, new stories, new layout, new everything.

As Jamie MacMillan, Courier reporter, finished reading the July 23 edition of the paper, Janenne began planning for the following week's paper, coverage of the Venetian Festival. It was decided that two pages would be taken up by "fun" Venetian pictures. Janenne had hoped to go up in the Re/Max balloon to get an aerial shot of the festival, but it had to be tethered downtown because of the wind's direction. I was to write an article on the Venetian Queen Competition (it was going to be front page news!) and Jamie would cover the foot race and complete a cellular phone article he had been working on. Janenne also asked me to cover the planning commission meeting that Wednesday night and write up a short article.

As the week progressed, the pace at the paper stayed rather relaxed. On Friday, I completed the two articles I had been asked to write. While Janenne edited my 24-inch Venetian Queen article, I found myself making excuses for word usage, and grinding my teeth as she made suggestions about my piece — a feeling I'm sure my students often feel.

Before I left on Friday, Janenne once again went over the layout of the paper. Jamie had been making calls to complete his articles, and everyone had their picture assignments, to assure the Charlevoix readers had a flavorful view of the Venetian festivities. We also brainstormed to help Janenne think of an exciting editorial. She sarcastically said, "I could always write one on how exciting Venetian was." I agreed with her that there had to be something better than that to write on. She would sleep on it over the weekend — see if anything better came up.

While the tragedy at the Saturday evening fireworks made most people want to stay safe in their homes, a newspaper reporter has no time to rest. As I made my way down Bridge St., knowing Janenne was on the Acacia getting pictures of the boat parade, I immediately wondered if she was getting pictures of the tragedy. I then thought, of course she's not getting pictures, this is a tragic event not to be made into a media frenzy with flashes and questions being fired. Then I wondered, "What if none of the events were captured on film — the readers would be disappointed, and the news would not be reported correctly."

"All right here's what we have," Janenne said, as she walked into the office, Monday morning. The paper needed to be reworked. No longer was my Venetian Queen article the top story, and in fact, it needed to cut down nine inches! The two pages of "fun" pictures were cut in half, as one page was taken up by pictures of the tragedy.

So, as I cut my "eloquent" quotes, and summed up my "picture perfect" description, Janenne and we've had a successful year. We registered 165 players, recruited coaches and assistants for 13 teams, lined up umpires to cover 50-plus games, worked the concession stand, listened to Clem Olach announce our games and enjoyed watching our kids play. It was definitely a group effort!

Little League is a volunteer run organization, and I want to thank everyone who gave of their time and energy to make the 1997 season happen.

I also would like to thank those who sponsor a Charlevoix Little League team: Pat McKeown Ford, Twin Bay Glass, McDonalds, Teacher's Pets, Oleson's, Round Lake Lodge, Charlevoix Lions Club, American Legion, Charlevoix Dairy Queen, Top Rank Disposal, Charlevoix State Bank, Waste Management, and NAPA (Horn's Auto).

Thanks also to Wolohan's for their generosity when it came time to replace a building at one of our fields. We had an extra treat this year when Coach Scott Kelly put on a clinic so our little league players could work with his varsity baseball players. There was a great turnout, and I'm sure more than one Little League player went home dreaming about wearing a Rayder baseball uniform. So, we'll take a little break — and then onto the 1998 season.

Sincerely,

Golf course does not outweigh nature

Editor:

Shanty Creek and the promoters of the Tom Weiskopf Golf Course are sadly and disastrously off track. They do not see the real treasure in their back yard, the Cedar River. Focused on glitz and perceived profit potential, the designers of the course see the Cedar River as a decorative accessory to their golf playground rather than as a holy and sacred gift of creation.

At the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) hearing, expert after expert rallied to defend the integrity of the river. Conservationists, the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, Trout Unlimited, Warren Studley, the Antrim Co. Soil and Water Conservation District, sportspersons, M.U.C.C., and citizens, in one voice appealed to the DEQ to protect the integrity of Cedar River. They described the river as pristine, globally rare, an ecosystem of the highest quality, a habitat of fish and game, a place of serenity and peace.

One expert after another cited the ability of Shanty Creek to avoid degrading the river by siting the course on available adjacent uplands. It should not be surprising that the designers of golf courses are impervious to the holy nature of the river. Possibly they have not walked under the fragrant cedars or listened to the rushing of clear pure waters and the call of birds overhead. They may not have marveled at the awesome magnificence of the Creator who gave human kind these sacred gifts to steward and share.

The current fad is to promote golf courses with ever more interesting water embellishments. Michigan has more public golf courses than any state in the nation. It is a competitive enterprise and if the integrity of a globally rare river falls before the need to capture the attention of the summer vacationer with a snazzy color glossy brochure, then so be it. (The brochures were scattered over Michigan advertising the Weiskopf apparition months before the permits were even applied for!) This is as naive, wasteful and callous as making spitballs with a Monet watercolor, or throwing water balloons in a land where children thirst.

These last wild refuges, these arks for wildlife, are being invaded and filled and degraded an acre at a time. Our ecosystems suffer an immune deficiency created by the constant, pervasive infliction of wound after wound. Like individuals in a mob, who stone their victim in concert so that no one person need bear responsibility for the deed, developers and invaders of our last pristine lands cry, "But my contribution to the demise of this river is insignificant!"

What is 100 times insignificant? Or 1,000? Thirty-five years ago, The Rev. Harold Kohn wrote, "A Love of Wildness means recognizing how desperate our problem is and knowing that, while every loss of wild, virginal habitat is final, every triumph of conservation is only temporary, subject to quick erosion, and in need of constant, stubborn defense. Northern Michigan's principle commodities are stretches of relative wildness and touches of unspoiled beauty. If we sacrifice these to so called 'progress' and 'development,' we will be no better and have no more attraction than Detroit, Flint and Grand Rapids. We should remember that the Detroit River was once a beauty spot, filled with an abundance of game fish, its banks shaded with mighty trees and visited by deer and bobcat."

If the present trend of callously using globally rare communities to decorate golf courses continues, we could lose forever these last intact wondrous ecosystems. The DEQ as the guardian of the public interest and the resource, must "Just say NO!" But Shanty Creek could do the right thing just because it's the right thing to do! I appeal to Shanty Creek and the promoters to the Tom Weiskopf Golf Course to make stewardship of the Cedar River their first priority. I appeal to Tom Weiskopf to take a personal lead in protecting this blue ribbon trout stream. Ownership of a rare place is an awesome responsibility. "We borrow the earth from our children!" Shanty Creek has a unique opportunity to protect the Cedar River while constructing a golf course the whole community can celebrate.

Teacher steps into journalism

Jamie immediately began brainstorming for different angles to report on the explosion. Janenne called this a weekly nightmare because the paper isn't published until Wednesday. The information she had would be old. There is no sense reporting something people read and knew about three days earlier. Jamie and I made phone calls to try to get some information — no one was there. Janenne called the police — voice mail.

What do you do? A panic surrounded her when the News-Review was delivered. "I can't read it," she said, and immediately gathered her notes and bag and said, "I'm going to go home to see what I can come up with."

I learned that reporting is competition. Reporters are competing for the best story and the most newsbreaking information. They want to kick their fellow reporters butts, so to speak. As Janenne said, "If I had a paper out on Sunday morning, I would have had the story."

At the 11th hour Tuesday, as pages lie pasted up, most of the articles Jamie had worked on were cut until the next paper, to make room for the fireworks explosion. As I left, Janenne was still on the phone trying to gather the most up-to-date information possible — you've got to if you want your paper to be the best and most accurate.

Woman celebrates 90th birthday

Pearl Rowe, of Rowe's Gardens, celebrated her 90th birthday Aug. 6.

"Ninety years is an impressive milestone," said Sen. Carl Levin in a letter to Pearl from Washington D.C. "I envy your store of memories. In your lifetime, you have been a witness to history in so many ways, and things that we take for granted today were undreamed of when you were born."

A happy birthday card also arrived from the White House with Bill and Hillary Clinton's signatures at the bottom.

Pearl was born Aug. 6, 1907, in Warsaw, Poland. She was 5 years old when her family came to America. They lived in Baltimore and then moved to the Detroit area, where Pearl and her husband, John, lived until they came to Charlevoix 33 years ago.

Pearl has one daughter, DeeDee Dittmar (Dr. Norbert), of Livonia, Mich. She also has four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Family members traveled to Pearl's house from around the country over the weekend for her grandson's wedding on Saturday and her birthday party Sunday in the garden.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

Some of you may remember that about a year ago, Linda, David and I went on our first canoeing trip down the Jordan River. Being like most husbands, I thought I should be in back doing the steering and the paddling. It wasn't too long down river that all three of us ended up in the drink watching our canoe float away, losing our sunglasses and drowning my watch. Fortunately, a young couple we knew came to our rescue. They recovered our canoe and paired off with us to see us through what turned out to be a fairly enjoyable afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, I returned to the Jordan River. Only this time my wife was gracious enough to have to work and my son was off with our youth group. I will be honest enough to tell you, I was nervous and the young adults from the Sunday School class I teach, who accompanied their pastor, will be kind enough to tell you that it showed. Even the folks who owned the canoe livery were surprised I had returned. A really nice young man, whose spouse couldn't come, volunteered to be my partner. However, when I first heard he hadn't been in a canoe since he was 13, well my faith wasn't as strong as it needed to be.

Sometimes it's more of a challenge to dread something in life than it is to actually go through it. My canoe partner was absolutely awesome. But there was a bunch of rafters on the river that weren't quite as gifted and we had a close encounter on the second third of the trip. Let's just say that the baptismal service I had planned the next night was going to be easier since I

Teachers, staff cut school budget

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The staffs of all three Charlevoix Public School buildings tinkered with their budgets, reducing costs for this year by more than $110,000.

The result was an impressed school board that, in the end, granted the request to hire a new counselor at the high school to replace Charlie Bentley, who retired in the spring.

Board members, originally unwilling to spend and unconvinced of the necessity, had a change of heart when they saw the staff's gumption to cut their own costs to make room for the hire.

The counselor will also be assigned to teach two sections of language arts, in addition to lending guidance to students and parents and playing a large role in coordinating testing.

A budget that had shown a deficit of $310,000 has been slashed to $200,000. Of the remaining deficit, $160,000 is the result of front-end costs of the early retirement incentive that promises to save money in long run.

Bits and pieces from each buildings' budgets were cut, ranging from the salaries of substitute teachers, travel, supplies, and capital outlay for items such as desks, chairs and technology.

While impressed with the work, some board members thought cuts went too far, especially when they were told that decreases in capital outlay spending entailed not improving the computer technology.

"I don't want to cut ourselves short with technology," Barney Way said. "We may be shooting ourselves in the foot."

Ike Boss said he felt uncomfortable cutting in that area, calling it a cut in progress.

Larry Levengood said the board aren't the educators and should accept the staffs' recommendations. The cuts are only for this year, and he would rather see cuts there than in actual student-teacher contact.

"We can't give money back saying 'we know better,'" Scott Boss said. "We need to accept them as they are."

With that it was decided to plug the new figures into the budget and to go ahead with a search to fill the counselor/language arts position.

One part of the overall budget not tinkered with was the athletic department's budget. Estimated at just over $200,000, the athletic department's budget for this year is similar to last year's.

The board has scheduled a work session for 4 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 7, in the Sleep Inn conference room before its next monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, in the high school study hall.

Rotary recognizes Big Rock Point

In recognition of its many contributions to the community, the Rotary Club of Charlevoix has declared August 1997, "Big Rock Point Appreciation Month."

The service organization has commissioned special T-shirts in honor of the nuclear plant and its employees and is selling them for $10 each.

"The Rotary Club thought it was appropriate to say thank you to the employees of Big Rock Point in some manner," said club president Gary Grundman. "We feel the T-shirts are a nice way to recognize the financial and volunteer contributions of the plant and its employees to our community over the past 35 years."

The T-shirts are emblazoned with the likeness of the plant and the following text: "Charlevoix would like to thank Big Rock Point nuclear plant, 1962-1997." Grundman said that the shirts will be sold in area banks and by Rotary members.

Any profits from shirt sales will be used to fund local Rotary projects, such as the Foot in the Door Scholarship, Thanksgiving Dinner for Pine River residents, the Petunia Planting Day Hot Dog Dinner and sponsorship of high school students to attend leadership conferences.

had been soaked to the skin myself the day before! In fact once the Jordan's chilly wave swept over me, the rest of the trip was a piece of cake and yes, I'd still try it again. And yes Darrin, I'd ride with you again.

One of the reasons I think so many people always flocked to hear Jesus was because they were looking for someone to place their confidence in. They were looking for someone that understood what it meant to be afraid or dread the rough moments of life, someone who they could trust to see them through some of faith's challenges. And when it comes to those challenges, Jesus was never bashful. He proclaimed it for all to hear, "I am the light of the world. If you follow me, you won't be stumbling through the darkness, because you will have the light that leads to life."

When you are faced with a difficult challenge in life, you can feel like you're wandering aimlessly. You can feel a lump the size of the rock of Gibraltar welling up in your throat. The Lord can help you not only face your fears, He can help you gain the confidence and courage you need to get safely through. And the funniest thing is that, with the Lord's help, no matter what the challenge is, you find yourself looking back and wondering why you were so afraid.

Jesus said he was the way, the truth and the life. My coming back to the river helped me understand that a little better. Sometimes a little "water" on your spirits reveals some much needed "light" in your soul! God loves you and I love you, too.

Waterfront art fair visits Round Lake for 39th year

One of summer's most extraordinary visual experiences is the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, where the works of more than 100 painters, sculptors, photographers, ceramicists, jewelers and other fine artists are displayed against the backdrop of a picturesque yacht harbor.

Celebrating its 39th year on Saturday, Aug. 9, this one-day fair, the state's second oldest, has an ardent following among Midwest collectors and gallery owners. The quality of the art work displayed is considered extremely high, the fair is a place of discovery for young artists, and the setting is ideal.

Exhibitors are chosen by jury in the late winter from among nearly 1,000 applicants. According to Alice Mosher, spokesperson for the fair, the jury seeks to "achieve a balance in the works exhibited." This year, she said, the jury was struck by a "trend toward more bold colors and whimsical works."

A key to the Charlevoix fair's continued success has also been a balance between a core group of invited exhibitors, whom Mosher calls "our wonderful anchors" and juried new artists.

Among the well known invited exhibitors are Detroit area watercolorist Dee Knot, oil painter Stewart Ashlee, and painters and ceramicists, Sue Russell and Lori Bolt, and porcelain artist Barb Godwin of Charlevoix.

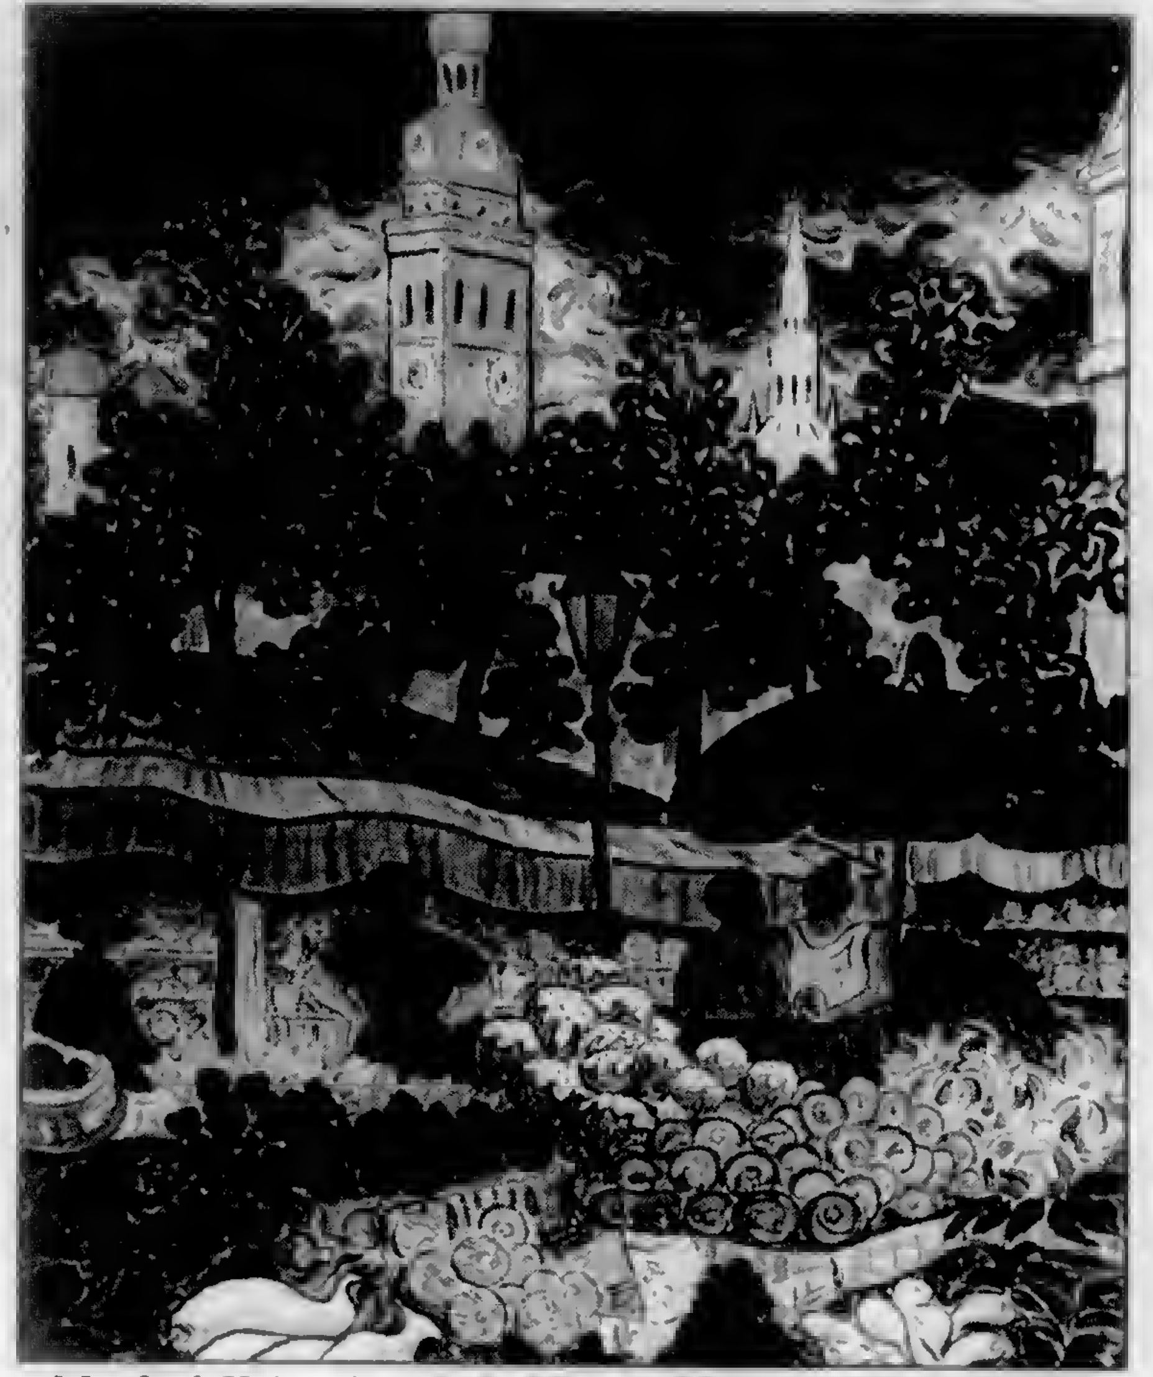
"These artists stand the test of time," Mosher said. "They are not trendy, they are established fine artists with wide followings and are a vital part of this show."

New this year is Gijsbert Van Frankenhuyzen, the Dutch born wildlife painter and muralist whose wildlife works were mainstays of the Michigan Natural Resources magazine. Another new exhibitor will be potter Jeff Calkins, from Walker, Mich., who won a coveted spot with his Japanese influenced "raku" pottery.

Larry Welo, from Mount Horeb, Wisc., will bring his etchings to Charlevoix for the first time. Like many newer exhibitors, Welo has a long list of national and international show and collections to his credit. Printmaker Carroll Swayze of Englewood, Fla., will be another first time exhibitor. Swayze combines traditional printmaking with watercolor techniques to create vivid environmental works. The Sarasota Herald Tribune described Swayze as "an artistic philosopher."

With the works of some 110 artists spread across the terraces of Charlevoix's recently renovated downtown park, visitors will enjoy strolling leisurely between the long rows of exhibits. From sculpted fountains by Jim Millar to Janet Searfoss' limited edition batik paintings, there is an extraordinary variety and quality in this one-day fair.

—See Art, page 12—



Manfred Heine-Baux's brilliant paintings and prints reflect his world travels. He brings his works to Charlevoix Saturday, Aug. 9, for the annual Waterfront Art Fair.

Imagine our community without art.

Without it, this community would be a frame with no picture. With it, it is a canvas filled with color. We salute our artists for their vision and thank them for their gifts.

Art fair funds school programs

Along with being a centerpiece to Charlevoix's summer, the fair plays a vital role in exposing Charlevoix community to the arts. In addition to the fair itself, the Waterfront Art Fair, through the Charlevoix Council for the Arts, sponsors arts events in the schools. Last year, the council underwrote a fall performance by the Arm of the Sea Theater, which combines dance, musical theater and the visual arts in an entertaining and educational presentation. In the spring, during a multi-cultural week celebration, the council sponsored performances by the Trinidad-Tripoli Steel Band. Plans for this school year's arts series will likely include a dance performance piece.

For the past decade, the Waterfront Art Fair has also sponsored art scholarships enabling local students to continue their studies at college and summer art camps.

"The founders of the art fair, in 1958, saw the art fair as a vehicle to bring fine art and other cultural events to northern Michigan," Mosher said. "The north felt a lot more isolated then, but it is still important to make sure all our children have the opportunity to see and participate in a variety of the arts and to encourage young local artists."

Opera debuts in Charlevoix to kick off arts weekend

The Charlevoix Opera Guild Summer Night at the Opera at the First Congregational Church at 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8, is sold out.

Patrons may, however, show up at the church on the night of the concert to see if tickets have been returned.

The guild and the concert artists are offering two free events to the public. An open dress rehearsal will take place from 6-10 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6, in the Charlevoix Congregational Church.

Soprano Emily Benner and tenor Richard Fracker, with the assistance of guild members, will present an informance at the Bridge Street Bookstore from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Aug. 7. The two singers will provide insights into some of the selections on the upcoming concert, as well as their careers and the art of opera.

Tenor Richard Fracker is a new addition to the concert (taking the place of tenor Mark Puchala, who had to be excused for family reasons).

Fracker enjoys a career as an operatic tenor having sung throughout the world in works from Bach to Beethoven to Puccini to Philip Glass, and has performed the major concert works throughout the USA, specializing in the oratorios of Bach, Britten, Handel and Mozart.

He made his New York City Metropolitan Opera debut in 1989.

New tenor joining cast of opera guild's Friday show

He has repeatedly returned to the Met. The versatile American tenor spent much of 1995-96 at the Met for Die Meistersinger, Un Ballo in Maschera.

In addition to singing the lead tenor role in the Met's production of Glass' The Voyage, Fracker made his Carnegie Hall Debut in 1995 as the tenor lead in Glass' The Civil Wars.

Later in the season, he debuted at the Bilbao Festival (Spain) as Nadir in Les Pecheurs de Perles, traveled to Japan with Seigi Ozawa for Les Mamelles de Tiresias, sang Faust in Michigan, the Duke of Mantua in Mississippi, and returned to the Met for new productions of Fedora and Wozzeck, as well as the acclaimed production of Billy Budd, and sang his first Mahler Symphony No. 8 with the Grand Rapids Symphony. Fracker returns to the Met in the Fall of 1997 for his fifth season. He holds four degrees from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Fracker has decided to sing two of the most famous arias from the tenor repertoire for Italian opera: "La donna 'e mobile" from Giuseppe Verdi's Rigoletto and "Nessum dolma" from Giacomo Puccini's Turandot.

The other artists for the performance are soprano Emily Benner, mezzo-soprano and concert artistic director Jayne Sleder, bass-baritone Jeffery Norris, and pianist Victoria Mushkatkol, performing the orchestra scores.

All five musicians are Michigan artists. They will open the concert with a quartet from Verdi's Rigoletto and close with the quartet "Make Our Garden Grow" from Bernstein's Candide.

Individual pieces will be performed by the artists in the first half, with the second half featuring a complete performance of Gian Carlo Menotti's comic opera The Telephone will be featured in the second half, with Benner and Norris bringing to life the tale of a telephone that gets in the way of true love.

Information about the dress rehearsal or the availability of returned tickets can be obtained by calling ticket chair Dave Smith at 547-1817. For information about the informance, please call the Bridge Street Bookstore at 547-7323.

The concert is supported by a grant from the Cheboygan Area Arts Council Regranting Agency, money made available for distribution at the regional level by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, and by administrative support from the Crooked Tree Arts Council in Petoskey.

Brumm opens second showroom in downtown business district

Norman Brumm & Co. has opened a new store in downtown Charlevoix, called Brumm's by the Bridge. The name describes its location, just a few steps away from the historic Charlevoix bridge. The 1,000-square-foot gallery houses a variety of nature-inspired art and gifts.

The Norman Brumm Showroom on U.S. 31 South in Charlevoix, has been on the "must see" list for visitors to northern Michigan for more than 30 years. The main showroom building was opened in 1981, and also houses Brumm's production facilities, the largest studio of its kind in the world. It provides employment for many local residents. In addition to the new store, Brumm has opened a new wing of the Showroom. It features a room dedicated to Brumm's sculpture and collectors' plates, which start out on a base of pure copper and have his designs high-fired in glass enamel onto them.

Brumm artwork has been in the collection of U.S. presidents, royalty and several Michigan governors have commissioned work from Brumm to present to visiting dignitaries. Brumm is onc of the world's authorities on glass enameling, a nearly lost art form that is demanding and exacting; a particular shade of blue glass was actually named "Brumm Blue."

Besides Brumm's distinctive artwork, the galleries are known for their uncommon variety and unusual arrangements of merchandise. Items are loosely tied together with thc theme of art inspired by nature; like a 300-year-old Chinese carving, sitting next to a contemporary wooden box or a beaded shawl. The vast crystal, mineral and fossil collections, without equal in this part of the country, are handpicked by Brumm and his business partner, Sherry W. Merrell. They spend many months per year going through thousands of pounds of material just to get a few flats of superior specimens.

Norman Brumm and Co. have three other gallery locations: one in Plainwell, Mich., and two in Tucson, Ariz.

Varsity football coach calls it quits after 23 years

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

A few days before the first beads of sweat are dropped during two-a-day workouts, the Rayder football squad is already down a man.

Head coach Roger Gowell resigned last week from his position due to persistent back trouble, causing a herniated disk.

"It really was the last straw," he said. "It doesn't let me do the things I need to do to teach and coach."

Other coaches, notably Lou Holtz and Mike Krzyzewski have taken time away to nurse a sore back, coming back as strong as ever. Gowell said he hasn't ruled out returning to coaching, but admitted he hasn't really thought that far ahead.

Gowell has spent 23 years on the Rayders' sideline, the last 12 years as head coach where his teams won 55 games and lost 54. Included in that is a playoff berth after the 1992 season, the only such berth in Rayder history.

In the 1980s, Gowell's squads won two tier II Michigan-Huron Shores league titles, in 1987 with a 6-3 record and in 1989 finishing at 7-2. The team in 1989 registered the Rayders' best season of the 1980s.

The victory total was matched in 1992, but then Charlevoix played in the Lake Michigan Division. Traverse City-St Francis won the league that year, but Charlevoix still qualified for the Class C playoffs, bowing out in the first round to Montague 49-22.

Gowell

"I'd like to stay as involved as I can, but I will not be actively coaching," Gowell said. "I will be a spectator this year and that will be very different."

Gowell said the decision was not easy since he's been involved with the football squad and other Rayder sports since he began teaching at Charlevoix High School. One positive, he said, was he will have more time to watch his own children progress through athletics.

"I'll miss working with the athletes," he said. "That is the special part. Setting challenges and seeing the young men work hard to meet those challenges is what makes athletics what it is."

Timing of the move could not have been worse with practice beginning Monday, Aug. 11. Assistant coaches Todd Klinger and Brandon Bruce will be running the team, while the job of head coach will be officially posted for 10 days, according to the district's central office.

High school principal, Gary Grundman, was out of town and unavailable for comment while newly hired athletic director Keith Haske has yet to move into town.

The season begins Friday, Sept. 5, at St. Ignace. The Rayders' first appearance at Kipke Field is Friday, Sept. 12, against Benzie Central.

Wednesday night at the races continues for yacht club

Another perfect evening in Paradise July 30; a nice breeze, mostly blue skies with just bits of white added for good color contrast.

Unfortunately, we discovered (after umpteen attempts to get the anchor to hold) that I had left the camera on shore. Actually, I didn't do that — a leprechaun, marine variety, must have come on board, grabbed it, and carried it off! The same gremlin probably caused the fluke of the anchor being hooked in a link of the anchor chain. It just doesn't work well that way.

Once again, first to finish goes to Flash at 6:56.58, but that simply wasn't fast enough to save her time on the first three yachts in Fleet D (Jib and Main). Apothecary found a new prescription that made them quite well, thank you, as they corrected out First in Class at 0:50.32. They do not claim first overall, as Fleet D sailed a much shorter course than did the other yachts. Cheemaun (0:50.46) and Booma (0:51.29) both also corrected out ahead of Flash's 0:52.15.

Of those sailing the full course, Tireless at 1:09.43, takes first overall as well as first in class (Fleet C); has the speed demon been retired? Stalworth (1:10.28) and Sandpiper (1:10.35), although lagging at the finish line, were very close bchind after corrections. In Fleet E, the J-22s, Hussy (1:12.08) again led H. S. Moisture (1:12.58) down the Primrose Path just seconds ahead of Gecko (1:13.07). Can't you just picture it? A moisture missile chasing a hussy while a small lizard is pursuing both. That's Reckless (1:15.32 — 'way back in fourth). I understand that Unnamed was disqualified. Hey, hang in there — you'll soon be burning up the fleet!

Newsense (1:14.09), just 19 seconds ahead of Babe, (1:14.28) and only 13 more over Mi Joy (1:14.41) was in the red hot Fleet B that had nine yachts start and finish.

Lesson 4. An old salt from the Dry A once told me that the racing rules, with only one exception, were based on giving right of way to the most disadvantaged yacht while not granting an advantage to those who would otherwise use the rules rather than racing skills. Thus, you cannot call for room to duck below a starting mark but you are entitled to it if you earn it at a mark of the course (by having a timely inside overlap). It is easier for windward to keep clear of leeward, and for overtaking to keep clear of the boat ahead. A yacht overtaking to windward shows no courtesy and deserves whatever fate may befall it. The exception first mentioned is the starboard tack rule. It is also the most abused — it was not intended to be a race tactic but simply to clarify who should yield when two yachts cross. If it does not hurt your position to wave the port tack boat across your bow, consider so doing. You'll keep clear air and be known as a "Corinthian Yachtsman." Bless You!

Fund-raiser targets both pool, annual petunia planting and care

A week's lodging on the Greek island of Mykonos, a stay in a Cincinnati townhouse overlooking the Ohio River and boating excursions are some highlights of the auction to benefit the Charlevoix Community Pool Sunday, Aug. 10.

Mike McElroy will auction off other travel packages to Hilton Head, S.C., Cincinnati, Grand Rapids and Washington, D.C. A diamond ring, a Paddlebuoy, several golf packages, a 21-foot day sailer, an El Toro sailing dinghy and a limited number of other items are also included in the live auction.

Charlevoix Country Club is also the setting for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's annual petunia party, which funds the purchase and weeding of petunias.

This year, Chef Rodriguez will serve gourmet appetizers during the silent auction, followed by several stations featuring beef tenderloin and smoked turkey breast, unique pastas, assorted cheese, fruit and vegetables, and dessert.

Successful bidders will have an opportunity to name a lake at the club golf course and a lane at the pool. A set of Bolt tiles from the former Tom's Mom Cookie store and pewter plates with historic Charlevoix landmarks that are sought by collectors are featured in the silent auction. Two round-trip air tickets to anywhere in the United States, a hand-painted youth chair and small step-stool, a watercolor scene by a well-known Russian artist, and a movie party at Cinema III are among many other donations.

All guests who have not had an opportunity to see the pool are invited to stop at the pool between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m., en route to the club. The double fund-raiser begins at 6:30 p.m.; the live auction begins at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $60 per person and may be reserved by calling 547-5444. Sealed bids will be accepted at P.O. Box One, Charlevoix, MI 49720 until Saturday, Aug. 9.

fund-raisers. Other people are calling people in the community to ask for donations. Annual service club fund-raisers are being dedicated to the cause.

"We want donations from $10 to as much as they can afford," Winn said. "We want every level, every person in this community to be involved. We want to bring back a sense of pride."

The group's main push will run through the fall Apple Fest. Hopefully, by then, the immediate needs of the victims will be met, he said, Winn said.

Once immediate needs are met, Winn said that the group will help people wade through the legal maze of getting settlements with insurance companies.

"My hope is that if these people cannot afford to hire an attorney on an hourly basis, then we can help them do so," Winn said, noting that this will help get more money to the victims and less to attorneys who contract for a percentage of the settlement.

Since the accident July 26, which killed one man and seriously injured several others, the community has been a buzz with questions regarding legal and financial responsibilities.

The company that shot off the fireworks, Fireworks North, Inc., which is owned by Richard Davis of Central Lake, has not stated the extent of its insurance. Davis has hired a public relations firm in Traverse City to handle media questions.

"With so much unknown, it would very premature for Mr. Davis or any of his representatives to discuss anything to do with insurance claims," said Chuck Lombardo, owner of CML Associates in Traverse City. Davis is waiting for the police to conclude the cause of the intense explosion that shook the waterfront.

However, according to Peter Smit, a special attorney for the City of Charlevoix, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has a $0.5 million policy with Auto Owners that was purchased to cover the Venetian Festival. During a city council meeting Monday, Smit suggested that people first submit the claims to their own insurance companies, then to the Auto Owners. In addition to medical expenses, property damage claims are expected to be made.

To make donations to any of the victims, send checks to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727. Checks should be made out to CCCF with "fireworks victims" in the memo space. To make a donation to a specific family, attach a note designating how much and to whom the money should be given.

Peace center offers class

What does a rustic willow chair class have to do with conflict resolution?

"First, bringing people together to learn or create something builds community," said Wagbo Peace Center's Administrative Director Tracy Meisterheim. "Second, bending freshly cut willow whips into a functional and beautiful chair connects people's hands with the land, which is the first step in appreciating our role in the natural world."

And conflict resolution?

"That's one of the main program areas at Wagbo, and the willow chair class helps provide funding," Meisterheim said.

The class will be offered Friday-Saturday, Aug. 22-23, for $125. For an extra $35, a friend can assist you. Class size is limited, no special skills or tools are required, and the registration deadline with fee is Monday, Aug. 18. For registration or more information, contact Tracy Meisterheim at 536-0333.

Charlevoix invited to Oldsmobile parade in Lansing

By Marilyn Boss
Courier columnist

Hometown Chronicles

Charlevoix has been invited by Oldsmobile to participate in the 100th anniversary parade at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 23, in Lansing. Dale, with the petunia truck and float with Miss Charlevoix, will be in the parade. Special banners have been ordered, one saying that R.E. Olds maintained several homes and a large yacht in Charlevoix. The other one congratulates Oldsmobile on a successful 100 years.

R.E. Olds was a prominent figure in Charlevoix for many years. In talking with retired middle school principal, Glenn Snider, Dale learned about Olds, as Glenn worked for him for seven straight summers. Olds had a large home in the Belvedere Club, and a huge home where the LaCroft condominiums now stand. It was next to the Kit Carson home, which is now Jack Begrow's office. He also had a very large lodge on Oyster Bay and the Old's boathouse and captain's home on Round Lake, where the Harbor View condominiums are now located. He owned a 135-foot yacht, powered with two 300 horse power Besemer diesels.

One day, Eleanor Carson asked Olds, over the back fence, "What is your secret for success?" His reply was, "I do everything exactly the opposite that everyone else is doing. When others are selling stocks, I'm buying, and when they're buying, I'm selling."

Glenn tells me that Olds never took an alcoholic drink, nor would he hire anyone who did. He preferred ginger ale. One of his many friends hung a big water dipper on a post next to a spring beside the lake at Ironton which said, "Have a drink on R.E. Olds."

The late Dorothy Dixon, who spent her working years at the Charlevoix State Bank, told Dale the following story. During the Depression, the bank was closed and they had no money to re-open. Archie Livingston, the president, made a Sunday morning appointment with Olds in Lansing, and Olds lent Archie $50,000 as a personal loan on his signature. Olds was very concerned that many Charlevoixians would lose their life savings. It took Archie years to pay it back, but he did.

Jack Stebe's grandfather, George Cook, told Dale that Olds paid the City of Charlevoix to run the electric power out to his lodge. Anyone along the way could hook on free, including all those in Pine Point. His yacht was so large, that the bow had to be pulled way up in the boat house as far as it could go, to get the doors shut on the stern.

During World War II, the U.S. government confiscated his yacht, the Reomar, along with Logan Thompson's large ship, the Sylvia. Thompson was president of Zenith Radio Corporation. After the war, the government offered to return the Reomar or pay Olds for it. Because all the chrome and brass had been stripped off the ship, he opted for the money. The yacht was sold to someone in Florida, and was turned into a banana boat. Olds died in 1950, and his captain, Capt. Brow, turned the boat house and land into Brow Marina.

The official from Oldsmobile, who called Dale, said they expect this parade to be the largest ever held in Lansing, and they wanted to be sure that Charlevoix was coming, as they've enjoyed our display in other parades. They are having 400 selected Oldsmobiles of every vintage along with some outstanding floats. They expect 150,000 people from all around the world.

Charlevoix meant a great deal to Olds, and Olds returned his love for the town in the many things he did for it.

Midnight cruise ends on shore

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

A 44-foot cabin cruiser named Head Room found little room to move on Lake Charlevoix during the early hours of Sunday, Aug. 10, running 101 feet aground near Loeb Point in Marion Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the owner and operator of the vessel, Alan Brent Knapp, told police that he was having trouble with his navigation and radar equipment and struck the shore at a speed of 36 mph. He had seven passengers aboard, none which were hurt, in the accident.

Jim Keller, whose home sits about 200 yards from where the boat ran ashore, said he was startled out of his sleep at around 2 a.m.

"It sounded like a cannon going off, like fireworks," Keller said.

Keller and his wife, Laurie, were sleeping out on their screened-in porch. He said he knew immediately that a boat had run aground. The sound it echoed reminded him of the summer of 1986 when a 24-foot boat suffered a similar fate.

Once awake, he called 9-1-1.

Keller said that while it was dark, there was no fog to tarnish visibility.

The cruiser was trolling through shallow water, about four to five feet deep throughout that stretch of Lake Charlevoix. The lake remains that shallow for about 500 feet out. Keller said the boat scraped the bottom of the lake for about 100 yards before hitting land.

The boat came in from the north and veered east as it drove its way onto land. During its cruise, it did not strike another vessel or one of the docks that line the shoreline. It lodged itself on land conveniently between two clusters of cedar trees.

Keller said that he watched the group of eight people slowly and quictly walk up his driveway, away from the accident.

Knapp was cited for failure to report a boating accident and operating at an unsafe speed for conditions.

Family event will raise money for fireworks victims

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Tad Dobrowolski's house needs to go through some changes before he comes home. It must be barrier-free and a furnace should be installed since he will no longer be out chopping trees for his wood stove.

These projects are an example of what the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund is all about. The group is helping casualties from the Venetian Festival fireworks by returning to the scene of the calamity for a family fund-raiser from 1-6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 17, in East Park.

The Taste and Sounds of Northern Michigan will fill the park with live and silent auctions, live entertainment, children's games and samplings of food from the best restaurants in the area.

"Our goal is to raise $100,000 by the end of the weekend," said Dean Spenceley, group member.

The money is being used to cover the immediate needs of the victims and their families, whether they live in Charlevoix or even out of the area. Some of the families don't have health insurance.

"Some of these families don't have money to get through next month with. That's what we're after," said fund member Charlie Winn.

Downtown crack dealer gets prison

Second sentencing stalled

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

While preparing her sentencing arguments against a local crack dealer and her boyfriend, Charlevoix County Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur said that she hoped to send a message to the community.

"It's not profitable, not smart, and not acceptable, and we don't want it here," she said.

33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas, who presided over Friday's sentencing, took Kur's message to heart by remanding Pamela Stoneham Fuller to a minimum of seven years in prison after she pleaded guilty to two counts of delivery of cocaine and one count of possession of cocaine.

Pajtas said he needed to protect the community from the people who bring poison into it.

Fuller received two sentences of 3-20 years in prison for each delivery count and a 1-4 year sentence for the possession charge. Pajtas ordered the terms be carried out consecutively, with credit for 17 days. Fuller should remain in prison until late July of 2004.

Fuller, 32, remained silent throughout the proceedings, dropping her head into her hands as Pajtas pronounced the sentence. Wiping away a small stream of tears, she took one last look at a tiny contingent of friends in the back of the courtroom as a bailiff led her away.

Kur, in the courtroom, argued that a sentence with the goal of just rehabilitation would be "fruitless," as Fuller had been in and out of treatment programs and was in "massive denial" of her drug problem.

It was also noted that Fuller has had her parental rights terminated

Money to help immediate needs

Although insurance settlements are expected, the investigation of the accident continues and money is not soon coming. "These people have to live to get to the settlements," Winn said.

A booth downtown over the weekend, during the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, collected more than $12,000. Volunteers have gathered at self-service gas stations to pump petroleum for donations. Gas station owners are donating 3 cents per gallon and restaurants are giving proceeds.

"We're just going to keep going on and on until everything is taken care of," Spencley said.

As a custom cabinet maker, he has temporarily stepped back from his job to pour his efforts into the cause. Countless people have donated their talents and finances to help Charlevoix's own, and their guests, get beyond the July 26 accident. His story is retold in many of the lives of the people who are serving on five subcommittees that make up the victims' fund.

Sunday will be the group's main fund-raiser, which is being held before many summer residents leave.

For a minimum donation of $10 for adults and $5 for children, people can taste delectable samples from 20-25 of northern Michigan's finest cuisine under tents in East Park. Charlie Winn has organized the area's finest restaurants to contribute food, including Grey Gables, Mahogany's, Terry's Place, Charly's, Tapawingo, Weathervane, One Water Street, Bay Harbor Yacht Club, Monte Bianco and Little Lena's Wine Cellar.

Some fast food restaurants will be providing dishes that may be more pleasing to children. Taste testing begins at 1 p.m.

By 2 p.m., the live auction will begin. Top-dollar items include box seat tickets to see the Red Wings in Detroit, several boats, airline tickets, use of a home in the Bahamas, and Napa Valley, Calif., a private tour of four lakefront homes by Andrew Poineau with transportation to them provided by antique boats, a four-day cruise for two couples aboard the Medusa Challenger and a wine tasting party for 30 from Rowe Inn.

Throughout the day, children's events will include face painting, photography of kids' faces behind a clown's body and carnival games.

Donations for the auction and participants in the taste testing are still being sought. Call Wendy or Ron at 547-9796 for more information, or send cash donations to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Events in brief

Class reunion scheduled

An informal reunion of the Charlevoix High School Class of 1937 will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 23, at Alexander's Restaurant, 557 Petoskey Ave.

Anyone who can attend may call Anne Higman Olmstead at 547-9457 to confirm attendance.

Former city attorney honored at street dedication

The city is hosting a street dedication of Gibbons Drive in the industrial park at 4 p.m. Friday, Aug. 22. The road was plotted about 1986. It was paved and utilities installed when LexaLite built its scientific center on it.

Michael Gibbons was the city attorney in 1978-79 and 1981-82.

LexaLite and NuCor are accessed by Gibbons Drive.

The ceremony is open to the public. City officials, past city officials and members of the family will be attending.

Gibbons is accessed off Taylor Road in the industrial park.

DDA meeting canceled

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will not meet on Wednesday, Aug. 13, in the council conference room as scheduled.

The next scheduled meeting is 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10, in the conference room.

A complete agenda will be posted prior to the meeting.

Meet the coaches gathering set

The high school is hosting a Meet the Coaches night at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 18, in the gym.

All athletes in fall sports and their parents are invited to attend.

According to Charlevoix's new athletic director, Keith Haske, all coaching positions for fall sports have been filled, with the exception of head football coach. The position will be posted until Friday. A decision is expected shortly after interviews are held, he said.

The event will last about an hour.

Fund-raiser brings in more than $31,000

The top item selling at the fund-raiser Saturday for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and Friends of the Pool was a four-day cruise for two couples on the Medusa Challenger. The item sold to John Winn for $1,800, according to Bruce MacArthur. It is now being donated back to raise more money for the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund, which is holding a family event/fund-raiser from 1-6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 16.

Overall, the auction for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful raised $31,597 for the operation of the Charlevoix Community Pool.

The pool is hosting open swimming from 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Swimming lessons are being held throughout the week.

There is about $60,000 left to raise to finish paying for the construction of the pool. Inscribed bricks are still being sold that will be placed in the outdoor patio.

Some still skeptical of coming post office relocation to M-66

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

For Jeff Woodward, the post office moving from its nestled spot on Mason Street to near Kmart on M-66 in Charlevoix Township signals another step towards urban sprawl.

"We have a special situation in this town with all the cluster around Round Lake," said the summer resident, a Naval Engineering professor at the University of Michigan when he's not occupying his Clinton Street home. "We provide a lot of business down here. that a more typical town would not get."

He said the post office's departure will take some of the town's charm with it.

Mildred Darnton, a long-time resident of Oyster Bay, on the north side of Lake Charlevoix, said the tradition of chit-chat at your neighborhood post office is falling to the wayside.

Darnton's husband, William, said the post office will no longer be convenient. He's also worried about added congestion at the M-66 and U.S. 31 intersection.

Postmaster Jay Wheatley said he understands the concerns some residents have about the move, but he asks that they wait and give the new facility a chance.

"This will be the post office of the future," he said of their $2 million, 2,700-square-foot new home.

Among the highlights will be a 20-space parking lot, 1,000 post office boxes — up from 384, five new computers and a walk through general store stocked with postal supplies.

"Usually you'd stand in line and wait to get all your supplies," Wheatley said. "This will be like a grocery store."

Snags in construction, including the builders running out of steel, have pushed back an October opening to mid-November, according to Wheatley.

The move of the post office is a response to the growth of the area, combined with the cramped quarters of their present location.

Wheatley said that when drop boxes were placed out there four years ago, one in the Glen's lot and the other outside of FMB Northwestern Bank, the boxes were rarely filled. Now they are filled to the brim daily.

"That tells you something, that that area warrants more than just a box," Wheatley said, pointing out after surveys it was determined that sailors from the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia were dropping much of their mail at Glen's rather than strolling up Mason Street.

As the post office readies to pony express away from downtown, city officials have been scrambling to keep a semblance of postal services downtown.

The fruits of their labor appear to be a vending machine, to be set-up in city hall once the post office leaves. It will offer a potpourri of stamps, envelopes and other supplies.

Wheatley proudly calls it a candy bar machine of postal supplies, but Jeff Woodward said it won't do the trick. Stamps and envelopes can be bought at other spots, but what, he asked, if he wanted to mail larger packages.

"I'd like to see a branch office," he said, comparing Charlevoix to Ann Arbor which also lost its downtown post office recently. Since, though, a branch office run

Planners flip-flop opinion on rezoning

By Karen Lerch
Special to the Courier

Pete Phillips just wants all his mother's property, which extends from Petoskey Avenue to Division Street, zoned the same way. After many comments from concerned residents at a recent meeting, the Charlevoix Planning Commission voted to recommend changing the piece of property, which is split zoned residential and commercial, to all commercial.

> "Ordinances are supposed to be orderly and display progression. This ordinance does not show progression."
> — Pete Phillips, landowner

"I feel like there are some major problems with the zoning of the area," said planner A. J. Wilmont.

The property, which encompasses the BP gas station on Petoskey Avenue and extends back to Division Street, has been zoned two different ways for years. The front three-fifths of the property, which holds the gas station, is zoned commercial while the back two-fifths, which extends to Division, is zoned residential.

Phillips said he just wants to get rid of the property and the way it was zoned, that is next to impossible. He also said that although the property was split zoned, he has been paying commercial taxes on the entire piece for the past 15 years.

"Ordinances are supposed to be orderly and display progression," Phillips said. "This ordinance does not show progression."

Phillip's property is not the only property in this area zoned two different ways. There are three other parcels of land along Division with the same zoning. This problem is one of the reasons that led the planning commission to their decision.

They foresee that the problem Phillips is facing won't go away until all the land is all zoned the same.

Helen Phillips, Pete Phillip's mother, originally requested the rezoning in July 1996. Phillips stopped the process when it got to the city council because planners had voted against recommending the rezoning.

With the planners backing, Phillips is more confident that city council will vote for the rezoning.

The city's master plan does allow commercial zoning along that strip of Division Street. Planning chair, June Cross, said Monday that since

OPINIONS

Charlevoix gets appreciated taste of the arts Friday

EDITORIAL

Charlevoix had a rare taste of the arts Friday.

As the lights dimmed, the crowd in the First Congregational Church silenced. Four professional opera performers entered the room under spotlight.

For the next two hours, guests of the performance, hosted by the Charlevoix Opera Guild, nibbled and gulped doses of opera not often found this far north.

The Charlevoix Summer Night at the Opera was a smash. And we're thankful for the guild's commitment to exposing our community to another dose of culture.

Applause was abundant as each performer finished individual numbers and the cast bowed after group performances. Within the spectators were those who are well versed in opera and those who had never witnessed this type of artistic impression. However, some arias were familiar from their exposure to the general public in commercials, including Carmen's Habanera and a piece that retold the enticement of Samson by Dalila.

Emily Benner, soprano, Jayne Sleder, mezzo-soprano, Richard Fracker, tenor, and Jeffrey Norris, baritone, filled the church with their powerful voices. Victoria Mushkatkol accompanied every number on piano. They all skillfully blended the sounds of voices and the piano with the acting found at the opera.

The event was made possible by the financial support of the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs through the Cheboygan Area Arts Council and with administrative support by the Crooked Tree Arts Council in Petoskey.

The Charlevoix Opera Guild hosted what it hopes will be an annual event. We, too, hope that annual events like this will become a gathering place for locals and visitors alike. The evening was free from stress and offered an opportunity for guests to mingle with the performers and each other during an afterglow in the church fellowship hall.

The event was truly a highlight of Charlevoix's summer's summer, one we hope will continue for years to come.

Fireworks tragedy not chaotic

Editor:

As a retired E.M.S. and fireman for the City of Charlevoix, I would like to respond to Laurie Lounsbury's article "Confusion Reigns." which was written for the Petoskey News-Review after the Venetian Festival tragedy.

I was less than 200 feet away, in an apartment directly across from the blast. I was momentarily stunned by the giant fireball. Moments after the windows were blown out next to me and in the store fronts beneath me, I ran to call 911 to inform them of the danger on the west side of Bridge Street.

Emergency personnel was needed to protect pedestrians from falling glass. From my vantage point, I saw E.M.S. personnel, fire department personnel, and state and local police controlling a crowd that had the potential of becoming chaotic. It never happened.

Emergency vehicles came and went as needed. The crowd was controlled, and in fact, most had no idea of the severity of the situation, thanks to the training E.M.S. personnel, hospital staff, Coast Guard Acacia crew and police agencies go through for such situations. The damage was kept to a minimum.

My heart and prayers go out to the families of those injured. It was an unforeseen and unfortunate accident. Everyone is entitled to their own opinion — but in this case, Charlevoix should feel proud that they pulled together and did a wonderful job when needed.

Keep up the good work E.M.S., hospital personnel, fire, Coast Guard Acacia crew and Police agencies.

Thomas G. Meggison
Retired Fireman and E.M.S.

Family members thank Charlevoix for support

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Charlevoix who so lovingly gave love, support and encouragement to the family of my cousin, Mark Yager, during their hour of need.

As family members traveled from Tennessee, Ohio and southwest Michigan to be with Mark's wife and children, we all knew that the Charlevoix community would be there to help them. The outpouring of cards, flowers, phone calls and visits were not only a source of strength, but of compassion, encouragement and most of all love.

As Mark's wife, Debbie, recounted the endless things the people of Charlevoix were doing, we realized what a loving community this was, a community of people who care for their own.

Mark was very proud of Charlevoix and enjoyed sharing its beauty with family and friends, including myself, my wife and children. The welcome mat was always out for the visitors from "south of the boarder." I'm sure Debbie and her children will continue to be ambassadors for the beautiful city of Charlevoix.

There are so many people to thank that I'm afraid of leaving anyone out, so I will simply thank Charlevoix, the City of Brotherly Love, for all they have done to help Mark's family. A special thanks goes to the people of St. Mary's parish, who worked quietly behind the scenes all week long. Thank you for taking care of Mark's family.

Mark worked quietly to support the City of Charlevoix. I thank you in advance, knowing that you will continue to give your time and resources to his family. Mark would have done the same for you, very quietly.

I'll miss you, Mark.
Your cousin, Tim Cassidy

Emergency response impresses visitor

Editor:

As one of our favorite vacation spots turned into a tragic nightmare, I was very impressed to see city, county and state police move into action swiftly, deliberately and accurately among the 30,000-plus people. These men and women moved into action, taking care of the wounded, moving ambulance after ambulance in and out of different locations. There the crowds took control of pedestrian traffic, vehicle traffic, set up barricades around danger areas and searched the water by boat for the possibility of somebody in the water.

Police, fire and rescue, paramedics, coast guard, were all on the scene with what seemed like no confusion of who is to do what, where and how. Everybody worked together, and I know this type of thing is practiced, but you are all to be commended. And for those who were hurting and for the crowd's sake, I thank the Lord for each one of you, for the training you've done to be skilled at what you do.

We are blessed people here in northern Michigan in many ways, but you need to know that you are part of that blessing.

Tom Corwin

Column in need of corrections

Editor:

I read with great interest Marilyn Boss's article about the "Remar" and "Sylvia." It was a great article and brought back memories of my growing up period.

Although the article was 98 percent correct, two obvious errors crept in. Logan Thompson was president of the Champion Coated Paper Company located in Cincinnati, Ohio. Gene MacDonald was the president of the Zenith Corporation and built the "Mizpah." Both ships were built in Bath, Maine. But Gene MacDonald's Mizpah was 10 feet longer than the Sylvia. He wanted to have the longest yacht on the Great Lakes.

Gene and my father were close friends, and he cruised for three days in Grand Traverse Bay hoping to find my Dad's body when he was blown up halfway between North Port and Charlevoix. His body was never found.

Respectfully,
Ralph Hamilton

The men have traveled to a different country to play golf every year. Their pleasurable goal is to ultimately play the top 50 courses in the world. Last year they traveled to Spain.

This year, the adventurous foursome, which included Jon Rakolta, Jr., who owns a summer place in L'Arbre Croche, Lee Munder from Bloomfield and Bob Taubman, from Birmingham, traveled through Ireland to play the top seven courses, including Ballybunion in County Kerry and the Royal Portrush in County Antrim.

It happened that on the day the group planned to play the last course, Portmarnock, a charity tournament was scheduled for the benefit of a Dublin hospital. Undaunted, they entered the tournament, but without Bob Taubman, who had to fly unexpectedly to Russia on business. A golf pro from England, Bill Longmuir, became his substitute.

The charity tournament is an annual event named in honor of Joe Carr, an Irishman considered to be the most illustrious amateur in the history of Irish golf. Carr won three British amateur championships and made a record of 10 Walker Cup appearances between 1953 and 1963. He just turned 75 in February, and still remains the only Irishman to have been elected as a member of the Augusta National. In 1961, Americans honored him with the Bobby Jones Award and in 1967 the Walter Hagen award.

It was, therefore, particularly thrilling to have Joe Carr personally present the victory cup to the Michigan trio that evening at a black-tie event for their winning score — 18 under par.

Understandably, the Irish were not happy to see their beloved silver trophy leave the country. However, the Michigan group promised to return to Dublin next year to defend their hard-earned title. Each player received a Waterford Crystal Bowl as a memento of the occasion.

Burton's foursome enjoyed playing six difficult 100-year-old courses in Ireland, even though they are not as well maintained as our U.S. courses. When you lose a ball in the heather it's impossible to recover. Next year, it will be a challenge to defend their trophy, but in the meantime, our own historic Belvedere is still Farbman's favorite Michigan course.

Local car buffs host annual fund-raiser

John Lashmit poses for a shot with his 1950 Mack truck during last year's muscle car show at Shanahan Field. This year's event, a fund-raiser for Camp Quality and the fireworks victims, is being held in honor of John's wife, Shirley.

Rather than drag race up and down Waller Road, members of the Charlevoix Street Legends Classic Car Club and their guests will be revving engines and flexing their muscle cars during the fifth annual car show, beginning Saturday, Aug. 16.

The toughest cars around will be lining bridge street Saturday in preparation for a cruise around Lake Charlevoix. The coveted cars will be coming from hundreds of miles away for the two-day show, said club past president Earl Muma.

The car show is a fund-raiser for Camp Quality. This year, money made from a 50/50 drawing will be donated to the victims of the fireworks explosion, Muma said.

The show will begin downtown, with the exhibition of the cars and trucks. Most of the 150 cars expected for the show will cruise around Lake Charlevoix before returning for a 1950s-60s concert in East Park, beginning at 7 p.m. Rawhide will be performing with a Billie Holiday impersonator.

Beginning at 8 a.m. Sunday, the cars will be parking on Shanahan Field, where the competition between about 36 classes of cars and trucks is held. Judges will choose winners. First-to-third place plaques in each class will be awarded at about 3 p.m. Car owners have until noon to register their autos. Dash plaques will be given to the first 150 entrants. An auction will be held at 1 p.m.

A model car contest will be held for children.

Included in the adult classes will be street rods from 1900-1948, pro street cars that have had the back end tubbed, 4x4 and 2x4 trucks, street machines that have been souped up with big engines, convertibles and classic cars that are a mixture of various makes.

The club has been in existence since 1990. It was started by a group of area car buffs who were regularly racing downstate. In the 1970s, the same group of men tried to start the club. They were hoping to see Waller Road widened for racing. Even though the early plan didn't come to pass, the club now has about 36 couples strong. They host periodic cruises and attend those of other Michigan clubs.

Through the annual show, the club raises between $7,000-$8,000 through registration fees, raffles and concession sales. Since its inception, the nonprofit club has committed itself to donating the money to help children.

When Muma pulls into this weekend's show — twice — he will bringing his pride and joy, a 1968 white, supercharged corvette, and a newly finished car, a 1966 Chevelle two-door hard top. He will match his prizes against those of all the other collectors.

This year's show is dedicated to Shirley Lashmit, a club member who died last year. As the show takes its traditional stance on Shanahan Field, Muma said that Shirley will be driving her Camaro on streets of gold.

Summer concerts continue in Odmark pavilion

Professional trumpeter and vocalist Tee McLane will come to East Park's Clarence A, Odmark Pavilion in downtown Charlevoix at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14, as the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau summer concert series continues.

McLane has entertained audiences throughout the world. Working with Bob Hopes' USO Soldier's Show and with the U.S. Army Band, he has performed for many international dignitaries and for five United States presidents.

His extensive musical career began when he began to play the trumpet near the age of seven. His father, a minister, introduced him to performing on stage. In his spare time, McLane performs voluntarily at churches, prisons and hospitals. According to his manager, Bonnie Sobbry, "Tee is all about love," a love that he tries to share through his music and his life.

McLane describes himself as a true family entertainer, playing a variety of music meant to involve children and adults. Songs such as "Somewhere Out There" from An American Tale, sung as a duet with one of his vocal students, appeals to children while other songs like "New York, New York" by Frank Sinatra appeal to the young at heart.

Performing alongside McLane Thursday will be his band, known as Charisma. The band consists of two brothers, Phil Tarczon on guitar and vocals and Roger Tarczon on drums; husband and wife team Al Jankowski on saxophone, keyboard, and with vocals, and Michelle Jankowski with vocals; as well as E. J. Ramseyer on keyboard, bass and with vocals. Also performing will be two of McLane's students, Sandie Medonis and Kayla Peabody. They will perform duets with McLane.

The next concert in the series will be an encore presentation by popular entertainer Chris Martin. Also in the bandshell, the Charlevoix City Band will complete its summer series at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 19.

In the event of rain or inclement weather, the concerts will be canceled.

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

From the "just when you thought you had heard everything department" comes a story out of California that has had me shaking my head most of the week. It seems the California Senate was debating a welfare reform bill that would find benefits being withheld from those who were convicted of drug dealing or possession. The idea sort of makes sense, doesn't it? Do you think a state should pay people for being on drugs? Well in the midst of the floor speeches, the senator presenting the bill was interrupted and harassed by two opposing senators. They called him a liar and a misrepresenter of the truth. Bear in mind, this is a state senate chamber because what happened next was unbelievable. The senators got into a fight. Literally!

What got to me even more, though, was how the president of the senate finally got the chamber back to order. He issued a declaration from the rostrum, and this is an exact quote now, saying that, "No senator is under any obligation to tell the truth."

Hello! What do we elect people to public office for? If they are under no obligation to tell the truth, it's no wonder this country's in big trouble. It also explains a lot of things, too!

I'm beginning to think that at least part of the problem stems from a lack of commitment today. Too many people don't have a clue about what making a commitment means. They get married. They get tired of being married so they divorce. They get a job. They aren't all that keen on the discipline involved in keeping a job so they walk away. It's a challenge. And nothing makes some folks squirm more than being called on a commitment that they've made. The idea that they may just be obligated to someone or something ... whoa!

As long as we have been visiting together each week, it shouldn't be too hard for you to figure out who or what I'm talking about. I'm talking about the faith commitment each of us should have with the Lord. God has been totally committed to your well being from the very dawn of creation.

The Bible reminds us that even before our bones began to form within our mothers' wombs, God knew us and loved us. If anyone understands the challenges that life can bring, if anyone understands the frustration and even anger that each of us, as His children, have been known to contend with, there should be little doubt that He does. And through whatever we have faced, it has never changed His commitment to us all.

What about our commitment to Him? The Bible speaks of "a friend who sticks closer than a brother." We ought to appreciate that comparison because most of us really would be grateful for someone like that in our hearts and lives. He's there. He's waiting. He's as close to you as the mention of His name and He is more than willing to teach you how to develop a full-blown commitment to Him.

Last Sunday, I had the privilege of renewing the marriage vows of three couples who understand the importance of a wholehearted commitment. One has been married for 60 years, one for 54 years and one for 11 years. At the heart of their commitment to each other is the shared commitment they have with the Lord. What are you willing to share with God? He has shared His very best with you in the living presence of His Son Jesus.

Whether young or old, married or single, virtually every meaningful part of living requires a commitment for it to be successful. The sooner you recognize the need for a genuine commitment in your own life the better! There really is no need to fight a lot of the battles you face in life because God through Christ has already made the commitment needed for you to win the war!

Group plans to build recreational trail that runs to Emmet County

Working to get land easements now

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

In an effort to connect Charlevoix to Petoskey to Harbor Springs, via a bike path, the Top of Michigan Trails Council has begun to pedal through laying a path along the lakeside of U.S. 31, from Waller Road to the Charlevoix-Emmet county line in Bayshore.

Generations ago, the Little Traverse Wheelway began the same project. Trails Council director, Jennifer Srigley, said the council's goal is to resurrect, at least in theory, a trail for the modern biker, walker, jogger or Rollerblader.

Formed in 1995, the council has dedicated and opened one stretch of the path, a two mile run on the Harbor-Petoskey Road (M-119) from near the state police post to Beach Road.

> "People don't have to be on the highway so they'll take their children on bike trips to the state park."
> — Jennifer Srigley, Top of Michigan Trails Council

"We've had great response from people," Srigley said of that trail. "People don't have to be on the highway so they'll take their children on bike trips to the state park."

The council's eyes, though, are now focused on the nine-mile stretch in Charlevoix County that runs through Hayes Township.

The county, city, and township boards have all pledged their support, and Hayes Township has committed to accepting the property easements when they come through.

A separate, yet affiliated, committee is working on the Emmet County side of the trail into the Petoskey area.

Seeking easements is a tough part of the council's venture. Presently, the search is stalling completion of the M-119 trail into Harbor Springs as businesses, airport management, and condo owners wrangle over the best possible route.

Srigley said it should not be as hard along Charlevoix County's stretch of U.S. 31 because much of the land is already state owned. There are less private property owners, and the council may be able to use the highway right-of-way, eliminating the need for easements.

One logistics problem already encountered are areas classified as wetlands along property that is owned by the Charlevoix Country Club and Consumer's Energy.

Srigley suggested the possibility of constructing boardwalks through those areas.

Still, time is on their side for developing the route. Srigley said, at the earliest, grant money would arrive next fall, and completion of a trail that will take bikers to the county line won't be completed then until the spring of 1999.

As easements are sought, fund-raising begins.

"Our main concern is funding," Srigley said, noting that funding is always a primary concern for trail development.

The council will apply for a grant next year to get the money coming in. While many grant possibilities exist, Srigley said an I.S.T.E.A. grant will likely be pursued, a federal program for non-motorized transportation enhancement. I.S.T.E.A. was used to complete the Harbor-Petoskey Road path. With that, a 20 percent local match is required.

To pave the path, which is expected to be between eight- and 10-feet wide, it should cost $60,000 a mile. Added to that are design and construction engineering costs, Srigley said.

Chain of Lakes tour given by watershed

Circled 500 square miles

St. Clair Lake-Six Mile Lake committee members welcomed 55 Chain of Lakes Watershed Tour participants to the Natural Area in South Arm Township recently.

Coordinated by Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, the tour circled the 500 square mile Elk River Watershed, starting at Elk Rapids, traveling North to the St. Clair Lake-Six Mile Lake natural area.

"The large size of the watershed, the number of lakes and the diversity of habitat make the Elk River Watershed one of the most unique systems in Michigan," said Doug Fuller; of Tip of the Mitt. "The chain of lakes forms a necklace of 14 lakes, including Six Mile, Intermediate, Torch and Elk lakes."

The lakes are linked by navigable rivers. The 55-mile chain enters Lake Michigan at Elk Rapids.

The tour introduced people to the features, problems and preservation efforts on the Chain of Lakes. The 155 acre natural area is located on the northern most point of the waterway on the Charlevoix-Antrim County boundary.

Sentences stacked, minimum of seven years given

because of continued drug use, and that she has been using drugs and alcohol since her arrest in March.

"Obviously, they didn't work," Kur said of treatment attempts.

Should the sentence carry through its entirety, Fuller would spend 44 years in prison.

Meanwhile, Michael Kenneth Russell, who was charged with Fuller, remains free as attorneys squabble over sentencing guidelines.

Russell, who had been living with Fuller when their Mason Street residence was raided by police on March 17, pleaded guilty to one count each of cocaine and marijuana possession.

Russell faces a 1-4 year term on the cocaine charge while the marijuana charge is a misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of one year in jail.

His attorney, John Michael, argued against the sentencing guidelines that called for a three year maximum term. He said the recommendation was made with prejudicial leanings because Russell had originally been charged with two counts of delivery of cocaine.

Those charges were dropped because Russell was not guilty of those charges, Michael argued in court.

Kur disagreed, producing statements from Russell taken on the night of the arrest. She said the statements indicated that Russell had admitted selling drugs to people between 25-40 years of age, and that he himself had a $300 a week cocaine habit. On the day of the prestaged Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (S.A.N.E.) team buy that preceded the bust, Russell said he smoked five $50 rocks of crack.

Michael claimed he had not seen those statements and Russell looked shocked while peering over Kur's shoulder through his shaded glasses while she read the document.

It was Michael' contention that marijuana was found in the home because the confidential informant sold Fuller a bag of weed before later entering the home as a police informant.

When Russell found out about the deals later that night, he became angered and took from her the money and the drugs. Michael argued that Fuller had taken Russell's money without his knowledge to buy the pot.

"He became mad, irritated, and ticked-off at what his roommate had been doing, and an hour later there were cops with search warrants," Michael said. "He did what was proper and correct, and I would hate to see him suffer."

Testimony during the preliminary hearings had a shaken confidential informant stumble over the whereabouts of Russell during drug transactions. He said Russell was in and out of the house, but never appeared in the bedroom where Fuller sold him drugs. He testified that upon leaving, after his second visit, he saw the couple arguing, presumably about the deal.

The defense called a witness who stated that he and Russell remained fixated on a science fiction movie on television and never left the couch of the house's front room. He remembered both times the informant stopped over and that both of them merely acknowledged his presence as he walked through towards the back of the house.

Rather than continue the argument during Russell's planned sentencing, Pajtas told them to be prepared for a conference on the matter in the next two weeks.

A new sentencing date has been scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 20.

BUSINESS

Local architectural firm wins 1997 outstanding design award

Presentation comes from restoration project

John Dziurman Architects Ltd., of Rochester and Charlevoix, was recently awarded the Engineering Society of Detroit's 1997 Outstanding Achievement Award for Building Design and Construction, for their historic restoration of Haig Galleries in downtown Rochester.

The award was presented to the firm at the society's 23rd Annual Construction & Design Awards program in June.

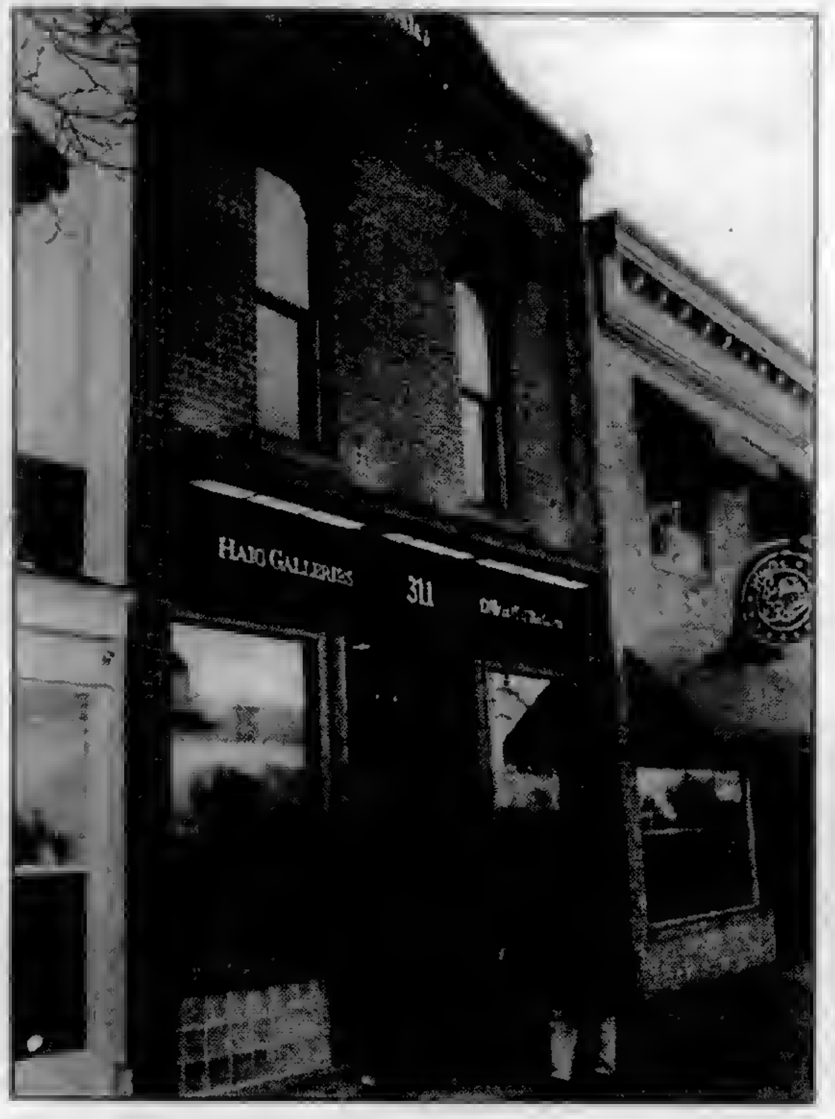
Since its construction in 1898, the Haig Galleries' building has hosted a number of different owners. Originally, the building served as a furniture and undertaking company. In the 1930s, the building was converted into Terry's Bakery, and then into Behm's Dairy in the late 1940s. Since the late 1950s, the building has housed a beauty salon on the first floor.

For more than 50 years, each owner removed and/or added to the original facade. The original facade was permanently removed in the 1960s until the current owners, Paul and Diane Haig, financed its removal and restoration.

The period selected for the building's historic restoration was Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918. A photo taken in downtown Rochester on that day provided one of the best records of the actual materials used on the original facade for this building.

John Dziurman Architects Ltd. studied the building's original architecture. Together with the owner's commitment to historic restoration and the craftsmen hired to do the work, the design team recreated each original element to create a sensitive reconstructive design that not only duplicates the 1918 facade, but adapts it for new use.

Currently, Haig Galleries is located on the second floor designed to showcase ethnographic art objects. The gallery's success lies in its simplicity. The gallery was developed by restoring all of the original materials, including natural wood floors brick walls and a wood-beam ceiling.



Haig Galleries, in downtown Rochester, was the site of the John Dziurman Architects Ltd. award-winning project.

School board waits on hiring counselor

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

In a loose meeting during which the Charlevoix Board of Education approved Grocers Baking and Village Inn Pizza to import cafeteria food and Waste Management to export the trash, two issues cropped up, stirred controversy and were taken off the agenda pending further review.

The first revolved around hiring a part-time counselor, who would also teach two sections of language arts.

The board had been going back and forth on this issue with the newcomers not wanting to make the hire. The opening is available since Charlie Bentley retired this spring.

Impressed by the staff cutting their own budgets in hopes of making financial room for the position, the board gave school administrators clearance to interview and choose a candidate for the job.

Someone was set to be hired Monday night. The item was swept off the agenda with a given disclaimer that the board needed more information before approving the hire.

"We just weren't ready to make a recommendation yet," superintendent Roberta Jackson said Tuesday morning.

Board member Ardeth Wieland stressed the need for a quick resolution of the issue, as school begins in less than three weeks.

The second hot target inspired a bit more emotion, as the board tabled a motion to pay the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District $4,512 for rent on one of the portable classrooms at the Charlevoix Middle School.

"I thought they were paying us," Ike Boss said.

Charlevoix uses six portables. The two at the high school are used for storage while one at the elementary school and three at the high school are used as classrooms. The district owns the other five.

In the past Char-Em and Charlevoix have used each other's portahles, but when Char-Em no longer needed to, they began charging Charlevoix rent. Last year was the first year Charlevoix paid Char-Em, according to Jackson.

The board and the audience all began to question why Char-Em receives rent when Charlevoix doesn't charge them anything for using their classrooms, gyms and office spaces.

"It's one of our bigger classrooms, we certainly need it," middle school principal Dennis VanGuilder said. "But we should charge them for the space they use."

It was also noted that Charlevoix must pay for all the repairs done to the portable, such as roof repair, heating work and the maintenance of the front decks.

"Well, I can think of a bill we could send them — $4,512," Scott Boss said.

Paying the rent was also removed from the agenda, pending further discussion.

In resolutions Monday, the board accepted a bid of $52,475 from Bloxsom Roofing and Siding to repair the high school roof. The sinking fund passed by voters in June will cover the costs.

The board hired Tim Salmonson as the freshmen girls' basketball coach and athletic director Keith Haske reported that two candidates have applied for the varsity football position. A decision will be made by the end of the week on who will be the head coach.

Haske said that whomever was hired would wear the interim tag and a more extensive search would be done in the off-season to include more applicants.

Assistant coaches from last year's squad, Todd Klinger and Brandon Bruce, have applied to fill the shoes of Roger Gowell, who resigned last week after 12 seasons as the head coach.

The board's next regular session is 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, in the high school study hall. A work session will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 21, in the high school study hall.

Sailer continues midweek races

A. Nony Mouse

First, a brief report on the Doubles' Race held on Aug. 3. The star of the show had to be young Eric Meier, sailing with Corky on Red Comet. He spotted the favored right side of the course, and they held on well enough for a corrected 0:51.05 first place. Slapshot, with Tom and Linda Orlow, was first to finish at 1:29.48, but dropped hack to fifth on a corrected time of 0:53.40. Unnamed (0:52.07), with Wynne Curry and Steve Orr, were second, followed closely by Swine Flew (0:52.07) sailed by Dave and Beth Strawbridge. Tom and Martha Mielke on Cabaret (0:53.57) also nosed out Slapshot by exactly three seconds. Our Thyme, with Roy and Georgiana Herald, and J. Hawk, with Tim and Jane Armstrong, closed out the fleet. Looked like a great day.

Wednesday, Aug. 6, was yet another great evening in Paradise. Once again first to finish goes to Flash at 7:13.52 but (once again) that simply wasn't fast enough to save her time on the first four yachts in Fleet D. Booma (1:01.57) roared in like thunder for first place, Red Comet (1:03.57), Cheemaun (1:03.48) and Apothecary (1:04.17) also moved up over Flash (1:06.31).

Among the spinnaker fleets, first to finish and first in class (Fleet B) was Splash Dance (1:13.39) who crossed the line at 7:37.11. Newsense and Cabaret (1:14.26 and 1:15.34) took second and third. In Fleet E, it was Hussy (1:11.42) over Gecko (1:14.07) and H.S. Moisture (1:15.29). It was disturbing to see two of those skippers commit obvious fouls, yet no penalty turns were observed.

Stalworth (1:12.10) led Fleet C over Tireless (1:12.42) and Blasen III (1:13.20) while Gotcha (1:17.22) did it in Fleet A over Hoo-Aah (1:18.40) and Kamikaze (1:22.54).

In lieu of full results, a quick look at standings are all without drops, which will make a major difference in a couple cases.

Fleet A: Gotcha 8, Hoo-Aah 12, Kamikaze 14 and Mint Julep 21.

Fleet B: Newsense 6, Splash Dance 16, Babe 19, Our Thyme II 26, Mi Joy 27, Cabaret 31, M-3 34, Bald Eagle 37, J-Hawk 43 and Bandit 46.

Fleet C: Stalworth 14, Blasen III 15, Lost Vermonter 16, Tireless 19, Cygnus 25, Original Sin 28, Sandpiper 28 and Hit & Run 44.

Fleet D: Cheemaun 14, Flash 14, Booma 15, Apothecary 16 and Red Comet 16.

Fleet E: Hussy 5, H.S. Moisture 13, Gecko 19, Floyd 26, Reckless 29, Swine Flew 32, Cathach 34, Unnamed 38 and Paleface Lite 40.

Lesson 5. If you do commit a foul, own up to it at once, take your penalty and sail on with a warm, fuzzy feeling that you did the right thing. Be really great by offering an apology - just an "I'm sorry - an accidental goof," is enough.

Sports short

City council to determine Division Street rezoning

denying the rezoning request last year, planners have had a change of heart after studying the master plan.

"After taking a long, hard look at it, they thought it should go commercial to fit in with the rest of the area," Cross said.

Another reason for the change from residential to commercial was because this is an area of high residential growth, and there are few service businesses on the northern half of town.

"There are no places on the northside to order a pizza or rent a movie," said planner Sherman Chamberlain. "Changing the zoning would give people the opportunity to open the much-needed businesses on this side of town."

Though Phillips may be pleased with the outcome of the meeting, many of the citizens who live on Division Street around the property are not.

"I want the zoning to stay the way it is," said Division Street homeowner Joan Clow. "Yes, I think the rezoning would devalue our property, but I hear people comment about the beauty of our golf course, and the rezoning would take away from this beauty."

> "After taking a long, hard look at it, they thought it should go commercial to fit in with the rest of the area."
> — June Cross, planning chair

However, if the land is zoned commercial and sold, as Phillips said he intends, planners will have control over the look of the land as its developed. Commercial developments must submit site plans to the city for review and approval. New ordinances require some green space, Cross said, which may end up beautifying the property that now holds the older gas station.

The recommended zoning change will be introduced at the city council meeting that begins at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 18.

A public hearing has yet to be scheduled.

Community foundation gets grant continuance from Frey

When a group of civic leaders launched the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in 1992, the Grand Rapids based Frey Foundation was one of the first organizations to come forth with financial help. Now, as the local community foundation nears its fifth anniversary and $5 million mark, Frey has extended a five-year pledge totaling $225,000.

The 1997-2001 commitment, which brings Frey Foundation support to $780,000, will be used to increase the community foundation's grant-making power, provide technical assistance and help underwrite administrative costs.

"All of us are very grateful for the Frey Foundation's continued support," said Bob Tambellini, director of the local community foundation. "Their investment in our organization has given us some needed stability during our infancy, helped us become more visible in the area and allowed us to accomplish a lot in just a short time."

In the past few years, the Frey Foundation has spurred local philanthropy by providing start-up funds to community foundations like the Charlevoix County group. As a grassroots charitable organization, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation addresses local issues, responds to timely needs and funds many projects that contribute to the overall well-being of the area.

"We're pleased to help the community foundation grow," said James M. Richmond, president of the Frey Foundation, calling Frey's financial support a vote of confidence in the future of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "Because there's been such a positive response from local people, prudent stewardship of funds, and a variety of innovative grants, the community foundation has already had a significant impact on the area. We want to make sure that continues."

The Frey Foundation is a family foundation with assets of $122 million. Established in 1972 by the late Edward and Frances Frey, the foundation makes grants to organizations based in Kent, Emmet and Charlevoix counties whose efforts are directed toward improving the lives of children and families, protecting natural resources, encouraging civic leadership, or strengthening the nonprofit sector.

Like other community foundations throughout the country, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation receives contributions from families, individuals, civic groups and area businesses. Donors can earmark their contributions to help support certain causes such as scholarships or historical preservation, or leave their gift open-ended so foundation trustees can decide how best to use it. All donations, regardless of size, become part of the community foundation's permanent endowment.

In its first five years, Charlevoix County Community Foundation assets have grown to almost $5 million. More importantly, the new foundation has distributed more than $460,000 to a host of programs serving the area.

"There's no limit to the good we can do," said Mike Stow, foundation president. "And with this kind of support from local residents and the Frey Foundation, we're already well on our way."

For more information about the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and its grant-making activities, call the foundation office at 536-2440 or write to P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

P.O. boxes will move

through a local hardware store has opened, maintaining a postal hustle and bustle in the college town's heart.

Mayor Josh Barnes agrees with the substation concept.

The city only receives $700 a month from the post office for rent, but after spending millions of federal, state, and local dollars to improve the waterfront and marina he's worried that the resulting vibrancy downtown will be doused.

"I do not believe any amount of vending machines can take its place," he wrote to Charles Howe, district manager for the post office's greater Michigan district.

A conversation with Barnes revealed that he would like to expand beyond just vending machines, but a substation doesn't appear to be in the future.

"I've had an awful lot of people ask about boxes," he said.

Wheatley said no post office boxes will be left behind. He pointed out that the post office offers free delivery for city residents.

According to Wheatley, there are also two drop boxes in the downtown area.

One resides outside of Oleson's grocery and another next to Bridge Street Troll.

As for Woodward and Darnton, to some extent, they've adopted Wheatley's "wait and see" attitude. Both said the new spot was well-thought out and they did rave about the sketch design hung in the post office. Darnton said he'll still use his post office box instead of opting for delivery and Woodward will even continue biking to the post office.

"Instead of taking just 30 seconds or a minute," he said, "it will be more of a project."

Boulder Park gets favorable review

They've come and they've gone and after three days of visitation, Boulder Park Terrace was given a clean bill of health.

The three-day inspection is literally a "going-over" of the facility from top to bottom. Usually three-to-five surveyors are on the inspection crew including a sanitarian to inspect the safety and suitability of the environment as well as nurses, who delve into documentation, charting, and patient assessment and care.

Each year, Boulder Park undergoes a state-mandated inspection for renewal of its annual operating license. The facility offers skilled nursing and support services. The subacute rehabilitative services provide complete physical, speech and occupational therapy to those recovering from neurological or orthopedic injury.

"Normally the inspection takes place sometime during the month of May," said Micki Hagen, a licensed social worker at Boulder Park. "The inspection usually takes place once every 122 months, but because we had minimal citations on last year's inspection, our date was bumped back by three months."

The inspection critiques a facility on an alphabetical grid scale. A citation on the "A" end of the scale is viewed as minor.

Citations further along the scale are considered major. Anything above an "E" rating is considered serious.

Boulder Park had two minor citations this year, both involving chart documentation. State rules dictate detailed charting notes. In one of the cases, a problem was not detailed enough while the other citation involved incorrectly documented use of a diet supplement. Both of these are considered minor infractions. Nursing inspectors also interview residents privately to ask them questions about the care they are receiving.

"Only two minor citations is reflective of the quality of care that we strive for and give to our residents and the patients who come here for rehab," Hagen said.

SCRAPBOOK

Former city official Arthur Bergeon takes phone call at his desk at city hall sometime during his 13 years as mayor.

Former Charlevoix mayor reminisced

The following information was included in the Charlevoix Sentinel in May of 1931.

Mayor Arthur Bergeon has entered upon his 10th consecutive term, setting a record for tenure in that position, four years having been the longest it was held by any previous incumbent.

The city has been operating on a 12-mill tax, one of the lowest in the state, for several years. When compared with mounting municipal, county and state budgets this can be acknowledged as a feat in management. When Bergeon took over the office nine years ago, the city was deeply in debt. His first move was to inaugurate a pay-as-you-go plan. During Bergeon's regime, several hundred thousand dollars of old bond issues have been paid off.

In the matter of new improvements, the city has purchased and paid for an $85,000 waterpower electric plant, a $65,000 auxiliary steam plant and a new city water works, built at a cost of $40,000, which is financing itself. Extensive paving programs and boulevard lighting systems have been carried out. A program of Round Lake frontage improvement that provides dockage for yachts and sailing craft and a downtown park on the waterfront has been carried out.

Complying with a state program, sewage disposal plans now are under way with exceptions that the improvement will be completed for next year.

Five years ago, the mayor was empowered to act as an ex-officio chairman of all council committees at a salary of $750 a year.

The plan gives him power similar to that of a city manager and has proved satisfactory from a public viewpoint.

The dignity of the title "His Honor the Mayor" applies lightly in Charlevoix, for too old and young alike, the mayor is known as Art. For years, the sign on his place of business carried the words "Art Bergeon."

How small things often change the course of life is illustrated in the experience of Mayor Bergeon. Had it not been for the improper drainage of a pavement facing his home on Clinton Street, which left a stagnant pool of water after each rain, it is possible that he would not have taken seriously to politics. Repeated appeals to the council to correct the annoying condition were without avail and as a last recourse, he decided to become a candidate for alderman. After serving one year of his two-year term, he was elected mayor.

Bergeon, as a young man, lived in Montague. He came here 35 years ago. The past 30 years he conducted a dry good and clothing store in Charlevoix.

Since the publication of this article, Bergeon was elected to be mayor for three more consecutive years. His reign as alderman began in 1921, eight years after he was introduced to city government when being appointed to the Board of Public Works.

After 13 years as mayor, Bergeon was appointed supervisor in 1940, a position he filled for 15 years. He was also the city assessor from 1950-1952.

information and training with school and business entities are at the forefront of the project. The coordination of these services is in response to growing demands for the expansion of accessible child care facilities and providers, especially those types of services in the community is necessitated by a steady increase in the number of parents in northern Michigan working non-traditional hours.

In Emmet county, Littlefield School District has taken the lead to become part of this process by approving a resolution to support the pursuit of the project's goals.

When all was said and done, Sunday afternoon's Tastes and Sounds of Northern Michigan, a benefit for the victims of the Venetian fireworks explosion, was not about raising money.

"The community needed this," police chief Dennis Halverson said. "This is a family crowd and I hear a lot of laughter. It's a better way to end the summer."

As summers go, 1997 has been filled with low lights from the contentious aftermath of the June school board elections, to the national media descending upon Belvedere Avenue each time the Ramseys weed their garden, to the record numbers of boating accidents on Lake Charlevoix.

The fireworks explosion on the final evening of this summer's Venetian Festival put the exclamation point on the resume. One resident, Mark Yager, perished in the blast, while 15 others were injured.

Sunday, as smiles, laughter, and good times weaved through the crowd, everything seemed to be dandy. Approximately 2,500 braved the afternoon drizzle to eat, dance, bid, and enjoy each other's company in Charlevoix's East Park.

"I'm just overwhelmed," John Winn, one of the event's organizers, said of the afternoon.

"We needed to start the healing process, it's just as big a part of this as raising the money," Winn said. "It just shows what a small community can do when it bands together."

Indeed the day was a celebration of community spirit, but it was one of fund raising for the families of those hurt most by the explosion on Venetian Saturday.

Unofficially, close to $200,000 was raked in Sunday between auctions, ticket sales, and T-shirt sales.

"We exceeded our expectations," Winn said. "Everyone was involved from kids donating allowances to people who donated the huge items for auction. Everyone has been asking, 'What can I do to help?'"

The live auction was thrilling with exotic getaways, Red Wing tickets, a Steve Yzerman autographed jersey and pieces of large art highlighting the items. With each round of bidding the crowd prodded the bidders into going one step higher, hooting with each value increase.

The silent auction tent displayed smaller craft items, more Red Wing prizes, and golf and dinner outings. All day the tent was maxed with people

Landfill expansion remains an issue

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

A technicality of semantics led the Charlevoix County Planning Commission for the second time this year to reaffirm its stance against expanding Waste Management's Cedar Ridge landfill.

While reporting their decision to the county board of commissioners last week, however, a five acre expansion was nearly granted. Commissioner Shirley Roloff made the motion to grant a five acre expansion to help alleviate Waste Management's concern that by the time the expansion issue is completely tackled their landfill would already be maxed out.

Roloff, though, was talked out of her motion by board chairman Phil Johnson and fellow commissioner Carl Price.

At issue is available capacity at the site, which is located a mile east of Nowland Lake.

Don Pizzuro, facility manager, told planners that expansion of 15 acres to the west of the site, towards the water, was necessary. The company estimates 3.4 years left until the landfill reaches maximum capacity. With expansion, he said, Cedar Ridge could have at least 20 years of room.

The county's solid waste plan sets the standard for expansion. If the facility can prove it has less than 66 months of capacity, then the door for filling out their bids and exchanging hellos as friends passed through.

Not to discount the allure of the auction prizes, many came out to sample all the food and catch some tunes. Restaurants throughout the county set-up taste booths and Sunday's brunch included whitefish, lamb, chicken, pizza, and a wide assortment of desserts.

Everyone took advantage of the feast, and a keen eye could spot barbecue fingerprints on some of the silent auction sheets.

"I'm proud to be here, it's probably the best thing I've done this summer," said Chris Yentsky of the Doc Woodward Ensemble before starting their set. "I'm very impressed with this town and very impressed with this event."

While the early afternoon drizzle kept many under cover, preferring to feast instead of dance, the sun broke through after the auction concluded. As the last bands played, some danced, others grooved and some just basked merrily in the sun, proving auctioneer Sam Kosc's words that it doesn't matter where you begin, it's where you end up.

As summers go, those words are fitting for Charlevoix.

Phillips rezoning again before council for commercial use

The Charlevoix City Council breezed through Monday evening's meeting, scheduling a public hearing on a sticky zoning issue while hiring more lawyers in the process.

At 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 15, council will hold a public hearing in council chambers in city hall regarding the rezoning of Pete Phillips' property on 743 Petoskey Ave.

City planners have already recommended the lot be rezoned from R-1,single family residential to C-1, community service commercial.

Presently, the lot is split-zoned R-1 and C-1, making it harder to sell, Phillips said.

Council also hired the Grand Rapids law firm of Varnum, Riddering, Schmidt, and Howlett to represent them in any legal matters that may crop up as the result of the July 26 fireworks explosion that killed one and injured 15 others.

City attorney Jim Young can't represent the city in these matters because of a personal relationship with Richard Davis, the owner of the Central Lake fireworks company who performed the fireworks show that evening.

Many in the audience questioned if the city has been sued yet.

Mayor Josh Barnes reported no, but that legal action against the city is expected.

In other news, city planner Gerry Harsch reported that he spoke with Jon Hisey, owner of the Carriage House property on Cherry and Elm streets. Hisey confirmed the sale of the property is nearing completion with the stipulation that the new owners tear down the existing building on the land.

Due to the Labor Day holiday, the council next meets 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 2 in council chambers in city hall.

Landfill expansion sought

expansion can be opened. If not, they must wait for the solid waste plan to be rewritten to allow expansion under different circumstances.

County planner Larry Sullivan, while not discounting Waste Management's time estimate, said the wording of the plan states that there must be less than 66 months of capacity available to the county, not located in the county.

He explained to the commission that the City Environmental Services facility in Crawford County has more than 11 years left of capacity, and pending its own expansion could have more than 20 years. There is also the potential for using the BFI facility in Presque Isle County.

Charlevoix County has agreements with both counties, Presque Isle thru 2003 and Crawford indefinitely, to export solid waste.

Jeff Pool, a waste management representative, said expansion at Cedar Ridge would be the better avenue since the other sites are farther away and would require additional transporting.

City Environmental has offered use of their facility to 23 other counties, Pool said. Does the county know how much capacity would be available to them if every county accepted the offer?

Sullivan said they did not since figures are inconsistent.

"It's not fair to force people to truck their trash 75 miles away," Pizurro said. He added that if the landfill closes, increased costs will trickle down from industries who generate yards of waste per day to the individuals who would see pick-up fees rise.

"It's just not necessary to incur those costs when you have services already available here," he said.

Planner Peggy Midener said she would not feel badly if the landfill had to close. With the wind and natural exposure, it would be a great site for alternative energy.

Planners also questioned why Waste Management was importing waste in from counties not included in Charlevoix's solid waste plan if space is a concern. Any pinch in capacity, planner Sandra Stanley said, is Waste Management's fault.

According to a Waste Management report, 15 percent of their volume comes from Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Otsego and Cheboygan counties. None of those four counties have solid waste agreements with Charlevoix County.

Pizzuro said that importing waste from other counties was a business decision, stemming from the county's decision to allow waste originally intended for Cedar Ridge to be shipped elsewhere.

"If you're not going to enforce waste leaving, then you can't enforce it coming in," he said in a recent interview. "You can't have it both ways."

He said Waste Management is importing from those counties to keep their volume at efficient and economic standards. The incoming garbage only is less than the waste that is being exported, Pizurro said, and only shortens capacity by a few months.

In 1991, a burial site, close to 100 years old, was found on the Cedar Ridge property. It has created another controversial question mark on Waste Management's expansion hopes. Pizzuro said he and Eveline Township supervisor, David Willson, have been negotiating moving the buried remains to nearby property at Waste Management's expense.

Planners also voted unanimously to rewrite the county's solid waste plan, a process that will take about a year and between $25,000 and $35,000 to complete.

Rewriting the plan keeps planning control with the county. Had they decided not to rework the plan themselves, then a more regional commission or the state government would have done it, creating a situation where public input and local needs are diminished, Sullivan said.

"We're not just looking at should we expand," Sullivan said during a phone interview. "There are a number of different things we need to look at."

A new plan could make room for expansion, an incinerator, a transfer station, create a new landfill, or even set in motion the closure and relocation of the Cedar Ridge site. Also, the plan will work out new agreements with neighboring counties importing waste into Charlevoix.

Planner Dennis Jason, from East Jordan, said whatever is done should be done so with the region's best interest in mind, not just Charlevoix.

Supporters of smoking ban bring ordinance to county board

By Janie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The battle against big tobacco took a small stage during a public hearing on a smoke-free ordinance at last week's county board of commissioners' meeting.

The ordinance, drafted by a local anti-tobacco coalition, would ban smoking from all county grounds and within 50 feet of all entryways.

Mary Ann Cox, coordinator of the Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet County Tobacco Reduction Coalition said her group presented the ordinance because second-hand smoke is the third leading cause of preventable deaths taking the lives of 53,000 Americans each year.

"Most of us don't care to smoke, but as a nonsmoker I also don't care to be exposed," she said.

Supporters of the ordinance, mostly from anti-smoking groups, backed the law for a variety of reasons.

John Conlan, a smoke-free coordinator from Traverse City, said the board would be going with the times in passing such a ban. It was pointed out that the city of Marquette has passed a ban in all public places and restaurants effective New Year's Day, 1999.

It was also noted that courts are beginning to award disability compensation for workers exposed to second-hand smoke while on the job. Overall work force production would rise and less sick leave would be taken if smoking was prohibited.

The county already bans smoking within the walls of their building on the corner of State and Mason Streets.

"It's ironic that you have to walk through a cloud of smoke to get inside," Amy Sanders of the Traverse City branch of the American Lung Association said, referring to smokers who step outside for a puff.

"It's not fair to the chemically sensitive."

Smokers were there to defend themselves.

Assistant county prosecutor Larry Burgess said it's become socially acceptable to pick on smokers but to extend a ban outside the building would be "totally unreasonable."

County planner Larry Sullivan pointed out that a majority of people who enter the county building do so because of business in one of three court systems.

"It's an unpleasant situation. If they can step outside, have a cigarette and calm down a bit, then I am all for letting them have a cigarette."

Burgess felt the board would be overstepping their jurisdiction with the legislation.

"You would be setting social policy which is not part of your job. You have more important things to do."

Enforcement of such an ordinance was questioned as well. Fines start at $100 for a first time offender, $200 for the second offense, and $500 for a third offense. Cases would be prosecuted by the county prosecutor.

"Will you have someone writing tickets every time someone walks down Antrim Street?" Burgess asked.

"I would hate to see this ordinance fail because of the distance requirement," Sanders fired back while noting the board would be community role models while enforcing the new law.

The board seemed open to the ordinance but only after modifications.

Commissioner Carl Price said he was not ready to vote for it unless changes were made. Commissioner Shirley Roloff noted the ugly irony of accepting tobacco tax dollars only to ban the substance.

The ordinance will be modified during two committee meetings in September. Ideas mentioned were creating an outside area for smokers, allowing road commission workers to light up in their vehicles and creating help programs for those seeking to quit instead of an outright ban.

"If you strive to make everybody happy, you'll fail," Cox said.

The board next meets 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 26 in the commissioners' room adjacent to the county clerk's office. The earliest the ordinance would reappear on the agenda would be Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Charlevoix County marine officer Josh Block spends a few minutes chatting jet-ski safety with rider Luke Whitley. Whitley was not breaking any laws. This summer has seen a record number of personal watercraft accidents on Lake Charlevoix, and Block was reminding Whitley to play it safe and obey Sheriff Lasater's zero tolerance policy for boating rules.

Stormwater runoff ordinance draws fire

Another ordinance passed before the eyes of the county commissioners regarding storm water runoff, only to be tabled after boisterous opposition from two people in the audience.

The ordinance, drafted by county planner Larry Sullivan and Wendy Armstrong, the county's soil and erosion officer, requires onsite detention pools to store and slow the flow of rain water to prevent flooding to neighboring property.

The ordinance was two years in the making and was geared toward large parking lots that pose speedy run-off threats after storms and during spring thaws.

"This is geared towards malls with huge parking lots and that is not applicable to our county now," said engineer Jim Malewitz who, along with Boyne City resident Steven Voice, hammered away at Sullivan for not including them in the drafting of legislation.

Malewitz labeled the legislation "unworkable," and that it would leave developers at the mercy of an "omnipotent soil erosion officer."

"If an engineer said he can't live with it, then I have a problem with it," board chairman Phil Johnson said. "We need to listen to him."

Sullivan defended the legislation, saying that with the boom in development, waiting five or ten years in order to visibly see the need would be too late to have any effect.

Voice and Malewitz both said

Winning at all costs shouldn't be the norm

Editorial

Perhaps it's the recent chill in the air that beckons the coming of the fall season, but lately we have had sports and the beginning of a new Rayder season on our minds.

We would like to wish the best of luck not only to all those players and coaches who will be strutting the maroon and white this year, but extend that wish out to all the coaches and athletes in Charlevoix County and the Northern Michigan area as a whole.

We hope that everyone remains injury free and somewhere down the line that memories of a lifetime are created, whether it comes in the form of a game-winning touchdown or just as part of a collective team. It makes no difference.

Have some fun, because those opportunities on the playing field will come by with less frequency as each of you head into adulthood. Treasure each play you run, each basket you swoosh, and each teammate you high five.

Over the years of covering the area's athletic endeavors, the sportsmanship between combatants on the field of play has been impressive. Perhaps that is statement of the tightness of our area, but we have been pleased that players from opposing teams, while hell-bent on defeating one another, seem to take the time to shake hands and congratulate one another on a well done effort.

Something, though, does bother us.

There is an attitude of winning at all costs that pervades the town. People have become caught up in the win-loss record of teams whose rosters are littered with teen-agers.

The result in Charlevoix has been an alarming number of experienced and quality coaches resigning and stepping away from their positions amid swirls of controversy.

Not a single athletic program in Charlevoix has been exempt from this, and now we have an army of new coaches who will lead our Rayders into battle.

Our message? Give them time to grow and enjoy their experiences.

Much was made during the school board elections in June about returning the Rayders back to their top athletic status they once held.

We disagree that the Rayders have even fallen from a plateau. The students still go out for sports. An unofficial Courier count done last spring had more than 200 different students playing at least one sport during the 1996-97 year.

They have more choices now than they once did. If a 15-year-old boy feels a bit queasy about strapping on the shoulder pads and tackling another coming at him at full speed, he now has options. He may play soccer, golf or run cross-country.

Don't begrudge any student/athlete their choice of sport.

Realize that regardless of the outcome of any game, the student athlete must still do his homework and be in school the next day, and the coach must punch a time clock wherever he or she may work.

When Bruce Springsteen sings about the "Glory Days," he is not so much referring to championships won. Instead, he's talking about times shared with friends, when life was simple and, as teammates, they shared common goals, triumphs and heartbreak.

So as long as Charlevoix's student/athletes hold true to that philosophy, we should consider every season a winning one and each era will be looked upon as the Glory Days.

Column on Olds hit a historic note with reader from California

Editor:

Marilyn Boss' column about R.E. Olds in the Aug. 6 Courier was, as always, interesting and well-researched, and to the best of my own recollection, I'd like to add a bit to it.

The sleekly beautiful yacht "Sylvia IV" was 191 feet long, probably the largest ever to have a home port in Charlevoix. It was one of half a dozen built at the Bath Iron Works in Maine, and in their museum in Bath it is pictured along with its sister ships.

Logan Thompson owned a large paper manufacturing company in Hamilton, Ohio, and it was Cmdr. Eugene F. MacDonald who headed the Zenith Radio Corp. He owned the yacht Mizpah, whose distinctive deep-throated whistle announced its frequent visits to Charlevoix. I believe he had a summer home on Mackinac Island, and I don't know whether his title of "Commander" was a military title or an honorary one.

In the 1930s, I recall hearing that MacDonald had as a guest on his yacht the famed sculptor Gutzon Borglum, who had not long before that completed the presidential portraits on Mount Rushmore in South Dakota.

My only memory of R.E. Olds is that of seeing this unassuming little man sitting on a park bench at the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets, next to what was then the Charlevoix County Bank, quietly watching the passersby on a summer day.

If any of my memories are not accurate, I hope somebody will send a correction or additional information to the Courier. Meanwhile, we'll enjoy Marilyn's columns as often as she can write them..

Opera was splendid event

Editor:

Can anyone of us who attended the Charlevoix Summer Night at the Opera praise the event enough? I think not. It was just plain great! In a summer of super good entertainment of all kinds, all over our area, this event has to be the highlight of the year. And I suspect that many would say the highlight of several years. The vocalists were superb, their selections were charming, their dialogue with us was enchanting.

How did this all happen? Through the dreams the efforts and leadership of a single couple, Stewart and Susan Boal. They are the ones who knew that our community would support their vision. They are the ones to whom the highest accolades are due. They are the ones to whom we all say, here's to Stu and Sue.

With great respect and admiration for a tranquil twosome,

Jim Hisey

Turns are a danger at center

Editor:

This is in response to David Ruehle's letter regarding the "no left turn" sign at the first drive to Captain's Corner. At this time I would like to thank David for giving me incentive to speak out on a situation that irritates me.

I am guilty of turning left, like many others, at the first drive. I turn there not because I don't see the sign, or that I don't know how or won't obey the law. I turn left there, the majority of the time, because it is not safe to go to the second drive and turn left. If I go to that second drive, I have to contend with oncoming traffic as well as traffic turning left and right from Stover Road, Marion Center Road and out of Captain's Corner. Then I have to contend with all the people who pass on the right.

We have an area that has three places where it is allowed to turn left and right less than one-quarter of a block from each other. Now, once I have turned left at the second drive, I have to contend with parking lot traffic going in all directions, as well as traffic coming in from Stover Road using the Rite Aid pharmacy drive through, plus the pharmacy drive through business traffic.

As a driver, I have a responsibility to keep myself, my kids, and others in my vehicle safe, as well as driving as safely as I can for others driving on the road. Several times, because of traffic, I have driven to the Kmart parking lot, turned around and gotten back into traffic just to be able to turn safely into Captain's Corners. The situation at the second drive is an "accident waiting to happen!" Whoever made the decision to put the "no left turn" at the first drive to Captain's Corner obviously did not care that it made the second drive very dangerous. They need to have their common sense level checked.

But, I do have a few suggestions. They are: 1. We could have a traffic cop direct traffic at that second drive. If he gets hurt, he will have a huge support group at the hospital from others who have been just driving through that area. If death results, don't worry, there are two cemeteries there. 2. A traffic light should be installed in several places, one in the middle of the parking lot, one at the Rite Aid drive through and one at the end of the second entrance thereby slowing traffic entering Captain's Corner. 3. Place a "no right or left turn" sign at Stover Road, a "left turn only" sign on Marion Center Road, a "no left turn" sign on Marion Center Road, a "no left turn" sign on one side of the second drive to Captain's Corner, and a "right turn only" sign on the other side. All of the above makes as much sense as that "no left turn" sign at the first drive, especially when you think about how dangerous that second drive and intersection has become. 4. Have five more pairs of eyes implanted in your head, as that is how many we need to be able to watch traffic from every direction to turn left at the second drive, or 5. Remove the sign at the first drive.

Sincerely,
Cathy Miller

Junior golfers say thanks

Editor:

Dear Charlevoix area golfers and Junior Golf Association Board Members,

We all recently were awarded scholarships to attend a week of golf camp at Ferris State University as members of the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program. We all agree it was a terrific experience and we have learned a lot about golf and about ourselves while away from home for nearly a week.

All of this was made possible through the generosity of the local golfers that support the "Supie Classic," the primary fund-raiser for our Junior Golf Association. We wish to thank all the many people that organize and administer the tournament, particularly Tom Bickersteth and Sam Supernaw, and of course the many participating golfers that paid an entry fee to play.

In addition to providing our golf camp scholarships, the tournament funds enabled 217 junior golfers from 7 to 17 to enjoy a summer of instruction and play at five local golf courses.

On behalf of all the Junior Golfers, we want to express our gratitude to the board and teaching staff responsible for our great Junior Golf Program. It's our hope that experiences like ours can continue for youngsters in Charlevoix County as a result of everyone supporting the "Supie Classic" held this year on Monday, Aug. 25 at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Cody Britton, Brad Hice, Jennifer Rowe, Craig Siwarga, Chad Dekorte, Ben VanGuilder, and Keith Grunch.

Concerts continue in Oldmark Pavilion

Popular performer Chris Martin will return for an encore performance in the Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion in East Park as part of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau's summer concert series.

This, the 10th concert in the series, will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 21.

Martin performed in the second concert of the series for a large and lively crowd. Many spectators joined in on the fun, singing and dancing.

Martin describes himself as "a successful entertainer who doesn't just sing ... I don't care so much if the notes come out wrong, as long as the crowd is having fun." His dedication to entertainment before technical perfection helps insure a good time.

His musical career began at the age of 5, and he moved to the area in 1989 after a successful career in Detroit. Today, Martin has a full producing and recording studio where he produces and develops original songs.

Martin is famous for more than his entertaining ability. For four consecutive years his recipe for ribs has won awards for the "Best in the North" and the annual "Ribs, Bibs, Tall Ships and Kids" event in Traverse City.

The ribs are found at his restaurant "Willie's Up North," between Advance and East Jordan, and meals are often accompanied by Martin's antics. He is known to join the line dancing lessons at his restaurant and entertain the guests in other ways.

Martin's eclectic mix of a variety of music and fun, paired with his charismatic humor, make up his program and make it, always, a crowd pleaser.

The next concert on the schedule is the local band Dr. Goodhart, at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28.

In the event of rain or inclement weather, the concerts will be canceled.

Memory walk aids Alzheimer's group in Northern Michigan

Hundreds of Charlevoix and Emmet County residents will walk for Alzheimer's in the 1997 Memory Walk Saturday, Sept. 13.

Walkers register and begin at East Park from 9 to 11 a.m. Walkers are aiming to raise $15,000, which will benefit the 5,000 Northern Michigan residents who face the daily challenges of Alzheimer's disease.

Scott Michael Trager is serving as honorary chair for the seventh year. Scott and his wife, Connie, and their 1-year-old triplets are rallying individuals and teams to lace up their shoes or skates and join this worthy cause.

"From the first day I became involved with the Alzheimer's Association, I have been constantly impressed with the level of dedication its members have for helping those who are affected by the disease, Trager said. "It is truly a pleasure to work with these fine people."

A 3.5-mile route starts at the water's edge and continues across the bridge to Depot Beach. Walkers will return via a route past the Earl Young stone homes.

Entertainment, prizes and refreshments will be a part of the journey. A memory board gives a special meaning to the third annual Charlevoix-Emmet Memory Walk by walkers bringing a picture of a family member, neighbor or friend with Alzheimer's disease. All participants of the event will honor that person.

Vic Pickard, who collects returnable bottles and cans for Memory Walk's "Dime at a Time" program, is striving again to beat his record. Vic was the fourth highest fund-raiser in the nation for memory walk last year. All walkers are encouraged to support his efforts by bringing returnable bottles and cans to the walk.

The money raised will support programs in the community such as support groups, education and training, the Family Connection Program and information and referral services.

Memory Walk is the single largest event for Alzheimer's disease. Nearly 200 communities and 120,000 walkers across the country will participate in this year's event.

This year's event is sponsored by Grandvue Medical Care Facility, Northmed, Munson Health Care and supporting sponsor of $1,000, Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary. Sponsors of $175 are still being confirmed and solicited.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

One sure sign that the change of seasons is on the way is the return of football to the sports scene. Ready or not, it's there more and more in the nightly news and in the papers. Even the high school boys are getting reacquainted with the gridiron.

Back in the good old days of Big Ten college football, when Bo Schembechler coached at Michigan and Woody Hayes held court at Ohio State, the story is told of a visit Bo paid to Woody's office. Bo's attention was drawn to a red phone sitting on Woody's desk.

"What's that Woody?"

"That's my hotline to God."

"I sure could use some good advice right now. Can I try it out?"

"Sure, just run your credit card through the strip at the bottom."

Bo did and really enjoyed the chat.

A few weeks later at Ann Arbor, Woody came to visit Bo. Low and behold on the corner of Bo's desk, there sat a special telephone.

"Hey Bo, what's that?"

"Well, I liked yours so much, I had my own hotline to God installed."

"Say, that's great Bo. There's something I'm working on that I could use a little advice on. Do you mind if I use it?"

Woody reached for his wallet to pull out his credit card. Bo stopped him.

"Go ahead and use the phone, but there's no need for a credit card here. It's not a long distance call."

How much does your own personal relationship with God mean to you? Do you realize the worth of personal worship in your walk with the Lord? I have said this many times over the years. If you rely on the hour or so you spend in a church service on Sunday morning as the sole source of spiritual strength that you receive each week, you will have problems with your faith. It will not hold up when you really need it. But if you go into a worship service and use it as a training opportunity, a chance to obtain the insights and tools you need to apply your faith to the everyday, you will soon discover just how valuable your faith can be.

To continue the football analogy, how effective would a team be if they just showed up on game day and expected to win? You already know the answer to that. They would be overrun in a hurry. To win a football game not only takes the basic physical discipline that daily practice brings to a team, but also studying your opposition, working on different strategies for the different situations you may face in a game and more. It takes a team to win a game as well. The "stars" you read or hear about in the sports sections don't come by their notoriety on their own. They have a supporting cast of linemen and coaches that make it possible for them to "look so good."

That's why you really can't live out the life of faith on your own. The church offers you the team spirit you need. It's not just the pastor who coaches you. It's brothers and sisters in God's family that are sharing the adventure with you. When you are really immersed in your faith, fully participating in all the possibilities God sets before you, that's when things start to happen.

Look on your weekly worship experience as training camp. Look at those who worship with you as your teammates. When the final "Amen" sounds at noon, the game has only begun. You need what you can learn in worship and those you share that experience with to get you through the challenges of a new week.

Cell tower ordinance considered

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Norwood Township planners began discussion last week on a cellular tower ordinance that is hoped to become a model for other county townships and municipalities as local governments try to regulate an industry on the verge of mushrooming its way through northern Michigan.

With the rise in use of pocket-sized cellular phones, so too comes the erection of transmission towers spaced with the frequency of mile markers across the landscape.

Published numbers count 22,000 transmission sites nationwide, but it's expected to increase by over 100,000 as the next century begins.

The result of these expectations is general health and aesthetic concerns that come with this unique form of land use.

Many area governments passed moratoriums which temporarily delay construction of towers as they hash out regulatory requirements.

The basic meat and potatoes of future legislation would try to minimize the number of towers, encourage their construction in non-residential areas, encourage the joint use of new and existing towers and avoid any potential damage to adjacent property owners they may incur due to the towers.

On its first draft, the ordinance would require a setback from adjoining property lines of at least 75 percent of the tower's total height. For example, a 200 foot tower would have setback requirements of 150 feet.

Towers must be spaced at least one mile apart from any other telecommunication tower and must be located 200 feet or a distance of 300 percent of the tower's height from any residence, school, church, or any other building used for the congregation of people. For example, a 300 foot tower must be at least 900 feet away from the lot line of such facilities.

The ordinance would not allow any signs or billboards to be placed on the structure and would prohibit any lighting unless required by the Federal Aviation Authority.

Some of the Norwood planners were concerned that the ordinance only protected their residential areas, leaving agricultural districts open for tower placement.

"We can't discriminate and say no towers in Norwood Township," township clerk Doris Pearl said. "We can't protect everything."

In a separate interview, county planner Larry Sullivan said towers need to be funneled towards city- or township-owned land. That way, local governments can both obtain rent and force the co-location of tower-like structures.

That is exactly what is happening in Charlevoix Township. Township supervisor Oscar Stroud was approached by representatives from Noverr Communications, the wireless service company whose forays into the area will be the cause of most of the tower building. They asked Stroud about placing cellular antennas on top of the township's water tower. The result was an agreement that placed six antennas on the township's existing water tower south of the city and plans for six more to be placed on their new water tower in Shanahan Fields when it's finished sometime in October.

The tower boom has created a new construction hobby known as utility camouflage, where antennas are placed on water towers, in church steeples, and parking lot lights. In some cases co-location with cable, radio, and 9-1-1 equipment is common.

The agreement between Stroud and Noverr is good for five years, an important time period since many project that wireless technology will improve in five years and make the need for tall towers non-existent.

Without regulation, Sullivan said, it would be left to the property owner instead of the tower owner to remove the structure.

The proposed ordinance would explicitly place the burden of tower removal on the tower owner once abandoned. Language leaves the door open to require a bond payment to pay for removal when that time comes. Authorities could consider a tower abandoned only after a period of 12 continuous months of inactivity.

The issue of cellular towers is both new and abrupt to many local officials. Because of that, the Norwood planners tabled any action on the ordinance until their next meeting at 7 p.m. September 10 at the township hall.

Snowmobile council shares safety recommendations

Snowmobile safety was the focus of a recent conference at the Minnesota Capitol that brought together policy makers from three states, said an area legislator who participated in the meeting.

State Rep. Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena, and other Michigan lawmakers joined colleagues from Minnesota and Wisconsin at the two-day conference. The Tri-State Snowmobile Caucus tackled several complex issues and gave attendees an opportunity to share strategies for future success.

"I enjoyed discussing important topics with fellow legislators, staff experts, snowmobile manufacturers and associations," Bodem said. "We must continue to cultivate this family sport which is so important to northern Michigan tourism."

Several recommendations emerged from the conference including: Implementing one-way trails to increase safety, restricting the width of snowmobiles, mandatory training programs, developing more extensive trail systems, and raising awareness of the dangers of drinking while driving a snowmobile.

"By enacting these proposals, and working with other states, Michigan can reduce rider risk and strengthen enforcement initiatives," Bodem said. "Everyone benefits when snowmobile safety is improved. I hope the Tri-State Snowmobile Caucus will continue setting a reform agenda."

Water ordinance criticized

they were promised updates on the issue and were not included in any discussions on the topic. Voice labeled it a violation of public trust and asked the board to deny the ordinance and disband the committee who drafted the law. Voice said he only found out about the board's meeting by accident when an acquaintance on the board's mailing list called.

"He called and said 'Guess what's on the agenda, and they're asking for approval,'" Voice said.

Armistrong said Voice had little to contribute to any discussion, saying only that he was not in favor of any legislation as it's unnecessary.

Voice got his wish delaying any vote on the legislation until the conflicting parties meet with each other to iron out a more compromised law.

"We said they would be actively involved and that has not happened," Johnson said. "You need to work together and not just through memos."

Todd Klinger takes over Rayder football squad

For astute historians of Northern Michigan football the words "head coach Klinger" has a familiar ring.

The reference is to Bill Klinger who patrolled the Grayling Vikings sideline as head man from 1976 to 1988, having since moved to the school's athletic director's position.

For Charlevoixans and Rayder backers those words are new, but suddenly just as applicable as Bill's son, Charlevoix resident Todd Klinger, was recently elevated to the school's head football coach position.

Klinger replaces Roger Gowell, who resigned earlier in the month due to persistent back pain. Klinger has spent the last five seasons as one of Gowell's assistants, handling the defensive coordinator's chores.

"Football has always been my first love," Klinger said. "This is something that has always been a goal of mine."

It has been an awkward time for Rayders football, with their long-standing head man stepping down just days before practice began. Klinger said the coaching staff knew Gowell was hurting, but were surprised as anyone when he resigned.

"It's gone as smoothly as one could hope for given the circumstances," he said of summer practice. "The kids' attitude has been great, they have not backed down."

Brandon Bruce, who withdrew his name from consideration, will remain as an assistant. Steve Hopkins will round off Klinger's staff, which includes junior varsity coaches Hal Evans and Brian Certa.

Klinger will rely on the experience of living under the same roof with one of the area's quality coaches.

"I was listening in on football conversations at a very young age," Klinger, who played for his father from 1983-86, recalled. "It's given me a lot of different insights into the game. I am able to see both sides of an issue because of that."

Athletic director Keith Haske said this is a big step for Klinger's career, and he is confident Klinger will perform the job with aplomb. Still, Haske was clear that Klinger's appointment remains on an interim basis. He said the haste of Gowell's resignation combined with the approaching first kick-off negated any extensive search for a new coach. Therefore, the position will be reposted once the season is complete.

Like the entire school, numbers are slightly down for this year's gridiron squad with about 20 apiece suiting up for both varsity and JV. Klinger said don't expect that to stop Charlevoix from competing.

"When people are done playing us, they will know they have been in a ball game. We look to have an exciting team both on offensive and defense, but the effort of our kids whatever the situation will always be 110 percent."

Klinger lives with his wife, Suzanne, and their 15-month old son, Luke, who if all goes well may one day be the third Klinger patrolling a Northern Michigan sideline.

The season is just around the corner and the gridiron Rayders were sprinting themselves into shape on the practice field last week. They kick-off their season in two weeks at St. Ignace Friday, Sept. 5.

Wednesday sailors have had fine weather to race

The Fleets have certainly been blessed with fine summer sailing weather and Wednesday, Aug. 13, was no exception. Again, the first to finish were in Fleet D, the Jib and Main class sailing the shorter course. As usual, the first to finish goes to Flash at 7:05.43, but (once again) that simply wasn't fast enough to save her time on the first yachts in that Fleet. Cheemaun (0:58.46) was the winner by just 24 seconds over Booma (0:50.10) with Red Comet (0:59.31) some 24 seconds later, leaving Flash (0:59.38) out of the money by only seven seconds! Note the first four are all within 52 seconds.

Among the spinnaker fleets, First to Finish (at 7:36.28) and First in Class (Fleet B) was Newsense (1:13.29) but First Overall and First in Class (Fleet C) went to Stalworth (1:12.16). Tireless (1:13.13) was second both overall and in Fleet C. Swine Flew (1:13.21) was rewarded with the smell of cordite in Fleet E (the J-22s) and also third overall, with HS Moisture (1:13.48) right on her transom in Class, but just behind the aforementioned Newsense in overall.

The MUA (Most Unusual Award) goes, without question, to Hussy (1:15.02) for carrying her spinnaker under, rather than over, the boat. Still, she was fast enough to be third in Fleet E and fourth overall. Splash Dance (1:15.53) took second in C and fifth overall.

Lost Vermonter (1:16.30) ended up third in Fleet C, as did Cabaret (1:17.37) in Fleet B. Finishing between their corrected times, Mint Julep (1:17.21) took top honors in Fleet A. Kamikaze (1:17.57) and Gotcha! (1:19.38) claimed second and third, respectively, in the big boat Fleet.

The latest point standings with both drops applied to the poorest finishes:

Fleet A: Gotcha 6, Kamikaze 8, Hoo-Aah 9 and Mint Julep 12.

Fleet B: Newsense 4, Splash Dance 8, Babe 13, Mi Joy 15, Cabaret 16, Our Thyme II 18, M-3 23, Bald Eagle 27, J-Hawk 32, Bandit 35.

Fleet C: Tireless 6, Stalworth 7, Blasen III 10, Lost Vermonter 10, Cygnus 18, Original Sin 19, Sandpiper 19 and Hit & Run 35.

Fleet D: Cheemaun 7, Flash 9, Booma 9, Red Comet 10 and Apothecary 11.

Fleet E: Hussy 4, HS Moisture 8, Gecko 13, Floyd 14, Reckless 16, Swine Flew 17, Cathach 24, Paleface Lite 26 and Unnamed 28.

Lesson 6. If you should ever be doing this column be sure you have a sailing reporter like the Medical Mouse. Thank you, Doctor, for the Duke Memorial Cup Results that follow!

The Eighth Annual Duke Memorial Cup Race was enjoyed by 12 dauntless CYC yachts in 4- to 6-foot seas Saturday, Aug. 16, racing from Charlevoix to Northport. The race, which allows only two persons to sail the yacht, began off Medusa point on a line established by Beka, Doug and Kim Simpson's fire engine red tug, and continued around Fisherman's Island and then southwest to the Northport can. Fifteen to 20 knot winds from the southwest and 4-foot rollers from the northwest didn't allow much variation in sail selection, but made for a quick trip, with the first finishing in less than three and one-half hours.

Jib and Main division winners were Our Thyme II followed by Chuck Gosling in Booma with Cliff Hosler's Coronado 25 squeaking out a first over Jim Eddy in a San Juan 24, the smallest yacht in the race. Roy and Georgianna Herald in Our Thyme were overall Jam victors.

The Spinnaker fleet was won by Karl Jurries in Blazen III, clipping fellow P-26ers Andy Gangler in Jesse and Cygnus bringing up the rear. Mi Joy, sailed by Mark and Steve Piric took Division IV with Pete Funck's Kamikaze and Corky Meier's Ranger 26 close behind.

Dean Duke, representing his father and brother, who are remembered in this annual CYC race, presented the awards.

Sale items

Before rain washed away all the goods, Jackie Krygier and her daughters, Melanie and Jennifer, try on some gloves during Charlevoix's sidewalk sale last weekend. The Krygiers are from Rockford, Ill., and were spending the week relaxing at Young State Park.

Sports schedule gets going with football scrimmage

While school will not begin until after the Labor Day holiday, Charlevoix's athletic squads will already be knee deep in activity.

The football team, armed with new coach Todd Klinger (see related story page 14), will test their mettle in two exhibition games. At 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 21, the team will square off against Bellaire at Kipke Field and at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28 they will be at Frankfurt.

Klinger said both scrimmages should last 90 minutes, with each team running between 30 and 40 plays. The Rayders open at St. Ignace Friday, Sept. 5.

The girls' basketball team also has a new coach in Tim Volvosek and they will be hosting an intrasquad scrimmage at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 21 in the high school gym. Their regular season begins Tuesday, Aug. 26 with a home game vs. Petoskey and Thursday, Aug. 28 at Ellsworth.

JV games begin each scrimmage at 6 p.m.

The soccer team travels to Leland this weekend for a preseason invitational and the Rayder golf squad swings into action today at the Boyne Mountain Invitational and Thursday, Aug. 21 at an invitational hosted by the Indian River Country Club. Tee-off for both matches are at 9 a.m.

The cross country squads will not run a meet until after school starts, but Ken Plude's squad is busy this week training — and hopefully doing a little relaxing — on Beaver Island.

In next week's Charlevoix Courier, complete team previews, photos, and schedules will be included in our special Fall Sports Guide.

Big Rock has a wonderful history

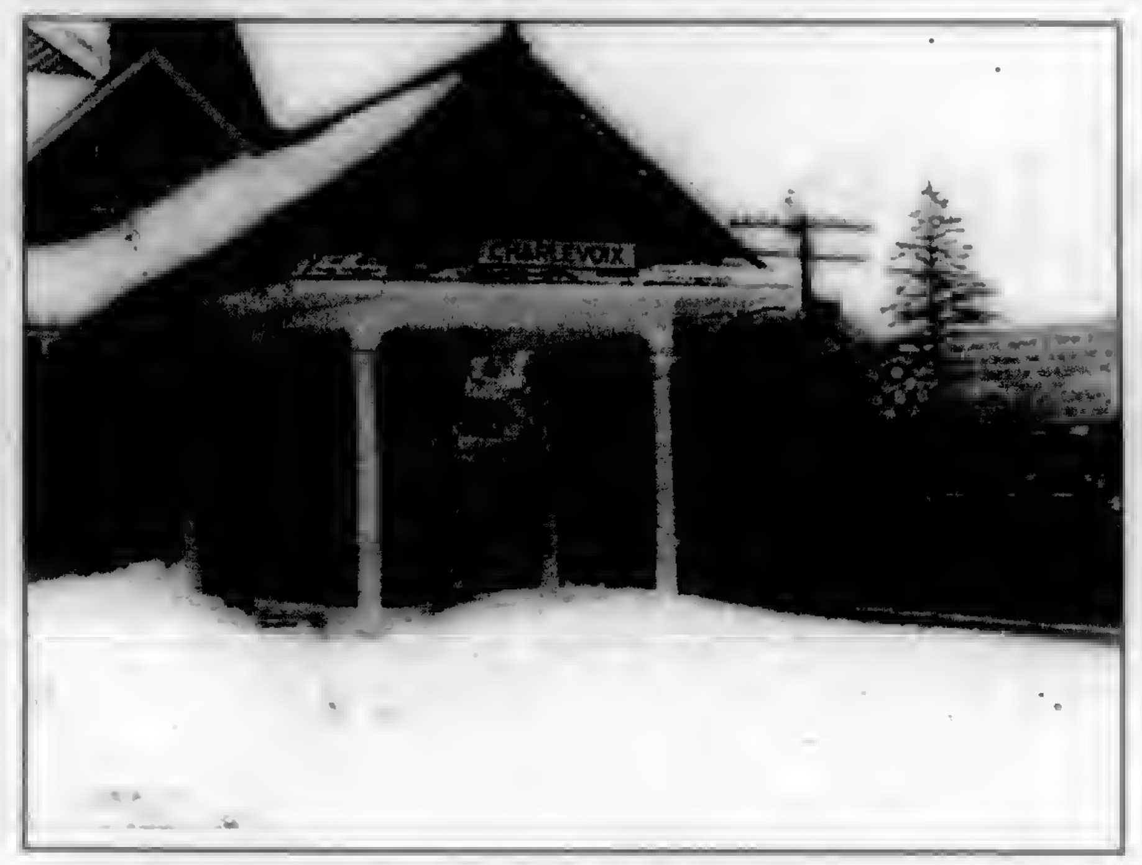
From the Archives
By: Geoffrey D. Reynolds

Later this month, the end of an era in Charlevoix history will be complete with the official closure of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant and the beginning of its five-year decommissioning period. While spotlighted for being the site of periodic anti-nuclear demonstrations throughout the years, the plant's history is an example of a local utility company quietly setting records in the process of providing the local community with electricity and with charitable dollars.

The plant was conceived in the late 1950s as part of the Power Reactor Demonstration Program of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). After its July 20, 1960, ground breaking and subsequent building, the plant became the world's first high power density boiling water reactor and Michigan's first nuclear power plant.



The Big Rock Point reactor arrives in Charlevoix by train.

Thirty-five years ago this month, the plant received its Atomic Energy Commission operating license and was on its way to setting records and providing electrical power to the Charlevoix area.

In November 1965, the plant was declared commercial by Consumer's Power Co., but continued to be available to the Atomic Energy Commission for research and development activities for another 4 1/2 years. Later in 1977, the plant set a new boiling reactor record for continuous operating run of 343 days.

In June 1991, after three decades of no lost time accidents and many other milestones, the plant was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society as "the world's first high power-density boiling reactor and an important research site for the nuclear industry."

In February 1991, the plant officially became the oldest operating nuclear power plant in the United States. In June of 1993, it became the longest running nuclear power plant at over 30 years of age, including no lost time accidents since its 1977 continuous operating mode.

Throughout its history the plant led to the development of more efficient nuclear fuels for the commercial nuclear industry as well as the production of radioactive cobalt for medicine and industry. And through the generosity of its employees, the latest record set within the plant community was the giving of over $21,000 to the United Way.

Big Rock to host tours during its last week

The nation's longest running nuclear power plant will be open for public tours during its final week of operation.

The employees at Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point nuclear plant will host a public open house Monday through Thursday, Aug. 25-28. The plant will be permanently shut down on Friday, Aug. 29.

Tours of the nuclear historic landmark will begin in the plant's annex auditorium at 10 a.m., noon and 2 p.m. All visitors must be over the age of 10 and have photo identification.

During the plant tour, visitors will visit the control room and control room simulator, walk through the building that houses the plant's turbine, and learn how the plant has generated electricity from the atom for almost 35 years.

Tickets for the tour are necessary. They are free of charge and available at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridge St. in Charlevoix, and the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, 401 E. Mitchell St. in Petoskey.

Consumer's Energy Palisades nuclear plant near South Haven is also conducting public plant tours during an open house the same week. Two tours will be conducted daily at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Contact the public affairs office at Palisades at (616) 764-2333 to reserve a spot on a tour.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Energy, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

Police looking for man with piece of fireworks trailer

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier reporter

The state police are hoping that an elderly man with a missing piece of the trailer on which the Venetian fireworks sat will contact them.

The man showed the piece to an employee at the boat company last week and went back home before anyone could get his name. He told the employee that he found it in his yard after the July 26 explosion.

Michigan State Police Det. Sgt. Bruce Dykehouse is hoping that he will turn the piece in to assist investigators with the reconstruction of the fireworks and the trailer.

"Each piece holds its own evidence," Dykehouse said. "We need that piece of steel."

The gentleman is described as elderly and is believed to live across the channel, somewhere near the Edgewater Inn. He was wearing a nautical-type hat.

As the investigation continues, police continue to interview witnesses and work on the reconstruction.

"We've got the bulk of the pieces," Dykehouse said. However, it is believed that not all the parts to the fireworks tubes have been collected. The piece the unknown man has could fit into that part of the puzzle.

Recently, police were mailed a piece from the blast from Northville, Mich., after getting a tip that a spectator from there had taken a piece home with him.

"It was a crucial piece of the

'Crime Fighting Mom' honored

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Carol Havens remembers the tragic time Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater came to her door in 1988. He was about to tell the Havens family that 19-year-old Monica was just killed in a car accident. Monica and three other teenagers died in an alcohol-related accident.

Monday, Lasater honored Havens for turning her tragedy into triumph by founding and participating in the Charlevoix M.A.D.D. (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) chapter. The nomination he and county prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur, made to Sen. Carl Levin ended with Havens being chosen as a "Crime Fighting Mom" who did outstanding work in crime prevention to make her community safer.

The certificate of accomplishment was presented to Havens by Harold Chase, a representative of Levin's who used to be Monica's classmate.

Havens earned the award, Lasater said Friday. She has made her community safer by founding a group that has helped unite police agencies throughout the county regarding drunk driving issues and enforcement, bought video cameras for patrol cars, fax machines to expedite warrants for blood and machines for breath tests, and held a banquet to commend and encourage officers.

"It's not popular to go out and arrest drunk drivers," Lasater said. "M.A.D.D. sent a message that police were doing a good job and were saving lives."

The wife and mother of a 30-year-old son, though honored by the award, is quick to note that it is a product of many women's labor. And being involved in the group has helped Havens heal.

"It seemed like a healthy way to get involved — to do something constructive out of something that was destructive," said the Charlevoix Public School superintendent's secretary.

After being involved in the Grand Traverse M.A.D.D. chapter, Havens organized the local group. For five years, mothers spent countless hours monitoring court rooms, making contacts with families of victims from alcohol-related accidents, organizing fund-raisers and communicating with police, judges, probation officers and prosecutors. In 1995, the group folded for lack of participation, Havens said. Lasater can still feel the loss.

During its duration, Havens found the most difficult part of the job to be watching repeat offenders come through the courts, some facing a felony drunk driving charge after three separate arrests.

"It's hard to know that it hasn't just happened three times," she said. "They've gotten caught three times.

"You feel like you're beating your head up against a wall."

> "Everyday you're on the road with drunk drivers and it can happen any time."
> — Carol Havens

However, Havens said she knows that alcoholism is an illness, and that drivers who continue to get behind the wheel while they're drunk are making decisions when they shouldn't be.

Although some moments of her plight have been frustrating, Havens said she learned a lot about herself and her abilities.

"Anyone can do anything if they set their mind to it," she said.

Instead of fearing crowds, Havens spoke in front of hundreds of teenagers and got involved in the organization on a state level. She moved from being a helper to an organizer who makes things happen.

And she continues to speak adamantly about drunk driving. She realizes that her daughter and the three other teenagers killed in 1988 made a choice to get in the car while under the influence of alcohol. But there are sober people getting killed by people's poor choices.

"Everyday you're on the road with drunk drivers and it can happen any time," she said.

Even though Havens is no longer leading M.A.D.D., she stills takes time to imagine what a great world it would be if alcohol never made it onto the roadways.

Events in brief

Summer concerts continue

Dr. Goodheart's Home Remedy will be performing in East Park, in the Odmark Pavilion, at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28.

The band is composed of Jim Gillespie, playing mandolin, fiddle, guitar, pennywhistle and Irish drum; Rick Beemon on guitar; and husband and wife pair, Krista and Dave Knight, playing the violin and washtub bass, respectively. All the members sing, and the band often performs acappella numbers.

Woman injured during break-in

A local woman was injured about 10 a.m. Thursday when a single, white male entered her home on the 100 block of East Lincoln, said Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson.

The woman was home alone and heard someone enter her house. When she went to investigate, she was confronted by a male who pushed her against a wall several times. The 30-year-old woman received minor injuries and was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Before fleeing, the man stole several items from the house, including a purse and assorted jewelry.

The man is reportedly about six feet tall. He was wearing black clothing.

Anyone who may have seen a lone white man in the area of the 100 block of Lincoln, Garfield or Upright Thursday morning is asked to call the Charlevoix Police Department at 547-3258.

City meetings change

Today's meeting scheduled for the Charlevoix Planning Commission has been canceled. The planners will next meet with city council members at 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, for a work session on the city's planning issues.

City council has called a special meeting for 5:15 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28, at city hall to discuss the purchase of land at Depot Beach and plans for the airport terminal. They will also meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Sheriff asks residents to put up house numbers

Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater, is making a plea to residents to place house numbers on each residence so emergency vehicles can locate the house in a timely manner. In too many incidents, emergency vehicles are taking valuable time looking for a house that does not have adequate house numbers or nonexistent ones. The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club is selling signs with house numbers. Also, numbers can be purchased at local businesses.

Brake problem causes scare at Charlevoix airport

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

A sticky brake put a plane at the Charlevoix airport almost vertical to the runway, according to Charlevoix Fire Chief Doug Carver.

About 9:45 a.m. Friday, when Bill and Betty Welke were arriving from Beaver Island, the couple found themselves climbing out of the plane that had skidded about 60 feet on its nose after landing, said Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson.

"We just got out of the plane as quickly as we could," said Betty Welke, admitting that at first they weren't sure they would be OK.

The 1952 Cessna 195 was taxying into the terminal when one of the brakes grabbed. The Welkes were not injured. They escaped the plane, which was leaking gasoline and oil from the engine, before emergency workers arrived. 9-1-1 was called immediately.

"They were fortunate that a spark from the skidding didn't start the gas on fire," Halverson said. "That was fortunate."

The gasoline leaked out of vents on top of the wings. And though the plane didn't explode, emergency workers were quick enough to have

Man goes to county jail for Mason Street drug bust

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The criminal case against the couple accused of dealing drugs out of their Mason Street home, across from the Charlevoix Middle School, ended last week with jail time imposed on Michael Kenneth Russell for two possession of drugs charges.

Russell, originally charged with two counts each of delivery and conspiracy to deal drugs, was sentenced to one year in jail for possession of cocaine and another year for possession of marijuana. He's only required to serve six months on the pot charge, and the terms are to be served concurrently.

Pamela Stoneham Fuller was sentenced earlier in the month to 7-44 years in prison on two delivery counts and one possession count.

Russell had claimed little involvement with the deal, but testified on the stand July 20 during a presentencing hearing that he admitted to knowing about the deal and took the money Fuller hauled in as payment of debt he said she owed him.

When arrested, police found nearly all of the buy money given to the authority's confidential informant in Russell's pocket. They also found rocks of cocaine with the money and a potpourri of drug paraphernalia throughout their home.

Upon release from jail, Russell will be on probation for three years.

Board hires part-time student counselor with 6-1 vote

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The Charlevoix School Board, after debate over the position's true necessity, hired a part-time counselor last week with a 6-1 vote.

Barney Way, who cast the lone no-vote, continued his disapproval of the hiring saying that it is a "luxury" and that with cutbacks in funding, the district should try to save money this year by not spending in this area.

He suggested that teachers could do counseling or the district could contract out for someone to come in once a week or even work with local churches to provide counseling when an issue comes up.

His ideas garnered some spoken support as a chance to do something different in addition to saving money, but in the end, his was the only vote against hiring John Prescott to fill the part-time position. Prescott will also teach two sections of language arts.

The board also accepted the resignation of French teacher Tom Shelton, who accepted a position at Clarkston High School in Clarkston, Mich. The district has yet to find a replacement.

The board also tabled action to promote Scot Mays to technology supervisor. While no one questioned Mays' ability to handle the job, the board was concerned that the promotion would leave an untimely vacancy of Mays' current position as computer instructor at the elementary school. The overall scope of the job was questioned as many perceived it to be more of a coordinator role and not supervisory.

The board next meets 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, in the high school study hall.

Slow down for those who don't always think to do so

EDITORIAL

Now that much of the summertime traffic has eased, many of us want to rip through the streets at record pace.

We've spent our summer inching along behind boats, trailers and family vans with license plates that tell the story of why they don't know where to turn and why their blinker has been winking at us for five blocks.

However, rather than let loose, we need to remember that children are about to begin lining Charlevoix's curbs. School is starting Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Big yellow buses will once again be making their way through the streets to get our priceless cargo, our future decision-makers, to school. Vans with parents at the helm will be driving children to our local charter school. And "walkers" will be carrying their backpacks along the sidewalks and across the streets. As adults, we should be able to remember the mornings of strolling to school. Our young minds wandered from fantasy to memory without much regard for the driver who was late for work.

We can't wait for a yellow bus to remind us to slow down. Since we don't have to hop on and off an expressway to get to our jobs, we need to remember that most of our in-town driving goes through residential areas.

According to AAA Michigan, 81.3 percent of the children ages 5 to 9 killed by cars in 1995 were struck while crossing or entering the roadway between intersections.

Be a defensive driver. Defend our children.

Slow down and live by what we try to teach them — stop, look and listen. As drivers, we can slow, look and listen.

EDITH GILBERT

Trudy Center tells us, in case you haven't heard, that she was on the prize winning yacht in the Venetian Festival boat parade. The theme featured the Red Wings hockey team — Stanley Cup and all! Before the fireworks and after the parade, the boat was docked in Round Lake, and the crew was having fun throwing water balloons at passersby.

Out of the blue, a figure ran toward the boat shouting, "If I had known you were going to use this theme, I would have provided you all with Red Wing hockey shirts!" It turns out the man was Michael Ilitch Jr., whose family owns the Red Wings hockey team. Both Ilitch and his sister, Denise Lites, summer in Charlevoix.

Three short weeks later, at the live auction that benefited the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund, Mike Ilitch and Lites quickly grasped the opportunity and offered some most desirable items. Ilitch donated four tickets to see the Stanley Cup winners at a regular season game, with dinner in the Olympia room and a tour of the Joe Louis Arena. This item went for $2,200. The Liteses provided a personally autographed jersey by Red Wings player Steve Yzerman, which sold for $900.

Such prices were not uncommon at Sunday's smashing fund-raising event in East Park. The striking original painting by Kim Left went for $2,000. Her sunny circle was painted on all the programs and also on sweatshirts, which were worn by the host of volunteers and sold in the park. The bordering poem on the logo expressed the emotional feeling of the crowd.

"The lake is Round. It is a night beyond sight & sound. Those of us who remain stand in a circle, links in a chain, washed by the tears we've wept. It is a Morn. The Sun is a promise kept. A spark of Hope is reborn."

The iffy weather didn't deter 2,400 people, who bought tickets for $10 at the entrance booth, for Taste and Sounds of Northern Michigan. Each person received a red heart to be affixed to one's jacket. This entitled the wearer to taste as many of the delicacies available under the tents as they wished. Thirty restaurants from Boyne City, East Jordan, Ellsworth, Petoskey, Bay Harbor as well as Charlevoix prepared their gourmet morsels for the enthusiastic, hungry crowd.

No trail mix here! There was hot creamed broccoli and cheese soup and chilled gazpacho. There were tasty smoked salmon hors d'oeuvres, baby rack of lamp chops with a special sweet cherry sauce, colorful stir fry with rice, crispy fried chicken, deep fried whitefish, juicy spare ribs, flavorful spaghetti, plus generous submarine sandwiches, Tom's Mom's cookies, caramel apples, fresh pastries, sweet rolls and a variety of delicious pies. Hot coffee was available as well as large tubs filled with iced pop at $1 a can. Children volunteered to cart away the empty cans to the grocery stores and then donated the refunds to the cause.

Every station was well staffed by both uniformed chefs and volunteers. Visitors circled the tables like ballet dancers, tasting with their eyes as well as with their tongues. "Where did you get that?" was a frequent question, followed by "Isn't this wonderful?"

Yes, people are still talking about the friendly spirit that prevailed among all those dedicated townies who supported the project, the enthusiastic volunteers who gave their time, and the summer visitors who loyally attended this outstanding event. Everyone not only opened their hearts, but their pocketbooks as well to make this benefit a rousing success. The original goal of $100,000 was just half of the $200,000 that was raised in a very short space of time.

Because there were so many hundreds of people, who gave generously, the organizing committee regretfully has decided that it is impossible to thank each one individually.

There is more work to do. Now every victim's family has been asked to appoint a person to handle their immediate requests. These needs will be submitted to a small, experienced committee for quick approval. For example, three of the victims' homes are heated by wood-burning furnaces, which must be replaced. Chances are that service providers will continue to volunteer their time and energy.

The unfortunate fireworks explosion has brought forth an unprecedented outpouring of skills, energy and caring in this small town called Charlevoix the Beautiful. Let us hope this wholesome spirit is only the beginning of more wonderful happenings to come for this lovely area.

trailer," Dykehouse said.

The reconstruction should be complete by the end of September. The warehouse being used for the project is also used to store boats through the winter. It will need to be vacated this fall. Dykehouse said the reconstruction is going well and the length of the investigation has grown because of the large amount of evidence and witnesses, and that working with all the attorneys has slowed the process down. Witnesses will continue to be contacted next week.

If anyone else has pieces from the explosion, they should be dropped off at any local law enforcement office as soon as possible, or they can call the Michigan State Police at 347-8101.

Dykehouse said he estimates that the investigation will be over by the end of October. However, so far, police have found nothing striking.

"There's no smoking gun here saying 'this is the cause and why,'" Dykehouse said. "We may never have a cause."

Book Shelf

By Dianne Foster
Bridge Street Book Shop

Last evening Jon Browe, one of our Book Shop employees, was reviewing the Newbery Awards book list posted in the store. I smiled at his discovery that one of his favorite childhood books, Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH, won the Newbery Award 25 years ago.

"Wow," he mused. "I didn't realize that book was that old." (I thought, have 25 years passed since I read the newly released Mrs. Frisby to the two children I was babysitting?) "Have you read it?" Jon asked. "I have," I replied, "but it's been ... a few years. Although, I haven't read the sequel." I picked up Mrs. Frisby and read it again, so I could refresh my memory, before delving into the sequel.

In Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH, the author successfully combines an old-fashioned, talking animal story with futuristic scientific speculation.

When a widowed field mouse named Mrs. Frisby learns that her home and family may be destroyed by a farmer's garden plow, she seeks assistance from a group of super intelligent laboratory rats. The core of the book is a lengthy first-person account in which Nicodemus relates how he and other rats were captured by NIMH labs, treated with steroids, and taught to read, before eventually escaping to form an advanced rat society.

The masterfully written story-within-a-story is fascinating and raises many questions about what constitutes intelligence and civilization. The book has an interesting plot and excellent blend of scientific and nature writing. Mrs. Frisby would surely have built a large audience eventually, but it was helped immeasurably by winning the Newbery Medal in 1972. This book continues to be extremely popular with 8- to 12-year-old readers and was the basis for the 1982 motion picture, The Secret of NIMH. The author, Robert C. O'Brien, was an editor for National Geographic under his real name of Robert Leslie Conly.

The daughter of Robert C. O'Brien, Jane Leslie Conly, continued her late father's animal fantasy. Using his premise and many of the same characters, Conly wrote the sequel Rasco and the Rats of NIMH in 1986. The sequel concerns a field mouse and a young rat who help save the rodent settlement from being destroyed by developers. Conly's next sequel, R-T, Margaret, and the Rats of NIMH, was published in 1990. It contains the first significant human characters in the series, as a brother and sister get lost in the woods and are befriended by the rat community. The novel contains adventure and humor, but is not quite as focused as its two fine predecessors.

As we face the waning days of summer, book reports will soon be upon us. When you are stumped for a good animal fantasy or a Newbery Award book, Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH will fulfill the requirement and capture any child's (or adult's) imagination. While Rasco didn't win a Newbery, the quality of writing is excellent and the story is just as captivating.

Residents reclaim bridge Labor Day

The locals are moving in to reclaim the bridge on Labor Day.

Charlevoix's Little But Mighty Bridge Walk begins at 11:50 a.m. Monday, Sept. 1, in front of the Town House on Bridge Street. People can join the walk at the bridge. Please wear walking shoes.

"We get the bridge back," said Patty Sitzema, an annual walker who designed this year's commemorative T-shirt. "It's a fun way to end the summer."

> "We get the bridge back. It's a fun way to end the summer."
> — Patty Sitzema, designer of this year's commemorative T-shirt

The bridge walk has been part of the local Labor Day since 1988. It has become a fund-raiser, that this year, will donate its proceeds to the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund.

Donations will be taken at the bridge and 144 T-shirts will be for sale for $11 and $13, depending on the size.

The shirts will say Charlevoix Little But Mighty Bridge Walk, 1997 and have the "We Care" heart on the front. The shirts were designed by Patty Sitzema, an annual walker.

T-shirts can be purchased prior to the walk at Alexander's Restaurant.

In the past, the fund-raiser has donated money to the Charlevoix Ambulance Department for defibrillators, to Brian Roloff's fund and the humane society.

The Town House will open at 11 a.m. on Labor Day to help accommodate what organizers hope will be a crowd of people to take back the bridge.

This heart is filled with signatures of the hundreds of people who have donated time, money and skills to help the victims of the Venetian Festival fireworks explosion. It sits at the edge of East Park to remind the community of the ongoing needs of the victims and their families and to show the success of the fund-raiser Aug. 17.

Walkers also prepare to cross 'Little Hort'

Horton Bay is hosting its annual Candlelight Bridge Walk at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 1.

The walk will span "Little Hort," a 14-foot bridge that runs near the community's downtown, financial district.

Festivities will begin in Mary's backyard, which is within sight of the Horton Bay General Store. Ambulance services will be provided by Henry Erber, security by sheriff George T. Lasater and entertainment by Sean Ryan, Bob Munn and others.

Walkers can tackle the Little But Mighty Bridge in the morning and go after Little Hort at dusk.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark—nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

Family donates cross to church

Before Joe Spurgeon died in October of 1998, he envisioned a cross with flames on the steeple at the United Methodist Church.

He was determined that after the addition was complete, he would either buy the cross or start a fund to raise the money.

Friday, Spurgeon's vision became a reality when a cross with flames was lifted into place on the outside of the State Street church.

"Joe always felt that there should be a cross on the steeple," said pastor Dale Ostema.

The cross was designed about 1965 to recognized the union of the Methodist and the Evangelical United Brethren churches into the United Methodist Church. The cross signifies the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ while the flame is a symbol of the Holy Spirit.

To Trina, one of Spurgeon's four children, the flame also represents the flames of faith in people's hearts.

Spurgeon was the director of The Rainbow Shoppe for years before his death.

Sunday, the church will recognize the contribution of the cross in memory of Joe Spurgeon.

This cross on the United Methodist steeple is a gift from Joe Spurgeon's family in memory of him.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Courier columnist

I am growing in my understanding that sailors have a deep love for their ships. That's why you will hear most true mariners speak of their vessels in terms of being grand ladies. There is so much tradition and heritage involved that it really does remind me of the courtship of two sweethearts. In fact, really die-hard, blue water fans would go so far as to tell you that they are married to two people, their spouse and their ship.

One of the Great Lakes special ladies shared her heart with one of her own this weekend. It was my high privilege and joy to preside over a christening on board the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia. Custom dictates that the ship's bell is taken down and filled with water for the occasion. There on the bridge, Karl and Dawn Schultz brought their newborn daughter, Annaliese Nicole, to seek the Lord's and the Acacia's blessing.

It was almost as if the other ships in the harbor knew something special was going on. The Beaver Islander steamed into port as if to curtsy to the tiny little lady that gazed out at her from her mother's arms. The proud master of his ship beamed with joy as he surveyed his physical family and the nautical children that look to him as their guardian. The sky was blue. The wind was fresh. It was as if God had arranged a personal salute for the occasion.

To cap the blessing, we made an unexpected discovery. Military tradition calls for the name of every child christened on board a ship to be inscribed in her bell. In fifty-two years, we thought surely there would be a name or two inside. We were more than amazed to find that there were no names in the bell. Annaliese's name will go in there, and when the time comes for Acacia to finally retire, custom calls for the bell to be given to her in honor of this day.

If you haven't figured it out yet, this was a very precious moment not just for Karl and Dawn, but also for me. The reason why I wanted to share it with you is to ask you to consider where your own heart is with another special lady. You see, back where I was raised in the deep south, they speak of the "good old ship of Zion." They are talking about the church, the future bride of Christ. And in 24 years of serving aboard that sacred ship, I have had some adventures, too.

She gets storm tossed now and then. The billows of sin, doubt, or fear can blow up and cause her a rough ride. But if you know that ship's Master, you know that He is an expert at piloting His vessel safely through. In those dark times of anyone's life, there's nothing like the feel of her solid deck underneath of you. The Bible is her ship's log and it bears the record of past courses charted, as well as future ports of call. When life is sweet, there are no better crew members to share it with than those you'll find with her. And should an ill wind blow, you'll find they are the first to rally to your side.

In my role as the Acacia's chaplain, I will always remember little Annaliese Nicole. Knowing her mother and father, I suspect we'll hear great things from her as she grows. But in my role as pastor, my heart goes out to you, too. If you haven't sailed with the "good old ship of Zion" lately, you don't know what you're missing. Be a part of the crew. You'll fall in love with the ship before you know it, and there's no better captain than Jesus.

Bank appoints staff

Since its July 1 merger with CB North, Citizens Bank-Charlevoix has been abuzz with change beginning at the top. James R. Kanary has taken the reins as bank president from outgoing president Francis B. Flanders.

The changes continue as Kanary announces the following officer appointments:

John E. Kurtz was named senior vice president and commercial loan manager; Kathleen M. Meggison, was named assistant vice president, branch administration; Kurt M. Kellet was named commercial relationship officer; and Jean M. Konecki was named banking officer at the Boyne City office.

Kurtz joined the bank in 1981 as loan officer and cashier. In addition to several years of experience in commercial loans, he has worked in consumer loans. Prior to this appointment, he was a commercial loan officer.

Meggison began her banking career in 1974 in customer service, and also worked as a teller, branch manager and retail market manager. During her 25 years in banking she has had experience in many areas, including bookkeeping, consumer lending, mortgage lending and branch administration. Meggison will assume responsibility for all branch retail sales and marketing.

Kellet joined the bank in 1996 as a credit analyst in commercial loans, a position he has held until his recent promotion to commercial relationship officer.

Rain puts damper on club's Wednesday races

All that talk of perfect weather in the '97 Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series was washed away Aug. 20. The brave, the dedicated and those close in the standings were out in force, but several found internal applications of liquids to be preferable to the exterior alternative.

For a change, the Jib and Main Fleet D did not have the first finisher. This time, those honors went to Tireless, as she crossed the line at 7:26.42 p.m., followed by Flash at 7:27.32 p.m. and Mi Joy at 7:28.29 p.m.

Once you took the different starting times and rating into account, the corrected times told a very different story! The hot J-22 Fleet E's leader, Hussy at 0:58.15, is first overall and first in class. Stalworth (0:58.53) is second overall and first in Class C. Hussy's classmate, H.S. Moisture (0:50.41), is third overall. All the other yachts corrected out at over one hour, although Tireless only missed by nine seconds.

In the big boats of Class A, Kamikaze took first, second and last, as she was the only one in the class to brave the elements. Her corrected time of 1:03.45 left her back at the one dozen position overall, but she does pick up some needed points in Class A.

In Class B, it was almost a parade with Mi Joy (1:03.03) just 13 seconds ahead of M-3 (1:03.16), just 30 seconds ahead of Cabaret (1:03.46). Our Thyme II was the only other finisher, well back at 1:06.51.

The Iron Maidens of Class C saw first across the line, Tireless (1:00.09), which failed to save her time against Stalworth (0:58.53). Lost Vermonter (1:02.59) then found herself in the money with a solid third place. Cygnus and Blasen III, at 1:04.17 and 1:1:05.09, were the only others out there.

A. Nony Mouse

As is rather normal this season, Flash was the first Class D Jib and Main yacht to cross the finish line, however, she failed to finish in the money. All three of the only other Jib and Main racing yachts, braving dark and stormy waters, corrected ahead of her time of 1:13.49. Bomma (1:07.55) is first in class with Red Comet (1:09.48) and Apothecary (1:12.21) trailing.

The out-of-the-money finishers (fourth through eighth) in Fleet E finished within a two minute period, but first place Hussy (0:58.15) had nearly a minute and a half on H.S. Moisture (0:59.41) as did Moisture over Gecko (1:01.05).

Lesson 7. Rehash, Reflect and Revise - the three R's of racing. Try it this week - on the way back from the finish line let each person tell two short stories - what was the biggest problem or mistake observed and what was the highpoint of the race. If you find sailing off on the wrong side of the course keeps coming up, try playing follow-the-leader up to the last minute and then simply pass. By then the other guy will hopefully be a basket case and will make the simple mistake for which you've been waiting. If bad spinnaker jibs seem to be a problem, practice all the way to the starting line next week. If there is frustration, try changing jobs or job assignments. Often having the skipper calling tactics but not being at the helm brings out the best in the boat. If the owner really makes the boat go but you still lose races, have some one else call the strategy. Good Luck!

See you at the Red Fox Regatta. Meanwhile — here's to Mount Gay!

There are no standings report - you don't appreciate the scorer until he is out of town!

The week's summary:

Fleet A: Kamikaze.

Fleet B: Mi Joy, M-3, Cabaret and Our Thyme II.

Fleet C: Stalworth, Tireless, Lost Vermonter, Cygnus and Blasen III.

Fleet D: Booma, Red Comet, Apothecary and Flash.

Fleet E: Hussy, H.S. Moisture, Gecko, Floyd, Swine Flew, Reckless, Paleface Lite and Cathach.

New athletic director leads Charlevoix sports programs through new seasons

By Jamie MacMillan

Keith Haske will be a new face for high school students and athletes' parents as he steps into his roll as assistant high school principal, athletic director and boys' basketball coach.

As the Rayders sail towards a new sports season, they do so with a new captain steering the ship.

Keith Haske takes over as athletic director, replacing Barry Anderson who retired in June. He will also serve as assistant high school principal and the head coach for the boys' basketball team.

After graduating from Alma University in 1980 with a degree in education, Haske began his career at Fowlerville High School. He quickly changed jobs after one year and settled at St. John's High School, where he was a social studies teacher and coach of three sports. He ran their basketball program for 13 years, was an assistant football coach for 16 years, and took on a stint as head varsity tennis coach for three seasons. As a head basketball coach, his teams won or shared seven league titles in the Mid-Michigan Class B League.

"I enjoy any sport you can think of," he said.

> "Charlevoix gives me an opportunity to expand professionally and gives me a great place to raise my family. There are few places that I can go that offer both."
> — Keith Haske, athletic director

Entering into administration has always been a career goal for Haske, and he completed his graduate work in K-12 administration at Michigan State University in 1991.

"Charlevoix gives me an opportunity to expand professionally and gives me a great place to raise my family," he said. "There are few places that I can go that offer both."Haske's wife Barb is an ultra-sound technician and they have two children. Tyler is 8 and will be in the third grade and Chelsey is 5 and will entering kindergarten this fall.

Throughout his three positions for Charlevoix, the underlying current will be discipline. His assistant principal duties include being dean of students, a job known for having to discipline students when they veer off the directed path. Haske describes himself as an "old-school guy."

"Kids respect discipline, and if you take the time to sit them down one-on-one, 90 percent of the time you'll get that respect back," he said.

Athletics, regardless of the sport, is a critical part of a student's education, Haske said. Its value is that it teaches self-discipline, how to overcome conflicts, how to handle both winning and losing, and how to be part of a team.

"Athletics and the people involved should stand for something," he said. "We are here for education and some of these lessons will take a student farther."

On the court, Haske is a fast-break coach. Originally turned on by the teams coached by Paul Westhead at Loyola Marymount University in California, which in the late 1980s set NCAA tournament records for scoring, he has since become a Rick Pitino devotee. It's not so much that Pitino's system was better, but it got more players involved. One of Haske's goals every year is to make sure all the athletes get a chance on the court.

Haske said too often high school coaches get too much of the blame for losing and too much of the credit for winning when all they do is "coach the players that come to them."

One of his hobbies includes skiing, and he said he's excited to catch ski action this winter as most schools down in the St. John's area don't compete in high school skiing. He also enjoys running, playing golf and boating.

Municipal hosts four-person scramble

The Charlevoix Golf Club is hosting a city tournament at the municipal golf course. A shot gun start will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, for the four-person scramble.

The event will include 18 holes of golf, twice around the course. It is limited to the first 18 teams to register at the Proshop. The cost is $60 per team.

For more information, call 547-3268.

Girls' basketball season kicks off on the road

Charlevoix's girls basketball teams began play this week with a home contest Tuesday against Petoskey. Results were unavailable at press time. The girls continue with a road contest at Ellsworth on Thursday, Aug. 28. The junior varsity game begins at 6 p.m.

Golf team takes first place at tourney

Under misty, drizzly conditions, the Charlevoix golf team teed-off in thrilling fashion Thursday taking first-place honors at the annual Bulldog Invitational at the Indian River Country Club.

In the 17-team field, complete with 85 golfers, the Rayders placed third in the top 10.

Ryan Murdick paced the team with a 78, finishing in an individual tie for second place. Jason Vincent placed eighth with an 84 and freshmen Craig Siwarga shot an 85 placing him 10th.

"It was fun to see him out there smiling," coach Jim Glynn said of Siwarga. "He stayed steady and relaxed."

Jonathan Sell shot an 89 and Keith Grunch shot a 101.

Only the top four scores were taken into the final results, and Charlevoix paced the field with a 336. Harbor Springs was second with a 343 and Suttons Bay third with a 358.

Last year, the squad placed third in two invitationals and second in another, but couldn't capture a first place.

"This is a great start for us. The kids have been working really hard," Glynn said. "We played into another level, and hopefully we can stay with that."

Earlier in the week, the Rayders placed sixth out of 13 teams in the C-D bracket of the Russ Harvey Memorial at Boyne Mountain Golf Course.

Grunch shot an 83, Vincent 84, Murdick 86, Sell 99 and Siwarga 101. Columbus Academy of Ohio won the C-D bracket.

"It rained like heck, and I think everyone was a little nervous," Glynn said.

The golfers squared off in a dual meet Tuesday at the Belvedere against Gaylord and won't play again until a dual match at Kalkaska 4:30 Wednesday, Sept. 3. The results of the match with Gaylord weren't available at press time.

Soccer team fails in final game of invitational

Josh Block took his soccer team to play in the four team Leland Invitational over the weekend and came out with a split.

The Rayders behind goals from Sean Stockman and Ryan Vogelheim downed Buckley 2-1 in the opener.

However, in the title game, they gave up a goal to Leland during the game's first two minutes and found themselves down 3-0 at the half.

The Rayders rediscovered the scoring touch when Michael Ricks crossed the ball to Stockman who volleyed it into the net. However, the Rayders fell 3-1.

Block said keeper Drew Belding played solid all weekend, and he stopped a penalty kick in the championship game to keep the score that much closer.

The squad opens at home this week at 6 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28 against Gaylord.

Charlevoix County foundation awards grant to local nonprofits

The local foundation and its Youth Advisory Committee recently announced grants totaling $35,360 to support a host of projects benefiting residents of the area.

The new grants bring the community foundation's grantmaking total to $462,500 in just the last four years.

"With our assets now at nearly $5 million, we're able to do so much more for the communities we serve," explains Mike Stowe, president of the local charitable organization. "All of us who live and vacation in Charlevoix County are beginning to see the long-term impact this foundation can make."

Programs chosen from the Community Foundation Unrestricted Fund, used to support a variety of initiatives:

— Charlevoix Area Hospital, $2,000 toward the purchase of a CT scanner

— Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, $1,100 to sponsor "Tools and Techniques for Downtown Revitalization," a one-day workshop for community leaders

— Raven Hill Discovery Center, $1,000 to support programming at the hands-on science center

Programs chosen from the Charlevoix County Youth Fund, used to support programs that benefit children and families:

— Boyne City Adventure Club, $2,000 to sponsor an after-school activity club for at-risk youngsters

— Camp Quality of Northern Michigan, $4,000 to host a winter ski weekend for teen cancer survivors

— Beaver Island Community School, $1,260 for a physics enrichment program taught by a volunteer professor from MSU; $500 toward the purchase of camping equipment for youth activities

— Preservation Association of Beaver Island, $1,000 toward the renovation of the Dockside Market as a community center; $700 for a sound system to be used at teen dances and other community functions

— Crooked Tree District Library, $1,000 to help furnish the children's section of the newly renovated library in Boyne Falls

— Third Level Crisis Intervention Center, $1,000 to support crisis intervention and counseling services in Charlevoix County

The community foundation will accept grant proposals from area nonprofit organizations again this fall. Programs chosen for funding usually address environmental concerns, or support health, education, human service or civic needs.

Emergency workers clean up oil spill

helped if it had.

"By the time we got out of the plane, we could hear the sirens," Betty said.

The plane's propeller was bent, along with part of a wing tip. The couple reserved seats on Island Airways — a company they started in 1975 — to get back to the island.

The Welkes have lived on Beaver Island for 40 years. Betty said that in more than 50 years of flying, they have never experienced an incident like what happened Friday.

With the Welkes safely out of the plane, emergency workers began to turn the plane upright from its nose and two front wheels and clean up the runway.

The electric department brought two trucks with a sling, which was put around the tail. The plane was pulled down by firefighters on ropes and the sling.

The gas leak was stopped and the oil spill soaked up with Oil Dry. The gas evaporated.

Before leaving, firefighters hosed down the runway to remove any remaining residue.

A copy of the accident report is being sent to the Federal Aviation Administration, as is standard procedure.

> "By the time we got out of the plane, we could hear the sirens."

Courtesy, honor, patriotism found on America's coins

By Larry Laske
Courier columnist

Well here we are again! Did you find out what "E Pluribus Unum" means?

Remember what I said last time? That it is one of the four things found on every coin made here in the United States. If you concluded that it means: "One out of many" you are a real "winner."

Of course, if you came even remotely close, I'll still give you credit. The next question is: Why do you suppose the powers that be decided to put this on all of our coins? Whether taken literally or figuratively, it serves as a reminder that the overwhelming majority of the people here in the United States are a potpourri of individuals from all sorts of ethnic backgrounds and religions.

We are also white, black, yellow, tan and all shades in between. Additionally, you can find tall, short, good looking, ugly, fat, skinny, well-built, pretty, boring, calm, obnoxious, ethnocentric, stupid, smart, agnostic, religious, nerdy, malicious and (you name it) kind of people in every town in this country.

Stars and Stripes Forever

This country is great because we are made up of every conceivable kind of individual, and it is this diversity that gives us all of our strength. "One country out of many." Neat, aye? That of course is the ideal, the truly perfect situation.

Don't you all wish that it could be that way in all situations? Wouldn't it be marvelous to live in a world where we all truly got along and tried in every situation to see and understand the viewpoint of others? I honestly can't think of another thing that would make for a more perfect world! Wasn't it Martin Luther King who said something like: "Judge a person not by the color of their skin but on the content of their character." Think of this one for a moment: "The best lack all conviction while the worst are full of passionate intensity." (Think a bit longer ...)

I can clearly recall someone saying to me about a zillion years ago, "You can't learn anything with your mouth open." That simply means that if you are not listening, you're not learning! How many times have you found yourself saying, "Geeze, I didn't know that" or "I never looked at it that way."

Apparently, if we truly want to learn and get along with others, we just have to start trying to understand that there may be better ways to do it, a more obvious answer, a different, valid viewpoint, something that we haven't thought of .... that is unless you are one of the "perfect" people that I previously mentioned.

Words like patience, understanding, sincerity, helpfulness, kindness, humanitarianism and empathy are the sort of character that our founding father's had in mind when they came up with the constitution, and their successors decided to put the words "U Pluribus Unum" on all of our coins. They wanted to make every effort to "blend" our entire society, this potpourri of individuals, into the ideal.

I'll close with something from Everett Alvarez, Jr.'s book "Code of Conduct." Alvarez was the member of the United States armed forces and was confined as a prisoner of war during the Vietnam conflict longer than any other individual (more than eight-and-a-half years). In this part of the book, he is relating a significant event that happened to him when he was a youngster, just beginning to date scene. He was thrilled to be taking out a girl from the "right side of the tracks." He was shocked that night when he was told by this pretty young lady that they would have to meet secretly in the future because her parents strongly objected to him being of Mexican descent.

"Meeting secretly wouldn't be right," he told her. Later on that night, he talked to his father about what happened. He was told that those kind of people are ignorant. At this point, he goes on to write: "I saw clearly that there was nothing I could do about being of Mexican descent. Inside I knew who I was, why I was and what I could do. I had a right to be as proud of my Spanish/Indian/Mexican American background as other Americans were of their heritages. As a good scholar and athlete, I had every right to dream the American dream. Others couldn't know this just by looking at me. If they misjudged me by my skin color or by the spelling of my name, it was a form of ignorance, and they were the poorer for it.

"One out of many. One country of many."

See you next time.

Tom Nelson holds his 5-year-old son, David, Friday and watches employees in Big Rock Point nuclear power plant's control room, during the final seconds that the plant will ever produce electricity. Tom's wife, Shiela, also watches a television monitor that shows employees shutting down the plant.

Countdown ends

Big Rock Point silenced after 35 years

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier reporter

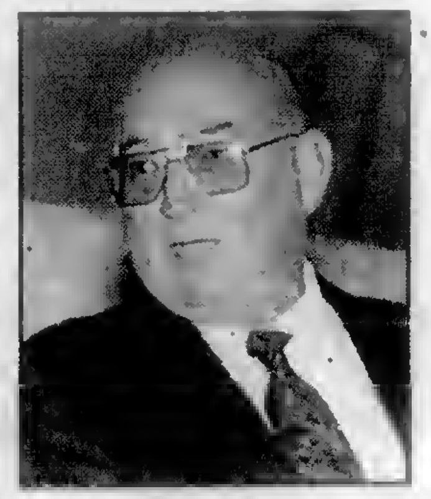
Amid the bag pipes, catered lunch and giveaways, Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes recognized the local loss to shutting down Big Rock Point nuclear power plant.

"This is a sweet sadness," he said to the about 1,000 guests who attended the plant's shutdown ceremony Friday. "This is an end to a way to life."

To honor the occasion, the mayor donned a suit coat and tie, a move that he said is only made in his life for funerals. He paralleled the shutting down of the plant and the departure of many of its employees to a funeral. He noted that the company's contributions to nonprofit organizations will be missed.

Barnes remembers when Consumers Energy electricity wasn't available in Hayes Township. As one of the founders of LexaLite, he first became involved with the company by trying to expand its coverage area to ensure reliable power to the plastics plant. He went door-to-door gaining support.



Barnes

In the 1980s, when Consumers was seeking to expand the plant's pool — a place where already-used, high level fuel rods are stored — Barnes and friends staged a protest of the protests that were speaking out against the company's plans.

"We had seven times the protesters by serving cider and donuts," he said.

Barnes' group decided to travel to the other camp to count the number of locals involved in the anti-nuclear protest.

Ben Franklin era ends in Charlevoix

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor
and Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Big Rock Point nuclear power plant is not the only historic business closing its doors.

Ben Franklin/True Value Hardware, an original anchor store in the Captain's Corner business strip, will be closing its doors sometime this month, said store owner Dale Miller.

Miller plans on moving all his inventory to the store his brother owns in East Jordan.

Like his colleagues at the nuclear plant, Miller said he had little choice in the matter.

"I want to stay here. Charlevoix has been good to me," he said. "I don't want to move."

While Miller owns the store and all its inventory. He rents the building from Captain's Corner developer/owner Leo Quinn, an orthopedic doctor from Boca Raton, Fla.

After the national Ben Franklin chain went bankrupt in April, Miller's lease — along with other store's — was put up for auction to help pay off the company's debts. Quinn bought the 20-year-old lease. This gave him the right to raise the rent.

Miller said that initial numbers mentioned between Quinn and himself were four times his current rent — an increase he can't afford.

Quinn said he just wants to increase the rent to fair market value. Ben Franklin has had a 20 year lease that has kept its rent well below that of other businesses in the mall, which is located near the corner of M-66 and U.S. 31.

"We were actually losing money on the lease," Quinn said. "They were the only one in the center that had this really low, sub minimal rent."

He added that the store's long-

Middle school may lose one portable

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

As Jane Garver begins to prep her eighth-graders in the finer points of English and French, a controversy swirls around the portable classroom they call home.

By the time the swirls settle, though, Garver and her students may find that their classroom has vanished, the result of a not-so-typical landlord-tenant dispute.

The portable, the second one in line going right as you look at the middle school from Mason Street, is owned by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. But for the last nine years, it has been used by the middle school for Garver's classes.

Under a rental agreement signed in 1987, the ISD and the 11 other area school districts may charge $4.71 for rent for every square foot of their space used by another school.

For example, Boyne City has a biology class that wants to use the shore of South Arm as a basis for experiments. They decided to set-up shop in the 25-by-25 spare room in East Jordan's middle school. Boyne City schools would need to pay East Jordan schools $2,943.55 per year for the access.

When the time came last month for the Charlevoix Board of Education to approve their own rental payment to Char-Em for $4,512 to use the portable, the board balked at doling out a rent check for a room that they repair.

"This is a sweet puff of a deal," Scott Boss said, noting that if Charlevoix charged Char-Em for space and time it takes from the local school, the bill would "be

Bankruptcy plays part in closing store

term lease also capped its payments for common expenses for renters in the mall, like lighting for the parking lot.

Miller said that the lease for Ben Franklin was written when the store became one of two anchor stores for the new development 20 years ago, in 1977. Glen's was the second anchor store.

Quinn did not own the center when it opened. He bought it in 1983. In a nation where small, family-owned businesses are struggling to survive, the owner said the Captain's Corner is an exception to the rule. A number of its tenants are small business owners, including Barb's Hallmark, Mariners Laundry and a new audiologists office.

"This place (Captain's Corner) would not be here if not for some of us," he said. "He's not concerned with history, just the bottom line."

For Quinn, the bottom line is running a successful business, which is currently including an exterior facelift for the center, redoing the parking lot's drainage, repaving the top surface by midNovember and adding directional stripes and adding a new addition that will house four different stores. One store will sell children's clothing.

Stores pay rent by the square foot. Ben Franklin has 10,000 square feet and Miller said he was wanting to expand. However, his rent didn't compare with any other large store in the center, Quinn said.

"It's just one of those things," Quinn said. "They don't want to pay fair market value because they haven't been."

With Ben Franklin on its way out, Quinn is adding 5,000 square feet to the back of the store and plans to rent it out as smaller units.

Barb Kluczynski, of Barb's Hallmark, rents a smaller space near Ben Franklin. She said that she never enjoys rental increases, but that Quinn has not upped her rent by exorhitant amounts.

"You always want to pay as little as you can," she said.

Overall, Kluczynski is pleased with the renovations being made at the center. She has been in business there for nearly 20 years.

"We're going to look new and fresh again," she said.

Renovations are being made to the entire Captain's Corner strip mall, including a new look, improved drainage, repaving and restriping of the parking lot and more stores.

Quinn runs the mall from his practice in Florida. Local businessmen help handle maintenance and draft rental agreements.

Miller will be running his family business with his brother in East Jordan. He said that he does plan to make deliveries to his customers who need him to. Moving out of the store, he said, has not only been difficult for him, but for his customers.

"I've had people in here in tears because we're leaving," Miller said. "It makes it harder to do what we're doing."

Events in brief

Free carpal tunnel class set

Do you have tingling, numbness, or pain in your fingers or hands? Do these symptoms bother you during the day, or only wake you up at night? Do they bother you while holding your hand in one place, such as driving or reading?

These are questions your doctor may ask you to see if you have symptoms of carpal tunnel syndrome. Prevention is the best "treatment" for the symptom, and there may be ways for you to reduce your risk at home and at work. With early diagnosis, you can help prevent and minimize symptoms while reducing the risk of permanent damage to your wrists.

Orthopedic Surgeon Steven Vorenkamp, of Bay Street Orthopedics, and Chuck Smith, of Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center, will be talking on carpal tunnel syndrome, including prevention, early diagnosis and treatment options from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the Community Health Education Center in Petoskey.

There is no charge for this class.

To register or for more information, call Northern Michigan Hospital HealthAccess at 1(800) 248-6777.

Middle school hosts parent night

Charlevoix Middle School is hosting Parent Night from 6:30-9:15 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, at the school. The staff will be hosting the event to better acquaint parents and guardians with their children's daily schedules.

The annual educational report will also be given.

A general welcome and introduction of staff will begin at 6:30 p.m. by the principal. Beginning at 7 p.m., guests will travel through the school to their child's classes, first through eighth hour, including Channel One.

Parents are asked to bring a copy of their student's daily schedule to follow for the evening.

Coffee, punch and cookies will be available throughout the evening.

CPR training offered

A CPR class for health care workers will be held Monday, Sept. 29, at Charlevoix Area Hospital, beginning promptly at 6 p.m. and ending at 10 p.m.

This is a class for EMT's, nursing personnel and CPR instructors. Students will learn CPR for adults, children and infants; airway obstruction; two-man CPR; and automated external defibrillator use.

The agenda will include mannequin testing and a written test. The class fee is $25, which includes the manual.

Charlevoix Area Hospital is a designated Community Training Center for CPR. Please call the Charlevoix Area Hospital switchboard operator to register at 547-4024. For further information call Connie Roland or Linda Sheppard at that number.

Serious end of summer stepping

Bodies span the iron grate of the bridge Monday as locals reclaim their territory during Charlevoix's Little But Mighty Bridge Walk. People were told to take their time ... to walk slowly for all the time we've spent waiting for boaters who had the right-of-way this summer. In addition to the annual walk, $1,000 was raised for the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund. T-shirts were sold and some walkers carried cereal boxes around to collect donations.

City council goes after airport expansion, park grants

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Charlevoix's city council is preparing for another round of city improvements. To do so, council members are hoping for state grants to come into city coffers.

Two of their planned projects focus on the continued development of the municipal airport. In two separate grant requests to the Michigan Department of Transportation, Bureau of Aeronautics, the city hopes to expand their airport terminal and runway.

The proposed terminal expansion would more than double the size of the present terminal from 1,178 square feet to 2,712 square feet. Original estimates from architect Jack Begrow's office were priced above $450,000. But modifications to the blueprint, which includes a manager's office, a pilot's lounge, two barrier-free bathrooms, a larger lobby and a covered terrace facing the runway, have scaled the price back to $380,500.

City manager Mike Wiesner reported to council that MDOT hinted at covering half of the costs, while most of the council wanted to see payment for "frill" items — like new gates, signs and landscaping — be taken out of the plan to lower costs and not scare off any grant money.

"The fact is, we have an untenable place that has to get us through another winter," mayor Josh Barnes said of the terminal. "The runway might be a higher priority, but this is pretty important because it tells people we are a real airport."

The long-awaited runway expansion is still in limbo pending help from MDOT. Wiesner reported that MDOT seemed more willing to help with the runway than a simple building expansion.

The plan is to extend the runway 250 feet on each end and build a 100-by-50-foot turnaround on the west end, adjacent to the Medusa quarry. This would give aircraft 4,500 feet for take offs going west and 4,800 feet for take offs and landings going east.

Councilman Bernie DeVries questioned going through with the expansion for larger jets since many of his constituents have expressed concerns about the added noise they'd bring.

Barnes said that now planes must use 100 percent of their brake power to accommodate landing on a smaller path, which creates more noise. With a larger target, planes can come in with less power and ultimately less noise. Barnes does, however, expect more jet traffic with a larger runway.

"Some planes can only come in here with perfect weather, with this expansion they can come in in most conditions," he said.

The expansion's cost will hover around $228,000. An MDOT grant would cover all but $22,800 of the bill.

Council also approved chasing two grants from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, recreation division for renovation and expansion of Depot Beach.

The first plan involves adding restrooms, volleyball and other play areas, walking trails, landscap-

We all put 'mom and pop' shops out of business

EDITORIAL

Ben Franklin is leaving town.

The hometown variety store is departing from its location in Captain's Corner shopping center by the end of September. But owner Dale Miller isn't buying his own building or renting more square footage somewhere else.

He's closing the store forever and taking any leftover merchandise to the East Jordan store, which is run by his brother.

Hometown variety stores are on the outs. And it's irresponsible for people to blame investors and developers for the nationwide trend that is now reaching into Charlevoix. Each time we step into a mass-merchandise store, we take money that would have been spent at the local variety store and invest it in a national chain. Even though Ben Franklin grew into a national chain, which went bankrupt in April, the stores were owned by locals.

The convenience trend that has encouraged fast-food restaurants to pop up on almost every corner and expressway exit is one of the reasons the corporation has gone bankrupt. People want one-stop shopping. Shoppers make a day of driving to Traverse City to buy school clothes for their children or Christmas presents for the family. Our excuse is that it's more "affordable." But we forget to consider the time spent, the cost of the gasoline and lunch, and any other additional expenses. In the end, we haven't saved a dime.

Charlevoix has struggled to keep year-round businesses. More and more summer shops are lining Bridge Street, only to be closed down for the winter months. Then we are forced to drive miles in snowy conditions to get the merchandise we need because we didn't shop locally to begin with.

Convenience has cost us for more than we realize.

Dale Miller's father founded Ben Franklin in Charlevoix20 years ago. The shop was an anchor store for one of the area's first strip malls. And like Woolworth in Petoskey and Dalquist in Boyne City, it is fading away as locals look elsewhere for their many needs.

Let's not point fingers and blame the developers of this world for ripping up farm land to build large, mass-merchandise stores. Let's look at ourselves and honestly admit that they are meeting the demands that we put on the marketplace.

If everyone committed to shopping in the Charlevoix area and supporting the small business owner, they could afford to pay rent increases, cover the losses found during some winter months and hire workers year-round. They would not be as dependent on the tourists for their livelihood.

Letters to the editor

Camp McSauba success continues

Editor:

Another summer of Camp McSauba is in the memory book for many who have attended our day camp in previous years. At the end of each week there were several kids begging their parents to let them go back to camp again the next week.

This year we had some children attend every session of the summer! We were blessed with the presence of 506 campers this summer with every week taking over our limit of 65 kids. There were also many who were turned down.

We have put on a 1,500-square-foot addition. We still feel we will fill every session, so just to be safe - get those applications in early next year!

At this time I would like to thank the organizations that funded our program. Without the help of United Way of Charlevoix area, the Rainbow Shoppe, American Legion Auxiliary #226, VFW Auxiliary, and Mark and Eileen Kleiman, our camp would not be possible. I would also like to take this time to thank my hard-working staff for everything they've done.

After a challenging and busy summer, we are ready to hit the sketch board for new ideas next summer.

We will still be taking tax-deductible donations for the addition of the building at Camp McSauba. These donations will help take us into the next stage of the building. If you would like to donate to this building fund, please send checks payable to Camp McSauba - Building Fund at: Charlevoix Recreation Department 210 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Have a great year and we'll see you again next summer!

Meg Fowler
Camp Director

City council persistent Depot Beach grant

ing, and a boaters dock to Depot Beach on Lake Charlevoix.

Resident Robert Pugh expressed concern at restrooms being placed too close to the historical society's depot museum as well as the inclusion of a dock.

"I don't see any need for docks," he said. "The purpose of that beach is to be kept free from boats coming in and water skiers coming in and out and in and out."

Resident Chuck Papineau said, "We don't need a boaters dock on a bathing beach."

Council quickly addressed that by unanimously approving the renovation without a dock. The preliminary cost for the renovations is $181,000, but the grant could cover all but $57,000.

Should a second grant being sought for Depot Beach be approved, Charlevoix may see an expansion of the beach area. It would purchase about .35 of an acre across from the Coast Guard station. While not adjoined with the Depot Beach, it would be considered an extension.

Earlier this summer, the council sought a grant for the same investment. However, it was denied. Application for this grant would cover the same venture.

The land is owned by developer Stewart Kauffman. He already has been turned down by the city and all it's appeal boards for variances on the property to build a house there. Preliminary circuit court rulings have favored the city, and legal action will continue should the city not be able to buy the land.

If purchased, the area would be turned into a scenic reserve, Barnes said, as a place to picnic, fish, watch sunsets, and would remain an unobstructed view corridor for the Coast Guard monitoring Lake Charlevoix.

"People will get a chance to fish and see a sunset. This is an excellent chance for the City of Charlevoix," councilman Bruce Reid said.

Even if the city succeeds in this sequel attempt to get a grant for the property, the price of the land might squash any attempt to purchase.

The land has been estimated to value $355,000. With the grant, the city's end of the bill would be $107,665. Because of regulations during the grant approval process, the city may not negotiate any price with the seller. It was reported that the tax value of the land is about $34,200.

"There is probably a 50-50 chance that even if we get this grant, we would turn it (the offer) down," he said.

The city expects word on its grants during the next three to four months.

Big Rock Point's premature closing prompts no layoffs

"Out of 35 protesters, we could only identify three," he said. "And one was from Emmet County and that doesn't count."

Joanne Beemon was one of the Charlevoix residents that was counted a local. She, too, attended the closing of the plant.

"I was really surprised how sad I was," she said. "It was the end of a nuclear dream — a dream to take little nuclear pellets and get endless power. We wanted something for nothing.

"Now we move into a nuclear nightmare, that's nuclear waste," she added, noting that to her, Aug. 27, 1997, is the first day in a 250,000 year journey of monitoring the highly toxic waste created during Big Rock Point's years in business.

Barnes saw the shutdown differently. In the 35 years that the small, boiling water reactor has produced electricity, he said that it has helped put Charlevoix on the map around the world, and said that it has improved and spread a good image for the community.

"You have made nuclear power appear safe and solid and sound," he said.

At 10:32 a.m., nuclear control operators, Chuck Metzger and Andrew Loe, pressed the last two red buttons in the control room inside the plant to take the turbine generator off line. The nuclear reaction stopped. The fuel will cool at a rate less than 100 degrees per hour.

The shutdown ended Big Rock Point's daily accumulation to being the nation's oldest and longest running nuclear power plant. It was the first plant constructed in Michigan and the fifth in the United States.

Consumers representatives have said that the small plant has closed because of high operating costs. The plant was licensed by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission to operate until May 31, 2000. It opened in 1962.

"The employees at Big Rock Point have been pioneers in harnessing the atom and demonstrating that electricity can be safely generated by nuclear power," said plant manager Ken Powers. "Our next challenge is demonstrating that a nuclear power plant can be decommissioned in the same manner and within budget. I am very confident that we can succeed."

According to Dave Joos, president and chief executive officer-electric for Consumers, the plant's shutdown has not resulted in any layoffs. Out of the plant's 220 employees, including Burns Security, about 160 are still working there. According to Tim Petrosky, the plant's public affairs director, 17 to 20 employees have accepted transfers elsewhere in the company and about 15 have left Consumers for other jobs or ventures. Many of those who have remained will undergo job changes to help with decommissioning. Employee numbers are expected to increase to 300 during some parts of the dismantling.

Decommissioning the plant involves moving the nuclear fuel from the reactor into a storage pool inside the containment building. It will remain there until transportable, dry cask canisters are approved by the regulatory commission and brought to the site for loading.

The plant is expected to be immediately dismantled. A radioactive dump in Barnwell, S.C., is open to receive the the low-level waste, such as the building parts and much of the equipment. The high level waste — the fuel — will remain on the property until a federal repository is opened.

City dedicates road to former attorney

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

After 12 years, the Gibbons family experienced closure to the death of their father and husband, Michael Gibbons, with the dedication of a road in the industrial park.

Gibbons Drive carries the name of the former city attorney and his family. To the children, the drive is "dad's road."

"This is the last item that needed to be taken care of for Michael's life," said his widow Marilyn Gibbons.

About 60 people, including Michael's four sons, gathered in the industrial park for the dedication Aug. 22. Speakers included Charlevoix mayor, Josh Barnes; former mayor, Sam Supernaw; former mayor, Ken Staley; former councilmember, Shirley Roloff; local attorney Roy C. Hayes; Charlevoixian Quinton Walker; and Michael's oldest son, Christopher Gibbons.

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held, and refreshments served.

Michael was a Charlevoix native who served as city attorney from 1978-79 and again from 1981-82. Four days after his death in 1984, when he was 47, the city council named the yet-to-be developed road in the industrial park after him. The road was built in 1994.

For three years, it was called Gibbons Drive without a street sign or dedication. A road sign was put up earlier this summer. And now, there is a large boulder at the end of the drive that leads to LexaLite Scientific. A plaque in memory of Michael Gibbons will be attached.

Gibbons

During the dedication, Michael was remembered as a honorable man with a good sense of humor and a commitment to his community.

"He is very deserving," said former mayor Sam Supernaw, who appointed Michael city attorney. "I miss him. We had a lot of fun together."

During Michael's tenure with the city, Charlevoix became chartered, on April 3, 1978. He also served through the city's search for a better water source in 1981, after the state health department ordered that the city provide its residents with contaminant-free drinking water.

Former mayor, Ken Staley, said that it was fitting to dedicate a road in the industrial park — a progressive and developing part of the community — to Michael because of the help he gave the city advancing.

Michael left his hometown to attend Aquinas College. He graduated with a degree in English in 1962, after serving in the U.S. Army. He received his law degree from Wayne State University in 1965 and was sworn in to practice law in Michigan in 1966. He then worked in Ingham County as chief administrative assistant prosecutor and administrative law judge for the Michigan Department of Commerce before moving home to Charlevoix in 1974.

As a local attorney, Michael was an assistant prosecutor for Charlevoix County in the 1970s, served as city attorney for two stints, 1978-79 and 1981-82, and ran a private legal office out of the vintage house that his family restored at the corner of Hurlbut and South Bridge streets, where Re/Max is currently located.

On Thursday, two of Michael's sons, Timothy and Patrick from Exeter, N.H., and Corning, N.Y., drove all night to attend the dedication. Michael's other sons, Christopher, who is also an attorney in Grand Rapids, and Matthew, who is a senior at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, also traveled home to be at the dedication.

"The pages of our lives, like the pages of a good book, pass all too quickly," said Michael's friend, Quinton Walker. "We are fortunate that Michael Gibbons came our way."

Attorney Roy C. Hayes said he remembered Michael as persistent and "extremely loyal" to his friends, clients and community.

"It is really wonderful to see this community return that loyalty to his memory and his family," he said.

Women's retreat coming to Charlevoix Assembly of God

Pierce

Lynnelle Pierce will be the featured speaker at the Fall Ladies Retreat at Charlevoix Assembly of God on Friday evening, Sept. 12, and Saturday, Sept. 13.

Lynnelle Pierce is no stranger to northern Michigan churches and across the United States and Canada. It all started when she was eight years old. She was a soloist for almost 10 years with the nationally known "Children's Bible Hour" radio broadcast.

Along with an anointed ministry in music, Lynnelle has a rich ministry in bringing the truth of the Word. In her recently released book "Have You Heard About That Fruit?," Lynnelle brings an understanding of how this fruit is lived out in everyday life. She hrings a deeper insight of who Jesus Christ is and the power of his indwelling Spirit.

Whether you are a single woman, a mother of young children, an cmpty nester, widow or grandmother, the challenge of handling every day conflicts in the home, work place, or church is the same.

The Friday night session is from 7-9 p.m. Saturday runs from 8:30 a.m.-noon with a break for lunch on your own and afternoon session from 1:30-4 p.m.

The retreat is open to all women of all ages. Early registration of $20 is discounted through Monday, Sept. 8.

The cost includes afterglow refreshments Friday night and a continental breakfast Saturday morning. Registration after the Sept. 8 will be $25.

For more information on registering, call the church office at 547-6430.

Annual CROP walk scheduled

At the Aug. 18, city council meeting, Mayor Josh Barnes proclaimed Saturday, Sept. 27, as Crop Walk Day in Charlevoix.

This proclamation is to acknowledge that on that day, for the 14th year in Charlevoix, walkers with pledges from interested family, friends, and businesses, will walk from Charlevoix High School to Ironton. There they will meet groups from East Jordan and Boyne City at the Ironton Congregational Church. Each group selects a starting location in their town, which is about 6 miles from the Ironton Church.

Lunch is served at noon to the walkers, this year hosted by the Boyne City Crop Walk group.

This is the 59th anniversary for Crop Walk nationwide, and the money goes to feed the hungry of the world. However, 25 percent of the money earned in Charlevoix County will be shared by the three local food pantries. In 1996, walkers in the county obtained more than $13,000 in pledges. Their goal for this year is $14,000 and 140 walkers.

If you would like to join this event, contact your local pastor or call 547-2920 for pledge forms or more information.

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Courier columnist

In their homeland, he was an accountant and she was a teacher. Here the world is a little different and a little more complicated. Try thinking of everything around you being in a language you are not totally certain of. Try comprehending words first in one language and then translating them in your mind to a more familiar tongue. That's what a young couple I spent some time with last Thursday are doing every day.

What so impressed me about them was the open desire they have to bridge the language and cultural barriers that are before them. They want to make Charlevoix their home and they are prepared to invest of themselves to make their dream come true. They have a little 3-year-old daughter that they want to know the blessings of northern Michigan, too.

I met them because rumor has it that I can carry on at least a semi accurate conversation in Spanish. We gathered at the high school to work on a bilingual assessment test that will guide teachers in helping them adapt to America. It was quite an adventure to administer "tres pruebas," three tests, that had me moving out of my comfort zone and into theirs. It tickled them to find someone who could talk with them in terms they did not have to concentrate on quite as hard as when they function in English. I LEARNED a lot in our three hours of working on vocabulary and analogies together.

Walk with me through some intriguing thoughts here. Have you ever considered that, for some people, coming to church is like going to a whole different world? They are not familiar with terms like prelude or invocation or homily. Where some of us know when to stand or when to sit without having to think twice about it, those who come to visit us for the first time may seem a little bewildered at what's going on.

I wonder how much of a difference it would make if we looked at our worship experiences through the eyes of those who might be seeing them for the first time? I wonder if we wouldn't want to make some changes that will help bridge the gaps for those who would like to learn what it is about our faith that we hold so dear?

We have a good assessment tool in the Bible, and if we check its pages out, we discover that Jesus went out of His way to present eternal truths in every day terms to make it as easy as possible for people to understand. That's why parables were such a big thing with Him. He told stories from life experiences that his hearers could relate to quickly, things that they could say "been there - done that" about.

If we are earnest about encouraging visitors to find a worshipping home with us, if we want them to transition from visitor to being family, we've got to look at ways of putting the love of the Lord in terms that they can get a handle on right away. We've got to show patience with them as they learn "a new language." We've got to help them draw analogies from their own backgrounds that will help them understand just how far God's love is prepared to take them.

I think Carlos, Janet and Maria will do just fine; oh, I almost forgot, their brother Alan, too. If by chance you know these folks, be sure you say "bienvenidos a nuestra ciudad" (welcome to our city). But don't forget, if you see a strange face in your church, welcome them, too. You are the best tool the Lord has for helping them to really become a part of His family.

Architect continues years of designing homes, businesses

In 1957 Jack Begrow was the grand prize winner in a national competition for the design on the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City, Okla., a $3 million museum for the preservation of the history of the West.

At that time, Jack organized the firm of Begrow & Brown in Bloomfield Hills and practiced architecture there until moving to northern Michigan in 1962, when he was hired to do Bellaire High School and Shanty Creek Lodge.

Begrow has worked out of his own office in Charlevoix since 1965, and in addition to designing numerous custom homes and commercial projects, he has been involved in the design and development of condominiums and condominium-hotel projects, having completed more than 2,200 units in six states and the Virgin Islands. His in-depth multiple housing background started in 1968 with the development of Marina Village in Harbor Springs, one of the first condo projects such as Boyne and Heather Highlands, Edgewater and Belvedere Terrace.

Begrow has been a member of the A.I.A. for more than 39 years and has been registered with the National Council of Architectural Registration Board since 1978. Jack earned his bachelors degree and masters degree in architecture from the University of Michigan. He later associated himself with the firm of Swanson and Associates in Bloomfield Hills as the designing supervisor for the 25,000 student extension campus of Michigan State University on the Meadowbrook Estate near Pontiac. Prior to this, he worked with Minoro Yamasaki at the University of Michigan.

Currently, Jack is associated with interior designer, Tim Fisher, of "Indesign," working out of the Design Center in Charlevoix. The two of them have completed many homes on Lake Charlevoix, Walloon Lake, Lake Michigan, Torch Lake, in Bay Harbor and in Chelsea and Jackson, Mich. Their works have been published in national architectural magazines.

Sports shorts

Football teams begin season Friday

It's time to get ready for football. The varsity kicks off at St. Ignace 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 5. The junior varsity squad also faces St. Ignace but at Kipke Field at 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 4.

Golf team wins second invitational

Charlevoix's golf team continued to show promising signs of a classy season with a dual match win over Gaylord Aug. 26 at the Belvedere Country Club.

Keith Grunch paced the Rayders shooting a school record for nine holes at 37. His round was just one over par at Belvedere, which is 36 for the nine holes. The record had been 38 shared by Dennis Curtis and Josh Hastings.

Jason Vincent carded a 45, Jon Sell shot a 46, Craig Siwarga shot a 49 and Ryan Murdick and Steve Piric both shot 50 leading the Rayders to a 10 stroke victory 177-187 over the Blue Devils.

The week before they won the Bulldog Invitational topping 16 other teams.

Cross country runners host invitational in coaches yard

The cross country squads kick their season into gear this week, hosting the Classic Invitational beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 6.

The event will be run on a 1.5 mile course in coach Ken Plude's backyard, complete with trees and creeks to hurdle. The course will be circled twice, and parking will be located in the field across the street.

Soccer team drops first two matches

The Rayder soccer team dropped two contests last week allowing 11 goals in the process.

After being a step behind all day in a 6-0 loss to Suttons Bay, the Rayders rebounded a bit testing Gaylord to the limit Thursday before falling 5-3.

Chris Tilley scored twice with Ryan Vogelheim adding the third score. Assists were credited to Troy Smith, Michael Ricks and Vogelheim. Andy Granath was strong at fullback and goalie Drew Belding made some nifty saves.

"We still need some work, but we play every game with a little more confidence," coach Josh Block said of his young team. "We need to just play the game without worrying about the score. It's coming."

The Rayders are 1-3.

Freshmen lose first two openers

Before taking a note in their first high school class, the freshmen girls' basketball team got their athletic feet wet in last week's Petoskey Invitational.

Despite dropping two games, 29-23 to East Jordan and 40-28 to Boyne City, coach Tim Salmonson said his small but quick team is only beginning to scratch their potential.

"We're just getting started, and we need to nail our offense," he said.

Kelly Dreyer, Abby Schaperkotter, and Tasha Morrison, he said, played well in Petoskey and the club's next game is 5 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 4 against Kalkaska.

Youth golf program gets clubs donated

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association was recently recognized for having an outstanding program by MacGregor Sporting Goods.

Ten new sets of golf clubs were presented to program Director, Dean Davenport, by MacGregor North Central Regional Director, Dennis O'Leary. In addition to the present 10 sets of clubs, MacGregor pledged an additional 15 sets to start the 1998 junior summer season. There was a short presentation ceremony Aug. 25 at the Belvedere Golf Course prior to the popular "Supie Open" scramble tournament, which has chosen to donate event profits to the Junior Golf Program.

Joining Davenport and O'Leary in the ceremony were four youngsters from the program. Keith Grunch, outstanding intermediate golfer, recently was awarded a scholarship to Ferris State University's week long golf camp, where he was outstanding golfer and broke the camp record for the longest drive. Jennifer Rowe also was scholarshipped to the camp where she won medalist honors in her flight. Representing the younger golfers in the program was Pat Cash, program champion of the beginner's flight, and York Smith, winner of the advanced beginner's flight.

Dennis O'Leary singled out the program in Charlevoix because of its excellent organizational efforts and outstanding teaching staff.

"It's a model program with an extremely large participation and we're proud to recognize the efforts of so many community people," he said.

Dean Davenport, in accepting the bags and clubs was elated.

"We've got a great need for these clubs," he said. "We really appreciate what MacGregor's has done for

Varsity girls drop season openers, both traveling games

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

After two losses during opening week, one would expect a head coach to be shaking his head, looking for answers.

Instead, varsity coach Tim Volovsek liked what he saw despite his team being squeezed out by Petoskey 44-39 and Ellsworth 59-37 in girls' basketball Aug. 26 and Thursday.

"Against Petoskey we played great defense, but struggled on offense," he said. "Then in Ellsworth, we struggled on defense, but played pretty well on offense, except for the ball not going into the hoop. I feel we're ready to play a full game."

If any wins are to come out of the full game effort, the Rayders need to make sure the lid is taken off the basket before the game starts. After making just 14 baskets against the Northmen, the Rayders were successful on just 18 percent of the shots, a number not destined for success against Ike Boss' Lancers, who return most of their key players from last season's Class D semi-final run.

"I give Ellsworth a lot of credit," Volovsek said. "They're athletic, fast and shoot well."

The Rayders held Ellsworth scoreless for the game's first 3 minutes and 20 seconds, but could only manage a 3-0 lead during that stretch on an Ann Terryberry jump shot and a free throw from Amanda Eaton.

"I was beginning to wonder when it was going to start falling in," Boss said.

When the baskets did begin to drop, they were usually from three-point range.

"The key was hitting those outside shots over their zone," Boss said.

Sofie Bootz nailed a three to knot the score at 5-5, then Jenny Drent hit a short jumper, stole the inbounds pass, and converted an easy lay-up for a 9-5 Lancers' lead that they would never relinquish.

Taking a 13-7 lead into the second stanza, the Lancer's long distance shooting took over.

Annie Boss swished two three's, sandwiched around another by Bootz to up the Lancers' lead to 24-11 midway through the second quarter and en route to a 26-13 halftime advantage.

The second half was not much better for the Rayders. Twice they battled back to within single digits only to see the familiar refrain of an Ellsworth three-pointer.

Eaton slashed in a lay-up from the baseline, dropping the margin to 32-23 with less than three minutes in the third quarter. But on Ellsworth's next possession, Boss drilled a corner three-ball, was fouled and converted the free-throw for a rare four-point play.

Despite a 42-26 deficit heading into the final quarter, the Rayders continued to battle behind the interior hustle and rebounding of Jamie Gowell and Julie Gregory.

Yet, after chiseling the lead to 45-35, Bootz hit a three from the top of the circle placing the final dagger in the Rayders' chances.

Ellsworth hit seven of 15 from long range while the Rayders never scored from behind the arc.

"That extra point is huge. If we could get a hand in their face and prevent those threes, it's a 37-38 game," Volovsek said. "We will be working hard on our perimeter defense in practice."

Eaton led the Rayders with 11 points backed by Gregory and Gowell who both chipped in seven. Gowell corralled nine rebounds while Gregory and Angie Potter grabbed five apiece. Drenth led the Lancers with 16 points and Boss poured in 15. Charlevoix is 0-2 while Ellsworth, who crushed Bellaire 64-19 last Tuesday, is 2-0.

"I'm disappointed in two losses, but not disappointed in the competition we faced," Volovsek said. "We need to learn to play at that level right away."

The Rayder junior varsity squad split their two games last week, falling to Petoskey 45-30 before dismantling Ellsworth 62-18.

The team faces two non-conference tests next week before diving into league play. They tip-off at Brimley Tuesday, Sept. 2, and host Benzie Central Wednesday, Sept. 3. JV action begins each night at 6 p.m.

Weekend contests follow yacht club's last summer race

And now, ...the winners! With the eighth and final race now history, here are the final standings for the 1997 Summer Series for the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Scoring is based on the point total dropping the worst two races; i.e. scoring the yachts best six races, lowest is best. (A yacht finishing first in six races would have a point score of 6 - see Newsense in Fleet B or Hussy in E.)

Fleet A, the big boats: Gotcha first place with 10, Kamakaze second with 12 and HooAah third with 16. The runner-up is Mint Julep with 18.

Fleet B, the wide variety: Newsense 6, Splash Dance 15 and Cabaret tied with Mi-Joy at 21. Others, in order: Babe 23, Our Thyme II 26, M-3 34, Bald Eagle 42, J Hawk 49 and, now in Harbor Springs, Bandit 57.

Fleet C, the lead sleds: Stalworth 9, Tireless 10 and Lost Vermonter 16. And trailing but out of the money are: Blasen III 19, Cygnus 28, Original Sin 30, Sandpiper 37 and Hit & Run 53.

Fleet D, the Jib and Main Only Class, sailing a different course: Cheemaun II, Booma and Red Comet tied with 14, and Apothecary and Flash, both with 17, ended up out of the money.

Fleet E, just J-22 hot shots: Hussy 6, H.S. Moisture 12 and Gecko 22. Close-but-no-cigar goes to Floyd 24 and Reckless 25, chased by Swine Flew 27, Paleface Lite 37, Cathach 39 and Unnamed 48.

Just for fun - a quick look at overall winners for the spinnaker fleets: Hussy, Stalworth and Tireless with H.S. Moisture and Newsense tied for fourth and fifth places.

As to that last race of the series, the highlights... In the fine breeze, Flash again led the club to the finish line as all yachts in the Jib & Main Fleet finished and went home before the first of the spinnaker boats completed their longer course. First on corrected time in each fleet were: Fleet A - Mint Julep (1:22.12), Fleet B - Newsense (1:13.30), Fleet C - Stalworth (1:16.25), Fleet D - Cheemaun (1:08.06) and Fleet E - Hussy (1:17.49.) Did Tom commit the Original Sin or just rip the chute? Except for the Red Fox results, that's all for this season.

G'day, sailors...

A. Nony Mouse

There was a great turnout for both Friday's Triangle and the Red Fox Regatta. The threatening weather held off until late enough Saturday to permit almost all the racers to finish and squeeze under Boyne City's pavilion roof. At the start of Sunday's return trip to Charlevoix it was pretty dreary, but the sailors finally sailed into the blue skies that always cover the beautiful city! While there were mixed emotions as to how great the races were (mostly dependent upon finish position), all agreed that the parties were three consecutive blasts. Many, many thanks to the hosts and to the volunteers who worked so hard to make it all fall into place.

In the AMCO Triangle, the fastest, corrected time was Surprise in Fleet F at 1:20.00. Newsense trailed by only 18 seconds and Flying Toaster by just over a minute; both were in Fleet F. H.S. Moisture Missile (1:23.03) in Fleet D and Booma (1:23.37) in Fleet A, sailing Jib & Main, took the remaining two spots in the top five overall.

By Class, Fleet A, Jib & Main - Booma, Cabaret, Cheemaun and Apothecary.

Fleet B, Jib & Main - Flash, Mi Joy, Bramble and Bandit. Bramble roared across the finish line, way out in front of everybody at 6:45.43 - Oh Wow!

Fleet C, mostly the lead sleds - Blasen III, Our Thyme II, Tireless, Original Sin and Loup De La Mer (Sea Wolf, or literally, Wolf of the Sea to those of you from Harbor Springs).

Fleet D, just a whole bunch of J-22 hot shots not worrying about corrected times - H.S. Moisture Missile, Gecko, Hussy, Reckless, Swine Flew, Floyd, Assault, Cathach and Paleface Lite. This

Two school districts to work out rent compromise

more than $4,500."

According to Charlevoix's central office, Char-Em has paid the local district between $3,000-$4,000 a year for its use of a classroom in the high school. Neither district paid rent for the portables they used because the space negated any debt.

However, when the high school moved to a block schedule, they needed more room. Char-Em had to leave a room there that it was using for its Highly Individualized Program. It moved to office space next to the Flap Jack Family Restaurant.

Only since the beginning of the last school year has Charlevoix been paying Char-Em to use the portable. But that didn't help quell any misgivings board members have over the arrangement.

At issue was paying for repairs of the roof, heaters, and front decks on the portable, as well as Char-Em's continued and uncharged use of the gymnasiums, Char-Em students sitting in regular classes, and overall access to hot lunches and office space above the gymnasium in the middle school.

Char-Em superintendent Mark Eckhardt disagrees with that notion. He points out that Charlevoix receives 0.9 of the foundation allowance for each Char-Em student who sits in during the regular classes, a figure of more than $5,000. As for the office Char-Em uses at the middle school, he said that through the office, the ISD can provide on-site teacher and psychological counseling, physical therapy and speech therapy. Their presence benefits both schools, he said.

"We've had this agreement for years and years," Eckhardt said of the rental set-up. "We signed it, they signed. I had no idea this was coming up."

The Charlevoix board has approached Eckhardt about purchasing the portable. Eckhardt, though, has said that it is not for sale. If it does go on the market, he said he would entertain bids from all the other districts. He said it would be a hot commodity because most districts suffer from a space crunch.

Eckhardt said it's a "distinct possibility" that if Charlevoix doesn't pay its rent, Char-Em would take the portable away.

"That's why they call it a portable," Eckhardt said. "They don't have to rent it. There are probably other school districts that could use the space."

Still, the board in Charlevoix doesn't feel the present arrangement is a fair deal.

"If they have no investment in it, then why should we pay any additional fees," board member Barney Way said. "If they take last year's rent as payment for us to buy, then that would be adequate to me."

As of Tuesday, board members were trying to work out a compromise with Char-Em, which will include Charlevoix paying rent, but that Char-Em would be billed for any past and future repairs to the portable.

Any arrangement and specific details will be discussed and acted upon at the board's next meeting 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, in the high school study hall.

Consumers can protect themselves with solicitation act

Have you ever had that sinking feeling after signing an agreement to purchase goods or services in your home that you just made a horrible mistake? The ink is barely dry, but the salesperson is long gone and you wish you had it all to do over again.

Now you wonder if you really need a vacuum cleaner that costs $2,000 to clean your little apartment or bungalow. And come to think of it, do you really need that set of encyclopedias, or that living trust or that set of commemorative coins, or whatever else that nice young man was selling? But what can I do now, you ask, I signed a contract?

There may be some relief for you, provided courtesy of the Michigan Home Solicitation Sales Act. The act allows cancellation of in-home solicitations for goods or services of more than $25 within three business days following the day of the transaction, without penalty or obligation. If you make a purchase, for example, on a Monday, you have until midnight on Thursday of that week to cancel and get your money back. The right to cancel provision also applies to telephone solicitations.

The act also requires the seller to provide you with a written purchase agreement stating the date of the transaction. You must sign the agreement and be given a copy for your records. Also, the purchase agreement must contain a statement advising you of your three-day right to cancel. It should be noticed that if the seller does not provide you with a written statement in compliance with the law, you may cancel the sale by notifying the seller in any manner and by any means of your intentions.

If the purchase agreement does not contain an accurate statement of your right to cancel the contract within three days, you may be able to cancel your contract even after the initial three-day period. Also, if you paid by credit card, you may be able to file a successful "charge-back" request with your credit card company if you do so promptly.

Should you decide to exercise your right to cancel, the seller must return within 10 days any payment you made under the sale agreement following the receipt of your cancellation notice. You, on the other hand, must make available to the seller the goods provided you, and they must be in as good condition as when they were initially received. The goods are to be made available for pick-up by the seller at your residence. If the seller fails to pick them up within 20 days of your notice of cancellation, you are entitled to keep or dispose of the goods as you see fit.

The three-day right to cancel provision does not apply: If the goods or services were requested and provided on an emergency basis and the seller in good faith began complying with the contract before notice of cancellation was given, if a signed handwritten statement by the buyer has been given to the seller waiving the three-day right to cancel, or if the goods cannot be returned to the seller in as good condition as when received.

The Michigan Consumer Protection Act also protects you against deceptive sales, whether the home solicitation act applies or not.

To find out more about your rights, contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General at P.O. Box 30213, Lansing, Mich. 48909, (517) 373-1140, or call the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians toll free at (800) 347-LAWS. The Attorney General's office prefers all complaints to be in writing. You should explain the problem, attach copies of any documentation that supports your complaint (keep the originals for your records), and state what resolution you desire.

Bank robbery suspect arrested within 10 minutes

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier reporter

The Detroit man accused of robbing the First America Bank at gunpoint Friday is in jail with a $200,000 cash or surety bond.

90th District Court Judge, Richard May, said at Megal Lamont Barnett's arraignment Monday that the bond was set high because of the seriousness of the crime.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur, requested the high bond, stating that she questioned Barnett's intent to return to court based on a taped telephone conversation with Petoskey resident, Heather Bearss. Kur told the judge that Barnett told the woman that he didn't intend on facing any bank robbery charge. All she had to do was get him out on bail.

Kur also noted that Barnett is from Detroit and that authority's didn't want to have to go get him.

Barnett faces two charges: Bank robbery, a felony which is punishable by up to life in prison, and felony firearm, which carries a mandatory two year sentence that is served consecutively and before any other term.

He is accused of entering the bank in Charlevoix Township at 3:12 p.m., pointing a .9 mm semi-automatic handgun at Sheri Lynn McLenon and Marjorie Mays demanding at least $10,000 in cash. The tellers obliged the robber, but also included marked money into the bundle.

He left the bank on foot.

When Barnett was under arrest, about 10 minutes after leaving the bank, the marked money was

Whitney's burns down to its shell

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

In a flip of a steak, Whitney's Oyster Bar, a favorite local hangout, fell victim to a grease fire Thursday night, gutting the entire restaurant.

Quintin Walker II, a Whitney's employee, said he was in the kitchen when the grill chef flipped a steak which shot a flame upwards into the tin hood doming the grill. Somehow, part of the flame found its way into the grease catcher, igniting a flame that quickly spread between the lower level's ceiling and the floor of the new deck.

The decades-old timber was easy prey for the momentum-gaining flames.

Tim Wieland, Whitney's beverage manager, had just finished his shift for the evening and was settling in for a cocktail at the nearby Town House Bar when people began commenting on what they thought was fog rolling in.

"Smoke was rolling down the street," he said. "My first thought was 'I don't think that is fog.'"

Wieland guessed it was between 8:20 and 8:30 p.m. when he rushed outside, back to the oyster bar, to help get people out of the restaurant safely.

"It was an orderly exodus," he said. "No one was screaming, panicked or crazed."

As the evening unfolded, Charlevoix skies darkened with thick, black smoke illuminated only by the fire accompanying it.

When Wieland went upstairs found in his blue Ford, along with a .9 mm handgun and a pair of dark pants.

He had been busted by off-duty Charlevoix office, Jim Schlappi, who is on disability leave. His knee was injured in May when he tackled a suspect during a foot chase near Bridge Park.

Schlappi had just pulled into the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club when he heard the description of the man. He turned around and headed back toward Charlevoix. He soon saw a man fitting the description — a black man in a dark-colored top — drive by him in a blue Ford car. He radioed the sheriff's department and followed the man north on U.S. 31.

"Both of us came out with our guns drawn."
— Jim Schlappi, Charlevoix police officer

Undersheriff Don Schneider took Schlappi's call and sped after the two. He passed the off-duty officer and chased the Ford up into Michigan Heights Subdivision.

According to court files, the chase got up to 100 mph.

After the man turned onto a dead end road, he tried to circle through someone's yard and ran into their deck.

Schneider had followed the car. Schlappi's car was in front.

"Both of us came out with our guns drawn," Schlappi said.

Upon searching Barnett, Schneider said he found a small amount of marijuana, according to court records.

Barnett has a Detroit address. He told Judge Mays that he was in Petoskey vacationing and cut hair for cash to earn money.

He will have a preliminary hearing Thursday, Sept. 18 in district court.

Barnett's court appointed attorney is Kraag Lieberman.

Riding program will help handicapped

The Exceptional Riders Program is planning to start the fall session at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 9, at Lake Charlevoix Farms on Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

The classes will meet for one-hour sessions on eight consecutive Tuesdays. Classes are held at the indoor riding arena and open to physically, mentally and emotionally challenged people of all ages.

Classes are structured to give students confidence in their own abilities and assure their safety while providing physical and emotional rewards. Every session requires about 30 volunteer helpers — to lead horses, assist the students and help with many other jobs. This is a nonprofit organization and no fees are charged for the classes. However, students should arrange their own transportation to and from the farm.

For more information about the program or to volunteer, call Barbara Lane Harrington, program director, at 347-3300.

Armed man holds police at bay for half of Thursday

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

"I don't want to go back to prison."

Those were the repeated words of Charlevoix resident Leo Joel Sarasin as police wrestled him into handcuffs, a county police car and into jail.

The 31-year-old held police at bay for four and a half hours Thursday while shut inside his brother's tan house on Loeb Road, near M-66.

When meeting police at the door of the home Thursday morning with a loaded 16-gauge pump shotgun, Sarasin started a spree of actions that probably have bought him a ticket to the place he least wants to go.

From 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. the standoff occurred. Loeb Road was blocked off by police from U.S. 31 to Clark Road.

At about 12:20 p.m., a single shot was fired in the direction of the police and parole agents.

The Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office is charging Sarasin with: felon in possession of a firearm, a felony punishable by up to five years in prison, resisting and obstructing a police officer, a felony, malicious destruction of police property, a felony, and reckless discharge of a firearm, illegal entry of a residence, destruction of property to a residence and assault and battery, all misdemeanors.

A fifth felony charge — habitual offender, fourth degree — has been added. If convicted of the firearm charge, Sarasin could be sentenced to life in prison, according to Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur. If convicted of any of the other felonies, the habitual charge would double the punishable time of that charge.

"We handcuffed him on his feet and drug him out of the house kicking and screaming.He would not cooperate one bit."
— George T. Lasater Charlevoix County Sheriff

One of the felony charges came from Sarasin's conduct when the officers joined Sarasin's two brothers who had managed to get the gun away from him. Three officers joined in to end the standoff.

"There was a major struggle inside," Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater said. "We had our hands full, all five of us, subduing him."

The men never did get Sarasin to the floor.

"We handcuffed him on his feet and drug him out of the house kicking and screaming," Lasater said. "He would not cooperate one bit." After being put in the patrol car, Sarasin kicked out a back window. He was then pepper gassed, the sheriff said. Lasater said his alcohol blood level was over the legal limit after he was arrested.

The holding tank at the Charlevoix County Jail was cleared for his arrival. Sarasin is stilled lodged in the jail.

The standoff began after police responded to a complaint at Charlevoix Estates that a man was harassing two girls before 9 a.m. When they arrived, the man was gone.

After talking with the girls, police had identified Sarasin as the suspect. He has tears tattooed on his cheek that can be easily identified. Police checked their files and found that Sarasin was wanted for a parole-probation violation hearing.

Three county and one city police officer went directly to the Loeb Road home to see if Sarasin was at his brother's house. Sarasin's criminal record shows a history of two restricting and obstructing police and three assault and battery convictions, in addition to an unarmed robbery, two breaking and enterings and two larcenies.

An officer looked in the window of the house and saw Sarasin holding a shotgun. They called for backup.

About 10 officers watched the home, having periodic telephone contact with Sarasin, trying to get him to surrender.

Residents in nearby homes were asked to leave. Other occupants who live on Loeb Road were asked to stay away from the windows.

While in the house, Sarasin did a lot of damage to the inside, which is why he has been charged with the destruction of property on a residence charge. He used the gun like a club at times.

According to Lasater, the real heroes in ending the standoff are Sarasin's two brothers.

"They felt that they had an obligation to help us out," Lasater said. "They did put themselves in harm's way."

Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater, meets with a deputy in front of the Loeb Road home while wearing a bullet-proof vest about an hour before the standoff with police and Leo Sarasin ended Thursday. Sarasin is facing a barrage of felony charges.

Jailed man suspect in several city crimes

Leo Joel Sarasin's list of county charges may not be the end to his prosecution in Charlevoix County. He is suspected of being involved in several crimes within the city in the last two months.

"We would consider him a suspect in other criminal activity we have had in the city," Charlevoix police chief, Dennis Halverson said.

Local police were looking for Sarasin before Thursday's standoff on Loeb Road.

Halverson did not specify which crimes Sarasin is a suspect in, but he did say that as many as half a dozen charges are felonies. He said some of the criminal activity matches Sarasin's style from past crimes.

Sarasin was convicted this spring of trying to drive away Bonnie Webster's van from her driveway. When arrested after a foot chase, he was found with narcotics in his pocket.

The court sentenced him to probation and a drug treatment program. At the time, he was on parole from prison.

"There's multi-level interest in him," Halverson said. "We are awaiting the earliest possible opportunity to talk to him about our suspicions."

Neighborhood crime watches needed in Charlevoix

To people who were raised in northern Michigan, neighborhood watch programs may seem excessive.

They're not.

As neighbors, we need to watch out for each other, our children and our property.

Crime has come to our front door.

Just last week, an armed man entered the First America Bank and demanded at least $10,000. Another man held police officers at bay for four and a half hours. Both of these crimes happened during daylight hours.

Within the last months, homes have been entered in the middle of the day and items taken. When a thief stumbled upon a woman who was home, he slammed her up against the wall a few times, stole some of her belongings and went on his way. Also, a car left running in Glen's parking lot was driven off.

The criminals are getting bolder and so must we.

When you hear unfamiliar movement outside the house, check it out. Even if it sounds like it's next door. When you hear someone calling for help, you can no longer assume that it is kids playing. When glass is shattered, chances are that it's not from a baseball.

We need to trust our intuitions and respond.

Charlevoix police officer, Jim Schlappi, was off duty Friday when the description of the bank robber came across his radio. He took the time to leave what he was doing and have a look. Because of that effort, a man in possession of the marked money and a gun was arrested within 10 minutes.

EDITORIAL

We are not trained police officers. But we do have common sense and our natural senses to pick up irregularities. The next step is to look into it and call authorities if suspicions continue.

We would like to talk with the community about taking it easy, enjoying the cool, fall weather and preparing for the great task of cleaning up fallen leaves. However, we must instead point out that if we don't become bold in our efforts to watch out for each other, we will continue to be helpless victims who leave our heads in the sand about the boldness of the criminals here in Charlevoix.

With cooperation throughout the community to watch out for ourselves and our neighbors, the thieves will be sent a message: Don't mess with Charlevoix. Instead of creeping into this small town to commit a crime or come out of their homes here to do so, they will take their trash elsewhere.

Hopefully, they will get the best message of all: There are no shortcuts. Crime doesn't pay.

Letters to the editor

Thanks for help with bridge walk

Editor:

Thank you to all the people who either walked or helped organize the Charlevoix Little But Mighty Bridge Walk on Labor Day.

Thanks to the Town House and Helen for opening at 11 a.m., to Lori Brown for the idea nine years ago to do a bridge walk and turning fun into a fund-raiser for the needy, to Alexander's and Judy's restaurants for selling T-shirts, to Screen Applications in Traverse City for supplying and screening shirts at cost and on short notice and to all those who helped sell the T-shirts and the girls that collected donations at the bridge walk.

Thanks again,

Concerts series excellent

Editor:

"Hats off" to the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau for its great summer program. The Tuesday and Thursday night concerts in East Park were very enjoyable. It was thrilling to me to be sitting there, listening to the music and appreciating the beautiful setting of our town.

Thank you.

Sincerely, Mary M. Geiken.

Fund-raiser was a role model

Editor:

Those who gathered in Charlevoix's East Park on Sunday, Aug. 17, for The Tastes & Sounds of Northern Michigan, to benefit victims of our city's fireworks accident, were part of an incredible effort — one that merits the attention of large and small towns alike, and can serve as a worthy role model for caring people everywhere.

At a time when all of us are encouraged to become less dependent on government, extend a helping hand to neighbors and work together to build stronger communities, we demonstrated our ability to respond to a special need and pull together as never before.

Adults and children pitched in to help. Residents, resorters and vacationers turned out. Folks from nearby communities joined us. Musicians, restauranteurs, businesses and professionals donated their time and talents to make the event truly memorable.

That we were able to raise more than $160,000 in a single day is amazing. More remarkable still was the tremendous unity shown — and outpouring of love, concern and generosity. It's impossible to thank the hundreds — even thousands — of people who helped make the event a success.

Suffice to say that all of us are very grateful. We can be proud of what we accomplished.

Our hope is that this extraordinary coming-together will begin the healing and remind us of what we're capable of when we work for a common good. On behalf of the families we helped and the volunteers who organized the effort, thank you!

Sincerely,
Charlevoix Fireworks Victims Fund Volunteers

Vandals show no respect

In the afternoon of Aug. 31, the wife and I stopped at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery to water the plants on our two sons' graves, which are side by side. We were shocked to see one plant destroyed, trampled on the ground. The other plant and container was gone. A person who destroys or steals at a grave site has to have a sick mind. God will punish them in his own way.

The fenced in side of St. Mary's Catholic cemetery, facing M-66 was not extended far enough back to prevent pedestrians and bike riders alike from using the cemetery as a short cut to get to their residents on Stover Road or to also get to the sidewalk by M-66. Why use the cemetery as a thoroughfare? We have observed this practice many of times. Others visiting grave sites have made comments about this. Is there no respect for the dead?

In the last week of July during the night, our large antique cement and stone flower vase was stolen from our front yard.

Several broken off pieces were found in the grass next to the road along with a card advertising the Petoskey Summer Antiques Festival July 5 and 6 and August 2 and 3 at the Emmet County Fairgrounds. On the back of the card was printed (Pictured Rocks) by the person who had the card. Could it be that the person or persons whom stole the vase was going to take it to the fair to sell?

We had the flower vase since 1968. It was very heavy to carry away. Tire tracks came off the road up to the sidewalk near Carpenter and Grant. These individuals have a sick mind. I pray that someday they will be paid back for their wrong doings.

Customer needs neighbors' help

Editor:

We have a customer who was diagnosed with Leukemia in July 1994, and who in August of 1995 began chemotherapy. As of today, there is no end in sight for the chemo treatments. He also suffers with a breathing disorder as well as asthma.

The gentleman is 52, and has been married for 13 years. He and his wife have three children; 10-year-old twins and a 9-year-old. He holds a full-time job which provides essential insurance coverage. However, the 80:20 co-pay with a $10 per prescription co-pay results in a $100 monthly cost, plus the additional 20 percent for his continuing health care needs.

To add to the family's difficulties, a building inspector has indicated that the house needs a new roof from the roof boards up, and that a load-bearing beam must be replaced under the main level floor. Currently, a tarp covers part of the roof providing some protection from the weather. Repair material will cost between $2,100 and 2,500. Men of the Mennonite Church, where they attend, have volunteered to provide the labor.

The family's needs are basic and urgent, as the repairs must be made before fall's rains (and snow) arrive. Therefore, we are seeking the financial support of the community. An account has been opened at the Charlevoix State Bank to receive donations. Checks should be made payable to: Jerry's Roofing Fund, account #9-0214-54.

If you have any questions, please do contact either of us at 547-5642 days or at 582-1073 evenings.

Thank you in advance for your assistance in meeting this family's needs.

Sincerely,
Randy Maurer
Rosalind Stump

The Norwood Area Historical Society wishes to thank everyone who helped to make our picnic and parade on Sunday, Aug. 31, a wonderful event - in particular, sheriff George T. The winning ticket was purchased at the ice cream social in July, and Margie Kowalczyk of Novi, Mich., was the lucky winner.

Thanks to all who entered the parade, brought food to share and supported our efforts.

EDITH GILBERT

You can't help but notice the new, friendly, team spirit prevailing at Charlevoix's nine hole golf course the minute you step through the front door. With golf's recent upsurge in popularity, the Charlevoix Golf Club, a public course owned by the city, has had a banner year. Twenty thousand rounds have been played this season and July 4 broke all records when 328 players teed off.

In spite of the fact that the course celebrated its centennial last year and is the third oldest golf course in the state, the greens and fairways today are in mint condition, thanks to MSU agronomist, Tom Heid, director of golf, and in charge of maintenance.

Players come from both near and as far as Harbor Springs, Boyne City, Indian River, Ellsworth, and Traverse City, because it's considered to be the best deal in the north. The daily rate is $12 for nine holes and the price of memberships is equally as appealing. There are numerous categories of memberships, depending on your age and where you live.

Assistant Manager, Tom Dorsek, is a scratch golfer and gives lessons. He is well qualified as a teacher. In the winter he serves as a substitute teacher for all grades in the Charlevoix School system. At the clubhouse, Dorsek heads up a team of friendly retirees, all in their 60s. They run the pro shop, register customers and rent out equipment, including five sets of clubs for the spur-of-the-moment golfer — one left handed set, one junior set and three standard sets. The rental fee is only $5 a round. Are there any problems? Yes, there are. The biggest problem for the staff, I'm told, is educating new golfers on rules and golf etiquette. However, retiree, Brad Jones' philosophy is to jolly folks along since golf is such a frustrating game. This way, they will look forward to the next round!

For those who wonder about the origin of the city-owned course, it was originally built in 1896 as a nine hole course by members of the Chicago Club Association. In 1903 another nine holes were added. Then, in 1937, since most Chicago Club members preferred playing the newer, Belvedere Course, the club's course was offered to the City of Charlevoix for the princely sum of $1. Subsequently, the city fathers sold nine holes, which were later developed into an Industrial Park. In 1965, the city built the clubhouse, which has restrooms that also serve the nearby tennis courts.

So much for history. When I asked Tom Heid, "What is your No. 1 item on your wish list?" He replied without hesitation, "An automatic irrigation system." (Originally the old watering system used in 1908, consisted of a tank drawn by horse). Today, Heid says, it is very difficult to find people willing to move the heavy hoses and sprinklers around manually, and to prop-

Big Rock Point hosts community party in East Park

The management and employees at Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point nuclear plant believe that 35 years of community support deserves a thank you.

To demonstrate their appreciation for that support, plant employees will host a party for local residents from 5-9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12, in East Park in Charlevoix.

"This support and encouragement that our neighbors have shown Big Rock Point and the people who work here are unrivaled throughout the country," said Ken Powers, plant general manager. "That support has helped us establish an outstanding reputation in the nuclear industry and become the longest operating nuclear plant in the United States. We believe it is appropriate to say thank you to our friends for their backing through the years."

Local service organizations have been recruited to provide 1,600 meals. Popcorn, cotton candy and ice cream will also be available. The Larry Wojcik Orchestra will provide musical entertainment from the Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion. For those interested in a piece of history, Big Rock Point mementos will be available during the event.

A contribution of $1,500 will be made to the Fireworks Victims' Fund during the event. The money was raised from souvenir sales during the plants' Success Celebration held Aug. 29.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant began generating electricity in 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Energy, Big Rock Point was capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

erly control growing conditions by not overwatering. An automatic irrigation system would cost about $100,000, but Heid said he feels this is an attainable goal in the near future. Currently fees have generated a substantial amount of revenue, with about $165,000 collected annually, supplemented by a small amount in taxes. The goal, of course, is to become self-sufficient.

Chances for self-sufficiency are looking up. For example, this year, in June and July, there were several programs available for young golfers ages 7 to 16, arranged by Dean Davenport. Also, there's a men's stag tournament on Thursday evenings that draws 65 players. There are two ladies' day programs, one in the morning and one in late afternoon. The annual fall Rotary golf classic takes place on Thursday, Sept. 11, and the popular city tournament, a four-person scramble, takes place on Saturday, Sept. 13.

Since there are no power carts available, people use pull carts. Still the greatest pleasure many people have is the joy of walking on lush green grass. Heid trusts golfers will take notice of the newly planted ash, maple and plum trees on the well-maintained course. Let us hope one of our favorite spots in Charlevoix will be here for another hundred years.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Courier columnist

One of the greatest frauds clothing designers have ever perpetrated on the world is the myth "one size fits all." It doesn't bother me so much in T-shirts or sweatshirts, but when it comes to hats, I can almost get a little angry. You see, that "one size," no matter how many snaps or eyelets the back of a cap may have, has never fit me. I wear a size eight. Have you ever tried to find one? It's almost impossible.

Go to a sporting goods store and the biggest fitted hat you will find will be a 7 5/8, and if you are lucky, a rare 7 3/4 might emerge from a long forgotten storeroom. Ask them about a size 8 and they either say something about not knowing that hats came that big or they just laugh. One size does not necessarily fit all!

It doesn't work with every hat, but I do have a secret weapon that I try with ones that I really want. My wife has an old pressure cooker. The handle has long since fallen off and she doesn't have its top any longer. I won't let her throw it away because the pot is a perfect size eight! I soak the potential chapeau in cold water and then very gently and very slowly stretch it over the bottom of the pot. Sometimes it takes two treatments to get it to the right size. Sometimes it doesn't work at all. But when it does, I feel like chalking up one for the good guys.

You would think that it would be as obvious as the day is long to the haberdashery folks. No two human beings are exactly alike (even twins have their subtle differences). Why wouldn't they take in those of us who don't fall in that "one size fits all" category? I have to admit though, I found an ad recently that modified that line slightly by saying "one size fits most."

So how do such cranial pursuits preach? Easily. The gospel is indeed open to all. It is declared in universal terms without hesitation. But the forgiveness, the love and joy behind the Lord's holy power is uniquely tailored to you as an individual.

My hopes and dreams would not necessarily fit you. Your wishes and desires might not work in the boxes I have in mind. God looks down from heaven upon us all, but when it comes to relationships, He knows each and every one of us individually.

When it comes to hats, I just can't win. There's an outdoor wear company in Canada named Tilley that makes hats in my size. I ordered one and my family says it's the ugliest thing they've ever seen. Yet, when it rains and I wear it, my head sure stays dry!

When you give your heart to the Lord, some folks may look at the changes God brings to your life and wonder what in the world is going on. Don't be discouraged! To those who don't understand the ways Jesus works in a person's life, the differences may seem strange. Yet, when you go through a tough time in your life, you'll be glad that He has you covered.

One size never was meant to fit all. God understands you better than anyone and He has the direction, the encouragement, and the peace of mind that is tailored exactly right for you.

Fire initially thought to be small

to open windows so the firefighters would have an entrance. He said the entire deck was "inundated with smoke." He only caught a tiny glimpse of a flame as he exited the restaurant.

Gina Whitney, who owns the restaurant with her husband Chuck, called it a blessing that everyone got out safely. The couple were dining out of town when they received word of the fire.

"The evening is kind of a blur," she said. "When we arrived it didn't seem that severe."

Nobody, not even firefighters, knew the severity of the fire. Responding to a call of a grease fire, Charlevoix city firefighters arrived at 8:15 p.m., according to shift commander Joe Schwartzfisher.

> "My concern right now is our employees. They are our lifeblood. They've put a lot of blood, sweat and tears into this place. We're all devastated."
> — Gina Whitney, owner

Attacking the flames from behind the building, Schwartzfisher said that after a half-hour, it appeared as though the flames had been doused.

However after searching, firefighters spotted flames in the false ceiling between the restaurant and their new upper story addition. The fire had spread.

"We were thinking, 'Cool we got it,'" Schwartzfisher said. "Then we looked in the false ceiling. I was nervous because we had no accessibility into that area."

Schwartzfisher said that strategy for attacking the fire changed from extinguishing it to just containing it.

In order to get to the flames, firefighters had to cool off the walls, then take chain saws to it, carving out holes to get into the structure. It was a slow process, repeated over 20 times to get the entire blaze, Schwartzfisher said.

The flames had their own agenda, bouncing throughout Whitney's, setting ablaze every corner until they destroyed the interior of the building.

"It easily could have been the whole block," Schwartzfisher said.

During the battle, three firefighters were taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital for precautionary measures. One, from the Charlevoix Township, was pinned inside the building when the false ceiling collapsed on top of him. The other two had heat exhaustion. Schwartzfisher said going to the hospital was just to be on the safe side. By Friday morning, they had been released.

By 1:15 a.m. Thursday, the fire had effectively been doused, but crews remained until 3:30 a.m. to make sure that it had not spread into unknown areas. The fire remains under investigation.

The Whitney's business is temporarily lost. Gina Whitney said they plan to rebuild, but have not had time to sift through damage and insurance, let alone figure when the oyster bar will return.

"My concern right now is our employees," she said. "They are our lifeblood. They've put a lot of blood, sweat and tears into this place. We're all devastated."

"The fact is that 45 people didn't have a job to show up to," Wieland said Friday.

Some are seasonal employees who migrate south to work in restaurants in Florida. Wieland said some of their plans might change to leave earlier than expected, but the year-round staff of 20-25 employees sits in limbo. Wieland said despite the tragedy, moods remain on the optimistic side mainly because no one was hurt.

"We're a tight-knit group of people," he said. "It would have been devastating if someone had not made it out."

Rezone could bring 32 new homes

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Hayes Township could see a boom in housing, the result of a unique rezoning request made by residents James and Ann Fiedler.

The Fiedler's have asked township planners to rezone their 10.5 acres off U.S. 31, just west of the Charlevoix Community Pool, from A-1 to R-4, multiple family residential. The zoning would allow for 32 new houses being built on the property.

The township's planning commission has scheduled a public hearing on the matter during their next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the township hall on Old U.S. 31.

Figures from the Charlevoix County department of building inspection show that the county issued nine permits for new homes in Hayes Township in 1995 and 32 in 1996. Figures were unavailable for this year.

The R-4 classification would create a highly dense area where four homes are allowed per acre. Hayes Township currently has no R-4 zones, but do have an area zoned R-5, which is similar in density but for the specific use of a mobile home park.

"In my five years with the planners this is the first one," township secretary Kevin Whitley said of the R-4 request.

An R-4 zone is the largest density the township will allow, but it comes with the restriction that at least half of the acreage be reserved as open space or as a non-profit recreation area.

Earlier in the year, the township approved a rezoning request made by Randy Price, changing his land on Old U.S. 31 from A-1 to RR-1, which loosened the restriction from one home per 10 acres to one per five acres.

Neighbors were opposed to the zoning shift. In this new matter, the land in question has no neighbors save for the Charlevoix Country Club and the community pool. Whitley explained that when zoning requests come through, he must notify any residents within 300 feet of the property, but, in this case there was nobody to notify.

Ethel Knepp, township clerk and zoning administrator, said that township residents have already expressed the desire for an architectural review board to monitor the possible project.

A decision on the rezoning will be made after the hearing Sept. 16.

State approves another grant for boat company

The State Transportation Commission has authorized a $450,000 grant to help pay for the construction of Beaver Island Boat Co.'s new dock on the island.

The grant will come from the Michigan Department of Transportation, which is overseen by the transportation commission. Another $400,000 for the dock is being provided by the Michigan Jobs Commission.

The boat company is adding a larger ferry, the Emerald Isle, which is scheduled to begin service to and from Charlevoix this fall. The boat is currently undergoing sea trials off the coast of Maine.

The new dock will help accommodate the larger boat and its stern-loading capability.

School hours extend

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

The start of a new school year brings change to Charlevoix Public Schools. Adding new staff, updating curriculum, and implementing new school hours are among the changes.

For the first full school year, students at the elementary school will enjoy the colorful playground put together by community members last October and May. Elementary principal, Richard Swenor, said that the playground is "very safe and gives kids more to do at lunch time."

Swenor hopes that the start of a new school year will also bring greater parent involvement in each child's education. The addition of 10 minutes to the day is a change at the elementary school brought on by state regulations to lengthen students' time in the classroom. Five of these minutes are added to the beginning of the day and five to the end.

Middle school principle, Dennis VanGuilder, is having to enforce a new closed campus rule for all students. This spring, underclassmen had to begin abiding by the closed campus. However, eighth-graders were still able to travel downtown.

VanGuilder said he has heard many good comments from parents and community members about the new rule. Village Inn Pizza and Subway bring in pizza and subs to the cafeteria to be sold at a lower price than what the students could buy them for directly at the restaurant.

"We tried to make the change positive," VanGuilder said.

Like the elementary school, 10 minutes will be added to the middle school day. The students are reporting for school 10 minutes earlier.

An obvious addition to the high school this year is the new assistant principal, Keith Haske. High School principal, Gary Grundman, said that his new associate is "old school," and that he would be a great help in enforcing the student code of conduct.

The principle team will be putting a tight reign on tardiness. After just two unexcused tardies, students will be given detention. This new tardy policy is more strict than in years past, and Grundman expects the policy will add to a "good, smooth year."

Enrollment meets district projections

Charlevoix Public Schools have about six fewer students in class this year than in the 1996 fall count.

Preliminary counts show that the high school has the same number of students as the beginning of last fall, 410.

The middle school has gained 24 students, mostly due to a large fifth-grade class entering sixth-grade. The elementary school is down 30 students because of a smaller kindergarten and the fifth-grade departure, according to central office numbers.

The preliminary counts give the district an idea of where the student count will be on Wednesday, Sept. 24, when the official count is taken for the state. This number determines how many students the school will receive state funding for.

The enrollment is right on track with administration's projections for enrollment this fall.

Brian Cornett nabs a long pass Thursday for the Rayders during the junior varsity's first home game. Even though the ball boggled, he held onto it during his down-field run. The team lost 13-0 to St. Ignace.

Varsity football team loses season opener

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Football contests are geared to being tightly fought affairs [illegible] balance remains in limbo [illegible] the final stanza.

Friday's gridiron opener for the Rayders at St. Ignace, though, was tilted toward the Saints by a handful of big plays that bridged the end of the first half and the beginning of the second half with 24 straight Saints' points.

"We were worried about our defense," coach Todd Klinger said. "We gave up some big plays. I still felt we could come out and get back into it."

After failing to earn a first down on their first second half possession, the Saints blocked a Rayder punt, quickly converting into a touchdown. Then on the Rayders' next play, they coughed the ball up, recovered by St. Ignace which made the Rayders pay for the miscue with a 48-yard TD pass. In a span of about six minutes of game clock time, the Rayders saw a manageable one point deficit balloon to 37-12.

After a scoreless first quarter, the teams traded touchdowns during the second quarter. The Saints took a 7-0 lead, but the Rayders followed with an eight play 71-yard drive capped by Colin Carr's 10-yard TD scamper. The missed extra point graced the Saints a 7-6 lead, which they increased on their next drive 13-6 after a five yard TD run.

Undaunted, T. J. Carey marched Charlevoix right down the field finishing an 11-play, 65-yard drive with a six yard touchdown pass in the right corner of the end zone to Steve Spiegl. Another missed point after left the score at 13-12, but after that it was all Saints.

Nate Metiva scored a touchdown to break-up the Saints run in the third quarter. After the Saints returned a 50-yard interception for a touchdown, Carey connected with Spiegl again putting the last points on the board of an encouraging 53-26 loss; encouraging because the Rayders were more than effective on offense, marching 300 yards to the Saints 318 while earning 18 first downs to the Saints nine.

"Overall I'm happy with the offense," Klinger said, "Gaining 300 yards is good anytime of the year let alone for the first game."

It's the defensive lapses which enabled the Saints' to move long distances in few plays that need to be cut down if the Rayders are to pull out a victory in their home opener at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12, against Benzie Central.

Friday, Carr in his first varsity game led the Rayders in receiving and rushing yards churning out 118 yards on 19 carries and catching three passes for 36 yards. Roger Pittman rushed for 49 yards on five touches and Metiva gained 47 yards on eight carries. Carey completed 10 of 18 passes for 108 yards. Metiva and Carr were the Rayders' top tacklers on defense and Pittman snared an interception.

Rayder runners host muddy cross-country meet

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Nearly 300 high school cross country athletes gathered in Charlevoix Saturday for the Classic Invitational that sports a true obstacle course.

The event was run in Ken and Mary Plude's treacherous backyard, with hazards like a knee deep mud puddle, tree trunk high hurdles, and a challenging combination of gradual climbs and steep sprints.

"It lets people see cross-country as it used to be," Plude, head coach for Charlevoix runners, said of the three-mile long home course.

In its present form, cross country running still offers grueling long distances, but is normally run over golf course fairways doing long, straight and level loops. Saturday afternoon brought back some of the images that running across country can conjure.

"You can't just follow a pack, this is a thinking man's course," Plude said.

Runners had to adapt to ever changing terrain (rocky, muddy, hilly, and every now and then a loose crab apple), calculate when to pass on the narrow forest-lined trails, and still save enough energy for the mostly uphill climb of a finish.

"Start easy or you'll die on the hills," Charlevoix senior Candace Vandergriff said. "I made up a lot of time at the end just by going out at a lower pace."

Vandergriff was the top finisher among all Rayder runners, placing seventh in the junior-senior girls' race with a time of 22:47. The top seven finishers in each of the four races junior-senior boys, junior-senior girls, freshman-sophomore boys, and freshman-sophomore girls, received medals. There were also two exhibitions, an open run and a middle school run.

Fordson High School ventured up from Dearborn to place four runners in the top seven places in the junior-senior runs to cruise to the varsity boys' trophy while Traverse City Central, whose runners placed 1-2, took the varsity girls' victory. Team scores were based on cumulative times of the team's top five runners. Charlevoix, in a home meet where most of the competition came from Class A and B schools, took sixth place in both team standings.

"We're blue collar and grinders, so this course worked out for us," Fordson coach Phil Mahar said. "We wanted to give our kids a northern Michigan experience, and it's been great. The kids love it up here."

The highlight of the day was the mud pit. About 10-feet in length and width, the puddle attracted most of the spectators who, for all their cheering, got coated with mud themselves.

Runners found the puddle a little mucky, tripping in the loose footing, falling headfirst into the wet stuff, or losing their shoes in the stickiness. Many runners, though, looked at the mud as entertainment, doing cannonballs, superman dives, and the Elk Rapids girl's team, running en masse, each did a cartwheel entering the mud with bizarre enthusiasm.

The crowd, mostly equipped with cameras, whooped it up with each daring entrance and ever so politely jeered those who took a more traditional route through the obstacle.

Those runners knew the seriousness of what laid directly ahead. Fresh out of the mud, runners had to run up a steep 25-yard hill that had many tired legs staggering up it pinballing softly from tree to tree on the climb.

"By the end of the day it was a mud slide," Vandergriff said. "It was steep and easy to slip if you weren't wearing spikes."

For the Rayders, the event marked the beginning of another season full of hopes of qualifying for the state meet. Plude said the team ran well, and feels they will build on such a strenuous first event.

"We accomplished what we set out to do," Plude said, noting most on the squad brought previous times down. "Nobody wanted to quit."

The top five Rayders in the varsity girls event were Vandergriff placing seventh, Tricia Hodge 15, Liza Gorkiewicz 22, Monica Browe 38, and Candy Siwarga 50. For the boys, Jeff Popenhagen was the top Rayder placing 15, Nick Grosberg 39, Matt Campbell 63, Andrew Moats 72, and Ed Bellairs 81.

In the freshman-sophomore races, Ben Mays was the top Rayder, finishing 14 and Laura Schairbaum led the girls by finishing 39. At least 70 runners ran in each race.

The Rayders run at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, at the Ludington Invitational and Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the East Jordan Invitational.

Golf team loses by one stroke

The Rayder golf team lost a one stroke conference match last week against Kalkaska at the Twin Birches Golf Club.

The final tally was 176-177 in favor of the Blazers.

Kalkaska's Matt Horton shot the low score of the day with a 40, Keith Grunch led Charlevoix with 42, Ryan Murdick shot 43, Craig Siwarga shot 45, Steve Pirie shot 47, Jason Vincent shot 48, and Jon Sell shot 49.

"We're heartbroken, but we'll go from here and bear down," coach Jim Glynn said. "I think there is going to be a lot of parity in our league."

League matches weigh in extra importance as teams begin the conference tournament with an extra two points for each team they defeat during regular season play.

A junior varsity match was played and was won by Kalkaska 227-231. Levi Bakker shot the low score for the Rayders with a 48.

Soccer team gets a break

Josh Block's Rayder soccer team has had a light schedule thus far and has not played a game since August. That's good for a squad who is missing two key players, Matt Mikulski and Michael Ricks, because of foot injuries.

Block hopes the players will be ready to go for their next game on Monday, Sept. 15, in Harbor Springs. The game starts at 5 p.m. The Rayders are 1-3.

Girls' basketball earns first season's win

The girls' basketball team stormed into the upper peninsula Sept. 2, earning the season's first win against Brimley, 64-50.

The Rayders won all four quarters increasing their lead from eight after one quarter to 10 at the half, 13 after three and 14 to win the game.

Seniors Amanda Eaton and Ann Terryberry led the charge with 27 and 16 points, respectively, and junior Jamie Gowell continued her solid interior play snaring 11 rebounds.

The win and travel lent itself to a tired bunch and they were squeezed at home the next day by Benzie Central 56-38. Eaton scored 18 while Gowell scored 10 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

Tim Volovsek's crew stands at 1-3 as they enter conference play this Thursday, Sept. 11, at home vs. Traverse City St. Francis.

The junior varsity, after losses to Brimley 47-45 and Benzie Central 41-32, also stand at 1-3 and tip-off Thursday's event with their game at 6 p.m.

Healthier foods a class away

There comes a time when most of us make a resolution of some sort to eat better foods: healthier, lower in fat and cholesterol, and foods that can aid in improving our overall health.

People of the Mediterranean have been doing it for as long as anyone knows.

There will be a look into the oils, spices and foods of the Mediterranean from 7-8:30 p.m. Sept. 30, at the Community Health Education Center in Petoskey.

Studies have shown that a diet similar to that of the Mediterranean coast population may lower the risk of coronary artery disease and reduce some risks of cancer.

There is a $7 fee for the class. Please call Northern Michigan Hospital HealthAccess for more information and to register for The Mediterranean Diet class at 1(800) 248-6777.

Bill Parton (right) recently donated $70 worth of dog food to the Charlevoix County Humane Society Friday. He handed the 300 pounds of food over to Martha Wiesler, director. The money was raised by people making their wishes with pennies in East Park's trout pond. He was entitled to the money for cleaning the pond for the city. Rather than keep his share, Bill spread good cheer with the animals.

Oldtime fund-raiser a scream

Hometown Chronicles

Fond memories of a night of local talent performing at the school gym on Mason Street were brought back when I found a program in one of our memorabilia boxes. It was a musical performance by local talent, led by Dr. Walter F. Hoffman, a local dentist. He directed the outstanding variety show called "The Northland Minstrels of '53".

Those who were in this wonderful night of fun are listed as follows: Characters — Rastus, Bob Neff; Rufus, Barney Englehart; Beans, Joe Williams; Bones, Mike Hamlin; Sambo, Art Ranger; and Mushmouth, Buck Seymour.

They would intersperse the singing numbers with hilarious corny jokes. The soloists were Del Terrill, Dr. C.O. Whitten and Larry Foley. The Saturday nighters were Art Heilig, Charley Hamlin, Bob Miles and Hank Ingalls.

Special musical numbers were performed by Steve Paterka, soft shoe; Tip Riley, string bass; Joe Hanna, accordion; Wayne Belding, saxophone; and John Kroken on the trumpet.

The program pamphlet was, in itself, quite a piece of comedy. The profits went to the Band Uniform Fund, and the ads were very humorous. Mailhot's Outdoor Outfitters, had as their slogan, "Why go elsewhere to get skinned — step right in." John Mol's plumber's ad said."Meditate in comfort."

The court house employees for the night are listed in the program as: C. M. Bice, Fenton Bulow, Ruth Bulow, Anne Cunningham, Rex Davis, Anna Eccleston, Floyd Ikens, Lillis Flanders, Jean Gallagher, Margaret Haggerty, Eleanor Left, Arthur Nettleton, Floyd Supp and The Democrat — Ralph Hamilton.

The Neff brothers, Bob and Gordon, advertised "Aged cheese and eggs, fresh fruits and clerks, sweet pickles and cashiers, large cabbages and profits." Edward's Food Mart said "Someone gave us a bum steer. That's why we have meat." Dutcher's Grocery slogan was "Your mice will savor the flavor of our cheese. People, we also try to please." Fay Davis of Metropolitan Insurance Co. said, "After you're gone — see that your wife has a better life."

Andy's grocery store's ad proclaimed, "If you are driving down West Garfield - stop and see us - our prices are no higher than anybody else's." Bert Staley, who owned Staley Hardware, had the motto, "If you can't see it - and we can't find it - it will be here tomorrow, 'cuz we got the invoice yesterday." Bert was a great guy, and if he was out of something, that was his reply. Like most of the merchants, he aimed to keep his customers happy.

One ad said, "Here's an udder story: Maxbauer's Creamery has announced that due to present drought conditions, we have been compelled to stop watering our milk - effective immediately!" Stevens Implement Co. advertised, "We stand behind all our machinery (except the manure spreader)."

The program was lively and entertaining. The talent was superb, and everyone enjoyed the evening. Del Terrill sang "Cotton Blossom Dance" and Mike Hamlin danced a soft shoe. Bob Neff and the chorus did "Rhythm of the Tambourines, and Steve Paterka and the chorus performed a dance specialty "After dark." There were more numbers and jokes. All through the program pamphlets were the initials CT. A footnote explained this meant Cheap Talk.

All in all, anyone who attended this marvelous minstrel show will have fond memories of the talents of the Charlevoixians who gave their best to a special night of fun. At the end of the pamphlet was a full page ad, "In behalf of the entire cast and band parents, we want to thank everyone for their splendid cooperation in making this program what it is." Below, were the lines 'This ad paid for thru the nose by the above named, but they don't know it yet!

This picture was in a full-page ad for Bob Miles photography in the program for the variety show.

Schools tap into super highway

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Imagine a school without textbooks.

As teachers and students begin acclimating themselves to Internet technology, educators can envision classrooms less and less dependent on the classic textbook.

While Charlevoix Public Schools may be a long way from discarding textbooks in favor of classrooms via the Internet, they have weaved their first steps on the world wide web.

The district jumped on line last winter with computer labs in each of the district's three buildings, as well as a handful of machines in their media centers. This fall, eight more computers in the high school's media center have been connected to the Internet, bringing that room's total to 11 computers and the elementary school's grades 3, 4, and 5 have Internet capability, can communicate with each other through E-Mail, and can link themselves to classrooms as far away as Australia for international sharing of classroom space.

At the middle school, steps to increase capability have been left in flux as the district figures out to either replace or rebuild the building. The entire K-5 building was to be connected, but budget cuts across the district have split up the project.

Thus far, the Internet has been used as a research tool for students completing assignments.

"You look at a book and the most recent information may be three years old," middle school media center director Tom Sothard said. "Then you look in a magazine and the information may be three weeks old, but on the Internet, the information is being created as you're sitting there watching it."

Media director, Tom Sothard, helps Jennifer Rowe (from left), Rachelle Kanine and Ariane Pollena with using the Internet as a research tool.

Students reactions to using the Internet has been one of slowly building excitement.

Betty Henne, media center director of the high school, said she noticed an unwillingness to leave the computer when school was closing. However, students have found the Internet as confounding as astounding.

"You type in a word to do a search and get 2,500 entries," Charlevoix sophomore Shaun MacMillan said.

He also noted that some sources may be questionable and can contradict each other to the point that he keeps a running tally on opinions to see which ones have more support.

"It can be quite a web," he quipped. "If it were up to me, I would probably not use the Internet for school. The information is not as packed in and I have a tendency to stray off."

Straying off is a problem the school had to tackle before allowing students an opportunity to surf the web. There are obvious not for student sites and combined with the limited number of computers, surfing has been delegated only for curriculum purposes. Each computer has a 20-minute time limit. The district has involved a tracking system to monitor the waves surfed on and students must sign a policy form outlining rules and regulations. The privilege to use Internet is stripped if rules are not followed.

As for the number of sources available on the world wide web, many say that's the beauty behind using it.

"It's like an encyclopedia with five million pages," said Scott Mays, who supervised the elementary school's computer lah last year.

Two new fire trucks coming to town

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Rather than cut corners by sharing fire trucks with Charlevoix Township, city council voted Monday to buy both a new tanker and an aerial truck.

Council members were asked to review a mutual aid agreement that included the township buying a new tanker and the city investing in an aerial truck.

For two years the city has budgeted to buy a new tanker.

"We ought to spend the money and get the tanker," said councilmember Don Meggison, a former firefighter himself. He said that the current tanker can't be taken off the roadway and can't always get to fires when it's needed.

The budget allows for the purchase of a tanker truck for up to $90,000 this year. Buying an aerial truck wasn't budgeted until 1999. Currently, Petoskey and Boyne City respond to fires when an aerial truck is needed. Petoskey brought its truck over for the Expressions Unlimited fire in February. A new truck would cost about $135,000.

The mutual aid agreement would leave Charlevoix more dependent on the response by the township. A tanker is especially important when city firefighters fulfill contracts to fight fires in Marion, Eveline or Norwood townships, where city water lines are not available.

"We don't have to be in the fire protection business," councilmember Bob Timms said.

The city receives about $32,000 from the townships for the annual aid agreement, city treasurer Rick

Phillips rezoning defeated by one vote

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Pete Phillips has been on a governmental roller coaster. Monday, it stopped with a final no from city council on rezoning the back half of his property, behind Phillips BP Gas Station at 743 Petoskey Ave.

However, Pete's mother, Helen Phillips, who owns the property, said they will be looking for a way to appeal the council's decision.

"This isn't the end of it, I can tell you that," she said Tuesday. The process for her has been frustrating and stressful.

According to city attorney, Jim Young, the Phillips' next step would be court action. The zoning request has gone through the city planners and the council. Planners, at first, refused to recommend approval of the request to city council. Months later, after reviewing the city's master plan and seeing that this area has been foreseen for commercial development, planners backed Phillips' request.

Monday, council voted 3-2 for the rezoning. Councilmembers Bruce Reid and Bob Timms cast the two dissenting votes. However, city code requires that two-thirds of the entire council support such a change. Phillips needed a vote from councilmember Gabe Campbell, who was absent, to get his request through.

Before the vote was taken, a public hearing was held. Several people who live near the gas station spoke out against the rezoning. A petition opposing the change was turned into city hall in August with nine names on it. The property in question runs along Division Street, through the municipal golf course and past the elementary school.

The land has been split zoned commercial and residential to prevent commercial development down Division.

to be like Petoskey Avenue?" asked neighbor Ed Kasky. Development would hinder the residential atmosphere of the road, he added, calling it a popular place for people to take walks and children to ride their bikes.

According to the application for rezoning, the current use of the property would continue. At past meetings, however, Pete Phillips has said that he wants to sell the land.

Butch Russell said he supports the rezoning because whatever is built there will not look worse than the land does now. Neighbors have also complained about abandoned cars on the lot and it not being mowed.

City planner, Gerry Harsch, said that a site plan review and new landscaping demands could have more control over the look of the land if it is sold for development.

Pete Phillips doesn't dispute the condition of the property, but says that with increased competition by newer gas stations in town, he can't afford the upkeep.

Besides, if the zoning isn't changed, Helen Phillips doesn't see a chance to sell the property as it's divided.

"Who is going to want to build a house behind a gas station," she said, noting that she bought the land when it was all zoned commercial.

After being turned down, Phillips asked the council for an explanation.

City attorney Young said that council members aren't responsible to give individual opinions as to how they voted. However, Harsch is preparing a letter for Phillips which will outline why the rezoning was denied.

Charlevoix agrees to pay portable rent

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Charlevoix school board has agreed to pay rent for one of its middle school portables.

The district will pay $4,512 to rent the portable classroom, according to a standard rental agreement that was issued to every school district in two counties that rent space from the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

"Our goal is to be out of having to have a portable in the near future," Charlevoix superintendent Roberta Jackson said. The district uses six portables, four for classrooms and two for storage.

"We see this as a short-term solution," she said.

Some school board members questioned paying for the space. In the past, the two districts swapped space. However, Char-Em moved its program out of the high school when the local district needed the classroom.

If the rent agreement had not been signed, Char-Em superintendent Mark Eckhardt said the portable would be moved. The rent will be paid in three partial payments.

In addition to the rent, the board questioned the district's paying for major repairs to a classroom that isn't theirs, such as roof repair, work on the heater and maintenance of the front decks.

Jackson said that she expects rental reductions to be made for major repairs. The district is getting estimates on the repairs. However, Eckhardt said the intermediate school district must approve repairs and will take care of getting bids for their completion.

Eckhardt said that routine maintenance will be the responsibility of Charlevoix while major repairs will be taken care of by Char-Em, similar to other landlord-renter agreements.

Char-Em is involved in 10 rental agreements with the 11 school districts which it covers. All the districts are charged the same amount per square foot.

K-5 students get enrichment options

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

When Lori Foster moved to northern Michigan a year and a half ago, finding activities for her children was not an easy task. This difficulty erupted an idea for her to start an enrichment program at the Charlevoix Elementary School. The enrichment program has become a reality and now has many different branches for elementary-age children. The sessions include classes in dance, foreign language and sports. Chess, pom-pom, and gifted and talented sessions are also possible.

Each program is structured and taught by qualified teachers. The foreign language program runs throughout the school year. These sessions, include French, Spanish and German. The dance program consists of two areas, one in which the students learn a dance. The other area, "creative movement," is directed toward toddlers who may not be capable of a structured dance.

The sports sessions feature a new sport every few weeks. The teaching of the sport is designed for younger kids to get them exercising. The gifted and talented program would challenge students beyond the classroom and allow them to expand their knowledge. The pom-pom sessions would be taught by the Blue Bonnetts, an experienced group from Grand Rapids.

The goal of the enrichment pro-

Local stores have responsibilities to shoppers, too

Editor:

I read your editorial on shoppers' responsibilities to their own community and agree to some degree. Since they set the tone for the business, store managers take note...

Local businesses are where I first look for what I want, however, sometimes it can be awfully hard to get what you want. I've been told, "We don't carry that stuff. There's not enough demand for it." But worse are the demeaning attitudes we too often have to endure. An area service station which also sells food had a "hot dog" special. I asked for the three unwrapped hot dogs to be put in a bag for easier carrying home, but was told that couldn't be done because of the sale price of the food! (They finally wrapped them in three individual pieces of tin foil - which cost more than the small paper bag would.)

At another business, my daughter was refused service because she didn't bring her husband with her. I could sympathize, as several times I had been in two businesses where the majority of customers were men and had to wait while late arriving men were served first.

At two restaurants, I've waited over half an hour for small orders, despite lack of any customers ahead of me.

In asking for the non-smoking area of a restaurant, as far as possible from the smoke, a waitress told me it was her opinion people just liked to complain and if they didn't like the smoke maybe they should go elsewhere. That restaurant is now out of business.

One store I used to shop in sells clothing but took out the dressing room. Customers are told to buy the clothes and take them home - or go over to the nearby grocery store bathroom to try them on, then bring them back for a refund if they don't fit! Yes, I am serious! Is it any wonder we buy our clothes elsewhere now?

I've run into downright nasty clerks at some stores, and have been unable to find any clerks in others.

Most of us are well aware that the customer is no longer viewed as "always right," but too often as never right.

Do store managers realize they drive customers away this way?

There are many fine stores in the area which do know how to treat customers and I still try to get my merchandise locally, but when treated as above, I go elsewhere.

The stores referred to above are in East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Camp Quality offers thanks to community

Editor:

I would like to share my thanks and appreciation with you and our many volunteers, donors of time, talent and treasure, the press, radio stations, TV channels, service clubs and organizations, churches, school groups, and others for helping to make Camp Quality's "Ten Years of Magic" anniversary a phenomenal success.

As Executive Director of Camp Quality USA and also the Michigan Camp Director, I was pleased to receive a letter this week that says it all. Please consider sharing the sentiments of a camper's parent with your readers.

"Just a note to say thank-you for Camp Quality - Michigan. My children had an amazing time. It was such a great and exciting experience for my daughters, Nichole and Monica. They are still talking about it.

They enjoyed everything about the camp. Their counselors, Geri and Shea, were absolutely wonderful. They were so sensitive and compassionate with the needs of my children. I'm finding it difficult to find the words to express my gratitude. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

I wish Camp Quality - Michigan and your sponsors the very best. I couldn't have afforded a camp experience like this for my children. This has been a blessing.

I will never forget what you have done for my family. May God give you the strength and the resources to continue His work. Thank you again."

Fund-raiser successful

Editor:

This is a short note of appreciation to the many participants and generous donors who helped make the 7th annual Vacation Properties Network Golf Benefit held Sept. 4, an overwhelming success.

Thanks to the efforts of everyone at Charlevoix Country Club, the host course for the event. Playing conditions were superb and all 105 golfers had a great time while generating over $3,000 for this year's non-profit beneficiary, The Charlevoix Fireworks Victims' Fund. This type of success is not possible without many donations of both time and prizes by many individuals and businesses. Our sincere gratitude to all who participated!

Sincerely,
The management and staff,

Public left out of Charlevoix County board meeting

EDITORIAL

It's too bad the public has to feel not welcome at a public meeting.

That was the case Sept. 10 with the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

After spending more than $5 million on a new addition to the county building and renovations to other areas, we now have a commission chambers that caters to the board and not the public.

Let us paint the picture. You enter the room at the back and the commissioners are on a raised area behind individual desks. Chairs are set up across the small room facing the commissioners. However, with people coming in and out of the door and the air conditioner/heater directly over the public chairs, it's nearly impossible to hear a word spoken about the county's business.

Twice individuals at the meeting informed the commissioners that they couldn't hear. The first man asked that the air be turned off to stop part of the disruption. The county clerk did so. Then the temperature in the small room began to rise with the tempers of many of the people in the audience who still couldn't hear comments.

Anyone in attendance at the meeting was more informed by those who made presentations to the board than by our elected officials. Some of them spoke with their hands in front of their mouths. Others conducted business with timid little voices that would never have gotten them elected in the first place.

It may be difficult to be a board member who meets many times a month for full-board and committee meetings. Then, people show up who know nothing about many of the issues on the agenda.

Most times, the public attends a governmental meeting when there's an issue at stake that directly effects them. However, they often sit through the entire meeting to be able to speak their words.

What impression is the public leaving these meetings with? Are they encouraged and interested in getting involved, maybe in serving on an ad-hoc committee or are they discouraged and determined to never come again?

Not being able to hear our elected officials make decisions, take votes and set future meetings further discourages an already disheartened view that many people have in our governmental process.

Making the public feel welcome and appreciated helps them believe in their ability to make a difference. Without that belief, no number of advertising campaigns will get voters to the polls.

In order for the commissioners to properly welcome the public into their meetings, they need to get small microphones that will allow their voices to be picked up. Yes, the room is small, but it's an acoustic nightmare.

Secondly, chairs for the public need to be set up more toward commissioner Shirley Roloff's chair. This way, a third of the public will not be looking at the back of the large support beam that's in the middle of the room. This would also move the public away from the entrance, a door that opened and closed almost continually throughout the meeting.

Thirdly, the table which is set up for people addressing the board can be turned so that the presenters back is not to the audience. It, too, needs to have a microphone attached.

Donors helped with Venetian accident

Editor:

The community of Charlevoix was made alarmingly aware this summer of how quickly an emergency situation can arise. Immediately following the tragic fireworks explosion in July, the American Red Cross supplied the hospitals in Charlevoix and Petoskey with the red blood cells, platelets and fresh frozen plasma needed by the injured.

The American Red Cross will be in Charlevoix on Thursday, Sept. 25. I encourage every healthy blood donor to give the gift of life by stopping in to the American Legion on East Garfield between 1 and 6:45 p.m. The donation will take about an hour. The need is vital, Charlevoix! Please call 347-5984 to make an appointment for the afternoon of September 25, or come in when you can.

Thank You,
Ellen Schuiling

Big Rock shutdown is not the end

Editor:

Yes, "So long, Big Rock," as the Mayor said with understandable nostalgia, affection, pain, achievement and good luck. All the people at the shutdown were seeing history, not just their own, but a local, statewide, national, even global event — the closing of a nuclear plant, the end of an era.

We who have become anti-nuclear activists are not against local workers or business. But we will continue to work for nuclear shut downs of all 108 United States and some 400 worldwide nuclear plants to stop making more of the contaminants forevermore. Since all of us are involuntary guinea pigs to radioactive and chemical pollutants here and everywhere, we are appalled at a choice between our children's health and our jobs. Nuclear was a wrong turn, as Ralph Nader has said. The weapons which are both inhumane and suicidal (even the testing that ended in 1963) and "other" uses (power, space, industrial, possibly medical) are unacceptable risks.

We are being forced politically to decide between scientists and industry! We must choose between "facts" that are presented amid confusion or obfuscation of assurances. We just want to get on with our lives while we trust the people we elect and they appoint and are hired to do their job expertly, while protecting us and ours.

So... so long Big Rock and hello to 250,000 years of management, storage, monitoring, repackaging, securing, protecting, moving the highly radioactive waste. It even requires a restoration project, as the new sign proclaims, to try to get the land back to where it originally was.

Now "we" must expect real success and more good luck dismantling the monster. No short cuts, no cheapies, no easy gambles; no 5 to 10 year workers without documented proof that those workers will be

Charlevoix graduate, Venetian queen gets scholarship

Rachel Newcomb, of Charlevoix, has been named a 1997 National Service Scholar and awarded a college scholarship of $500 by the Corporation for National Service in recognition of an outstanding record of community service.

The award matches a local scholarship of $500 provided by Lions of Charlevoix. Launched last fall by President Bill Clinton, the National Service Scholars program challenges communities and local organizations to raise at least $500 for a junior or senior in their local high school, which the federal government then matches. School principals select scholarship recipients.

Newcomb is among 1,690 first-year scholarship winners announced by Clinton in his recent radio address on community service.

"Next year it will be even bigger," he said. "Our goal is to make this program available in every high school."

Newcomb graduated from Charlevoix High School this spring and plans to attend Michigan State University.

The National Service Scholars program is administered by Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America, Inc. (CSFA), a national nonprofit student aid service organization headquartered in St. Peter, Minnesota.

Hospital gets go ahead on scanner

The State of Michigan has issued a certificate of need for the installation of Computerized Tomography equipment at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The equipment, usually referred to as C-T or CAT Scanner, had to undergo scrutiny by the state to determine the need before the hospital could proceed with the project. All hospital equipment purchases or service additions worth more than $150,000 must receive a certificate of need.

C-T Scanners were invented about 25 years ago. They have become a standard procedure for diagnosing disease and injury to all areas of the body. The equipment allows physicians to receive an X-ray of the internal organs and soft tissue without doing surgery. It is very important in the instance of head injury, determining stroke and brain tumors.

Purchase of the equipment and renovation of space amounts to $500,000. To-date over $211,000 has been raised in a community and hospital campaign for the equipment.

Major business gifts have been committed from the Oleson Foundation, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank and Wojan Window and Door. Charitable organization gifts include those made by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Beta Sigma Phi from the Charlevoix Home Tour and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild. Thomas Carey, hospital board member, is contacting other area businesses for contributions in order to reach

Wedding

Woods - Cole

Dianne Kay Woods and Brent N. Cole were joined in marriage May 17, 1997, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Marshall, Mich., before about 225 guests.

Dianne is the daughter of Matthew B. Woods and Arlene C. Woods, of Marshall, Mich.

Brent is the son of Harvey and Betty Cole, of Charlevoix.

The church was decorated with bouquets of star gazer lilies as the Rev. Lawrence Woods performed the double ring ceremony.

The bridge was given in marriage by her father and mother. She wore a full-length Shantung silk dress with a fitted bodice with sequins and pearls. Her veil was tiara style with pearls and sequins. She carried roses, star gazer lilies and ivy.

Sister of the bride, Jane Lake, performed as soloist during the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Margaret Feasel, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Sara Woods, niece of the bride; Ellen Hallacy, sister of the bride; and Kelly Avery and Amy Malone, friends.

They wore full-length, off-the-shoulder chiffon, bright pink dresses. They carried bouquets of star gazer lilies and ivy.

The flower girl was Cristin Cole, niece of the groom. She wore a white dress and carried a basket of flowers.

The ring bearer was Andrew Feasel, nephew of the bride.

The best man was Tom Shaw. Groomsmen were Mike Martin, Troy Frick, Dave Cole, brother of the groom, and Chuck Curren.

Ushers were Dave Cole and Chuck Curren.

A reception was given by the bride's parents and the bride and groom at Four Seasons in Battle Creek. Rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Schuler's Restaurant in Marshall, Mich.

A wedding trip was taken on a Royal Caribbean Cruise to the western Caribbean.

The couple are making their home in Marshall, where Brent is a probation officer for Calhoun County and Dianne is an underwriter for Auto Owners Insurance.

Choral society seeks singers for fall show

The Little Traverse Choral Society, under the direction of Katharine Trumble with Gertrude Fairbairn as accompanist, began rehearsals Sept. 9, at Concord Academy's Middle/High school building on 2230 E. Mitchell Road in Petoskey. Rehearsals are each Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. Singers can still join.

The chorale's first concert of the season, "A Schubert Celebration," is on Saturday Nov. 15. It will feature Schubert's Mass No. 6 in E flat. 1997 is the bicentennial of Granz Schubert's birth.

"Schubert is best known for his melodies, and while this mass is rarely performed it is exceptionally beautiful," Trumble said. "Especially the section which is written for a soprano and two tenor soloists. Two other sections of the mass call for a solo quartet. In addition to these solos there will be an opportunity prior to the performance of the mass for selected vocalists to perform selections from Schubert's many lider."

No audition is required to sing with the choral society and college credit can be arranged with North Central Michigan College. The director determines vocal compatibility. Score reading ability is useful, but not mandatory. Weekly attendance at rehearsal is required, and absences must be cleared through the director. Soloists for the fall concert will be determined upon auditions in September.

The society is now pursuing an early December "Messiah" sing-along. Their March concert, "A Night at the Opera" will feature great opera choruses. Tentative plans for a repeat of their popular spring concert/dessert auction featuring Gershwin are under way. For more information call Kathy Trumble at 526-6577.

Adult membership fee in the Choral Society is $20, and families can join for $35. There is no membership fee for students, but a $10 refundable music fee is required. Non-singer memberships are also appreciated. Checks should be made out to the Little Traverse Choral Society and mailed to 1511 Resort Pike Rd., Petoskey, MI 49770.

Laurence Lee "Larry" Anders

Laurence Lee "Larry" Anders, of Highlands, Colo., died Aug. 25, 1997, at the Porter Memorial Hospital in Littletown, Colo.

A memorial service was held at 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 28, at the Bullock Mortuary in Littletown. The Rev. Don Rickard officiated. A second memorial service was held in Michigan on Sept. 10, 1997, at Camp Agawam near Pontiac, Mich.

Larry was born on Oct. 4, 1950, in Grand Rapids, Mich., the son of the late Don J. Anders and Jane Lee Johns of Tucson, Ariz. He lived in Grand Rapids and Phoenix, Ariz., and moved to Charlevoix in 1961.

He graduated from Charlevoix Public High School in 1969. He graduated from North Central Michigan College in 1971. He later graduated from Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant with a bachelor's degree in teaching.

On Oct. 9, 1971, he married Mary Ann Kabelman in Petoskey. They resided in Petoskey, Mt. Pleasant and Mt. Clemens over the next 17 years.

He was married to Barbara Anne Loner in Littletown, Colo. on Oct. 12, 1996. They resided in Littletown, where he had recently accepted a permanent teaching position at the Lookout Mt. School for juvenile boys.

He began his varied career in the food business working to become a chef over eight years of working in northern Michigan.

After completing his teaching degree, he worked for Boy Scouts of America out of Pontiac for 11 years. Moving to Colorado three years ago, he returned to the food business and substitute teaching. He completed his national certification exams on Oct. 19, 1996, and was about to begin his new job at Lookout Mt. School in Littletown.

He was Charlevoix's first Eagle Scout in 1968 in Troop 11 under Louis Edwards. He was a member of the Order of the Arrow and holder of the Wood Badge Beads. He saw his new position as an opportunity to work with juvenile boys. He loved cooking, camping, hiking and the mountains.

Survivors include his wife, Barbara, of Littletown, Colo., his mother, Jane·Lee Johns of Tucson, Ariz., and three brothers, Don Anders of Prescott, Ariz., Tim Anders of Honolulu, Hawaii, and Marti Anders of Tucson. He was preceded in death by his father, Don J. Anders, in 1980.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Larry Anders Memorial Scholarship Fund through Robert Loner.- 930 Sailors Reef in Fort Collins, Colo. 80525.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Courier columnist

I was caught in between places for lunch one day and ended up going after a quick sandwich on my own. I had no sooner settled in and started to munch when this young child's head popped up from behind the other booth. "You got fries!" Yes, I do. "I'm gonna get fries, too." Well, I'm glad. "You got pop." Uh-huh. "I'm gonna get pop, too." Before I knew it, her sister came over and introduced herself (she was in line with Mom) and suddenly I'm hearing the family's whole life story. "Don't bother that man, Danielle." It's okay, Mom. We talked about all kinds of things while I was trying to wolf down my sandwich.

Children are really good judges. If they detect even the slightest hint that someone will listen to them and really care, then you'll hear about their whole world. Even adults are sensitive to the tone of voice people use with them. A warm friendly tone, even if only a few words are exchanged, can open the door to all kinds of encouragement and understanding. A cold, formal approach finds most folks backing away or holding you at arm's length because they might just be afraid of what they'll find.

Children really are good judges. If a child knows they can trust someone, then there is no hesitation about where the love and loyalty will be. They are unconditional in the way they give of their devotion. Adults are that way, too, only by the time we become big and tall people, we are a little more skeptical. We have been known to demand that folks earn our trust before we give it to them.

Children really respond to it. If they sense tenderness in the spirit of the big and tall people in their lives, they will warm to it in precious ways. We grown ups don't always admit it, but we crave tenderness, too. People have the misperception that it happens only in romantic situations. Tenderness is required in a lot more areas of life than we might think.

If you are aware of "preacherly patterns" in writing, then you should have seen three points already emerging. Tone, trust and tenderness are the words I hope you will remember. Whether you realize it or not, just because you are a big and tall person, that doesn't mean there still isn't a child hiding inside. And just like a child, there are times where each of us are in need of someone who will talk with us in gentle tones, show us we can trust them, and exhibit a tenderness in their actions that makes the problems of life a little less burdensome.

Jesus is the someone we need. He spoke of himself as being the Good Shepherd, the one who knows His sheep by name and they know him by the sound of His voice. He spoke of laying down his life for those he loves. He spoke of seeing to it that we would enjoy the fullness that life was meant to have. He spoke of going before us and guiding us down the best paths.

Jesus is never too busy to listen. He understands child-like enthusiasm just as well as He comprehends grown up complexities. He goes out of His way to see to it that we realize how completely He cares for us. He exhibits such a compassion and care that words will never do justice to the true nature of the tenderness He wants to share. A caring tone, trust, and tenderness are some qualities all of us need to get through the days of our lives. Jesus is the source for it because He truly loves all His children, the little ones and those of us who have become big and tall.

the $500,000 goal by year-end.

Currently, patients requiring a C-T scan are referred to Munson Medical Center or Northern Michigan Hospital.

"We really need to secure this equipment for Charlevoix Area Hospital's patients," Carey said. "We need to save our patients the expense and inconvenience of traveling out of town for the procedure." In addition, the speed with which results are obtained, and the diagnosis completed, will be a great asset to patients and physicians."

Rental center opens in Charlevoix

By Lisa Wheat
Special writer

Customer service is first on the list for William Burgess, store manager of Northern Rental Center. Located in the Kmart plaza in Charlevoix, the store offers household goods for rent with quality brand names.

Northern Rental gives three options to buying or renting merchandise. Customers can buy the product outright, make payments over a four-month period or rent-to-own the product. Credit, long-term obligations, and down payments are not needed when buying or renting products.

According to Burgess, the store enables more people to afford brand-name goods that they would have to buy outright at other stores. Northern Rental strives to make their goods available to all people, regardless of financial status.

Burgess and the store personnel strive to make the customer "feel at home, without hounding them about buying."

From inside the store, customers can outfit their entire homes with furniture, appliances, stereos, televisions, telephones, wall hangings, scanners and other household goods.

After managing a Northern Rental Center in East Tawas, Burgess decided to open a Charlevoix location. He said the beauty of the area and the attitude of the people brought him here.

The franchise of Northern Rental Center has eight locations around northern Michigan. The Charlevoix store opened on July 14. Since opening, the store has received good response from the public, Burgess said.

In an effort to make business convenient for the customer, Northern Rental Center offers repairs and delivery of merchandise within a 40-mile radius.

Burgess has moved to Charlevoix, where he is responsible for this store and will continue to oversee some operations at the Tawas location.

Store hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. For more information, call 547-1600.

Mildred (McLean) Kilgore

Mildred (McLean) Kilgore, 90, died Sunday, Aug. 24, 1997, at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio.

Her father was Ira Beatty, "I.B." McLean and her mother Edna Painter, both of Boyne City. "I.B." was in real estate and his painted sign on a building was visible until just several years ago.

Mildred "Mickey" Kilgore was born in Boyne City in 1906 and lived there for several years until her parents moved to East Lansing, Mich. She attended Ward Belmont Finishing School and graduated from Eastern Michigan University as a teacher. While in school, she met and later married Louis D. "Red" Kilgore, who owned Greenwood and Kilgore, men's haberdashers in Ann Arbor, and later, Kilgore and Hurd, men's haberdashers in Detroit.

During the 1930s after moving to Detroit, Mickey worked for Henry Ford as a model for automotive advertising and for a newspaper. In later years she became a teacher in the Detroit school system, which led to her earning a degree in library science at Wayne State University. Her last teaching assignment was as an elementary school teacher at Lingeman School in Detroit.

She was an active member of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, a Philanthropic Educational Organization, involved in educating women. She was an active member of the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church, where she was known for her work with the meals for the homeless and for her interest in the churches music department. She was fondly known as the "Hat Lady" by her friends in the congregation because of the wide variety of beautiful hats she always wore.

During the last 43 years, she (with Red until his death in 1986) lived at the River House on E. Jefferson, in Detroit, across from the Yacht Club on Belle Isle, and spent her summers on Holy Island in northern Michigan on Lake Charlevoix. Her father platted the island in the early 1900s. While in northern Michigan, she was active in the Ironton Congregational Church.

Mickey is survived by her daughter, Betty Grandy, and son, Louis D. "Bud," grand-children Susan Mary, John, Paul, Ann, David, Rob, Susan and 12 great-grandchildren.

Memorial services were held at the Ironton Congregational Church in Ironton, Saturday, Sept. 6, and will be held at 4 p.m. at the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit on Saturday, Sept. 13.

Contributions can be made to the Ironton Congregational Church, Ironton, MI, 49729, or to the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church Music Department, Detroit, MI 48214.

Frank Fuller Fowle

Frank Fuller Fowle, 89, Charlevoix summer resident, died Sept. 3.

He was born in Chicago and was a lifelong resident of Winnetka, Ill.

He was a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve from 1942-1945, practiced law in Chicago for 60 years, and was senior partner of Pope, Ballard, Shepard and Fowle from 1940-1992.

He was a graduate of Williams College in 1929 and Harvard Law School in 1932 and Columbia University in 1946. He is former director of Harris Bank of Winnetka, president and trustee of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, governing member of the Glenwood School for Boys, first chairman of the Illinois Community College Board, and past vestry of Christ Church.

A memorial service was held Sept. 5, at Christ Church on the Hill in Winnetka.

Mr. Fowle was the husband of Francis (Bartlett) Fowle and the late Elisabeth (Ballard) Fowle, father of Elisabeth (Richard) Borus, of Houston, Texas, Susan (Bradley Hall) Rankin and Margaret Duryee, both of Portland, Oregon, William C. ## Lady Rayders work on sinking shots

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

If the girls' basketball team could hit the bucket on the simple shots, they could be 5-0, according to coach Tim Volovsek.

"If we can get our shooting percentage up, we can beat anybody," he said.

The Rayders lost Thursday to Traverse City St. Francis at home, 55-54. Charlevoix outscored the opponent in three out of four quarters.

"We spotted them a 10-point lead in the first quarter, Volovsek said.

After that, the Rayders could just make up the difference enough to slip past the one-point advantage during the game's final seconds.

Traverse City St. Francis lead 17-7 after the first quarter. Then the Rayders picked up the pace, tieing St. Francis in scoring in the second quarter. Throughout the second half, the Rayders outscored T.C.

Overall, the Rayders needed the ball to fall through the hoop more often than it did. They shot 30 percent from the floor, compared to St. Francis' 49 percent.

Also, the Rayders were hurt at the line when only shooting 35 percent on their fouls.

Jamie Gowell scored 13 points with nine rebounds, Amanda Eaton racked up 14 points and six rebounds, Ann Terryberry made 11 points, four assists, three steals and three rebounds. Sarah Dominic added eight points, four steals and five rebounds with Angie Potter chipping in five points and six rebounds.

As a result of last week's shooting percentages, the team is working on sinking the shot this week in preparation for their game Thursday, Sept. 18. in Boyne City.

"I think we will really be able to bother some people in the future if we can just make our layups and easy shots," the coach said.

Volovsek expects the Ramblers to be tough on the inside Thursday.

"Boyne City is physical," he said.

Charlevoix's team is known for its speed, not strength.

"Hopefully, speed and quickness will prevail over strength and height," he said.

The Rayders are 1-4, and 0-1 in the conference. Tip off in Boyne City is 6:30 p.m. for junior varsity.

Yacht club begins fall sailing series

By A. Nother Mouse
Courier columnist

A. Nony will be taking a hiatus of his own (to warmer climates?) and has entrusted another Mouse to bring you the yachting news.

Dust off the foul weather gear - the fall series has begun. Greeted by overcast skies, a little rain and generous winds, the Wednesday night sailors returned to the lake Sept. 10 after a one week post - Red Fox hiatus.

The sight of those musty old Line Stevens brings back memories of too many cold, wet races.

With the J-22s now sailing Olympic triangles with the other fleets, more traffic is making mark roundings as "interesting" as ever. This fall should be a good test of our skippers' (and crews') know-how of the racing rules, as well as their ability to apply them to real-life racing. Don't overlook the importance of good sportsmanship - a requirement of any self-policing sport.

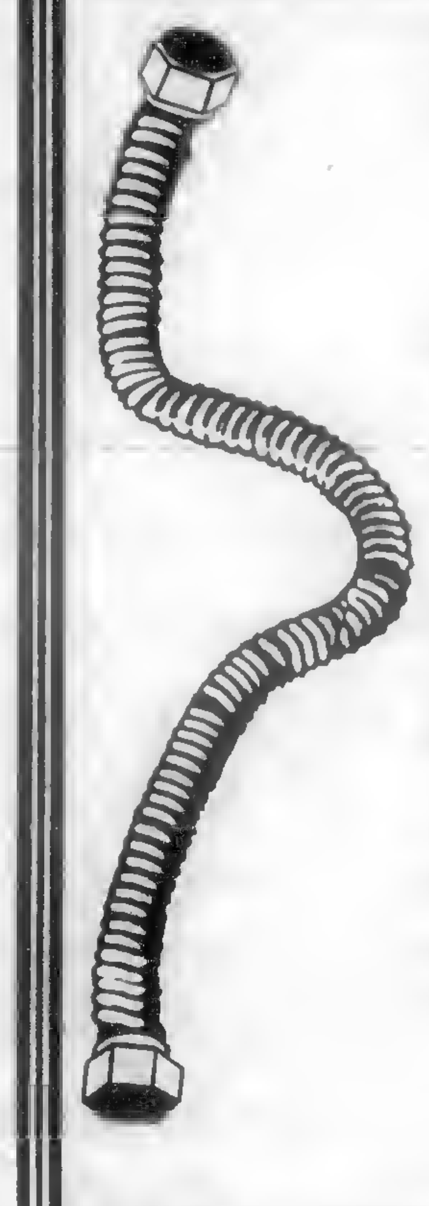
In Fleet A (spinnakers rated 195 or lower), with corrected times, Newsense (1:28.47) took first over Gotcha (1:31.11). Kamikaze (1:31.31) captured third, with Mint Julep (1:32.12) in fourth place, less than a minute behind. They were followed by Hoo-Ahh (1:36.26), M-3 (1:38.28), and Babe (1:39.47).

In Fleet B (spinnakers rated 198 or higher), with corrected times, Stalworth (1:14.21) beat out Original Sin (1:15.43). Our Thyme II (1:15.59) took a close third, followed by Lost Vermonter (1:17.05), Cygnus (1:17.52), and Tireless (1:18.26). Blasen III (1:19.19) rounded out the fleet, with less than four minutes separating the first and last boats.

In Main and Jib, it was Booma (1:23.10), followed by Sarah Belle (1:27.19). Mi Joy (1:28.12) took third and discovered that dragging B mark around the course really won't make the boat go faster. (Although throwing your skipper in has been known to do the trick on occasion). Cabaret (1:29.44) finished fourth.

H.S. Moisture Missile (1:18.11) led the J-22s early and held on to a solid first place finish more than a minute and a half in front of Gecko (1:19.50) and Hussy (1:19.50), who (this Mouse has on good authority) made Charlevoix Yacht Club history with the first ever boat-for-boat tie. Reckless (1:20.07) held on to fourth place over Swine Flew (1:20.31). Cathach (1:24.36) and Paleface Lite (1:24.40) rounded out the fleet in sixth and seventh.

!DANGER!
Certain Older Gas Connectors May Be Dangerous



Gas connectors are corrugated metal tubes used to connect gas stoves, dryers and ceiling furnaces in your home to fuel gas supply pipes. Some older brass connectors have come apart, causing fires and explosions resulting in deaths and injuries.

!DANGER!

These older brass connectors have a serious flaw in how their tubing was joined to their end pieces. Over time, the end pieces can separate from the tubing, and cause a serious gas leak, explosion, or fire. To our knowledge, these connectors have not been made for more than 20 years, but many of them are still in use. The older these connectors, the greater the possibility of failure.

As reported on CBS News with Dan Rather and CNN, the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) and MacGregor Plumbing and Heating have initiated a public service campaign to inform homeowners about the dangers associated with certain older uncoated, corrugated brass gas connectors. CPSC is recommending the IMMEDIATE replacement of all uncoated brass connectors.

*Do not move your appliance to check the connector and do not replace the connector yourself.

Football team loses home-field opener

By Janenne Irene Harrington,
Courier editor

Charlevoix struggled through its first home game Friday, but coach Todd Klinger said his team never gave up. Benzie Central was just too tough.

"It was surprising how strong and physical they were," Klinger said. "They were able to move the line of scrimmage back on each play."

The Rayders were down 7-0 at the end of the first quarter, hitting the locker room with a 19-point deficit, 19-0. Benzie continued to spread the gap, holding the Rayders without a score until the fourth quarter.

"Their offense was really deceptive, and we had trouble finding the football," Klinger said.

When the Rayder offense did hit the red zone in the fourth quarter, it scored six on an 11-yard pass from T. J. Carey to Steve Speigl. Colin Carr hustled in a two-point conversion to add two points.

The game ended 38-8.

"In the end, our kids played hard for the whole game and never game up, which is always encouraging under those circumstances," Klinger said.

The leading rusher and tackler was Nate Metiva, who had six carries for 68 yards. Carr racked up 11 carries for 43 yards.

Quarterback Carey made 10 of 19 completions for 53 yards.

The Rayders have not played Benzie Central in years. And this Friday, they look forward to more familiar territory. They travel to East Jordan for their conference opener.

"I'm looking for us to show improvement on offense and defense," Klinger said. "East Jordan is off to a good start this season and we expect another tough football game.

The Rayders are currently 0-2.

Sessions enhance school programs

gram is to have worthwhile sessions for the children to enhance what they have done in school, Foster said. Two sessions of each program will be held each week, making a total of 40 sessions.

The program is funded mostly through registration fees that are paid by each student. The fees range from $3 to $10 per session. The registration money is used to buy supplies for the programs. For instance, the money the foreign language program receives buys notebooks, pencils, and craft supplies for the kids. The money for the dance and pom-pom sessions pays for the instructor, while the money for the sports sessions buys equipment.

Some money has been obtained through other sources such as the Charlevoix Enrichment Foundation and the Sigma Cappa Sorority. Fund-raisers are also held.

At least one scholarship is expected to be offered to a child who can't afford the registration fee. Based on funds received from donations and fund-raisers, more scholarships may be awarded in the future.

Anyone interested in signing up for fall sessions or in donating money to the program can contact Lori Foster at 599-2674 or the elementary school office at 547-3215.

Aerial could come cheap

Brandi said Tuesday.

Councilmember Bruce Reid said that payment by the townships would pay for the aerial truck within four years, a good business decision.

Charlevoix shift commander Joe Schwartzfisher visited Wisconsin and inspected a used aerial truck for sale there for $20,000, along with fire chief Doug Carver and city mechanic Mike Hodge. He said it would take about another $15,000 to equip the truck.

The truck has a 100-foot ladder, a 1,250-pound per minute pumper, is governed at 52 mph and is being tested for certification.

"It's in mint condition," Schwartzfisher said, noting that he estimates the truck worth at least $100,000.

Council approved the purchase of the aerial, contingent on its ability to be certified and pass ladder inspection.

Building schools part of Charlevoix's educational history

From the Archives

By Geoffrey D. Reynolds
Courier columnist

With the coming of autumn, so comes the beginning of Charlevoix's 136th new school year. In 1861, inhabitants of Charlevoix decided that education was important enough to start the first school (seven years after the village's informal founding by Medad and Phoebe Thompson). The building, then just south of the Belvedere Casino and along the terrace, measured 16 by 18 feet and was made of hand hewn logs. Split basswood logs sitting on pegs served as the benches, and also formed the desks. Construction took one day and the school was built cost free, but a small tuition was charged for each student. M. J. (Lottie) Stockman was hired to teach about 30 students, ranging in age from three to 20 years, for a salary of $1 per week. The school day lasted from early morning to five o'clock in the afternoon, six days a week.

In 1867, lack of space prompted fund-raising to raise the second school building. After many fairs and suppers, the money was raised. The building construction began in 1868 and was completed the following year. It stood on the corner of Antrim and State streets until it was moved to 403 Mason Street for use as a private residence around 1900.

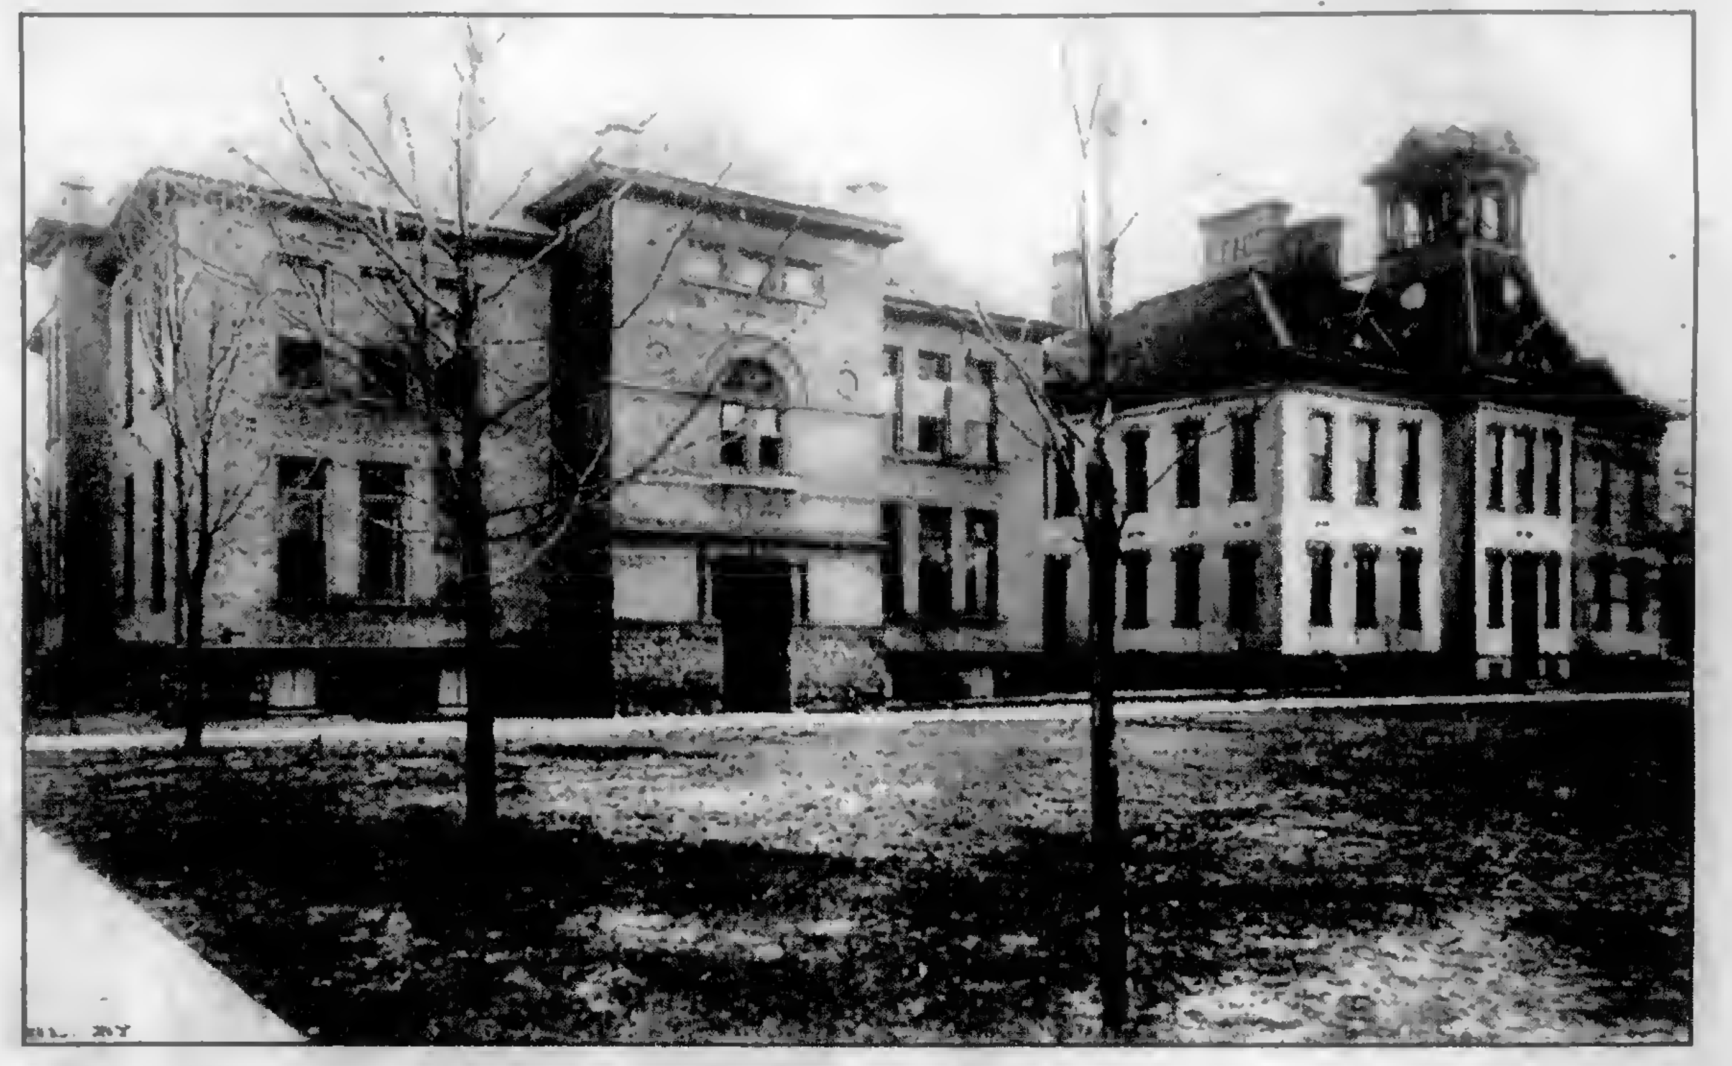
The erecting of the third school building in Charlevoix occurred in 1873. It was a four-room school built upon the grounds of the present-day middle school. It later burned to the ground in 1886.

The next school was planned to be large enough to house students for 50 years. It took three years to build the city's fourth building, the Union School, which was constructed of brick. While it was being constructed, classes were held in lodge halls, vacant store buildings and homes. Through the years its function changed to the grammar school, grade school, and eventually the County Normal School. The latter was used to teach future teachers for the county.

Charlevoix' fifth school building was completed in 1901 and was designed to accommodate the high school-age population of the area. It still resides there today at the corner of Grant and Mason streets, now used as the middle school. The gymnasium was added in 1927 to accommodate the ever increasing interest in high school basketball. This building served as the venue for this sport until the present-day high school was completed in 1961.

Two other two-room school buildings were built, most likely in the early 20th Century, and were known as the Washington and Lincoln schools. Additional one-room school buildings were located outside the city limits. These schools were built during the latter part of the 19th Century. They included schools like Hopyard, Loeb and Undine. These buildings are still fondly remembered by many Charlevoix residents and can still be seen today in their respective locations.

If you would like to learn more about the history of Charlevoix area schools, call 547-0373 to make an appointment to review the historical materials at the Harsha House Museum.



Charlevoix entered the 20th Century auspiciously by resolving to build a high school on Mason Street, just south of the grammar school. It was completed in 1901.

Fireworks explosion still under investigation

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

The investigation on the cause of the Venetian Festival fireworks' explosion continues.

According to Michigan State Police Det. Sgt. Bruce Dykehouse, police are hoping to take the variety of reports that have been prepared by various groups and combine them in early October.

When the final report is ready, police will send it to Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur. She will make the determination whether criminal charges will be brought up against anyone.

Reports included in the final findings are coming from state police divisions of investigative services, the bomb squad, fire marshal, motor carrier and a chemistry lab.

Reconstruction of the trailer from which the fireworks were shot is not completed. Police must remove the trailer from its current warehouse by the end of September. Dykehouse said another site has been found.

Attorneys from some of the 16 people injured in the festival explosion have been communicating with police, reviewing reports and photographs and examining the fireworks trailer.

Dykehouse said he's not concerned with the amount of time that the investigation is taking. Officers have gone on vacation and other cases are also ongoing.

"This is just a long, drawn-out process," he said. "Priority wise, it's not like there's a mad bomber running around."

Rezone could allow dense housing

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

With the hope of new affordable housing in the township, Hayes Township planners granted a request by James Fiedler to rezone 10.5 acres off U.S. 31 from A-1 to R-4.

The new zoning enables multiple family housing on the property, and specifically R-4 allows for four homes per acre. Fiedler plans to sell the land between the Nazarene Church and the Community Pool to an undisclosed developer. The Charlevoix Country Club borders the back and into both sides of the property.

Richard Joseph, who represents the future developer, told planners his client hopes to build either "nice looking apartments or fairly inexpensive two-to-three bedroom condominiums."

"This is a fair request," he said. "Sooner or later you've got to rezone something to R-4, and in Hayes Township there is no better location that I can think of."

In the township's master plan, wording exists to create an R-4 zone of which there were none. The direction of the meeting nearly turned to opening a map to find other areas for R-4 zoning. The rezoning concern was that 10 acres is small, perhaps too small for an R-4 district.

After discussion, the tone of the board was that this parcel was a prime choice for that zoning district because adjacent areas in Charlevoix Township are residential and it is walking distance from both the pool and Shanahan Fields.

"For the school buses it's not far, for the sewers it's not far," planner Jim Rudolph said. "This is the spot for it."

Township clerk Ethel Knepp suggested rezoning this property, and to then take the desire to create R-4 districts out of the master plan.

"I would support that idea," Rudolph said.

> "We'd be building a little city on the edge of the township when the city is not as dense adjacent to it."
> — Leo Burnett

Resident Paul Hoadley is concerned that a high density area close to U.S. 31 would be a challenge to keep safe for children of the future neighborhood. Joseph, however, reported that unofficially, the plan would be to develop the housing units out from the border of the country club.

The planners voted 5-2 in favor of the rezoning with Leo Burnett and Nancy Nash voting no.

"It's a little too much for the area," Burnett said. "We'd be building a little city on the edge of the township when the city is not as dense adjacent to it."

Despite approving the rezone, planners remained a tinge skeptical about the promise of affordable housing.

"It might be a possibility, but it could very well end up being $250,000 condos next to a golf course," Rudolph said.

Resident Sara Gay Dammann suggested the planners tag the project as a planned unit development to ensure more local control of the project. Planners were unclear if they could do that.

For final approval, the rezoning must be considered by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission and then the Hayes Township Board.

The county planners next meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 2, in county board chambers adjacent to the clerk's office. Hayes Township Board next convenes at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13, in the township hall on Old U.S. 31.

Stores reach out through web pages

Gain customers from afar

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Store owners have always promoted the shop 'till you drop mantra.

As more and more of them, though, create their own World Wide Web pages on the Internet, that philosophy has evolved to shop 'till you drop then flip on your computer and shop some more.

"It's the wave of the future," Reinhard Matye of D.C.L. Inc. said. "We're convinced that it's a good avenue of communication between us and customers and other business associates."

D.C.L., an environmental product manufacturer, has had a web page keeping people abreast of its products and industry news for six months. The company is hardly alone in the Charlevoix area with businesses attracting clients and recognition via web.

Industries promoting their line, banks extolling the virtues of their interest accruing accounts, and retail shops simulating their shelves have found a way to spin their goods on the web. Even the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce has a page to tell the world about Charlevoix the Beautiful.

"There are so many people with PCs, it's unbelievable," said Phil Kluczynski of Charlevoix State Bank. "It's a great mechanism, the wave of the future. It's banking in the 21st Century and that's what we're going for."

Charlevoix State Bank has had a website for six months, and Kluczynski said the primary purpose is to attract clients who summer in the area. Via the web, he said, they may decide to open an account upon their return. In time, a form of home-banking, where clients can transfer their own funds, may be added.

Both Kluczynski and Mayte said results have been slow to be seen. Mayte said it could be from people lacking on-the-job Internet access and that not everyone wakes up looking for industrial equipment.

"We hope to build momentum and exposure to use in the future," Mayte said.

Retail stores have been able to see almost immediate results from their endeavors on the web. The reason is simple: People like to shop, and with "Internet Malls" open any time of the day and week,

A pictorial of Charlevoix the Beautiful accompanies Freeway's homepage on the Internet. Many local businesses have begun to use the Internet as a publicity springboard for their company and products.

Slew of break-ins sweep through Hayes, Bay townships

At least five houses have been broken into in Bay and Hayes townships throughout the past week. The homes were all located close to Boyne City-Charlevoix Road on side roads, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater.

The burglar concentrated on homes where the owners were away for a short period time. Most of the homeowners were working. One retired couple had left for four hours.

The times of the thefts varied throughout the day, Lasater said. Because of this, he suspects the burglar to be someone who either lives in the area or knows it well enough to be familiar with the residents' schedules.

Several of the homes were entered with mostly money stolen without the residents knowing it for days because of a lack of obvious entry. Some of the houses were left unlocked.

"They were very neat, to the point that people didn't know they had a B & E (breaking and entering)," Lasater said.

Police believe that the break-ins are connected. There are currently no leads on a suspect, Lasater said.

A $500 reward is being offered to anyone who provides information leading to the arrest of the burglar.

The sheriff is recommending that residents lock the house when leaving, rely on neighborhood watches to help deter crime and notify police of any suspicious vehicles or people in the area.

Additional deputies have been assigned to monitor the area hit by the crime spree.

Special writers make Courier a great hometown paper

EDITORIAL

Volunteerism is part of what makes Charlevoix beautiful. Parents lead numerous teams and clubs in which their children are involved. Retirees help hand out food at the local food pantry. And various professionals plan fund-raisers for nonprofit organizations.

However, there is a special group of volunteers that we wish to thank, wholeheartedly. They are the Courier columnists.

These people invest in their community each time they sit down to write about one of their latest experiences, a local event, Charlevoix Yacht Club races, history or book reviews. Their observations have added more to the Courier than most people realize. The extra sets of eyes have made the paper more representative of a community than any one editor or reporter can do.

For years, Nancy Ritsema has educated local readers on the history of Norwood. Even though she is not currently writing for the Courier, we include her in our thanks. Her writings were always well researched and well written.

Geoff Reynolds, Marilyn Boss and Larry Laske are also among those who bring back the old times to our readers as their words fill our Scrapbook page once a month. All three columnists have been added to our staff within the last 16 months and offer unique styles of writing and interest to the Courier.

Edith Gilbert is the paper's longest-standing columnist. Twice a month, she faxes her views of Charlevoix life into our office. Her columns give sneak peaks and people and events that otherwise would not find their way into the Courier.

Edith shares space with Charles Duerr — Amos. Charles makes a trip to our office each week to drop off a quote or short poem that usually involves local events. His addition is called Out of the Blue.

Dianne Foster helps keep Charlevoix reading with Book Shelf. She called our office and volunteered to write a monthly book and audio tape review. Her writing has proven to be informative and entertaining. Book Shelf can be found on page 7 of this week's issue.

Vickie Rhine may have gone unnoticed by many people. She is our cartoonist. Every other week, her cartoon spice up the editorial page with comical look at our town and the hobbies we love.

Lisa Wheat is the Courier's newest addition. She is a 1997 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Rather than just attend North Central Michigan College and work, Lisa volunteers her time to write stories and take pictures for us. We enjoy her enthusiasm for journalism.

Last, but certainly not least, we recognize the Rev. Bruce Hamilton, who writes Beacons of Blessing almost every week. He is a true source of encouragement, not only for our staff, but for our community. Other Charlevoix pastors lighten the load for him occasionally as they give insights through Beacons.

Finally, we want to thank everyone who takes pictures where we can't be, writes news releases of events that we didn't attend and calls the office to give us news tips as we're about producing Charlevoix's hometown paper.

Guest commentary

This guest commentary was written by John Yaroch, a Charlevoix resident who is opposed to the possible expansion of the Cedar Ridge Landfill in Eveline Township. The commentary was originally written as a letter to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Please be advised, via this letter, and subsequent correspondence, that there is presently a tremendous amount of opposition to the proposed expansion of the Cedar Ridge landfill by Waste Management Co.

First, do not be misled by a well-organized, well-financed campaign to solicit support for the expansion. Much of that support was garnered through a letter threatening increased waste disposal costs, targeted to businesses and industry where that kind of threat would have the most impact, a very well thought out tactic.

In fact, opponents to the expansion have obtained several hundred petition signatures over the last two weeks alone, from township and county residents alike. Their efforts are continuing today, along with moves gaining the support of a wide variety of associations within the county. Most of those contacted were not aware of the expansion plans and were of the understanding that the 40-acre approved site was nearing its scheduled end, and thus the burden would no longer be ours to carry. As stipulated in the solid waste plan, when this site reaches capacity, one of the many other outside counties now filling our landfill must take their turn at hosting an appropriate site, and there are several sites available now, thanks to competition in the private sector.

We do not think it is fair for residents of one township, or one county for that matter, to have to put up with this type of regional landfill, accepting waste from a growing number of outside counties with all its truck traffic, seagulls, noise, smell and other pollution, for their entire lifetime — and the county's solid waste plan has no provision for that either.

In all fairness, this type of neighborhood burden must be shared. We've paid our dues, now it is another county's turn, as provided for in the solid waste plan. If a referendum on this issue was to take place today in Eveline Township, by the township property owners, the results would be a landslide vote against expansion.

Secondly, it was disclosed to a gathering of Eveline township trustees, and some township residents, held at the landfill site Sept. 9 that Waste Management is going to reduce their expansion request from 15 to 10 acres. They, in fact, plan to eventually expand over 40 additional acres, double the present landfill size, and that this would allow them to expand vertically as well, to roughly 835 feet. By way of comparison, Boyne Mountain is 1,200 feet. The additional 40 acres would extend the landfill life expectancy 35 years, and who knows how much longer beyond that with future expansions. It seems it's easier to get approval for expansion requests in 10-acre increments, rather than disclose the overall plan and requesting support to double the existing, permitted site. It's simply not fair and not in the plan.

Since there exists a glut of landfills in the state, as pointed out by County Planner Larry Sullivan and the planning commission, there is not one solid reason why Cedar Ridge should be permitted to extend its life beyond that which was forecast and planned for by solid waste committees of the past. Economics are not a factor with landfill competition presently, and it is quite simply too small of a site to accommodate an 80-acre landfill which sticks out the ground like a gigantic bald pyramid, with not nearly enough land to buffer the property from adjoining property owners.

And lastly, and perhaps most importantly, Charlevoix County is a resort and tourist destination, entirely due to its beautiful natural environment. Virtually every business in our county is dependent on this tourist economy. As Emmet County realized years ago, it is much better to transfer wastes out of the county than to take even the slightest risk of becoming known as that place with the gigantic

EDITH GILBERT

As much as John Wineman likes to build big custom homes for executives in fashionable suburbs of Detroit, Duffy Wineman likes to build small houses. They are quite a team. When Duffy's husband, John, gave her a bad time for not having her doll houses up to code, she was driven to obtain her Michigan residential builders license! She now knows how tall a chimney has to be (three inches) from the roof ridge.

Duffy Wineman is not only a connoisseur of fantasy. She is an authority on one of the major, adult hobbies in the United States — building doll houses and furnishing them with miniatures — a hobby that follows only stamp collecting in popularity. Even when she summers in Charlevoix, as she has done for years, you won't find her on the beach, but instead scouting the surrounding area for miniatures.

She is an advisory member of International Guild of Miniature Artisans, which is dedicated to the pursuit of fine scale miniatures and exact replications of full size pieces. She attends the Guild School in Maine every year. Students are drawn there from all over the world. There they learn how to make a cherry corner cupboard with correct joinery and dovetailing, and hand carve half-round shell carving. There are also classes in miniature needlepoint, silversmithing, etc.

What Duffy is thrilled about to-

Area walkers raise money for hungry

Come rain or shine, Charlevoix County walkers will be out in force Saturday, Sept. 27, for the 14th Annual Charlevoix County Crop Walk. It is also the 50th anniversary of Crop Walk nationwide. To add to the significance of the day, Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes has proclaimed Saturday "Crop Walk Day."

Charlevoix walkers, with pledge forms and money in hand, will walk from Charlevoix High School to the Ironton Congregational Church, about 6 miles. The route will take them down Carpenter Street to U.S. 31, to the light at M-66, and then south to Ironton.

Walkers should arrive at the May Street entrance of the high school gym slightly before the 9 a.m. the starting time to register, turn in their money, and receive safety vests to wear during the walk. A prayer will be offered before the walk by the Rev. Dale Ostema of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

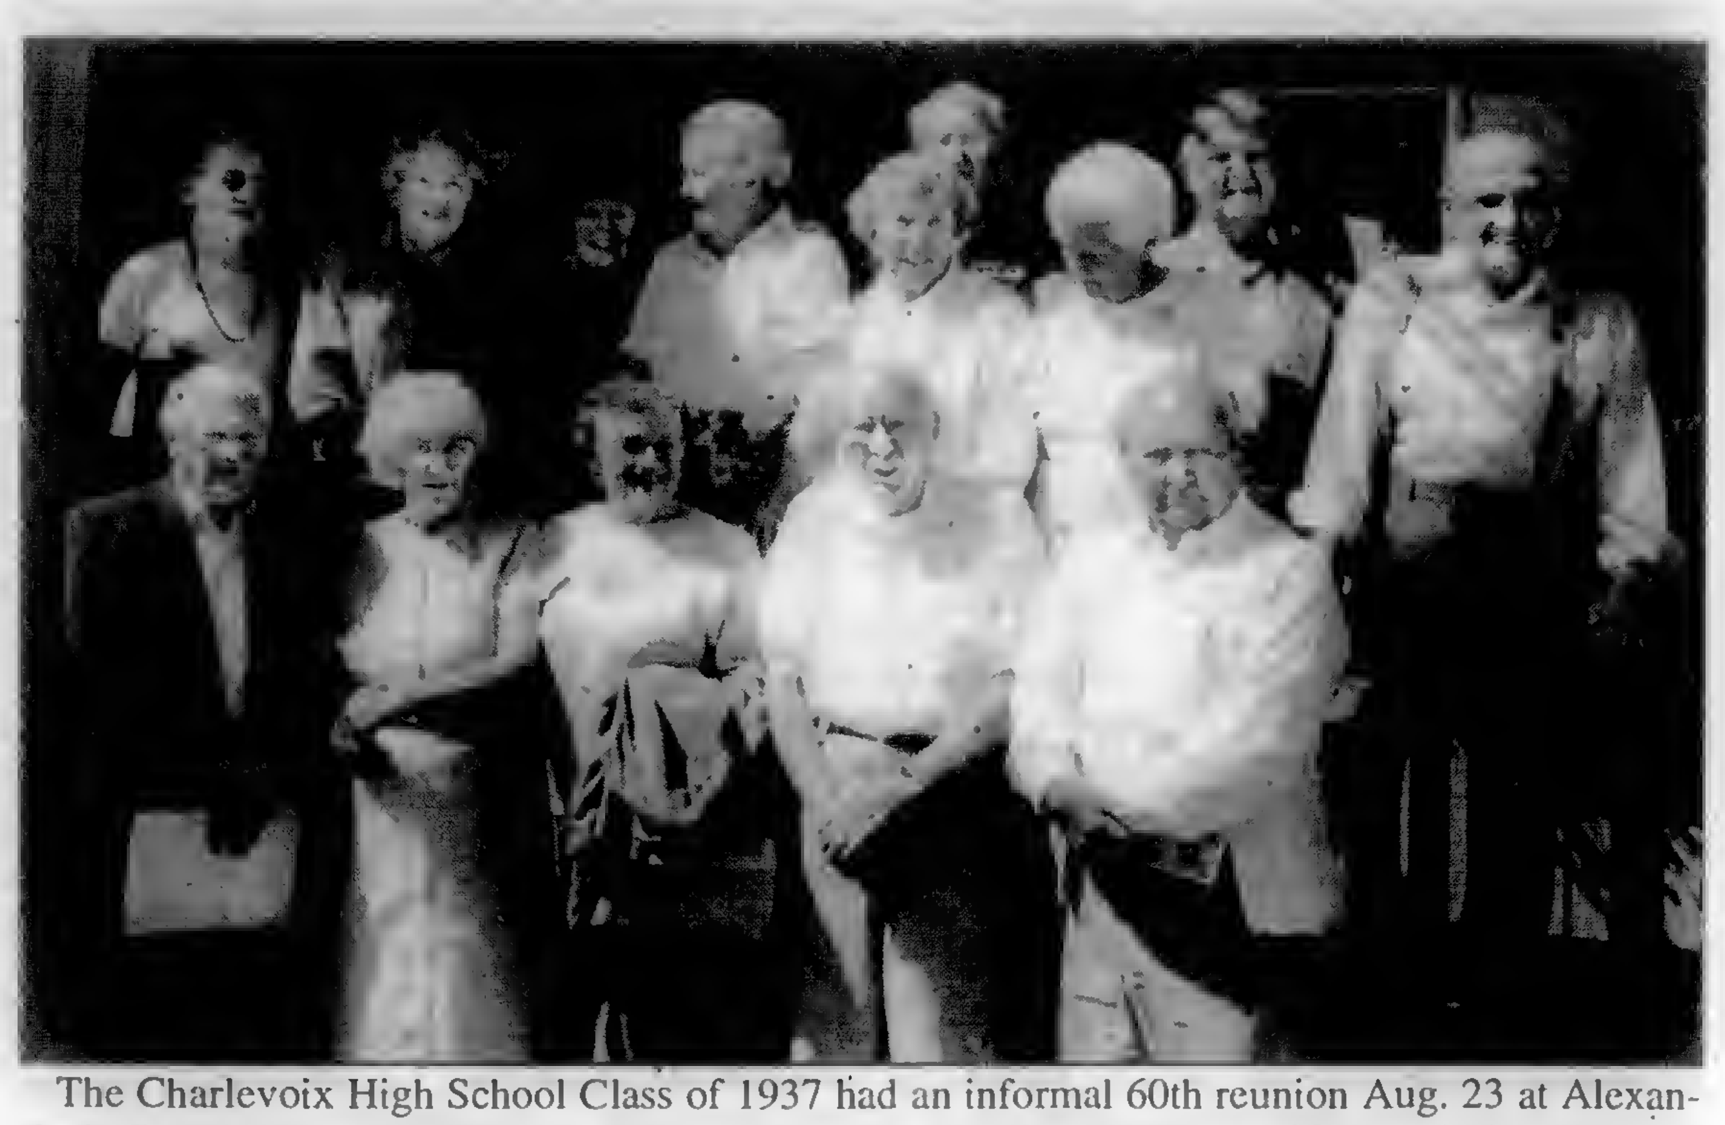
It appears that the youth of the community may play a big role in this particular Crop Walk as Mike Smith and Cara Hochhalter of the Congregational Church are encouraging Mike's junior varsity football team and Cara's youth group to participate this year.

At Ironton, Charlevoix walkers will meet walkers from East Jordan and Boyne City and be served lunch by the Boyne City Crop Walk organizers. Drivers will be available to take walkers back to Charlevoix.

Last year about 173 walkers, about 64 of them from Charlevoix, took on the challenge. They consisted of young, old, tall, short, those pushing babies in strollers, those carrying infants in back packs, those who opted to run the entire way, and two 80-year-olds who took their time.

If you would like to walk, call your local pastor or Kay Smith, chair, at 547-2920.

A portion of the money collected in Charlevoix County will be distributed to the three local food pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.



The Charlevoix High School Class of 1937 had an informal 60th reunion Aug. 23 at Alexander's Restaurant. ## Wedding

Melissa Ann Walker and Robert Jay Mason were joined in marriage Aug. 30, 1997, during a ceremony at Greensky Hill Methodist Church.

Melissa is the daughter of Quintin and Nancy Walker, of Charlevoix. Robert is the son of Donna Mason and the late Jerry Mason, of Spokane, Wash.

The 5 p.m. wedding was held before about 150 guests. The church was decorated with ivy and white satin bows. Pink cosmos, zinnias, mums and snapdragons decorated the altar. The Rev. Dale Ostema performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore a traditional white, chapel length wedding dress that dropped off the shoulder and had a rose lace bodice. The veil and head piece had matching rose cut outs and a plain border. She carried a bouquet of white roses, lisianthus, ivy and baby's breath.

Traditional organ music was played during the ceremony by Glenna Willis.

The maid of honor was Erika MacGillivray of Stuart, Fla. Flower girl was Charlsey Graham, of Louisville, Ken., second cousin to the bride. She wore a floor length, white satin dress with roses and pearls, and carried a white basket of pink and white rose petals.

The best man was Ronald Young, of Post Falls, Idaho. The usher was Quintin Walker, brother of the bride, of Charlevoix.

A reception was given by the bride's parents at the Charlevoix Country Club for 150 family members and close friends.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Turtle Hill in Charlevoix, hosted by Donna Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacGillivray.

A wedding trip was taken to Las Vegas and the Grand Canyon for white water rafting.

The couple are making their home in Spokane, Wash., where Robert is the sales manager for Coors at B & B Distributing and Melissa is in sales and services support of the western and northwestern regions of Positron Industries, out of Montreal, Canada.

Book Shelf

Bridge Street Book Shop

Winnie-the-Pooh continues to be as popular as ever and can now be enjoyed on audio tape. Four cassettes tell the complete stories of Winnie-the-Pooh, The House at Pooh Corner, When We Were Very Young and Now We Are Six. Milne's endearing characters, Christopher Robin and his animal friends from the Hundred Acre Wood, continue to enchant. True Pooh fans will not want to miss these volumes, affectionately recorded by the late Charles Kuralt just a few months before his recent death.

Kuralt's prominence as a television journalist and author makes him an interesting choice as a narrator of a children's project. However, his grandfatherly voice and masterful storytelling cadences mesh on a production as soothing as it is entertaining. Kuralt's interpretations of Pooh fretting about the best way to find his favorite snack — honey — or helping to devise some humorously half-baked plan to "unbounce" Tigger or cheer up the doleful Eeyore, are a delight. His readings of Milne's poems are equally gratifying, capturing the whimsical tone found in much of the verse. From his trademark introduction, "I'm Charles Kuralt," through the final lines, Kuralt renders these works a true family listening treasure.

Another new children's book by Suzanne Williams is well worth reading to little ones, Library Lil, illustrated by Steven Kellogg. The book is a fun, tall tale about the larger-than-life librarian who turns a town of television watchers into readers. While the message is serious, the story will elicit laughter.

Carly Simon, well known for her musical composition and singing, makes an appearance with her first children's book. Amy the Dancing Bear is a story that Carly Simon created to tell her own children as they were growing up, resisting bedtime and making excuses for staying up well past the disappearance of the last evening shadow. It is a warm and charming story exquisitely illustrated by Margot Datz.

Autumn is always a wonderful season for new children's books and this year is no exception. Take a few moments each day to read to a child.

Training offered for foster families

Child and Family Services of Northwest Michigan is in need of loving, wholesome families to provide stable homes for children and adolescents from our community.

The primary goal of foster care is to reunite the child safely with his or her biological family. However, the goal for some children may be independent living or adoption.

Children that need foster care are found in every age group from infants to older teen-agers. The greatest need at this time is for children who are between 10-16 years, as well as for younger sibling groups.

Families who apply to do foster care work closely with a foster home licensor to explore what type of child will fit best with their family. This is a mutual decision based on the foster family's strengths and the needs of the child. An overnight visit precedes long-term placement.

The family service agency is hosting a training session to license families for foster care. The Saturday sessions will be held Oct. 11, Oct. 18, and Nov. 1, 8 and 15 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

For more information, call Heather at 347-4463.

Church moves to new M-66 site

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

Bible Baptist Church, which was once referred to as "the little church on May Street," is building a much larger facility on M-66, past Loeb Road.

The church at 904 May Street seats 80 people, but is averaging 90 on Sunday mornings. Attendance has hit a high of 125. With the attendance trend so high, pastor James Green saw the need to build another church.

When he first spotted the "for sale" sign by the new property in Sept. 1995, Green thought there would be no way his small church could afford a project of that mag-

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Courier columnist

It began about this time a year ago in one of the English composition classes that I teach. A shy, middle-aged girl, who had been making a point of staying in the background as far as class participation goes, really came out of her shell. The assignment had been to write a profile piece on a person who was a special influence in your life. She used her paper to introduce us to a man named George.

This formerly quiet woman literally bloomed with enthusiasm and vitality as she shared her story. She talked about George's skill in business, how his sense of humor just made each day a joy, and just how special of a friend he was. When someone suggested that she might just be in love with George, she blushed mightily but emphatically denied it. Yet, finding acceptance from students and teacher alike, she started talking more and more during lessons and inevitably, the illustrations she shared were peppered with comments like "according to George."

Saturday, Linda and I traveled to Mackinac Island to officiate at George and Ginny's wedding. Just like the papers she had written for me in class, it was not a routine day. In fact, it was something of an adventure. Not only were the Republicans on the island in force for their convention, but we learned that eight other weddings were scheduled on the island on the same day. We even ran into one, literally!

You see, Ginny and George wanted to be married on the West Bluff of the island. When we got there in our horse-drawn carriage, there was another wedding ceremony already going on. We sat and sat and sat, hoping things would move along, but they didn't. That was when one of the special blessings of the day took place. Our driver said, "You know, if you don't want to wait, I know of another place we could go and I think the view is even better." The nervous couple said why not and away we went.

Up the hills we went past the Grand Hotel. Down the other side of the island, we clip-clopped by the Governor's mansion and tables full of food. "Newt was here yesterday," our driver chimed in. When we came out of the trees, he told us this was East Bluff. It stood above the city and looked down on the church. The bridge was off to the far right framing the background. He was right, it was a far more picturesque view and that was where we stopped and did the wedding.

Now believe it or not, the lesson in my tale does not come from the wedding itself, even though it was a real joy. What intrigues me about the day was the drive going beyond the call of just providing transportation and really saving the day. In the book of Hebrews you'll find these words, "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." There are two ways you can think of that. On this particular day on the island, the driver was our angel. Without our realizing it, he took what could have been a stressful and uncertain moment and poured out wisdom that led to a marvelous new beginning for two precious people.

The other thing I want you to contemplate is that God could use you to be someone else's angel. What you might see as a simple act of kindness could be an absolute miracle for someone you touch. Don't limit your idea of miracles to the dramatic and spectacular. God uses the little and small things in life just as much as He uses the big ones to bring us His love.

Have you been caught unawares by an angel recently? If I saw that driver again, I would tell him I thought so. Look out for the angels in your life. Look for ways you can be an angel in someone else's life. The joy that moments like that bring you can last a long, long time.

United Way sets record goal for 1997-98 campaign year

A record goal of $200,000 has been set by the CharEm United Way for the 1997-98 campaign. The goal was announced at the kick-off meeting Sept. 12 at a breakfast sponsored by the Charlevoix Country Club.

"This is the largest goal in the history of the local United Way organization and we are very optimistic that we can reach or even exceed it," said Dennis Halverson, campaign chair.

The 1997-98 campaign's honorary co-chairs are John Laney, plant manager for Medusa Cement in Charlevoix and Dave Thomas, executive director of Burns Clinic in Petoskey.

At the kick-off breakfast, Laney said that he had personally pledged that he would match 5 cents for every dollar contributed by Medusa employees to United Way this year. Last year, Medusa employees contributed $9,959 and this year they have raised their goal to $11,000. Medusa Cement has historically provided one of the largest corporate gifts to the local campaign.

Medusa employees will serve as campaign pacesetters this year - along with employees from JC Penney Co., FMB Northwestern banks, Old Kent Bank, Burns Clinic and the City of Boyne City. Pacesetters "set the pace" for the campaign, running their in-house campaigns ahead of the normal campaign dates. The 1997-98 United Way campaign runs from Friday, Sept. 19, through Saturday, Nov. 1.

In 1996, CharEm United Way raised a record $182,000 to benefit local human service needs. Big day, is that an anonymous donor has presented the Crooked Tree Arts Council with a Victorian Doll House to be raffled off in December. And what a doll house! It's been appraised at $10,000.

The nine room house, one inch to the foot in scale, is completely furnished and collectible, according to Duffy, because it has tall ceilings, large rooms and a huge attic. Another reason it's so special is because it is totally enclosed, instead of being open in the back. The house has dormer windows, a porch, clapboard siding, wood floors and is completely wired. It is filled with collectible pieces of miniature furniture from Miniature Mart, which were made by early artisans, and are considered to be the best. Just think, in order to weave a red and white coverlet for the master bedroom, the artists first had to build a tiny loom to weave the coverlet to scale. The living room even has a real etching under glass by Jane Coneen, an artist, who showed at the Waterfront Art Fair in Charlevoix.

The fantasy of miniatures is to picture a real family living in the doll house. There's a Christmas tree in the living room, a knitting bag in the master bedroom, a sewing machine in the attic, a riding crop, boots and trophies in the daughter's bedroom.

Duffy is delighted that the Crooked Tree Arts Council is able to present these miniatures as an art form to the area. The doll house is on display at council's headquarters in Petoskey until Dec. 19, when it will be raffled off at 2 p.m. at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey. Tickets are $5 each or six tickets for $25, and may be ordered by mailing your check to CTAC, 461 East Mitchell, or calling 347-4337. All proceeds go to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Crooked Tree Arts Council's Cultural Fund. This fund brings music, art and dance to the children in Charlevoix County.

Many people from all walks of life — men and women, boys and girls — have always enjoyed playing with miniatures. They build model trains that cut through mountains. They build model cars and planes that circle the globe. And, yes, they play house with a pretend family! What a better way to drift away into fantasy land than with a state of the art, Victorian doll house!

waste disposal site, let alone the potential to contaminate our greatest resources, the nearby lakes and waterways. Even the best managed landfills pose serious environmental problems for the communities in which they are located.

It's pretty hard to sell a beautiful log home on Nowland Lake when thousands and thousands of seagulls are covering the surface on an extended break from their picnic area just 2,000 feet away. How much longer can this small body of water survive the constant bombardment of nitrates from seagulls, which fuels algae growth, which in turn leads to oxygen deprivation, literally choking the lake? Nowland Lake is a very fragile recovering resource which must be protected, not ignored.

There are plenty of counties throughout the state, and even northern Michigan, which do not lay claim to this type of economy. And, since Waste Management has been touting Cedar Ridge as such a terrific, wonderful asset to this county and its residents, we should, at the very least, honor our previous agreements with other counties and give them the long-awaited opportunity to accept our trash, thereby enabling them to reap similar benefits over the next 30 to 40 years. That, in fact, is what the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Plan has provided for, and what the residents of this beautiful county fully expect, and most assuredly, deserve.

New web sites spread Charlevoix's business news

shoppers' impulses may be served at their leisure with a click of an on-off switch.

American Spoon Foods, a gourmet foods shop, has nearly their entire line of products on their website organized on computer shelves. Save for the free samples, it practically duplicates the look and feel of their store. For company president Justin Rashid, that sort of familiarity is an important factor to website success.

"It deepens the relationship you can have if they log onto our site and they can get a feeling that they're actually walking into our store."

The store has had a website for almost two years, and in a recent Personal Computer Magazine survey, was placed on the nationwide list of the 100 best small business web sites. Rashid said that while Internet orders total just 2 percent of all mail orders, they are customers the store probably would not have had otherwise.

"A person in Texas can send a Michigan gift to their transplanted Michigan friend in California," he said. Rashid said they have had e-mail communication with a customer from Micronesia, a South Pacific island.

Vacation Properties Network, a Charlevoix real estate firm, is another business that has had a website for over a year. Visitors to their site can pinpoint prospective properties by typing in a wish list of needs like size, location and price range. The company has a database of properties available and can pinpoint properties based on client's desires.

"It's just another media that procures leads for sellers and buyers," Greg Smith, of Vacation Properties, said.

As far as making sales, Smith said nothing should replace one-on-one contact between buyer and real estate broker, but people have reserved space at some of their rentals through the website and e-mail.

Dave Scott of Freeway Internet Services, a firm in Petoskey that helps businesses weave their websites, said the trend of businesses utilizing the web for consumer purposes remains in its infancy, but baby steps are quickly turning into athletic leaps and bounds.

He said his company sees an 8- to 10-percent growth in monthly Internet revenue and that marketing in northern Michigan will only grow. Currently only about half the people may have home computers and Internet access.

"This will keep growing and drive people to publish on the Internet," he said. "The first wave has been commerce and after that people will be doing all kinds of things."

Most people agree that to just do a website is not enough. It's one thing to simply promote your product, but, as Rashid pointed out, since you're asking for people's time and attention, it's important to make the site fun and entertaining. American Spoon's site contains over 70 recipes, a food quiz, and stories about the area. Bullfrog Light and Candles' page, just a week old, offers four color pictures and maps of the area.

"The beauty of being on the web is that you can add entertaining tidbits and new recipes in a snap," Rashid said.

Bank gets new officers

Louis J. Hollow, president of Charlevoix State Bank, announces that John E. Kurtz and Michael R. Hinkle have joined the staff as officers of the bank.

Kurtz, who has more than 20 years of banking experience in northern Michigan, will have overall responsibility for the bank's lending functions. Hinkle will be the bank's commercial lending representative. Both officers will be directly involved in helping the bank meet its growth objectives as a premier bank for the community.

At Monday's board of directors meeting, Kurtz was appointed executive vice president of the band and Hinkle was appointed assistant vice president.

Kurtz and Hinkle are Charlevoix residents and are well-known to the people and the business community in northwest Michigan.

"I'm just delighted to have these excellent and well-qualified people as part of our banking team," said Richard Hodgson, bank chairman. "When we were granted our banking charter just a few years ago, we made a commitment to bring the people of the area a 'Better Bank.' Our reception has been rewarding. We look forward to continuing this effort with person-to-person banking and the support of the best banking technology available."

Certified day care business opens in downtown storefront

Children have a new and unique place to visit in the downtown area now. The Sailfish Club is currently accepting enrollments for the 1997-1998 year. This comprehensive children's program incorporates a preschool, child care center, after-school services, and evening and weekend activities for children from 2-12 years of age.

"We will provide exactly what the community tells us they need, and will remain flexible to meet those specific needs," director Mary Hall said.

During the summer months, drop-in care will be available from 10 a.m.-10 p.m., seven days a week.

Located next to the new Coast Guard/Beaver Island Boat Co. building, under the former Anchors store, the brightly-colored center is filled with interesting corners to investigate.

Ann Borgen of Charlevoix, owner of the business, has furnished the play area with the latest in equipment and supplies. Hall has been a teacher and manager of children's programs in northern Michigan for 20 years. She is assisted by Kirsten Joy Cochran, a Charlevoix native and University of Michigan graduate. Over the past 10 years, Kirsten has had a variety of experiences in helping children develop their self esteem and creativity. Sandy Manning is the administrator and program development specialist. She is known throughout Michigan for the development of quality child care programs and recreational opportunities for school-age children.

Congregation, missionaries help build new church

nitude. However, he said the Lord prompted him to pursue the new construction. This Aug. 9, volunteers raised the walls of the church. The floor and the shingles are the only work on the building that has been hired out. Many skilled laborers are volunteering their services.

The Rev. T. R. Moore, from a Baptist church in North Carolina, is doing the stone work in the front of the church. And, three skilled volunteers are laying brick on the bottom four feet of the building. Missionaries have been helping at the building site for eight weeks.

Bible Baptist Church is not affiliated with any Baptist organization, but eight other independent churches have helped either financially, or with volunteers for the project. These are just a few of the many ways people have helped to keep the cost of building the church down.

The church members raised $70,000 on their own through a building fund. Green said that without miracles, the church's efforts to raise money would not have been so successful. The rent money from a house on the property covers the expense of the land and house payment, so these payments are no financial burden to the church. The sale of the building on May street, which Green hopes will be a quick one, will also help with the expenses. At this point, the church is still raising funds.

Green, who has visited at least 300 different churches in his lifetime, drew up the plans for the new church himself, combining all the good qualities in churches he has seen over the years. The auditorium will seat 225 people, a feature which Green believes will increase the church's attendance even more because people will not be cramped into a small space.

"We will probably have more people coming with a bigger facility," he said. The church, which is 10,000 square feet will also contain a multi-purpose wing that will be used as a half-size basketball court, volleyball court and fellowship hall.

When Green became pastor of Bible Baptist church 10 years ago, the average attendance was 20 people for the Sunday morning service.

He said its growth is due to faithful people who are dedicated to seeing the world evangelized.

Green and his congregation hope to be moved into the church by Christmas time.

"So far, we're on schedule," he said.

Island welcomes cruise ship

Beaver Islanders will be visited by a the Columbus Cruise Ship, a 420-passenger luxury ship built in Germany specially for Great Lakes sailing.

The ship will pull into port at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1, and Saturday, Oct. 11, for four hours.

"We're going to give them four hours they will never forget," said islander chamber manager, Keith Pintler.

For the first time in 20 years, a foreign cruise ship will tour the Great Lakes for three color tours. All are sold out, exclusively to European passengers. Five more cruises have been scheduled for 1998.

While in port, some islanders will tour the boat. Other stops for the Columbus will be in Windsor, Canada; Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island and Traverse City.

Rayder soccer team hopes to join new conference

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Rayder soccer players soon might be able to dream of conference championships and all-league honors as a potpourri of northern Michigan schools are on the verge of joining hands in the Northern Michigan Soccer League.

The preliminary plan is an eight-team league divided into two four-team divisions. Charlevoix is slated for the north division with Forest Area, Harbor Light Christian, and Burt Lake Northern Michigan Christian.

Pine River, Houghton Lake, McBain and Roscommon will be in the south division.

An early peek at schedules involves 10 games, with each squad facing off twice against opponents in their own division and once against the other four teams.

Charlevoix's inclusion in the league still awaits board of education approval, but it's a plan new athletic director Keith Haske endorses.

"It's good for the kids," he said. "It'll give them a chance to set other goals and look forward to something instead of just the state tournament."

The league will begin next fall and the first season will conclude with what is being dubbed as "Championship Saturday," when all eight teams gather to settle the title. The first place teams from each division will play each other, as will the two second place teams and so on down the line. A site is yet to be determined, but Oct. 17 appears to be the day.

As of now, no girls' soccer league has been formed, but Haske said it's in the developmental stage and he's pushing for its creation. He also said the goal is for a 10-team league, so two teams may be added, but there is no timeline set to do that. One problem, though, is not all eight schools field girls' teams.

"Being in a league will give the sport more of a varsity feel instead of a club," Haske said. Both boys and girls soccer have been varsity sports at Charlevoix High School for four years.

The new league will certainly run the gamut of school ranging from the Class B Roscommon and Houghton Lake with enrollments above 650 in grades 9-12 to the Class D Harbor Light and Northern Michigan Christian Burt Lake.

Burt Lake has just 70 students in its K-12 school tucked in the hills of south Burt Lake. Coach John Spears said he feels his Eagles will be more than ready to play in league competition.

Earlier in the year, they topped the Rayders 2-1 and last week played Sault Ste. Marie to a 0-0 double overtime standstill.

"We've always played a full schedule," he said of the 20-year-old soccer program. "This gives us an opportunity to play better competition each year and turn our kids into better players."

The Eagles, though, do not field a girls' team.

The Charlevoix Board of Education will vote on the league at its next meeting, 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13.

With coach Josh Block urging them on, Rayder midfielders Chris Romig (left) and Tony Williams battle for possession with two Swordsmen Thursday.

Yacht club releases race-two winners

By A. Nother Mouse
Courier columnist

My sources all agree that they were met with perfect sailing weather for the second race of the fall series. With reports of plenty of wind and a lot of sunshine, this Mouse is inclined to agree.

Straight to the results:

Spinnaker Fleet A (rated 195 and lower) - Newsense (1:10.38) finished first, followed by Kamikaze (1:15.33) and Hoo-Ahh (1:15.53). Gotcha! (1:16.00) got Mint Julip (1:17.01) by just over a minute and M3 (1:19.41) easily held onto sixth place over J. Hawk (1:27.09).

Spinnaker Fleet B (rated 198 and higher) - Stalworth (1:08.38) took another first. Blasen III (1:11.12), capturing this week's award for the most improved finish, snuck into second, with Our Thyme II (1:11.29), Original Sin (1:14.56) and Cygnus (1:15.01) close behind. Tireless (1:15.14) and Lost Vermonter (1:15.21) rounded out the fleet, separated by only 20 seconds; a protest is pending.

In the Jib and Main Fleet, Booma (1:14.41) came in first. Babe (1:18.53) held onto second, only six seconds faster than Apothecary (1:18.59). Flash (1:19.49), Sarah Belle (1:20.53) and our fair-weathered friend, Bald Eagle (1:30.20) finished fourth, fifth and sixth on corrected times.

Hussy (1:09.39) came out on top in the J-22 Fleet, with Reckless (1:10.20) in a strong second. H.S. Moisture Missile (1:11.35) finished third. Gecko (1:12.51) took fourth, followed by Swine Flew (1:13.12), Paleface Lite (1:14.10) and Cathach (1:15.10).

Congratulations to the new Charlevoix Yacht Club board members. After a close race, Gloria Barnes, John Taylor and Tammy Kuhn will be sworn in at the next board meeting.

Many thanks to our out-going board members, including commodore Mark Snyder, whose hard work on the board has been much appreciated. Under their direction, the club recently signed up its 100th member.

This Friday is Vegas Night at the yacht club. I'm hoping to see all 100 of the members and their guests there. Otherwise, 'til next week.

Cross country team takes first at one meet

The cross-country teams ran in a couple of out-of-town meets last week, plucking one victory and a handful of other solid finishes.

The girls' squad claimed an easy victory in the East Jordan Invitational as Candace Vandergriff and Tricia Hodge placed first and second, respectively, and Liza Gorkiewicz, Monica Browe and Lori Stargardt all placed in the event's top 15.

In the same meet, the boys finished fifth out of eight teams, with Jeff Popenhagen earning a top-10 finish, placing eighth.

The run was just two miles on flatter ground, but in the Ludington Invitational, the Rayders ran a full 5K over a much hillier terrain. Both squads came through with third place finishes.

The Benzie Central boys dominated the day with their runners placing 1-2-3 in the boys' individual competition. Popenhagen, Luke Whitley, and Allen Keehn had the best Rayder runs for the boys while Vandergriff, Hodge and Gorkiewicz led the girls.

Girls' basketball loses away game

In just their second game during a 15-day span, the Lady Rayders' basketball team lost to Boyne City 69-51 Thursday on the Rambler court.

The defeat was the second straight conference loss. Overall, the Rayders have fallen in their last three games dropping their record to 1-5 overall and 0-2 in Lake Michigan Division play.

The Rayders were on an even level, trailing by just seven at halftime, but the Ramblers rolled to a 17-7 third quarter advantage, earning them a commanding lead as the game entered the final stanza.

Amanda Eaton and Jamie Gowell paced the Rayders with 11 points each.

On the same day, the Ramblers also bested the Rayder JV squad 54-33 and the freshmen squad 52-26.

All three clubs will be in action at home against Kalkaska on Thursday, Sept. 25. The freshmen game tips-off the afternoon at 4:15 p.m.

Recreation meetings set for next week

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will have a volleyball and basketball meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the council chambers at city hall. The meeting

Rayders get offensive burst

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

After struggling to find a rhythm during the season's first leg, the Rayder soccer team bounced back with two wins and a loss in play last week.

Their winning streak continued Monday with a physical 1-0 victory over Harbor Springs. Ryan Vogelheim snuck the ball into the lower left corner of the goal for an unassisted score 15 minutes into the contest to provide the game's only point.

Goalie Drew Belding made two leaping fingertip saves in the first half and collided with a Ram attacker to break up a Harbor Springs odd man rush in the second half to preserve the shut-out.

After losing to Leland 4-2 in a game where they held a 2-1 lead early in the second half, the Rayders trounced Harbor Light Christian 10-1 and eased by Sault Ste. Marie 3-1.

Against the Swordsmen, Sean Stockman kicked in five goals while Drew Belding shed his goalie shirt to play forward, chipping in three goals of his own. Chris Tilley took over goalie chores when Belding was out in the field.

"Sean is doing a spectacular job, and Drew is an asset to the team whether he's in the field or in goal. He's a good player," coach Josh Block said.

The defensive play has been solid all year, but lately the offensive play has begun to come around as well. Block, who rotates his halfbacks in and out of play every 10 minutes so fresh legs always run the attacks, said the team's chemistry has begun to simmer in the right way.

"They're just more familiar with their teammate's abilities," Block said. "They don't just pass the ball, instead they're passing it and working to find a way to get the ball back again."

The Rayder's early-season injuries have healed. Matt Mikulski has returned to his regular fullback spot. His return paid immediate dividends as Andy Granath, who had filled in for Mikulski, moved up to halfback and scored two goals against the Sault, giving the Rayders a 2-1 halftime lead. Matt Dennis, after carrying the ball the length of the field, iced the game for the Rayders with a second half goal for the 3-1 final. Stockman had two assists in the match.

At 4-5, the Rayders have eight matches remaining before post-season play begins, and Block said he feels his club has an even shot in each contest.

"We can do really well against all of those guys," he said, noting that Alpena and Elk Rapids are the toughies. "I expect to give them both a good game as well."

The Rayders do not play until after the weekend when they travel north for a rematch with Sault Ste. Marie at 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29. They get an opportunity to upset highly touted Elk Rapids at Kipke Field at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30.

Golf team drives through fog

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

After cruising to four straight wins in dual-meet play, the Rayders' golf team placed a strong second in the C-D bracket in last week's Petoskey Invitational at Crooked Tree Golf Course.

Ryan Murdick shot the best Rayder score of the day with an 82.

A slight rain fell on the golfers, but it was the fog which blanketed the course all day that affected play the most.

"You couldn't see the holes," coach Jim Glynn said. "Everybody had to help everybody spotting the flags and finding balls."

Inland Lakes, a team the Rayders bested earlier in the year, nudged them out by three strokes 354-351 for the win. Alanson placed third, Posen fourth, Hillman fifth, and Morley-Stanwood sixth.

Rounding out the Rayders scoring was Keith Grunch, 86, Jon Sell, 89, and Craig Siwarga, 97. Jason Vincent was disqualified for signing an incorrect scorecard. Glynn called it "a high integrity move," as Vincent noticed the error himself, pointing it out to the officials.

Despite that mini setback, the Rayders have been one of the better squads on the links this September with an overall record of 8-1, winning their last four matches against Hillman, Elk Rapids, Alanson and Traverse City St. Francis.

The victories over Elks Rapids and Traverse City were league contests, upping the Rayders league mark to 2-1, with matches yet to play against Harbor Springs and Boyne City. Earlier, the Rayders lost to Kalkaska by a mere stroke.

Every team in the league has lost at least once, which could make for an exciting conference championship on Tuesday, Oct. 8, at the Mistwood course in Traverse City.

"That day will tell the tale," Glynn said. "It's a tight, wooded course. You need to be really accurate with your irons."

The team has been steadily shooting solid scores while avoiding high scores. Glynn said their best golf still awaits them.

"The team has gelled together so far. Everybody is capable of shooting low scores. We just haven't done that yet at the same time," he said. "When we pull that off, we will look really good."

The Rayders enter fall with a tri-match against Harbor Springs and Petoskey at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24, at Boyne Highlands' Heather course. The results against the Rams will count in the league standings. They will also play in the Gaylord Invitational, at the Gaylord Country Club on Friday, Sept. 26. Their remaining home match-up is against Boyne City at the Belvedere 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 1.

Glynn will take the Rayder JV golf squad to a JV tournament at the Indian River Country Club at noon Thursday, Sept. 25.

Sports shorts, continued from page 16

will be followed by a basketball meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in playing or forming a team should attend.

Football team drops third straight game

Despite dropping their third straight game to start the season, this time against county and league rival East Jordan, 22-0, the mood in the Rayders' camp remains upbeat.

"It's a good group of kids, they work hard, and their attitude is great," coach Todd Klinger said. "At times I wonder if it's a 3-0 team and not 0-3 with their attitude at practice."

On the field, however, East Jordan drew first blood with a 48-yard reverse and two-point conversion, the Rayders lost their starting quarterback T. J. Carey to a dislocated shoulder. Klinger said that helped confuse the offensive strategy.

"It changes your whole game plan and the way you're thinking," he said. "Everything suddenly needs to be simplified. It took us about a quarter to get back to where we needed to be."

By then, the Rayder defense had given up two more scores as East Jordan broke out to a commanding 22-0 lead. The Rayders helped the Red Devil cause as the second score was moved by 30 yards in Rayder penalties and the third score was driven on a shorter field due to a Rayder fumble.

The Rayders came out hitting hard in the second half as East Jordan didn't even sniff the end zone. Unfortunately, neither did the Rayders. Carr ended the night with 97 yards on 13 carries while Pittman had 65 yards on nine carries. Steven Felter, subbing for Carey, passed eight times, completing three for 15 yards. Nate Metiva with seven tackles and six assists and Rusty Simmons with eight tackles and three assists led the defense. The unit was also bolstered by Justin Thorp's tackles.

The Rayders next play at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26, in Harbor Springs' at Ottawa Stadium.

Association invests in 'quiet' signs for lakes

The Lake Charlevoix Association is erecting signs along the lakefront in hopes of influencing boat owners to slow down and quiet down. Association member Steve Hansen said some loud boats have shaken windows as they go by too fast and too close to shore. Personal watercraft are annoyingly noisy to many others when they are operated too close to shore or other boats.

> "There will be a fairer sharing of the enjoyment of Lake Charlevoix when people on boats or on shore are not distracted by loud boat noise ..."
> — Steve Hansen, association member

The Lake Charlevoix Association members think loud boats and personal watercrafts can be made quieter and operated more quietly.

"There will be a fairer sharing of the enjoyment of Lake Charlevoix when people on boats or on shore are not distracted by loud boat noise and have to raise their voices to continue a conversation," Hansen said.

The Lake Charlevoix Association Clean and Quiet campaign will try to remedy this situation through heightened citizen awareness, education, appeals to manufacturers, advocating for more realistic laws, and supporting Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater in enforcing the existing laws.

Hansen said the association is not exclusively a lake property owner's association. Everyone is invited to attend.

"Everyone who appreciates the quality of the lakes' water and environment is welcome," he said. "We have 430 members and would like to have at least twice that."

Dues are $25 per year and can be mailed to P.O. Box 294, Charlevoix.

The hearing will consist of the administrative records regarding the above-captioned matters and written arguments on issues of law and policy. No additional evidence will be considered other than that evidence admitted in the contested case hearing. A decision on the Appeal will be made on the administrative records and will constitute the final Department of Environmental Quality decision in the above-listed Causes.

Take note that if you wish to participate as a party in the Appeals, you shall prepare and mail or otherwise deliver a reply to the Appellant and Supervisor, not less than 5 days before October 29, 1997, the date set for the filing of briefs on all pertinent legal issues. Proof of mailing or delivering the reply shall be filed with the Supervisor on or before the date of the hearing. Failure to prepare and serve a reply in a timely manner shall preclude its consideration in this matter. ## Patriotism doesn't rest with our nation's soldiers alone

Stars and Stripes Forever

By Larry Laske
Courier columnist

Hello again folks! Last time we were really delving into our countries motto, if you will, "E Pluribus Unum" or "one out of many."

Most people will agree that this great country is truly formed and working because of the multiplicity and divergence of the entire population. It's what makes our country so great and recognized as such throughout the world.

Patriotism has been the theme of these articles since I began writing several months ago. When one thinks of the word patriotism (love of one's country), you think of the marine charging up a hill to attack the enemy or the soldier that is lying in a foxhole on some God forsaken island, or navy personnel somewhere out on the high seas.

We seem to put all of the emphasis on the men and women in uniform that have served this country in some manner that is strictly military in orientation. In the history of our country, we have presented countless medals and other awards to those who have served our nation during peacetime and during times of conflict. It certainly has been appropriate to have done so. There is, however, another countless legion of individuals just as deserving of recognition. They have taken a back seat when it comes to being recognized as being truly "patriotic." They are mothers, fathers, sons, daughters, wives, girlfriends and other loved ones. You may ask how these people can be looked upon as being patriotic? Well let's ponder that possibility for a moment.

Let's look at mothers and fathers first. Have you heard of the Sullivan brothers? Well these five young men joined the navy together soon after the start of the second world war. They were assigned, at their specific request, to the same naval vessel on which they all lost their lives during one of the most significant naval battles of the entire war. Their parents were very proud that they joined together and served together to protect their beloved country from the enemy. Patriotic — you betcha!

Sons and daughters of those who serve are patriotic. I can remember some 50-plus years ago when my dad was in the navy and serving in the Philippine Islands. I can tell you there were no brothers and sisters more proud of their father and more patriotic than all of us. We saved newspapers, purchased stamps for war bonds with our newspaper money, collected scrap metals for the war effort and performed other acts that could certainly be considered patriotic — like praying for our country and the safety of our father and all of those that were serving in so many places throughout the world.

Other loved ones, wives and girlfriends are patriotic. Can you imagine for a moment the terrible feeling of loss of a loved one for an indeterminate time— the unknown of whether or not your loved one will in fact ever return? Add to that the sense of helplessness in terms of being able to do anything about it. Spice up the situation with a few children and you can easily see that a lot of the patriotism was being shown by those at home. Talk about courage, talk about selflessness, talk about bravery and strength in the face of adversity — whew! These ladies truly were demonstrating patriotism on a daily basis that could literally be compared to the patriotism of the strongest and the bravest of those in uniform. Every phone call, every letter, every new report, every knock at the door could be the terribly feared report of the loss of a loved one. To try and raise a family, go about your everyday chores, to work at your job under that kind of pressure, to carry on all of your day-to-day activities and try and lead some semblance of a normal life were challenges that epitomized patriotism.

So, when you hear the words patriot or patriotism or patriotic remember that they are not just associated with those in uniform, but extend to all of those strong and brave individuals that stayed behind and did what they could to carry on with all possible normalcy in order that those serving in uniform could do so with minimal worry and concern for their loved ones on the home front.

For all of those who fit into one of the aforementioned categories, including my wife Nancye and my mom, I salute you for your strength, your courage and extend to you my lifetime admiration for your demonstrated patriotism.

God Bless You! See you next month.

Federal grant given to Char-Em district

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District has been awarded a $26,679 federal grant to assist high school students with disabilities make a successful transition from school to the labor market.

The grant will support the cooperative efforts of educators, business and community leaders, who have joined forces to help disabled students.

In Charlevoix-Emmet, we have a caring community which is demonstrating a practical concern for disabled students, and it is wonderful to see," Sen. Walter North, R-St. Ignace, said. "Federal grant money used to provide support for the community coalition is money well spent."

The funds are available from a five-year federal grant awarded to the State of Michigan in 1993. The federal program, Youth with Disabilities Transition Services, supplies the money to the Michigan Jobs Commission, which then makes awards each year to communities throughout the state. The money is targeted to ensure that students with disabilities have access to jobs, community programs and activities, and support which enables them to maintain a self-sufficient lifestyle.

The Emerald Isle is embarking on its way to St. James Harbor and Round Lake from Maine. The new ferry will bring more than passengers and cargo to and from Beaver Island as the Beaver Island Boat Co.'s main ferry. It could also bring the island new development.

New ferry powers prosperity to Beaver Island

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

The bottleneck to and from Beaver Island is widening a bit. The arrival of the new Emerald Isle will nearly double cargo capacity of the Beaver Islander, the main ferry currently running between the island and Charlevoix.

The new ferry is also expected to be a catalyst in creating 45 full-time equivalency jobs in Charlevoix and on the island, according to Tom Johnson, director of Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. This amounts to about 80 seasonal and part-time jobs.

The ferry is hoped to arrive by Tuesday, Oct. 14, which will enable it to run until mid-December when the Lake Michigan route freezes over. Other than the ferries, charter planes are the only means for public transportation to the island.

"The new boat addition to the Beaver Island fleet will have a significant impact on the Charlevoix County area, in particular to the City of Charlevoix," said city planner, Gerry Harsch, in a economic impact study he did for the city in 1994 based on the arrival of the Emerald Isle. "At the present time, for all practical purposes, the existing ferry service is being operated at maximum capacity. This fact is clear as the business of the Beaver Island Boat Co. has been flat for many years and is consistently fully booked during the peak of the summer season."

The increase in transportation of visitors, vehicles and supplies is estimated to bring $1 million in new investment on the island in the next two years, which is what will create the new jobs.

"I wouldn't be surprised if it even exceeded that," Johnson said. "I have counted up to that amount for the grant."

The economic alliance is helping the Beaver Island Transportation Authority get grants to help fund construction of the ferry and the new dock, which will outfit the island for loading the ferry at the stern. The ship will dock inside a new boat well at the island that will span 55 feet. The area must be dredged and a pier

Township residents challenge long-time hunting ban

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

As hunting season approaches, the first shots fired appear to be headed toward Charlevoix Township's no hunting ordinance.

The ordinance, adopted in January of 1989, prohibits hunting of any kind, namely bow, shotgun, and rifle hunting in all areas of the north section of the township.

Some residents of the township, feeling squeezed and overrun with a growing deer population, would like to see the ordinance rescinded or at least adapted to allow some forms of hunting.

"The deer need to be thinned out," resident William Kury said. "They're eating our flowers, our tomatoes, and anything else we're growing in a garden. It's getting ridiculous."

Underlying the controversy is the forever-old state vs. local control question. Despite the township's ordinance, Michigan Department of Natural Resources officials claim that they have regulatory control over hunting areas. As Herbert Burns, chief of the DNR's law enforcement division said, any restrictive hunting ordinance passed by the township would be "invalid and unenforceable."

Charlevoix Township supervisor Oscar Stroud disagrees.

"We're a governing body, and we have the right to make laws," he said. "We felt we can't have it (hunting) on the north side, and we'll stand firm in what we believe in."

The ordinance was passed with public safety in mind, Stroud said. The northern area was being developed into residential areas and the township board deemed it unwise to allow hunting there.

"There are just too many houses to hunt there," Stroud said. "Just last year, we had 50 new houses, and that's a lot considering we're only 1,000 (in population) strong."

Stroud pointed out that while hunting is legal on the township's south side, in time, development there will cause some form of hunting controls.

Kury, though, said to expect a group of residents to approach the board during its next meeting to express their concern of an overall critter problem, which ranges from deer to raccoons, opossums, and wild turkeys. The group plans to ask for some form of hunting to be restored, which they hope will help cure the problem.

"The deer have become so domestic that they have no fear," resident Henry Felix said.

> "The deer need to be thinned out. They're eating our flowers, our tomatoes, and anything else we're growing in a garden.
> — William Kury, resident

Felix has tried all the tricks short of building a big fence around his garden to keep animals out. He tied soap on the tree limbs and hung hinder, a smelly powdery substance with a bad taste. But he said, in time, the animals became immune to those tastes.

"There should be more hunting of deer because we're getting too many," he said.

Stroud said he could agree to some form of bow hunting on the north side. A controlled hunt, where small groups of five to 10 people register and venture forth into an area of the Mt. McSauba forest.

Stroud actually was the only no vote back in 1989 when the ordinance passed. He said he felt some form of bow or even shotgun slug hunting should remain. The board, he said, preferred no hunting.

"There are always going to be deer around, everybody likes to see them," he said, "but we can't have hunting that close to the homes. It scares the people."

The township next meets at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13, in the township hall.

built south of the current dock. Bids are being taken for its construction, which should begin later this fall.

To get the grants, the alliance has met with island business owners to nail down their expected growth. For every $10,000 of grant money from the Michigan Jobs Commission, one job must be created. The state also wants to see twice the amount of money awarded privately invested in the community within three years of getting the grant.

"We'll show them that in the next couple of months," said Bill McDonough, chief executive officer of the Beaver Island Boat Co.

McDonough has already built a new deli/bakery that opened this year. He said business has not been lacking, especially from the boating community. The deli is within easy walking distance of the island's marina.

"There is so much room for growth," he said. "The island is continuing to grow, not in a ridiculous pace, but at a steady pace."

That growth includes soon-coming construction of Paradise Bay Harbor Club, an eight-land bowling alley with billiards, dining and a dinner theater. Beaver Island Forestry has a new contract to supply wooden pallets to an automobile manufacturer. A hardware store is about to be built and an old building renovated into a community center. New businesses are also expected to include motel/hotels, restaurants, liquid petroleum and building material distributors, general retail establishments, truck tractor, bus and taxi services, vehicle repair, real estate and related support services.

Charlevoix is the first and last stop for visitors who have just come off the island. Harsch estimates that each passenger will spend 20 percent of the money used for traveling on the mainland for lodging, food and other goods, which could create up to 17 year-round jobs in Charlevoix and with the boat company, and 33 year-round jobs in the island in the first year. Seasonal jobs will also be added.

State could buy more island land

Gov. John Engler has asked the Legislature to support $330,000 in funding for the purchase of 49 acres to consolidate eight to nine miles of state-owned Lake Michigan frontage along southwest Beaver Island for recreational and protective purposes.

These funds would come from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund

"Michigan's natural resources are our greatest treasures," Engler said. "This project will help ensure that our children will be able to see the Lake Michigan shoreline undisturbed and undeveloped as it was a thousand years ago."

This project is one of 30 totaling $13.1 million that have been approved by the board in this first round of new biannual approvals. The board will approve another round of projects in December.

Officials want southern entrance to look residential

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Even though more businesses are trickling up Bridge Street, city officials are taking steps to keep downtown's southern entrance looking residential.

Planners have drafted a new ordinance that would create a C-2, mixed use district up Bridge Street, from Hurlhut to Carpenter. Planners hope the district will encourage the integration of homes and businesses, and require new constructions to look residential. For example, new buildings would need to have pitched roofs and grass in front. Parking would be allowed to the side and rear of the building, not in front as is seen at the Launderette on Bridge Street.

City planner, Gerry Harsch, told city council and planning commission members Sept. 24, at a joint meeting, that the new zoning would preserve the character of the area as more homes are converted into businesses.

The area is currently zoned commercial. Most of the lots are small, left over from a time when those blocks were lined with homes.

The rezone would prohibit buildings from having flat-roof tops. It would include front-yard setbacks from 15 to 25 feet. Side yards would be at least 10 feet, except on street corners, which would have a 25 foot setback. Rear-yard setbacks would be at least 15 feet.

Outside sales and storage of goods would be prohibited.

"The idea here is to not clutter up the area with outdoor sales," Harsch said.

As in any ordinance change, the current buildings could stay as they are. However, new construction or additions would have to comply with the standards.

Wording for the ordinance was presented at the meeting to see whether there was enough council support to pursue perfecting its wording. All planners and council members back the proposed change.

Mayor Josh Barnes said he thought such an ordinance would encourage new construction because it lightened setback requirements, which would provide space for more parking.

"You can park wall-to-wall with the exception of the front," he said.

Bob Kern, the owner of the Launderette building, said he felt the ordinance would increase development costs, deterring new construction.

City attorney, Jim Young, said he would work with Harsch for more specific wording and that the master plan should be reviewed and possibly amended to match the ordinance if it was implemented.

Before the ordinance can be passed, it must be presented at a city council meeting and a public hearing held.

City could make site plan reviews easier

By Janenne Irene Harrington
Courier editor

Getting a development plan approved could become easier for Charlevoix residents.

A possible amendment would cut city council out of the decision, reducing administrative time and expense for requests.

Currently, development plans for most homes are reviewed by city staff. Every other site plan goes before city planners, who make a recommendation to city council to approve or deny, and then council makes its decision.

According to city planner, Gerry Harsch, decisions on site plans should rest with planners. If the proposed ordinance is passed by council, residents could begin construction with planners' approval.

Harsch said this could save people one to four weeks that is now tied up waiting for the next council meeting and then its decision.

City attorney, Jim Young, said that out of about 40 communities he represents, nearly all of them allow planners to legislate residential site plan reviews.

"A city council has to wear so many different hats that it really is

The final stand

The Carriage House, a historic building that once housed carriages for the Chicago Club, is being torn down by its owners, Jon Hisey and Rick Lobenherz. The Elm Street property is under contract to be sold. Lobenherz said he's sad to see the building go. The developers have tried numerous times to get the land rezoned for apartments and small lots for homes. Some of the neighbors have fought each rezone, demanding the building be torn down.

Fire slows down manufacturer

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

A small fire erupted at Charlevoix Manufacturing Sept. 23, when a leak presumably developed in a hot hydraulic line and the fluid came in contact with an electric motor. The exact cause of the fire is still under investigation, however.

The Charlevoix Fire Department received the call at midnight Tuesday and was at the scene in the industrial park at 12:02 a.m. When the firefighters arrived, flames could be seen coming out of the mezzanine window. Smoke was pouring out of the building.

Damage to the building was substantial, according to fire chief, Doug Carver. The fire was contained within the air compressor housing, which is an area of four feet square. A small hole was burned through the roof. The fire resulted in one day of production lost.

Four employees were in the building when the fire erupted. They evacuated the building. No one was injured.

The fire department was on the scene until about 1:30 p.m., clearing the smoke from the building and making sure the fire was out. James Hater, general manager of Charlevoix Manufacturing, said he was pleased with the performance of the fire department.

The Charlevoix Township Fire Department and the Charlevoix City Police were on the scene as backup.

Charlevoix Manufacturing is located at 8911 Martin Road. The company produces a master cylinder brake system for automobiles.

OPINIONS

Local support of firefighters should continue

EDITORIAL

We are pleased to see the community supporting the city's fire department.

Firefighters are rarely appreciated by someone until their house or business is burning.

We commend the city council for approving the purchase of a new aerial truck and a tanker for the department. Had the request been denied, we doubt that another aerial could have been found for under $40,000. It could have cost taxpayers an additional $60,000.

Since February, two major fires have needed an aerial truck — Expressions Unlimited and Whitneys Oyster Bar. Both times, we have been helped by the Petoskey department.

Cooperation between neighboring fire and rescue departments is crucial. However, we don't support leaving the city department without the equipment that it needs to save Charlevoix lives and property. This should only be done when an official merger of two departments happens. Then, the department — as a whole — would still have all the equipment necessary to do its job.

City council was recently asked to consider an agreement with the Charlevoix Township Fire Department that would have kept the city from buying a new tanker. The township would get the new tanker, the city an aerial truck, and they would respond to help each other.

Unfortunately, there is more involved in the rescue business than territories and dollars. Politics has shaped the way our departments look today. With politics still involved, we think that it's unwise for Charlevoix to strap its firefighters by leaving them with one large tanker, a 1977 model that isn't easily maneuvered, and a 45-year-old tanker that can't be certified.

Fortunately, council quickly voted against this agreement and supported the purchase of a new tanker and a used aerial truck. The money has already been budgeted.

According to Charlevoix Fire Chief, Doug Carver, the city is experiencing a 12 percent annual growth in ambulance calls and about a 5 percent annual increase in fire calls. Already this year, the department has responded to 95 calls. In addition to the people living in the city, the department covers Norwood and Marion townships and about one-third of Eveline Township, which makes payments to the department for the contract. In 1996, the department responded to 127 fire and 851 ambulance calls.

We hope the local support of our fire department continues. We have seen the dedication of the firefighters to get additional training. And we've seen them respond quickly, with skill and compassion, this summer during some of the most dreadful tragedies that Charlevoix may ever know.

Community outreach inspiring

Editor:

Having just moved here three months ago, it was wonderful to see the outpouring of public and business support for the victims and their families after the Venetian Festival tragedy.

It was also great to see a company as large as Big Rock Point, Consumers Energy, go through the time, trouble and effort to thank the citizens of Charlevoix in the way that they did with their tours of the plant and their appreciation party.

As we begin our new life here as new owners of the Ace Hardware Store, we were also proud to see the nice article written in AAA Michigan Living magazine, which truly told a nice tale about Charlevoix, its businesses and the story about Beaver Island.

I'm proud to say that I now live in Charlevoix and can be part of this wonderful community.

Sincerely,
Mark Greyer Biehl

town for the past five months. As my stay here nears its end, I would be remiss if I did not tell you what a great town you have here. Surely it must also be said what a difficult summer this has been with more than your share of tragedy. But it is in the very face of this that I realized the incredible strength and kindness that flourishes here.

I came here to escape the rigors of a corporate life seeking quiet and productivity. I did not find quiet, but productive we have been. I was lucky enough to have been able to work with the fantastic, but never quiet crew, at Whitneys Oyster Bar on Bridge Street until the fire interrupted our celebration. This could have ended it, but as I have found with this crew, it is all part of the journey. Whitneys will be back bigger and better than ever.

We are all sorry for the confusion and disorientation this has caused our friends and employees. It has retaught me how much fun one can have working hard and sharing. Chuck and Gina Whitney are definitely the template for their crew, but it cannot be overlooked that it is their employees that make it all happen.

The reason I write this letter is not solely to ring their praises, but also to point out something larger happening here, it is that the people who live, work and visit here choose to do something better — your "random acts of kindness" and your "We Care" benefits for your neighbors, your bake sales, your parades and your regattas that make this little town so great.

Thank you Charlevoix. I am really enjoying my stay.

Time Out

By Janenne Irene Harrington

A friend once told me that people are like threads in the tapestry of life. I've never forgotten her wise words — words that comforted me during a difficult goodbye.

Now it's time to say goodbye again. My 16 months as editor of Courier have come to an end. And the people I've met here have added vibrant colors to my tapestry.

My husband and I are beginning a new adventure. We are moving to Ocala, Fla., to help start a church. The community, in the central-northern part of the state, has grown so quickly that many of the churches are full. When I was visiting Ocala in May, people were receptive about our coming and wanted us to contact them when the church opened. There are many people awaiting our arrival — people with whom we are predestined to meet, to love and to share the love of Jesus Christ.

Five years ago, when I was hired as a reporter for the Petoskey News-Review, I told my boss that someday I would be leaving to go onto the mission field. Little did I know at the time, I was in the midst of my mission field — Charlevoix and Emmet counties. Then my life was brought to Charlevoix, a town that is known for ongoing controversy. I've discovered much more.

Charlevoix is full of passionate people, many of whom were understanding and helpful when I came to town. Some of my fondest memories came from listening to stories pour from the hearts of the community's most experienced residents (namely, our elders). Many of the people have shown me Charlevoix beyond city council and school board meetings. They've allowed me to look into their lives. I found family-oriented people who love their home and invest time and energy into making Charlevoix truly beautiful.

Now I am leaving my home, which I consider northern Michigan. I was raised in Boyne City, made Petoskey my adult home while reporting for the News-Review and later became part of a special family in Charlevoix. We have shared the passing of the seasons with Doug and Betsy Reynolds, and their family. They have shared one of the most pristine places in Charlevoix with us. We'll miss them, spending time with the coons that visit each night, cohabitating with deer and turkeys, and being able to bless newly married couples with fresh flowers from Betsy's garden.

In addition to saying goodbye to friends and family, David and I are leaving behind the fresh lakes, woodlands, cool fall nights at football games, and, of course, wintertime shoveling. :)

Ocala, I'm sure, holds many surprises for us. In addition to starting a nondenominational church, we will be working full time and getting to know a new community. I will continue to write, an important part of my life that I hope to have more time for once I give up an editor's responsibilities. The newspaper there covers all of Marion County and runs seven days a week, 365 days a year. It reaches between 50,000 and 60,000 people. It looks as though the paper's next opening will coincide with my arrival.

But beyond my profession, I look forward to helping people in Florida weave more color — assurance in their eternity, love toward the unlovable and forgiveness for past hurts — into their tapestries. But like always, they will probably give me more bright strands than I can imagine.

While being editor of the Courier, my foundation in journalism has been completed. Now it's time to build a structure that demonstrates the ethical standards of the company that gave me my start. These standards have been solidified in my heart by my belief that news isn't written to persuade people, but to educate them.

The tapestry I take with me is well woven after five years in the field. And the bulk of base stitching came during my stay in Charlevoix.

I am thankful to the community for their many open doors and to the staff at the Courier for holding up my arms when I was tired and believing in the importance of a good hometown newspaper. Thank you all for your phone calls and cards of well wishes.

When I look back and review all that I've learned and the colorful lives that I've met, I feel as though I'm leaving with a coat of many colors like the one Joseph was given by his father.

I can only hope that I leave tapestries in Charlevoix a bit more beautiful because of my investments here. It is my only way of repaying all that the people have given to me.

'Sunday at Four' performances return to entertain fall crowds

Organist/composer, Elizabeth Humphrey, will be presenting a program at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 5, at the first fall performance in the continuing "Sunday at Four" concert series being offered by the Charlevoix Congregational Church.

Elizabeth Humphrey, well known local musician, has served the local congregation for almost 20 years. Following college, Humphrey won a five-year fellowship to the Juilliard Graduate School of Music in New York where she studied voice with Mdme Schoen - Rene' and Queena Mario, as well as composition with the well-known composer, Vittorio Gianinni, who encouraged her in composition. While attending Juilliard, she became a busy soprano soloist in the aria and was a close second in the prestigious Naumberg Award.

Following five years as soprano soloist at Bay View, she toured as soloist for community concerts and appeared as soloist with major symphonies including the Chicago, under the baton of Arthur Rodzinski, the Cleveland, Detroit and the Indianapolis under the direction of Fabian Sevitzky. She was also in demand as soloist in Bach Festivals as well as oratorio appearances.

Although she had a busy career as a singer, Humphrey's early training was in piano and she appeared with the Springfield Symphony Orchestra while a student in high school.

Sunday's afternoon program will include some popular classics as well as contemporary works including three of Humphrey's own compositions. The second half of the program offered by this versatile musician will be a fun "theater - organ sing-a-long" - everything but the bouncing ball.

A reception honoring the artist will follow the concert. The public is invited.

"Sunday at Four" up coming concerts: Charlevoix Men's Glee Club on Oct. 12, Brahms "Requiem" community chorale, orchestra and soloists on Nov. 9.

Foundation gives payment to pool

The final installment of a major grant from the Grand Rapids based Frey Foundation arrived this week to the tune of $60,000 toward the construction of the Charlevoix Community Pool.

The check for $60,000 was part of the $70,000 grant made some years ago to the pool steering committee, which later became Charlevoix Friends of the Pool. The first installment of $10,000 essentially was start-up money to help a group of volunteers determine the feasibility and location of an indoor swimming pool for the area and how to raise money to build it.

"We appreciate greatly the foundation's generosity but, even more, we appreciate their faith in our ability to reach our goal of providing a public pool so children can be taught water safety and skills," said friends president Bruce MacArthur.

The money, together with about $30,000 raised by the recent pool auction, will help reduce the balance to build the pool to about $50,000, MacArthur said.

The Frey Foundation, one of Michigan's largest family foundations, provides grants primarily to nonprofit organizations in western lower Michigan for projects to enhance children's development, protect natural resources, promote the arts and expand philanthropic and civic action.

It was established in 1974 by the late Edward and Frances Frey. Frey was a longtime chief executive officer of Union Bank (now NBD) and founded Foremost Insurance Co. of Grand Rapids.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stozicki

Tiffany Balen Dziurman and Michael John Stozicki were married Oct. 12, 1996, at St. Ambrose Church in Grosse Pointe Park. The Rev. Timothy Pelc performed the double ring ceremony before 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of John and Katherine Dziurman of Rochester Hills and Charlevoix. She is a graduate of Michigan State University, and is currently completing her masters degree in history at Wayne State University. She is a co-founder and vice president of Athena Research Consultants Ltd.

The groom is the son of Steven and Linda Stozicki of Lawton, Mich. He is a graduate of Michigan State University and the University of Detroit-Mercy Law School. He is employed by Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services.

The bride wore a full length, long sleeve, off-the-shoulder, fitted gown made of silk Shantung and Irish lace detailing. Her headpiece was a single band of handmade white, silk roses, and held a cathedral length veil. She carried large mums and plumosa ferns. Her bouquet was modeled after her paternal grandmother's 1936 wedding bouquet.

The maid of honor was Kimberly Dziurman, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Kristy Pollatz, friend of the bride; and Denise Cody, sister of the groom. The bride's attendants wore floor-length, long-sleeved, dark green dresses made of Windsor satin. They carried bouquets of small gold mums, orange daisies and plumosa ferns.

The best man was Douglas Martin. Groomsmen were Steven Stozicki, brother of the groom, and Christopher Freehan and Timothy Good, friends of the groom. The men all wore traditional, black morning coats with black and gray striped ascots.

Ushers were Robert Sokolowski and Harold Cody.

An afternoon reception was given by the bride's parents at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, in Grosse Pointe Farms. Rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Sparky Herbert's Restaurant in Grosse Pointe Park.

The newlyweds honeymoorted in the City of Quebec, Quebec, Canada.

They are making their home in Rochester Hills.

Planners could make final call

- Continued from page 3-

unfair to expect every council member to become an expert on zoning," he said.

Also, in Charlevoix, planners already are responsible to make decisions on special use permits, which carry greater responsibility than site plan reviews.

Mayor Josh Barnes, likes the idea of letting planners be the decision makers for site plans.

"You are a more neutral body, a less political body, than council is," he said. However, he doesn't expect the possible change to pass through council easily, noting that not everyone on the council supports decisions that appear to take its power away.

Young said the change would not diminish council's power at all. Decisions are cut and dry — does the request conform to city ordinances? If so, it must be passed.

Pool adds water aerobic classes

Michael Smith

In response to demand, aqua aerobics classes will be added to the Charlevoix Community Pool schedule starting Monday, Oct., 6.

Stepping out

About 106 Charlevoix residents left the high school Saturday morning to raise money for hungry people, locally and around the world. This almost doubles last year's total of 64 walkers. Some people ran while others walked their dogs or just strolled along on their way to Ironton, where they met with walkers from Boyne City and East Jordan. The fund-raiser is supported by sponsors. Some of the money goes to the three local pantries while the rest is used to feed people from afar.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God

It was one of those weeks that found me wanting to be on my knees more than usual. First came the news of a colleague in her late 20s having surgery for breast cancer. If that wasn't hard enough for her to contend with, word came from Washington state that her mother was also being treated for breast cancer at virtually the same time.

The next situation involved a teacher, an occupation for which I have, and always will have, a special place in my heart. The first-year teacher, from out of the area, wanted to talk. One student came late to class and said it was because his truck was being towed away. Two more of her students came in late and when she asked why, they challenged her in language that would make a sailor blush — daring her to do something about it.

Then there was a Garfield cartoon that shed a little light on a problem a lot of us face. It said, "Monday, the day designed to make the rest of the week look good."

All of us face discouragements from time to time. They are a real and unavoidable part of everyone's life. The secret is in how we handle them. Do we handle them or do we let them handle us?

When discouragement creeps into your heart, remember who you are. You are God's child, and He has made a number of precious promises to you. Among other things, He has said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." If you know God is with you even in the rough times, it makes them a little easier to bear.

My mother was fond of telling her kids that "good things come to those who wait." Waiting is hard for most of us, but a lot can be gained from it. You see, there is our time and there is God's time. We can only see a short ways down the road, but our heavenly Father sees all the way to eternity. When discouragement throws a wet blanket over you, don't give into it because help is coming. There is an answer awaiting you. You've got to trust in God's good time.

When you trust in God's good time, you remember more of His promises like, "cast all your cares on Him for He careth for you," or "draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you." I know too many folks who let their discouragements get to them rather than hang on to God's promises. In His good time, the answers will come.

The hardest part of discouragement is what it does for your soul. It drains it of its courage and confidence. There's an old southern expression I love that goes "God is large and in charge." The world around you will try to make you forget that on occasion. Don't forget it. Another one of His precious promises is "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." When you get so far down in the dumps that the gutter looks like up to you, your soul needs rest. It's there for you if you are willing to believe in your heavenly Father's love for you.

Don't let life's bad days throw you for a loop. Don't be afraid of them either. Remember who you are. You are God's son or God's daughter. He loves you so very much that He willingly gave His Son Jesus to assure you that you will survive even the most difficult things you can imagine. Remember God's precious promises to you. He has never failed to keep His word to any faithful child and He will not start with you! Refresh your soul in His love. He's as close as the mention of His name. When you bring something to Him in prayer and believe, He will handle it, the answer is already on the way.

City hires zoning administrator with much experience

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Diane Manore's role as the new zoning administrator of the City of Charlevoix will be another step in her career in local government.

She replaces Kathy Staton.

Manore has spent the last 10 years working in the planning department of West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County.

Manore

In that capacity, she did a myriad of chores, ranging from secretary at a variety of commission and committee meetings to special projects. She helped create their Geographic Information System, a computer program which tells about the township's land parcels. When that task was completed, they took it a step further and included the township's infrastructure map of all the sewers, hydrants and roads. Similar to Charlevoix County's land information system, Manore hopes to get involved with creating a similar project for the city.

"It is such a planning tool," she said. "It helps give access to all that information to the public."

Manore's husband, Michael, a well-known urban planner, passed away from leukemia in 1992. They had been married since 1964. They lived in Detroit for 10 years before moving to Livonia. They have two children, Jason and Heather. Jason lives with Diane in Charlevoix while Heather remains in the Livonia area with her husband, Tim, and two children, Joshua and Taylor.

"The only negative about this move is that I could not bring my daughter, son-in-law, and grandchildren with me," Manore said. Most of her family, she said, is new ferry to bring their supplies over and take products to the mainland faster than before.

Eric Hodgson believes in the island's economy enough to own three businesses there. He has owned the Shamrock for about one and a half years. He recently purchased the Beachcomber, a restaurant, and Clarkson Grocery.

"The island is in a nice level of development," he said. "We're not just fudge and T-shirt shops. We're a community, and when people come here, they get a sense of community."

Hodgson is a Charlevoix native. His wife, Dana, graduated from the island school. They believe that continued development of the island will keep it alive.

"If the development stopped, the island would slowly be strangled," Hodgson said.

Many of the full-time residents work in construction, masonry and seasonal jobs in the tourist industry — jobs Hodgson calls the seeds that make everything grow. Even with the construction of the new deli/bakery and the reopening of The Rectory, Hodgson said he was as busy as he wanted to be this summer. The Shamrock has tallied a 5 to 6 percent growth this year.

The island has about 450 year-round employees. About 3,000 people live there during the summer. About 50 percent of island businesses are seasonal, including boat charters and gift shops.

Like Hodgson, the island assistant manager at the chamber, Marge Peters, believes that there is room for growth.

"I've never seen anybody go out of business here for lack of customers," she said. "As long as they're willing to stay, there is business for them."

Christy Albin, who owns Lakesports with her husband, said tourism is the best way to keep the island the way it is — people come and go.

"When tourism ends and the season is over, it's still a small town," she said.

Her family, two young boys included, moved to the remote island three years ago for the quiet, contained lifestyle. In addition to Lakesports, the family will own the new bowling alley/dinner theater. To help generate income beyond what the island businesses will provide, the Albins still run a construction/masonry company in Chicago.

Albin believes that the Emerald Isle will promote convenience for the residents, but that it will not cause a rush on people moving to the island. It will still take travelers one hour and 45 minutes to reach the island by ferry. This shaves one hour, two 30-minute segments, off of the ferry time per trip.

"Our greatest asset is going to be the distance back to the mainland," said islander Richie Gillespie.

Gerry Harsch's study supports Albin and Gillespie's belief. He said that the number of passengers or visitors to islands in the upper Great Lakes is in direct correlation to the time it takes to get to the islands. The study includes eight islands, arrival times and the number of annual visitors. With the new, faster ferry, it will take about one and three-quarter hours to reach the island from Charlevoix. The island closest to that in time are the Manitou Islands, near Leland. In 1989, about 28,500 people take the 1.5 hour trip there each year. This is about 3,000 more people than visited Beaver Island that same year.

Based on Harsch's information, about 7,000 additional visitors and 1,250 vehicles are expected to come to Beaver Island during the Emerald Isle's first year in business. Freight is expected to increase 1,200 tons the first year and 3,000 tons by the third year.

When people step off the ferry in the harbor now, they can see cars parked along the main street and Irish and American flags flying.

John Boyle grabs a late lunch at Dalwhinnie Bakery and Deli recently. The new business was completed this summer. It will soon be joined by a hardware store, bowling alley/restaurant and community center.

There isn't a lot of noise. And there isn't any hustle and bustle. Time seems to tick more slowly for the people who chose to live on the 55-square-mile island. They're called Beaver Believers.

In addition to the distance from the mainland, islanders believe that the amount of state-owned land on the island will keep it from over-developing. The state owns almost half of the island's land.

Richie Gillespie's children are sixth generation islanders. He said the Emerald Isle will fill the need for extra transportation, but he's not convinced that it will encourage development.

"We all want to see it (the island) remain pristine," he said. "But we're raising children and living out our existence in a place we love. That takes money. It requires compromises."

Gillespie sells real estate and owns a construction company. He said there is more interest in land, especially by people wanting to retire to the island.

"It tears at you — growth or no growth," he said. "But if you're not progressive, you're absorbed."

The size of the Emerald Isle isn't the only determinant in island growth. In the 1930s, the Marold II was 140 feet long, which is still longer than the new ferry, even though the Emerald Isle will have more decks. The converted yacht blew up Jan. 1, 1937, when a gasoline tanker went aground. Gillespie said the island was set back 25 years by the explosion.

"And we never have caught up," he said. "People say it's like going 25 years back in time when they come to Beaver Island."

The golf course operates on an honor system for payment. People don't worry about taking the keys out of their cars. A phone call can be placed to a business in the middle of the day without an answer because the person in charge had to step out for a minute. In the winter, trucks pull sledders down the middle of the roads. The islanders recognized that change is imminent. However, they don't expect to lose the island they love.

"Things change," Albin said, "but as long as the majority of the island remains natural, it will remain what it is for us — solace."

Celebration coming to Beaver Island

The Emerald Isle is about to begin its trip from Boothbay, Maine, to Beaver Island and on to Round Lake.

About 35 years have passed since the islanders celebrated the arrival of a new ferry.

A celebration is being planned that will stop the ferry at Mackinaw City to take on passengers for the ship's final leg home. The ferry was built in Maine and should be en route to Michigan today.

The white and green vessel will become Beaver Island Boat Co.'s lead ferry for transporting passengers and cargo from Charlevoix to the island and back. It almost doubles the capacity of the Beaver Islander. The ferry will hold 20 cars and up to 300 people. The Beaver Islander can haul 10 cars and 200 people.

Being able to load the boat at the stern is the greatest change from ferry's of the past. With the help of a new lift at Bridge Park, semi trucks will be able to back trailers onto the ferry and unhook them. This ends the need to unload the trailer and reload it once the goods reach the island. People needing large items taken to the island currently have to rent a barge.

The Emerald Isle, which is 130 feet long, 39 feet wide and has an eight-foot draft, will be taking the place of the South Shore, the company's oldest ferry, which can hold five vehicles and 120 people.

Boat company director, Lynn DeGrow, said the oldest ferry could be sold.

Business in brief

Chamber breakfast to be held Friday

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is holding its Business Breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 3, at the Charlevoix Country Club.

The featured speaker will be Ken Powers, general manager for Big Rock Point nuclear power plant.

The breakfast costs $5.

Resolution service gets new home

The Citizens Dispute Resolution Services has opened an office in Charlevoix that will serve as the new base of operations for the not-for-profit organization. The office is located in the lower level of Charlevoix city hall on State Street.

In addition to serving as a base office, the new location will better solidify the organization in the community and give the community greater access to its services, president Murray Kilgour said.

The office is staffed part-time by executive director, Kathy Lame. Staffing is hoped to be expanded with the help of volunteers.

The group serves Charlevoix and Emmet counties by providing services as an alternative to court for individuals and businesses. Mediation services are available at no cost for consumer/merchant disputes, breach of contract cases, neighborhood disagreements, landlord/tenant problems, employer/employee issues and home buyer/seller disputes. The mediation process brings together disputing parties in the presence of a trained neutral third party to reach their own negotiated agreements.

Rayders lose fourth straight game

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

Friday night's loss to Harbor Springs, the fourth Rayder defeat against zero wins, was a prime example of the dangerous line teams walk when they begin to turn the ball over.

Two second quarter fumbles by Charlevoix gave Harbor Springs two extra possessions, allowing them to put all the distance they would need between them and the Rayders en route to the 49-14 final at picturesque Ottawa Stadium on the shores of Little Traverse Bay.

While the score may make fans a little down trodden, spectators at the game know how close Charlevoix was to making this game interesting and intense.

It was a shoot-out early with teams trading touchdowns over the game's first quarter and a half with the Rayders matching each Ram score behind the hard running of Colin Carr.

Trailing 6-0, Carr took a first and goal hand-off, and broke three tackles for a nine-yard score. Earlier in the drive, Carr ripped for 10 yards on a fourth and nine play. After running in the two-point conversion, Charlevoix held an 8-6 lead.

The Rams regained the lead on their next drive when they connected on a 30-yard TD pass. They ran in the two-point conversion for a 14-8 lead.

The Rayders answered with Carr's second six of the day, this from two yards out. Carr had the drive's biggest play as well slashing a simple off-tackle play for 25 yards. The Rayders missed the extra point afterward but remained even with one of the area's better ball clubs midway through the second quarter.

The Rams broke the tie on a 60-yard TD scamper, but the Rayders didn't appear phased. They boasted their best offensive play since the season's opener. As they crossed midfield, though, they coughed the ball away. The Rams recovered and two plays later scored on a 42-yard run.

After the ensuing kick-off, the fumble bug chomped on the Rayders once more, this time on just the third play of the drive. A Ram 35-yard pass play for pay dirt suddenly boosted the score to 33-14. Going into halftime, and just as suddenly, had the Rayders out of a game that seemed destined to burn out the scoreboard lights.

Their bubble burst and the Rayders slogged their way through the second half, giving up two more scores. Charlevoix did have a scoring chance, but fumbled at the Rams' one-yard line with seven minutes left on the clock. The Rams kept possession until the final gun for the icing on this cake.

Carr ended with 125 yards on 18 carries while Nate Metiva rushed for 47 yards on eight carries. Metiva also caught four passes from quarterback Steve Felter for 52 yards and led the defense with seven solo stops while assisting on four.

The Rayders now stand at 0-4, and the search for victory No. 1 gets more daunting as Charlevoix hosts Traverse City St. Francis at 7:30 Friday, Oct. 3. The Gladiators head into the game ranked either No. 1 or No. 2 in a variety of Class CC polls.

Lady Rayders split week of play

The Lady Rayder basketball team scratched their way back into the win column with a 51-33 conference victory over Elk Rapids Sept. 23.

The win, their first in Lake Michigan Division play, snapped an overall three-game losing streak.

Ahead by a mere basket, 24-22, at intermission, the Rayders broke open the game, outscoring the Elks 27-11 in the second half behind Jamie Gowell's 12 points, 14 rebounds, and eight steals. Angie Potter also had a double-double with 11 points and 11 boards.

They could not extend their winning streak, though, as they fell at home last Thursday to Kalkaska 64-48. Amanda Eaton and Michelle Potter led the Rayders with 12 points apiece.

The Rayders, 2-6 and 1-3 in the league, host Brimley on Thursday, Oct. 2, before traveling to East Jordan on Tuesday, Oct., 7. The junior varsity tips-off both nights at 6 p.m.

Junior varsity golfers play 18 holes in tournament

Varsity 9-2 for season

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

The junior varsity golf team took center stage Thursday, shooting in the 18-hole "Puppy Invitational" on the Indian River Country Club.

Only freshmen and sophomores were allowed to enter the 11-team field, and despite a low eighth place finish, Rayder coach Jim Glynn was enthused with the results.

"We basically got crushed, but we learned something," Glynn said. "On the way home they were talking about their scores, how to play holes. It was great for them. I'm hoping to schedule more of these for next year."

In dual meets, teams may field a junior varsity squad in nine hole competition, but when it comes to the 18-hole Invitationals the JV squads are left behind. This tournament gave them an opportunity to walk a complete 18 holes in a competitive situation.

Mike Simpson shot the lowest score of the team with a 108. Steve Pirie shot 113, Nathan Bartlett, 115, Corey Bascom 120, and Chris Smith 121.

The varsity squad, meanwhile, continued their nice season with a second place finish in a tri-meet and a third place finish in the Gaylord Invitational.

In the tri-match played at the Boyne Highlands Heather course, the Rayders shot a 178 good enough to beat Harbor Springs' 200, but not enough to pass Petoskey at 172.

Keith Grunch led the Rayders with a low score of 42. By besting Harbor Springs, the Rayders up their league mark to 3-1; and are currently tied for first with Kalkaska. With the split, the Rayders overall record is 9-2.

In Gaylord, their third place finish was among a 12-team field in the C-D competition. Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart won the day with a 333, Inland Lakes finished with 351, Charlevoix, 354, and Alanson, 354.

The Rayders, due to the fifth score tiebreaker, nudged Alanson for third place. The Rayders have placed in the top half of each invitational they have entered this season, earning a first, second, third, and sixth.

Grunch shot an 81, Ryan Murdick 89, Jason Vincent 90, Jon Sell 94, and Craig Siwarga 95.

The Rayders will begin their final week of regular season action with a home conference match against Boyne City at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1, at the Belvedere. The next day they'll square off with Bellaire and Mancelona at Shanty Creek in a tri-match before playing in the Traverse City Invitational on Friday, Oct. 3.

In a scheduling change, the conference championship meet has been switched to Wednesday, Oct. 8, at the Mistwood course in Traverse City. The meet had been set for Tuesday, Oct. 7.

Racers' commitment tested by weather

By A. Nother Mouse
Courier columnist

As Charlevoix Yacht Club sailors took to the water for the third race of the fall series, the marine forecast called for windy conditions which could only be described as "blowin' stink."

For some (usually those enjoying the relative safety of the cockpit), this forecast brings a gleam to the eye, the heavy winds serving only to increase the thrill of the sport. For others (such as yours truly), it means two and a half white-knuckled hours clinging to anything fastened more securely to the boat than the crew.

In any event, despite Wednesday night's rough seas, cries of "man (and woman) overboard," and a collision that sent two boats limping off the race course after the first leg, everyone returned to shore safely. However, some were slightly shaken. Perhaps we could all take a lesson from the seasoned sailors, who are the ones increasingly showing up to every race proudly donning their favorite life jackets.

The results for week three are:

In Fleet A, Newsense (1:17.34) three-peated, and became the only boat in any fleet with a so-far perfect record for this series. Mint Julep (1:19.55) edged out Gotcha (1:19.59) by four seconds to take second. Hoo-Ahh (1:23.43) finished fourth, followed by Kamikaze (1:25.32) and J Hawk (1:28.04).

In Fleet B, Our Thyme II (1:18.24) finished first over Cygnus (1:20.45). Lost Vermonter (1:22.06) held onto third over Tireless (1:22.18). Sandpiper (1:23.07) and Original Sin (1:25.58) rounded out the fleet. Stalworth received a DNF (did not finish.) Maybe next time they'll pick on someone their own size.

In the Jib and Main Fleet, it was Mi Joy (1:22.28) in first, Flash (1:25.08) in second, and Cabaret (1:26.46) in third. Booma (1:27.10) took fourth, followed by Apothecary (1:29.58) and Bald Eagle (1:32.09).

H.S. Moisture Missile was back on top in the J-22 Fleet, taking first by almost two minutes in front of Hussy (1:15.48). Reckless (1:16.04) took third, way out in front of Gecko (1:24.33) and Cathach (1:26.56). Paleface Lite, whose crew was definitely pale-faced by the time they made it to the Yacht Club, received a DNF.

Halfway through the fall series, the standings, with one throw out, are as follows:

Fleet A: Newsense, Gotcha, Kamikaze, Mint Julep, Hoo-Ahh, M3 and J Hawk.

Fleet B: Stalworth, Our Thyme II, Original Sin, Lost Vermonter, Cygnus, Blasen III, Tireless and Sandpiper.

Jib and Main: Booma, Mi Joy, Flash, Cabaret, Sarah Belle, Apothecary, Babe and Bald Eagle.

J-22s: H.S. Moisture Missile, Hussy, Reckless, Gecko, Swine Flew, Cathach and Paleface Lite.

Gone fishing

Before sailing and motor boats moved in as the water sport of choice in Round Lake, fishing prevailed. Rather than have the lake filled with buoys and yachts, these fishermen reigned during Charlevoix's top catching seasons. The year this photo was taken is not known.

New Charlevoix resident joins city hall as head of zoning

spread out throughout northern Michigan.

Manore retired from her job in the spring and settled in Charlevoix the first week of June. Despite all the summer activity, she found herself bored and a bit antsy to get to work. When she saw the city advertise for a new zoning administrator, she saw it as a job she quickly would be comfortable and competent doing.

She has only been on the job since Sept. 15, but has already noticed a difference between government downstate and in Charlevoix.

West Bloomfield Township, she said, is a basic bedroom community with few diverse zoning districts. Charlevoix is another story.

"I'm surprised at the number of zoning districts I have not come across before, like marine commercial and industrial marine," she said. "I do have to take my zoning book home with me."

The pace of the area, a bit more friendly, mannerly, and small-townish, has helped ease her transition as a newcomer in town, she said. In her previous role she stared at a half-hour commute during rush hour traffic. Now, she said, she can go home for lunch in less than five minutes.

"I've always been an active participant of the community I live in," she said. "I'll get to know the community and meet the people."

For this job she highlighted a number of attributes she must have such as an eye for detail, being good with people, her knowledge of the politics, and an understanding of why a certain zoning ordinance has been enacted.

In her spare time, she enjoys painting with oils and acrylics, swinging to country tunes via line dancing, and she always has time for her new horse, Dodger.

Manore's office hours are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at city hall.

Whitneys wrecking crew

Employees of Whitneys Oyster Bar (from left) Mark Rautio, chef, Tim Wieland, bar and beverage manager, and Walker Taylor, general manager, help Chuck Whitney (back) tear down the burned-out restaurant Friday. The building will be torn down to its steel frame and rebuilt.

Woman hurt by flying debris

Burned-out bar being demolished

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

An elderly woman was struck unconscious on the sidewalk in front of Whitneys Oyster Bar Sept. 24, when a strong wind blew a piece of lumber from the remnants of the building and hit her in the head.

Mary Moore, who was in Murdick's Ice Cream next door to Whitneys at the time of the accident, saw the lumber fly by the window and went out to investigate. She saw the unconscious woman and called the Charlevoix ambulance.

The woman's identity was not released by authorities. She was from downstate.

When the ambulance arrived, the woman had regained consciousness. Phil Hoffman, EMT specialist, was on the scene. The woman was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital and was treated for minor injuries.

Chief of police, Dennis Halverson, does not consider the remnants of the building a safety hazard to pedestrians. The building is being demolished, down to the steel frame, before reconstruction can begin.

Owners, Chuck and Gina Whitney, hope to have the first floor of the restaurant opened by the end of March and the upper deck, The Topsider, opened by Memorial Day next year.

Some employees are helping with the demolition and restoration of the restaurant, which enables them to remain employed by the company.

Insurance is covering the cost of the reconstruction, Chuck Whitney said.

Rosenthal's last stand

This will be the last year for the fruit growing family to sell apples at Applefest.

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

In the competition for Michelle and Walter Rosenthal's time and affection, the apple trees and their three lively sons were running neck and neck.

But in the end, it was no contest.

The boys, all under the age of 7, won their parents undivided attention.

As a result, the Rosenthals, owners of Rosenthal Orchards, will no longer grow their popular apples for human consumption.

It marks the end of 35 years and two generations of growing apples. It may also mark the last appearance of a Rosenthal fruit stand at Charlevoix's Applefest.

"The boys are my priority now," said Michelle Rosenthal. "I want to home-school my kids and it was really hard to do with apple season."

With the oldest son, Jacob, ready to start kindergarten, Michelle and Walter made the decision to give up apples so Michelle would have time to teach Jacob at home.

"We have nothing against the public schools," Michelle said. "We just wanted to give our children a Christ-centered education."

Unlike cherries, peaches and plums, the 20 acres of apple trees demanded year-round time and attention.

"It's no fun to be pruning trees in the winter when you have to climb in trees covered with ice," Michelle said.

Fall was the most challenging time, when Michelle and Walter had to harvest the thousands of apples growing down the slopes of their lush orchard land.

In past years, migrant workers were readily available to help handpick the apples. But in more recent years, migrant workers have chosen to stay away from the chilly climates of northern Michigan. It meant that Michelle and Walter had only themselves and other family members to bring in the harvest.

It's ironic that migrant workers are no longer available to work the farm. The senior Rosenthals, Rosa and David, came to northern Michigan from Germany to be migrant farm workers. After years of working for others, the Rosenthals decided to buy a farm of their own. They were looking at a dairy farm for sale on Barnard Road when Rosa crossed the road to a fruit farm to make a phone call.

"When Rosie saw the gorgeous fruit trees and view she said, 'This is it. This is what we're buying right now,'" Michelle said. "She didn't want cows anyway."

Since then, apples have been a thriving part of the Rosenthal family trees.

While migrant workers declined in recent years, the deer population increased. Hungry deer gobbled up apples before the Rosenthals could harvest them.

All the factors added up to the final decision — no more apples.

Some of the Rosenthal's regular customers will be sorely disappointed to learn of their decision.

"I'm going to miss my customers," Michelle said. "People drive year after year from Muskegon and Detroit to get the older varieties of apples we have."

School considers zero tolerance policy

Random drug testing of athletes may follow next year

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff reporter

After hearing public input, a group of school board members and school administrators plan to draft a new policy that won't tolerate the use of drugs or alcohol by student athletes.

The group will meet to discuss the proposed zero tolerance policy at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the high school media center. The proposed policy will allow school administrators to monitor Charlevoix students involved in any of the school's extra-curricular activities, ranging from athletics to band to performing arts.

The goal is to have the new policy in place by the beginning of the winter sports season.

"Hopefully a policy will come out of this meeting," said athletic director/assistant principal Keith Haske. "If we don't (create a policy) then we're going to be too late."

Committees met throughout the last school year in an effort to write a new policy by the beginning of this year. The combination of athletic director Barry Anderson's retirement and the overhauling of the board of education stunted progress. High school principal Gary Grundman said that while progress was made during those meetings, agreement was not reached regarding punishments for offenders.

Possible sanctions ranged from suspensions for one-quarter of the calendar year, to one year, to complete loss of eligibility. According to Grundman, another option discussed was a two-tiered policy where the student loses eligibility but may be reinstated if agreeing to counseling and random drug sampling.

"All those issues became entwined with one another and a policy did not come out of it," Grund-

Rosenthal's apple trees will go to the deer next year

Those old apples — Wolf River, Snow and Tallman Sweet — will be deer feed next year.

"We're going to shake all the trees next year and go for bulk deer feed," Michelle said. "We won't spray the trees with chemicals, so they won't be number one quality."

Without apple trees to worry about, Walter is embarking on a new off-season endeavor. He will be doing excavation work, something he's always wanted to try.

"I'm pretty excited about it," Walter said. "I'll miss the apples a little bit 'cause I'm around the kids a lot in apple season. I can take them out in the orchard with me, and I won't be able to do that with excavating."

The farm market at Rosenthal's will continue to be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. This year, apples in bushel baskets still line the walls of the market, where they ripen in the morning sun. Michelle has the older varieties lined up and waiting for good homes.

"I hope our customers will come on out this year for the old apples," Michelle said.

Events in brief

Courier receives state press awards

The Charlevoix Courier received three awards in the 1997 Michigan Press Association Newspaper of the Year contest.

The paper received an honorable mention in local news reporting for a story written by Janenne Harrington and third place in editorial page design.

First place in the enterprise feature contest went to Tom Rau for his story and photos about the United States Coast Guard Cutter Acacia.

City police get money for extra patrol time

The Charlevoix City Police Department was awarded a $2,000 grant from the Office of Highway Safety Planning (OHSP) Community Level Traffic Safety Mini-Grant fund. The grant money was applied toward the Charlevoix Accident Reduction Effort (C.A.R.E.) for the summer of 1997, which provided additional overtime patrol of US-31 within the City of Charlevoix. This funding, combined with extra allocations for overtime patrols, substantially increased our visibility of US-31.

During the grant time frame (7/2/97 through 9/30/97) a total of 92 hours were expended on this effort, which resulted in 192 traffic stops.

"These 192 traffic stops would not have happened without the OHSP mini-grant," said city police chief Dennis Halverson.

These grants have greatly assisted small police agencies in their highway safety efforts. Of these 192 traffic stops, 15 were issued occupant restraint citations; 28 were issued speeding citations; 29 were issued for other non-moving citations; 118 were issued verbal warnings.

"In comparing 1996 traffic accident data with 1997 traffic accident data, we find that, even though there was an increase of total accidents, there was a decrease in the number of traffic accidents which occurred on US-31 north from the Bridge to the end of the City limits," Halverson said.

City police hope these increased patrols will lower the accident rate, in spite of the increasing traffic volume through the city.

School plans to act on new policy

man said.

The present policy suspends a student from 20 percent of scheduled games during the season. That policy has been called too lenient in part due to two incidents involving student athletes, one which dates back to the summer of 1996, the other dating back only to last month.

In the first instance, a member of the varsity boys' basketball team was involved in the sale of controlled substances, arrested, and in a court of law received a suspended sentenced and probation. He sat out the first four basketball games (1/5 of 20) before reinstatement to the team.

Last month, a member of the girls' varsity basketball team was arrested for driving under the influence of liquor and marijuana possession. A court case is pending, but the head coach, Tim Volovsek, suspended her for the remainder of the season only to have his decision overturned by the school's administration because his penalty was not consistent with the district's written policy.

"The policy is pathetic," Volovsek said. "When you drink and do drugs it tells me you don't care about the game of basketball."

Volovsek added that a proper policy might suspend a student-athlete for 25 percent of the calender year on first offense and a full year on a second offense.

Board member Larry Levengood, Scott Boss and Pete Spieles make-up the board's extra-curricular committee who will help draft the policy. Levengood said he favors a zero tolerance stance, but does have concerns about absolute bans from activities.

"When a student goes in a direction they shouldn't have, is it always the right thing to do to take them out of a positive activity?"

Levengood said he was interested in a policy which enables the student to reenter their activity if they agree to both counseling and drug testing.

Haske, though, disagrees. He said when a student-athlete involves himself with those sorts of activities they are breaking state and federal laws and schools should not take a lenient stance.

"Why would staying on the team change his demeanor?" Haske said. "The kid needs help and counseling and our coaches aren't trained for that and high school kids aren't either."

Haske said he favors a policy followed by Traverse City High School which suspends a student-athlete for the remainder of the season if the violation occurs during the season and fifty percent of the season if it occurs before the season starts. The student would be eligible to play any sport during the next sports season.

Haske said it's possible that the district would require random drug testing of all students involved in extra-curricular activities beginning next year. Drug testing, he said, would give the student both an opportunity and a reason to say "No" when confronted with certain choices.

"I'd like to see Charlevoix be an exemplary school and in order to get there we have to stick our necks out and take some hits," Haske said.

One problem with creating a new policy is how to involve the non-athletic extra curricular activities such as band and performing arts, which double as both extra-curricular and graded classes.

"With any policy there will be people who think it is either too hard or not hard enough but any new policy will be an improvement over what we have now. We need to add more punch to it."

It is expected that the Charlevoix Board of Education will take action on the new drug and alcohol policy for athletes and students involved with extra-curricular activities during their next regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 13.

The fantastic weather we've been enjoying got off to a shaky start last Friday, when the downtown area was socked in with fog. By noon, the fog burned off, leaving Round Lake shimmering in sunlight. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Reibel becomes plaintiff in lawsuit with township

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

It won't be the first time that Castle Farms owner Arthur Reibel has legally wrangled with Marion Township, but the lawsuit he recently filed in Charlevoix's 33rd Circuit Court makes it the first time Reibel will be the plaintiff.

Reibel is suing Marion Township, township clerk Wilson Boss and township trustee Mitchell Cunningham.

The lawsuit stems from the township's denial to rezone Reibel's property on M66 from agricultural to marine industrial. The property consists of 25 acres across from Castle Farms.

Reibel wants to develop 96 sites for boat storage buildings.

"We followed the recommendation of the county planning commission and the zoning board," Boss said of the township's decision to deny the zoning change.

In a separate part of the lawsuit, Reibel is claiming that Boss and Cunningham violated his civil rights by discriminating against him. The vote to deny the rezone was 2-1, with Boss and Cunningham opposed and supervisor Jerry Dohm supporting the zoning change. Township board members Joanne Jones and Sonja Martin weren't at the meeting.

"People in public positions can't discriminate," Reibel said. "This civil rights action is important. I'm really going to pursue that for as much as I can get."

Reibel is seeking damages in excess of $10,000 for the alleged violation of his civil rights.

Reibel's history of law suits with Marion Township goes back to 1979, when the township first sued Reibel over the outdoor concerts he promoted at the castle.

In the next few years, two more law suits were filed by Marion Township.

Records show that one case was dismissed, the township prevailed in another and Reibel won a case in 1982.

Another case, won by Reibel, was filed in federal court in the early 1980's.

Reibel is claiming that his property has been used in a non-conforming manner for decades and it is taxed as commercial property. Therefore, he wants to see circuit court judge Pajtas force the change in zoning.

"They're real happy to take your money, but then they don't want you to do anything with your property," Reibel said of the township. "It's ridiculous. The township can only deny the zoning change for public health, welfare and safety reasons."

Laurie Lounsbury

No one would argue the fact that Dick Swenor is a fine, upstanding citizen. In fact, as the elementary school principal, he is more than an upstanding citizen.

Dick is a role model, a community leader — a public figure.

Because of that, every move Dick Swenor makes is illuminated in the high beams of town scrutiny.

Simply because she is Dick's daughter, 16-year-old Julie Swenor is subjected to the same amount of scrutiny.

It may not be fair — it's just the way it is.

So when Julie, a varsity basketball player, was charged with breaking the law, everyone in town was watching. Julie was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and marijuana possession.

The Swenors tried to make the best of a bad situation. Dick and his errant daughter voluntarily marched up to the high school basketball coach, the high school athletic director and the high school principal so Julie could fess up to her wrongdoing.

It was the right thing to do.

Then a strange thing happened.

Doing the right thing got muddied up with doing the technically enforceable thing.

"I thought I was doing what was right," Swenor said. "All athletes should be treated the same. I wanted her punished consistently with the entire athletic department."

Dick Swenor asked the school administrators to give Julie a punishment in keeping with the school's written policy.

But the written policy wasn't the same as a new, stricter verbal policy handed down by the girls' basketball coach at the start of the season.

The school policy said Julie should sit on the bench for one-fifth of the basketball season.

Coach Volovsek said she should sit out for the entire season.

What's the right thing to do?

When Dick Swenor asked that his daughter be punished according to the school's policy, he was just playing by the book.

"If the school's policy was that you get kicked off the team for the entire season, I would have totally backed it," Swenor told me.

But the community wanted to hold Dick and Julie to a higher standard.

Parents wanted the Swenors to accept coach Volovsek's punishment. They wanted Dick to honor the verbal code given to players at the start of the season — a code that has not yet been adopted by the school board.

What if it had been John Doe, the construction worker's kid, who broke the law? Would we all be morally outraged if Daddy Doe went to the school principal and said, 'Hey, I'm not having my kid singled out with this new punishment. Stick with what you've got on the books.'

I doubt it.

Oh, sure, folks would have been a little disgruntled by John and Dad Doe's behavior, but they would have shrugged it off. They're just the Does, after all.

They're not the Swenors.

Julie and Dick Swenor had an opportunity to turn an embarrassing, difficult situation into a moral example for all other parents and athletes.

They took the high road by voluntarily telling the coach about Julie's troubles.

They could have taken an even higher road by being the first to accept the coach's newly created punishment.

But is the coach's punishment fair or correct or equitable?

I don't know.

Other coaches said they will stick with the existing school policy until a new policy is in effect.

"If the same thing would have happened to a football player or a cross country runner, it would have been different," Swenor said.

Yes, it might have been different. Because the coaches can develop their own athletic codes, exceeding the minimum requirements.

Volovsek chose to create a very strict code. He expected his players to abide by it and their parents to support it.

We have committees and school boards and a process for developing athletic codes. It takes more than one person to determine what is fair and correct.

I'm sure Dick Swenor is experiencing tremendous discomfort over his daughter's actions. Now he will endure even more discomfort over his own actions.

None of this will go away until the school adopts a written policy that applies to all teams, all athletes and all students participating in any extra-curricular activities.

I'm sympathetic to the Swenors' difficulties. I'm a parent of two teenagers, and I hope I don't have to face this problem someday.

I'm also sympathetic to the town's fury over this situation.

Right or wrong, we expect more of our community leaders than we do of our next door neighbors. We expect them to be morally impeccable. We want them to choose the highest road and do the most noble thing.

Dick Swenor didn't ask for leniency on his daughter's behalf. He chose not to follow coach Volovsek's policy, but he didn't break any written rules.

He just broke some people's faith in him.

Letters to the editor

Fireworks victim's widow thanks town for support

Editor:

On behalf of my children and our immediate families, I would like to personally thank the communities of northern Michigan for your kindness, love and support following the tragic death of Mark.

We have been extremely overwhelmed by all the cards, flowers, donations of food, gifts of support, offers of help, kind words and shoulders to cry on. We are truly blessed to live in such a wonderful area where people don't forget their fellow man and look the other way in their time of need.

So many people have helped us that it is hard to thank you all individually. Please know that we are grateful to each and every one of you.

I want to thank the medical staffs at Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital, EMS personnel, sheriff, state and local police personnel, fire department personnel, Coast Guard Acacia crew and their wives, 911 personnel, St. Mary's congregation, local religious people, the countless volunteers of the Charlevoix Fireworks Victims Fund Committee, Top Rank Disposal for their fund raiser, Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Bay Harbor personnel, the young people from Saginaw, Toledo and Swanton, Ohio who comforted my two daughters immediately after the explosion, those who took care of me until EMS personnel arrived, Jean and Shawn McDonough for rounding up my children and getting them to the hospital, Kayla Potter for the beautiful wreath she bought, coworkers of Mark and myself, friends, neighbors, family members and all those living outside our communities. God bless each one of you.

Mark was a wonderful father and husband and will be missed tremendously for the rest of our lives. I'd like to share a quotation by Ralph Waldo Emerson that I had recently given to Mark. I feel it not only pertains to the kind of man Mark was, but also to the kind of people all of you are:

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends, to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. THIS IS TO HAVE SUCCEEDED.

Donors and volunteers make blood drive a big success

Editor:

The Red Cross Bloodmobile in Charlevoix on September 25 was a wonderful success.

The 127 blood donors affected the lives of many sick and injured fellow human beings in a very positive way.

I wish to thank each blood donor who took time out of their day to contribute to this lifesaving effort.

Much credit for the success of this blood drive is due to the dozens of dedicated volunteers who worked several hours each. They made phone calls, baked cookies, and worked in important positions at the drive. Some also donated their blood! I can't tell you how much I appreciate all of them!

Thanks to the members of the Lions Club who "set up" and "took down" the tables and chairs at the American Legion. Thanks, also, to city employees for putting the banner up, and Oleson's Foods for donating the beverage.

I, for one, am so very proud of the tremendous response of Charlevoix's citizens. I am also truly grateful.

The next blood drive is January 22, 1998. Wouldn't it be great if the Red Cross could count on Charlevoix for even greater success? Let's mark our calendars!

With Much Appreciation,

Ellen Schuiling

EDITH GILBERT

Harvest time traditionally brings forth varied celebrations among diverse cultures and religions.

We are accustomed to celebrating Halloween — a ghostly festival that originated in Europe. We celebrate an American Thanksgiving with a prayer of thanks and a harvest feast. Catholics celebrate All Souls Day world wide, and Jews celebrate High Holy Days in the fall. In northern Michigan, some of us have begun to join Native Americans in celebrating their Anishnaabek Festival, that culminates on Nov. 1 with a traditional Ghost Supper.

According to a prominent native American, Veronica Medicine, numerous Indian families host Ghost Suppers locally to commemorate their dear departed. But this year, the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center, headquarters of the Crooked Tree Arts Council that serves both Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, has been honored by being designated as the official site for the kick-off on Nov. 1 for all Ghost Suppers in this area.

The Ghost Supper will feature native American corn soup, whitefish, turkeys, venison, fry bread, potatoes, vegetables and homemade pies. Everyone is welcome and there is no charge for the meal. It is a labor of love. Guests will sign in as they arrive, and it is expected that there will be three seatings for approximately 200 guests, starting at 6 o'clock. Dedicated board members of the arts council and volunteers will set the table and serve the meal.

Guests will not knock on the door when they arrive, because this would indicate a hesitancy, which could be transferred to the spirit world and keep a beloved from attending the Ghost Supper. Soothing drums will beat in spiritual rhythm of a heartbeat. Albert Colby, a conservation officer in the Natural Resource Department of the Odawa Tribe, will offer a prayer, and Joe Mitchell, a native of the Odawa Nation, will give a traditional tobacco leaf offering.

During the whole month of October, the exhibition gallery at the art center will feature a realistic, turn-of-the-century, Native American village. Christie Beyer, set designer for the Little Traverse Civic Theater, along with LTCT light and sound experts, will transform the plain, four white walls and bare oak floor into a northern Michigan woodland. Joe Mitchell is constructing a lodge and working with the Native American community and local museums to bring authentic tools and articles to this reconstructed village. As always, there is no charge for these monthly exhibits. Walking through the make-believe woods, you will peek into a fire-lit lodge, see drying racks for fish and hear the birds settling into their nests. Trained volunteer docents will give instructional tours to 600 youngsters, who are scheduled from area schools to enjoy this hands-on experience.

The next time you are in Petoskey, treat yourself to a brief flash back in time and be sure to visit the October exhibit at the McCune Community Arts Center. Better yet, bring a youngster or friend along to share this friendly, neighborly experience.

The service was performed by Rev. Bruce Hamilton, with 150 guests in attendance.

Baskets of white wicker filled with ivy and daisies with gold bows decorated the altar. A single flower and a unity candle in a spread of daisies was on the altar in remembrance of Charles Alden.

The bride wore a gown with a white satin bodice decorated with lace, sequins and beads with a sweetheart neckline and layers of tulling on the skirt. Her gown had a cathedral length, detachable train of tulle. She was escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by her mother and father.

Bridesmaids were Kelly Scholey, Stacey Stewart, Summer Dettloff and Ember Witthoeft. They wore two piece, wine-colored suits with knee-length flip skirts and gold accents.

Their bouquets were Gerber daisies in shades of pink with gold bows.

Junior bridesmaid was Kristina Alden, daughter of the bride and groom, who wore a full length dress in the same style as the bride's gown.

Flower girl was Madison Alden, daughter of the hride and groom. She wore a white satin tea length gown accented with a wine-colored sash.

Jeff Skeel and David Skeel, brothers of the bride, were groom's men, along with Dan Murray and Larry Wynkoop, brother-in-law of the groom.

Ushers were Michelle Carlson, Stacey Tilton and Sara Skeel, sister-in-law of the bride.

Lynn Skeel, sister-in-law of the bride, was the hostess.

A reception was hosted in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Petoskey by the bride's parents, the bride and groom.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted Friday at the home of Martha and Phillip Skeel.

Navy petty officer first Class Larry J. Whitley, son of Stanley J. and Patricia J. Whitley, recently visited Manta, Ecuador, while performing counter-drug operations in the eastern Pacific Ocean aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Callaghan.

During the three day port visit, Whitley and fellow shipmates cleaned and painted a local day care center. They picked up trash around the center, painted the entire front section of the building and served lunch to the children. Whitley's ship also donated more than $300 for food to more than 100 needy families at the center.

Whitley's ship is one of only four Kidd Class destroyers in the Navy. It has the armament and capabilities to protect a battle group against threats from over, on or below the sea. The ship also has a helicopter equipped with sonar and torpedoes, capable of countering any potential threats from aircraft, surface ships or submarines.

Whitley is a 1976 graduate of Charlevoix High School and joined the Navy in May, 1984.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

I have been a long standing fan of National Public Radio Morning Edition, All Things Considered and Writer's Almanac are probably my three favorite programs. The first and last one I catch in the morning. The other one shows up late afternoons. You would be amazed at the things you can glean about your world from these most unique sources. For instance, there were two most unusual anniversaries over the weekend.

It was 40 years ago that the then Soviet Union launched Sputnik or "Little Traveler," the first artificial earth satellite into orbit. Basically, it was only a flying ball with a beeper inside, but boy, did its call ever shake our country up. Politicians were wondering what went wrong. The military was afraid the Russians had an edge on us and educators decided that science and mathematics hadn't been stressed nearly enough in public schools.

Out of that first stellar effort, we got our act in gear and all kinds of things have emerged. The cellular phone, microwave ovens, personal computers, and video cassette recorders are just a few of the things that were unheard of and not even remotely contemplated 40 years ago.

The other thing that hit a milestone over the weekend was "Leave It To Beaver." For some of you, that will make no sense at all. But for others, for six years that black and white sitcom portrayed the ideal American family in our households. There was June, always dressed just so and baking cookies every day. Ward had to have his dinner on the table every night at six. Don't forget big brother Wally, that rascal Eddie Haskell, and sweet innocent little Beav (Also known as Theodore!).

My how things have changed! Family meals are far more catch as you can than they should be. Mom is not nearly as tied to the kitchen as she used to be. And more than a few kids are in empty homes occasionally because both parents are on the job.

If you think society has changed a lot in the last 40 years, just imagine what it is going to be like 40 years from now when your kids and mine are our age and faced with families of their own! You could let the rapidly changing pace of life get the better of you or you could remember that every one of us needs an anchor, something unchangeable to hold on to.

I love what the scripture says about the Lord: "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, and forever." Yes, the world around us can seem like it's moving at an awfully fast pace but the Lord has never failed to keep up with any of His children. He knows the pressures you have to contend with and he has ways of helping you deal with them. He knows what obstacles are in front of you and He is more than willing to "direct your path" around them. He knows what dreams and hopes drive you and He might amaze you in the assistance He has to help you achieve them.

There are two sides to change. Some changes have more than proven to be beneficial and positive in life. Other changes haven't panned out quite so well. What we need to cope with those changes is a good benchmark, a standard that is unchanging to measure them by. The constant love of the Lord and the abiding presence of His Holy Spirit in your heart is the key. Another thing Jesus said was, "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer: I have overcome the world!" Society may be changing but God's Son is with you through it all.

BUSINESS

Local business helps hospital buy equipment

Richard Krueger, (left) hospital campaign chairman, accepted a pledge for $7,400 from Michael Paliwoda, president of Hoskins Manufacturing Company. The money will be used to buy and install a C-T scanner at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital campaign for installation of a C-T scanner received a boost from Hoskins Manufacturing last week.

Campaign Chairman Richard Krueger received a pledge of $7,400 from Michael Paliwoda, vice president of manufacturing at Hoskins Manufacturing. This brings the campaign to within $270,000 of its goal of $500,000 for purchase of the equipment and renovation of space.

"The C-T scanner is important technology for hospitals," Krueger said. "It has become standard equipment, much like other X-ray machines, and is especially important in hospitals with emergency rooms."

"We are glad to see this money going to such a worthwhile cause for the community," Paliwoda said. "It's an investment in the community."

Hoskins has recently expanded its Charlevoix plant and has about 100 employees.

"We are proud to have this great support for our campaign," Krueger said. "This will benefit the entire area and we appreciate it very much."

The hospital plans to begin renovation to house the equipment this fall in hopes of having it in place by the first of the year.

Business briefs

Pharmacists study newest health trends

Charlevoix pharmacists Lani and John Ochs recently attended the First Annual Congress on Natural Pharmacy in Washington D.C. The keynote address emphasized how natural pharmacy products have become a large part of mainstream medicine and how important it is for pharmacists to become educated so they can further educate their patients.

At Central Drug Store and Charlevoix Commons Apothecary, the Ochs' two pharmacies in Charlevoix, education has always been a priority. Their lending library of books on a variety of health issues has recently been expanded with the addition of several books on vitamins, natural healing and herbal remedies. The conference has enhanced the Ochs' ability to counsel patients on natural products available as preventive medications or as possible alternatives for some conventional therapies.

Local agent earns insurance award

The National Association of Health Underwriters presented Timothy M. Bruce of GHA Insurance and Financial Services with its 1996 Leading Producers Round Table award for the second consecutive year.

GHA Insurance is an independent insurance agency owned by Old Kent Financial Corporation. They have offices in Charlevoix, Traverse City, Kalkaska, East Jordan and Grand Rapids.

North Central evaluator praises Charlevoix High School

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

Randy Remenap, from North Central Accreditation, found Charlevoix High School "ahead of the game" when he visited Sept. 8. Meeting North Central criteria provides high schools with accreditation that, among other assets, holds them honorable in the eyes of many universities throughout America.

When the representative from North Central came to the school, Remenap evaluated the school's goals, their appropriateness and benefit to students, and progress. He focused on school improvement and how the school is making the education process better for all students. Remenap looked for activities to be in place for the goals to be achieved.

Goals are set in cycles from three to five years. The 1997 school year brings around a new cycle of goals, which are in the process of being set by the school improvement committee. The last cycle of goals included improving writing and math skills, and boosting the high school moral by decreasing the number of disciplinary referrals. Remenap said he was surprised at how well the students did in the area of writing on the High School Proficiency Test. He said that high scores such as Charlevoix's are not common among small schools.

"They (the faculty) must be doing something right," Remenap said.

As new goals are set, the school must maintain the success of the old goals while implementing the new.

One challenge that the high school has had to deal with is how to achieve progress with the influx of many new staff members over the course of just a few years. A solution to this problem is that North Central comes in and works with the staff, doing in-services, so all teachers have the same goals in mind. When Remenap evaluated Charlevoix, he was positive about the staff's involvement in keeping up with the goals.

In an effort to set new goals for the next cycle, school improvement coordinators will be surveying students, teachers and parents. Once the new goals are implemented, each goal will have a committee that will report back to the school improvement team. The team will come up with strategies to achieve the goals and ways to measure the success of those goals.

Remenap said that the challenge for Charlevoix schools now is to get the whole system, not just the high school, accredited. Because charter schools are available as an alternative to public schools, accreditation is a valuable asset to any public school system.

"This competition makes the public schools look at themselves to improve," Remenap said.

Charlevoix High School has been accredited through North Central since 1927, long before the charter school opened in Charlevoix. This accreditation has pushed goals that otherwise might not have been implemented.

Applefest brings the country into town

Fall harvest food, antique apples and craft show in park this weekend

For the 18th year in a row, Charlevoix's downtown area will take on a rosy glow with the arrival of red, golden and green apples for the annual apple festival this weekend, Oct. 10-12.

Started in 1980, Applefest was designed to bring attention to the agricultural community in Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet Counties. Residents and visitors often asked about locally grown produce and how to find area orchards and farm markets. As a result, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce decided that at least once a year, they would bring the harvest to the people.

Now the second weekend in October is devoted to bring farm produce into town.

The park is lined with farm market booths selling over 30 different types of apples, including the hard to find antique varieties.

The ever popular eating apples will be plentiful, along with pie-baking apples such as Macintosh, Spartan, Cortland and Jonathan apples.

For perfect stuffed apples, take home some Red Rome apples. The crunchy Northern Spy is ideally suited for strudel, pie or cobbler.

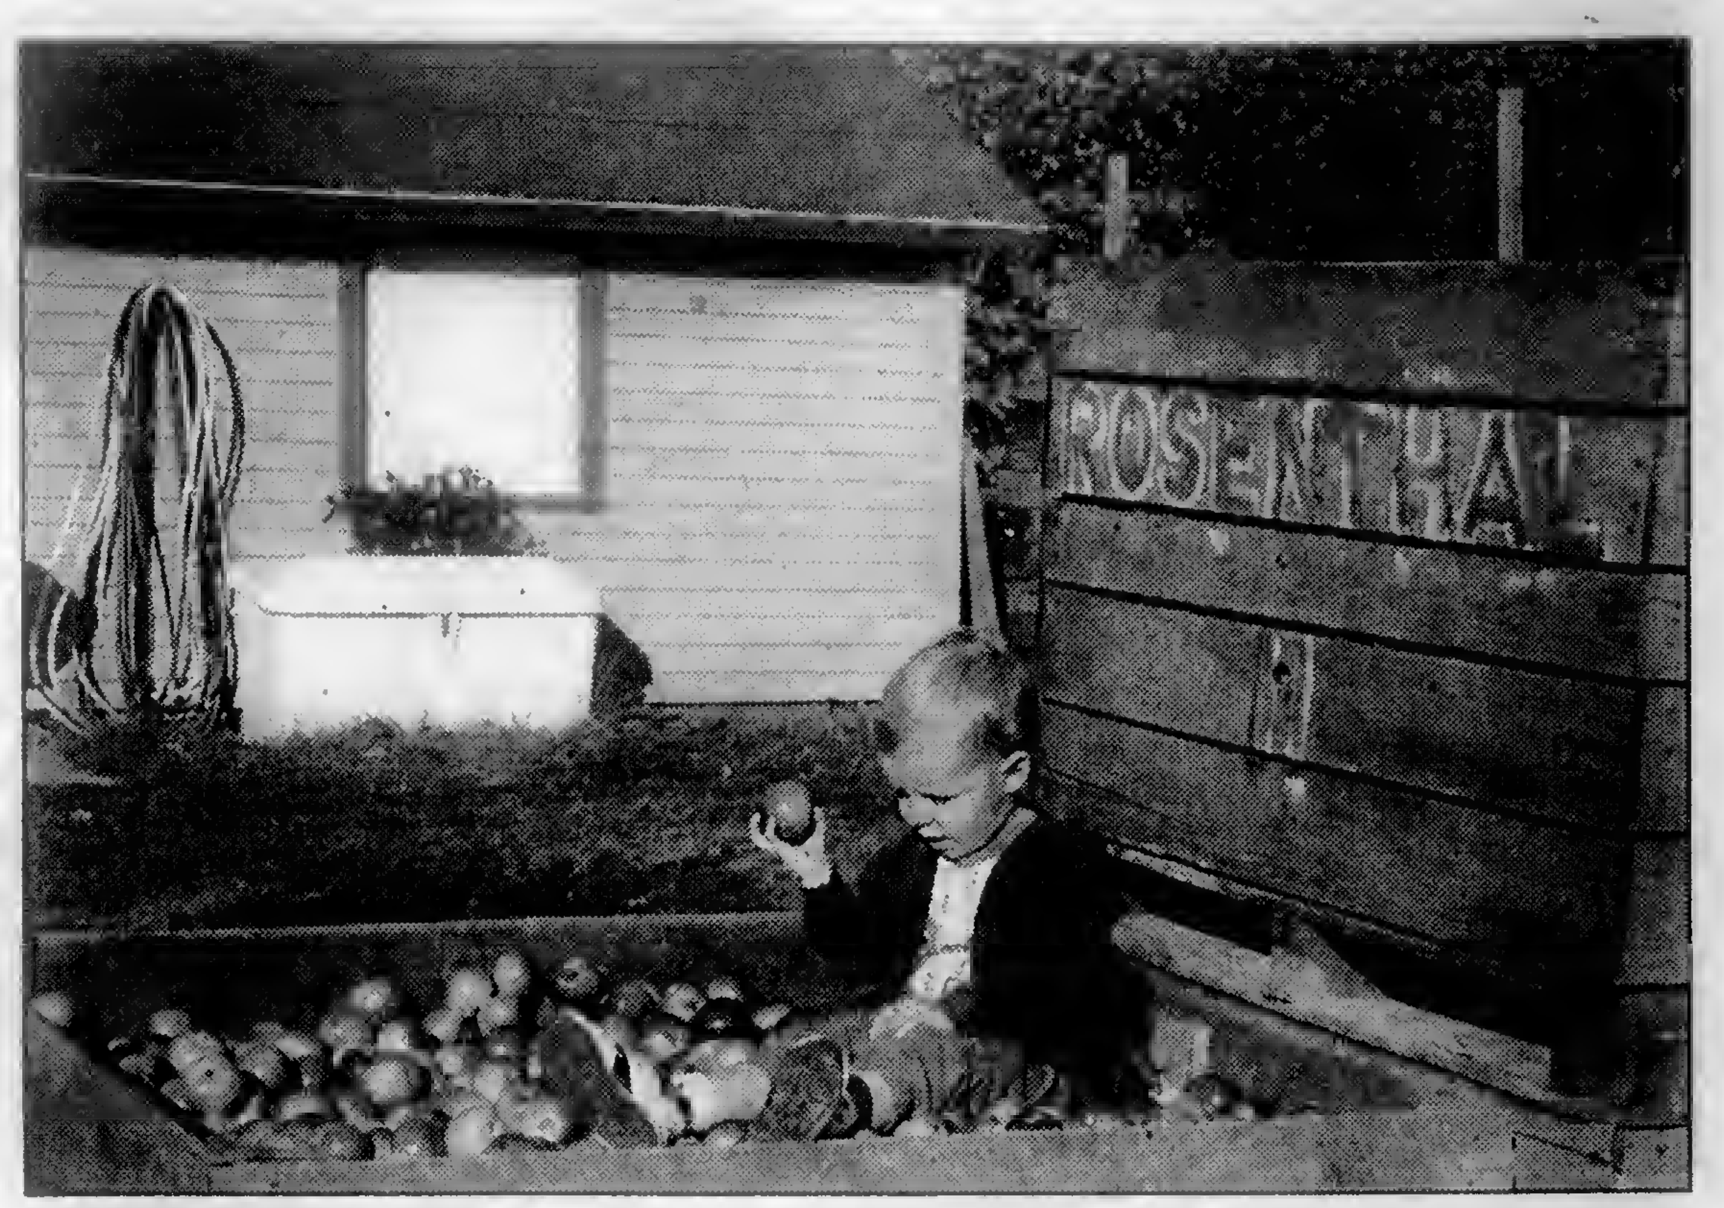
Other fall harvest items available will be pumpkins, squash, apple butter, jam, honey and cider.

Of special interest is the annual Applefest Craft Show, comprised of outstanding crafts people. This is a high quality show featuring unique items and special holiday gifts.

Throughout the weekend, music and other events provide fun for the whole family.

On Saturday, there will be a petting farm in East Park with a variety of farm animals. Pony rides will be available for children on Friday and Saturday.

Free horse drawn carriage rides will be offered for the whole family on Friday evening and from 1 p.m. until dark on Saturday. The rides will be provided by Cedar Valley Farms and will leave from Park Avenue in downtown Charlevoix.



Gabriel Rosenthal is happy to sit in a crate of apples and search for the best one of the bunch. In the years to come, the youngest of the Rosenthal boys will be home-schooled in the fall by his mother, Michelle. The decision to home-school their children means this is the last year for the Rosenthals to bring apples to Applefest. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Reibel wants storage sites on M66

In spite of the township's refusal to rezone his property, Reibel plans to continue with his plans to develop the site. He applied for, and received, a permit from the county soil and conservation department to build roads into the site.

Dohm supported Reibel's rezoning request because he saw a need for boat storage in the township.

"I knew there was a need for boat storage, but I was not aware that currently, there are boats stored on agriculturally zoned land," Dohm said. "It's OK to do that, but to do what Mr. Reibel wants would require a zoning change."

Councilman Reid leaves third ward seat up for grabs

Although his name will appear on the November ballot, third ward councilman Bruce Reid won't appear in council chambers — even if he's re-elected.

Reid decided not to seek a third term on the council.

"My family is the most precious thing I possess and the age of my children calls for more attention and a great deal of commitment," Reid said.

With Reid's departure, there are fewer people running for council than there are available positions.

Bob Timms and Butch Russell are running unopposed in the first and second wards.

The third ward will have an empty seat unless someone runs as a write-in candidate.

"I wanted to get the word out early enough that I won't be running so someone else can come in as a write-in candidate," Reid said. "There's some good people in the third ward who would serve well."

To date, no one has declared their intention of running for a third ward council seat.

Due to changes in the Michigan election laws, write-in candidates must declare their intention to run with the city clerk. Their declaration must be made by 4 p.m. on the Friday before election day.

Different law firm hired to represent city

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

The law firm hired to represent the city in the event of litigation over the Venetian fireworks explosion was terminated at Monday's city council meeting.

In their place, the law firm of Plunkett-Cooney was hired.

Shortly after the July 26 explosion that claimed one life and injured others, the city hired Varnum, Riddering, Schmidt and Howlett to represent them.

But when the city learned that Plunkett-Cooney was available, they chose to hire them instead.

Gretchen Olsen, a Charlevoix woman and lawyer with Plunkett-Cooney, has represented the city in the past. She successfully defended Dwight and Bo Boss in the lawsuit brought against them as Mt. McSauba employees involved with a skiing accident.

The city council earlier believed that Plunkett-Cooney would be representing the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Wanting their own legal council, they hired the Varnum firm.

The chamber of commerce hasn't retained a litigation firm to date, but is working with Barron and Golski to assist with any legal questions.

By hiring Plunkett-Cooney, the city will save money. Varnum's hourly fee was $150 — Plunkett-Cooney charges $110 per hour.

Mayor Josh Barnes said he wanted to hire a law firm that is not only familiar with the city, but will be sensitive to the fireworks victims' needs.

In other business, council voted to spend $16,000 to rebuild the aerial ladder on the newly purchased fire truck. The previously owned truck is a lime green, 1982 vehicle purchased from a fire department in Wisconsin for $20,000.

Fire chief Doug Carver recommended an $11,000 paint job for the truck, which is slightly faded but has no rust.

"A little touch-up paint might do the trick for a couple hundred bucks," said councilman Bob Timms.

The council voted to leave the truck lime green.

Burn victim still critical

Jonathan Easterwood, age 49, who was injured in an explosion on September 25th, remains in critical but stable condition at the University of Michigan Medical Center's burn unit.

Jon's wife, Patricia, reported that an operation which took place this past week was not as successful as they had hoped for. His vital signs appear to remain strong under the circumstances.

Jon's injuries resulted from an explosion when he was cutting the top off of a 55 gallon drum with a torch. The explosion and fire left Jon with second- and third-degree burns on over sixty percent of his body.

The zip code reported earlier for Jon was in error. Jon continues to welcome letters and cards of encouragement. The correct zip code and address are: Jonathan Easterwood, University of Michigan Health Systems, Trauma Burn Center, 1500 East Medical Center Drive, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109-0035.

Coach Klinger spends Saturday mornings enjoying child's play

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff reporter

Amidst a downer of a gridiron season under the Friday night lights, the seeds are being planted Saturday mornings for future football success.

First-year head coach Todd Klinger has been running a set of clinics, concluding this Saturday, for fourth, fifth, and sixth graders.

Klinger's goal is simple.

"We're trying to create excitement for the game of football while teaching them the basic fundamentals of the game," Klinger said.

With no Pop Warner-type league in town, Klinger's sessions are, for most, a first opportunity to see the game performed with organization, technique, and coaching.

"I just like the game of football," fourth-grader Luke Whitley said of his reasoning to spend his weekend time at "practice."

"I like all the passing."

That being said, this, is the perfect format for Whitley and his friends. While Klinger, assistant coach Brandon Bruce, and a handful of Rayder varsity members teach the essentials, they do so with an unconventional style of play — Air Force football.

In Air Force football, passing is allowed at any time throughout the play. Every play becomes a relay of throws until the defense tags the ball carrier to down the play. It makes for some dramatic play as in an instant a wide receiver becomes a scrambling quarterback. While outlandish, Klinger said this style of play fits the younger generation. Everyone gets a chance to be the hero either throwing or catching.

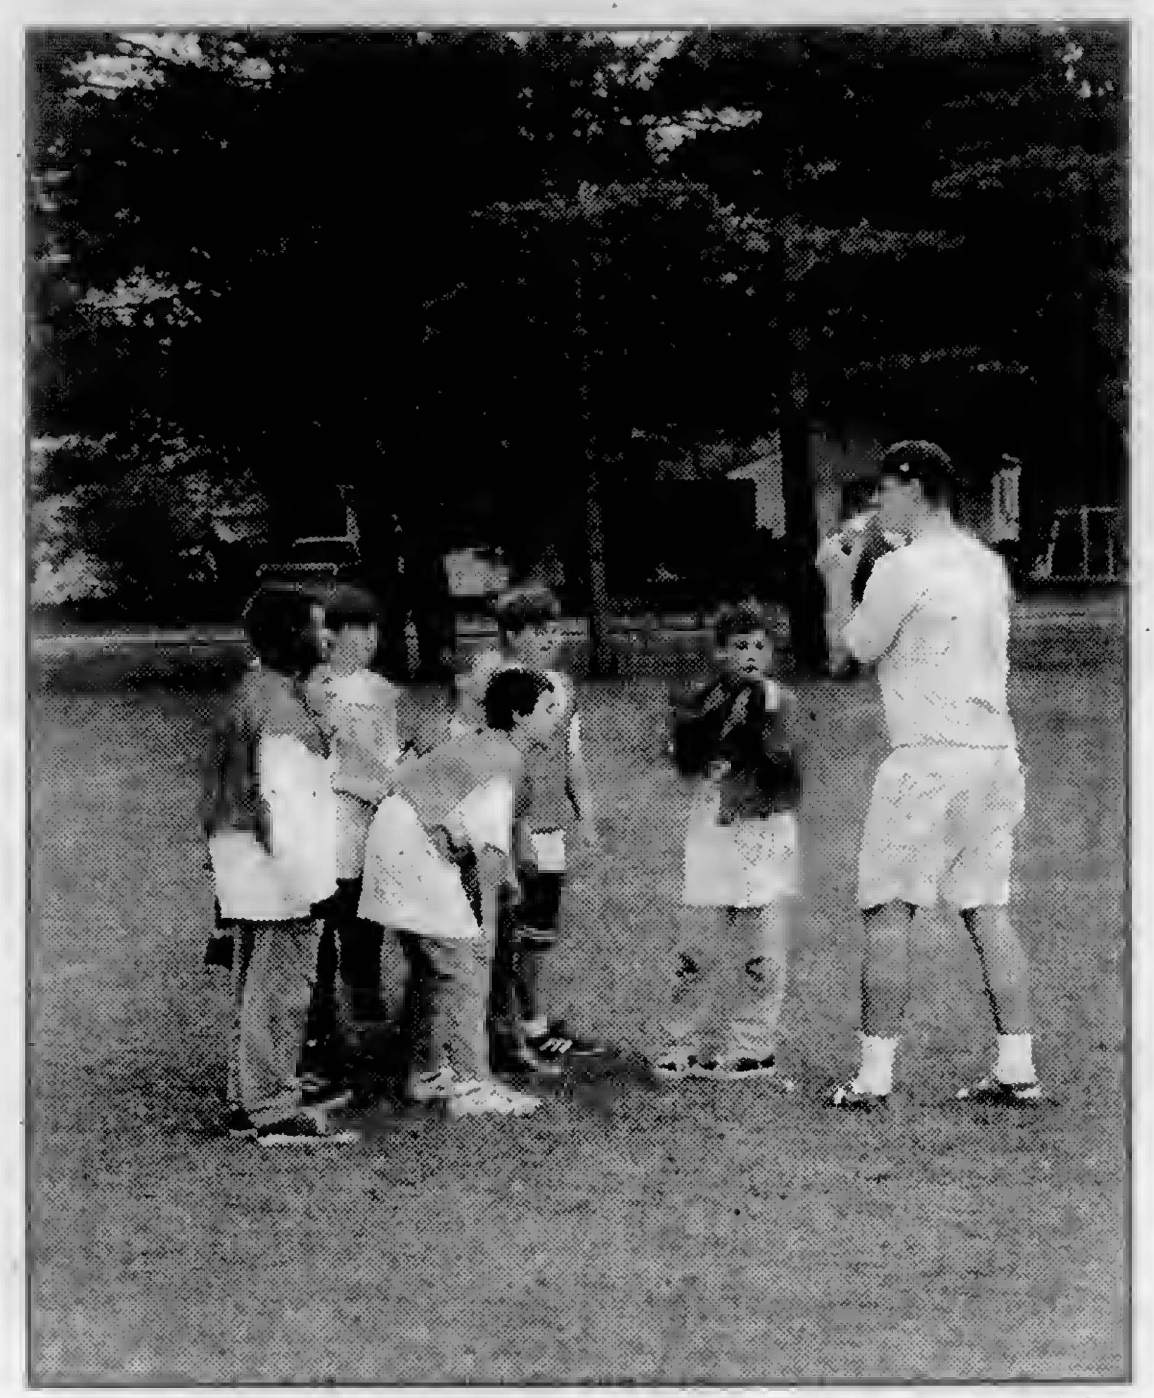
"We play (Air Force football) this because it gives the kids exposure to all of the positions. Everyone gets a chance to play quarterback or receiver," Klinger said. "One thing we don't want to do is isolate a kid into a position at this age."

For Klinger, the sessions have been both educational and therapeutic. He said the sessions help him come down from the emotion that accompanies the varsity games Friday evenings. It's also helped hone his coaching skills.

"It puts my mind back onto the basics that we might overlook this time of year as we game plan and strategy for an opponent," Klinger said. "It also makes our players think about the fundamentals they've been taught through the years."

This Saturday will be the final morning of the sessions on the practice field adjacent to the stadium. Fourth graders kick-off the morning at 8:30 a.m., fifth graders meet at 10 a.m. and sixth graders meet at 11 a.m. Klinger said each group will compete in a punt, pass, and kick contest and each group will play their game of Air Force ball on Kipke Field, Klinger said.

"When I see the enthusiasm and the fun they've been having, I know the future of Charlevoix football is strong."



The next generation of Rayder heros on the gridiron have been receiving their first organized tutelage this Fall on Saturday mornings. Here, Justin Thorp instructs his offense on how to execute the next play with perfect passing form. (Photo by Jamie MacMillan)

Lady Rayders defeat Brimley in non-conference hoops game

The Lady Rayder basketball team took a break from the rugged conference competition and eased by Brimley High 50-39 last Thursday in non-conference action.

The Rayders, using an aggressive half court defense, jumped out to an early 11-0 lead as each starter swished a basket before Brimley could get on the board.

The victory, the club's second over Brimley this season, improved their record to 3-6. They remain 1-3 in Lake Michigan Division play.

A consecutive three-point basket to start the second quarter by Brimley cut the Rayder lead to 15-13, but the Rayders reeled off the game's next eight points as Jamie Gowell, Angie Potter, and Julie Gregory each had baskets.

The Rayders took a nine point lead into the locker room and held Brimley at bay for the remainder of the contest.

The win was the perfect boost for a squad embarking into the season's heaviest stretch of games. The Rayders play five games in the next 12 days, three of which are home contests.

"We'll be prepared, we're getting a little bored at practice," coach Tim Volovsek said. "I like to play games, the girls like to play games, everyone likes to play games."

The Rayders begin that stretch on the road at East Jordan Tuesday, Oct. 7 before appearing at home Friday, Oct. 10 against Harbor Springs. They travel to Traverse City St. Francis on Tuesday, Oct. 14 before back-to-back home games against rivals Boyne City and Ellsworth on Thursday, Oct. 16 and Saturday, Oct. 18.

"We have some big weeks coming up and I won't have any trouble firing up the girls," Volovsek said.

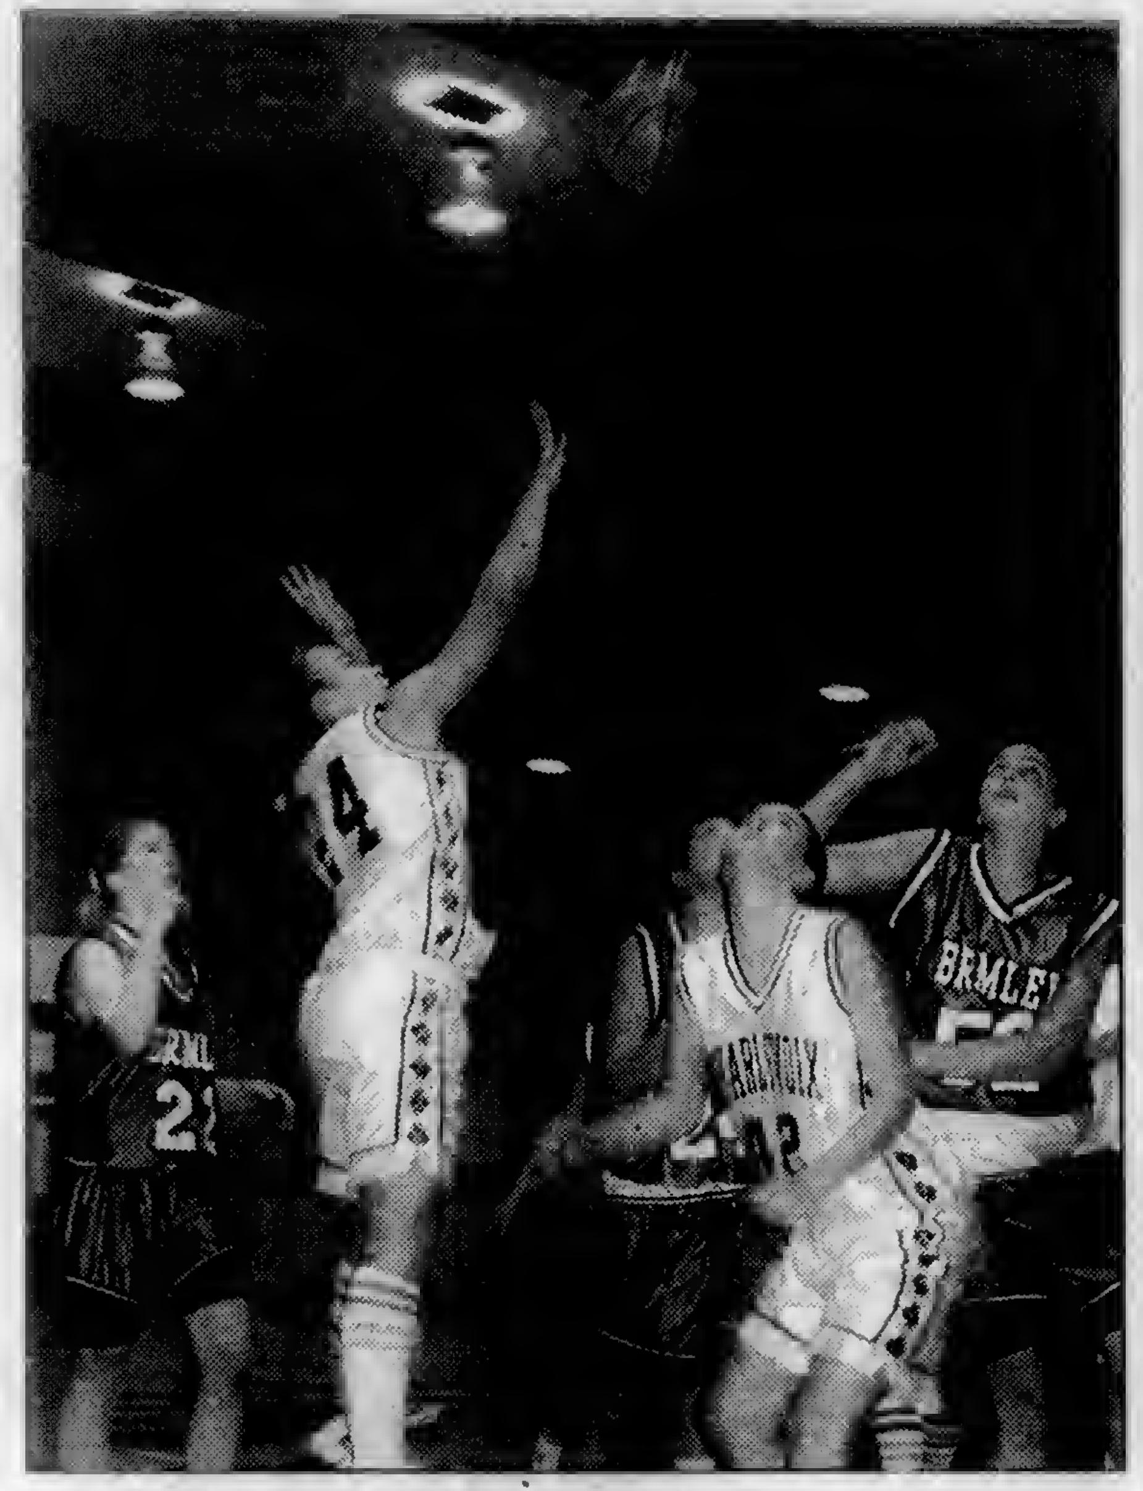
Defense has been the cornerstone of this team and has been an attribute to lean on while the offense shakes off its rustiness.

Volovsek said the team gets more shots than their opposition, but shot selection has hurt the Rayders. Overall, the team makes baskets at a 35 percent rate, but Volovsek said he expects that to improve during the next few weeks as less set plays will be called to allow for a more free-wheeling, creative up-tempo style.

"The girls have been playing together forever, they know how to score," he said. "It is now my turn to let them go."

Against Brimley, junior forward Jamie Gowell registered her seventh double-double of the year, scoring 12 points while grabbing 13 rebounds. The last two games she also has swiped 15 steals. Ann Terryberry scored 11 and dished out seven assists while Angie Potter also reached double figures with 10 points.

All games begin with junior varsity action at 6 p.m.



Amanda Eaton puts up a short jumper while teammate Julie Gregory works into rebound position. The Rayders defeated Brimley 50-39 for their second victory in their last three games. (Photo by Jamie MacMillan)

Lady Rayders dominate top places in home meet

runners placed in the top 15. Tricia Hodge and Candace Vandergriff placed 1-2 respectively with Monica Browe, 5th, Alyssa Westenbroek,.8th, Candy Siwarga, 10th, Liza Gorkiewicz, 14th, and Emily Martinus 15th.

The boys' squad finished with Jeff Popenhage 7th, and Luke Whitley, 15th. They placed third overall in the six-team field.

Other Charlevoix runners in the event were Alan Keene, 16th, Nick Grosburg, 17th, Will Wright, 20th, Jon Tebeau 24th, and Matt Campbell 26th.

"We've done pretty good, the learning is taking place," Plude said of the season. "We're not super teams, but we're definitely competitive."

The squads are rounding the final turn of the season and next Wednesday, Oct. 15 will host the conference championships. Beginning at 3:30 p.m., the event will be run on the Belvedere. Plude said both his squads can win their meets, but East Jordan and Elk Rapids will be stern tests.

Plude said his boys' club might be one year away from serious contention, but the girls' squad will be in the thick of it.

The top three teams will advance into the state meet. The Lady Rayders are ranked 10th in the latest class "C" state poll.

Middle schooler takes second in regional hoops contest

Jim Shepherd brought home a big trophy from the regional basketball shoot-out contest.

Jim Shepherd, an eighth grade student at Charlevoix Middle School, won second place in a four-state Super Basketball Shoot-out held Oct. 4 in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Over the summer, 4,000 players competed at camps throughout the Midwest, with the top 30 percent invited to the finals.

Jim competed in the 7-9th grade division. He was tied for first place at the end of the competition and took second place during the tie breaker, losing to a ninth grader from Ft. Wayne.

Competition consisted of timed lay-ups, perimeter shots and free throws.

SCRAPBOOK

Marilyn Boss couldn't find a photo to go with her story, so she created her own art work depicting the mischievous boys (her husband included) who threw rotten cucumbers at their friends while they dined on hot dogs at a roadside stand. (Art work by Marilyn Boss)

By Marilyn Boss
Courier special writer

In the early forties, during the second world war, the pickle business in Charlevoix was thriving, and the local kids were needed to work because there was no man power available. A.J. Stelter had a pickle business and the vats were located where the new concession stand is at the park on Ferry Avenue. He had a recipe for dill pickles that was excellent. When he passed away, the H.J. Heinz company bought the business and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brumm were transferred here to run it.

The Heinz company rented the building where the Rainbow Shoppe is now located. They also rented the large Ingalls farm on Marion Center Road. This is where they grew cucumbers. Every morning the kids that wanted to work there would gather at the Heinz office, and Mrs. Brumm would transport them to the pickle field in their green, two-door 1937 Chevrolet. The car would be loaded inside with kids. Then, one kid would ride on each front fender with his feet on the front bumper and his arms around the headlight to hang on. At least four kids would ride on each running board. The windows had to be rolled down in the car so the kids could hang on the side of the car to keep from falling off. They usually had a load of about 16 kids on that little Chevy car. A long way from the seat belts, etc. required today.

While the cucumbers were growing, Dale recalls that the pay was about 40 cents an hour for hoeing them. When they were mature, they had tall bushel baskets to put them in, and they paid for the number of baskets a person picked, and each kid put his number on top of the basket to keep records straight.

Old Mr. Bert Ingalls was the supervisor of the field, and he kept the hoes sharp for the kids by filing them when needed. One day, all the kids were in a lazy mood, and so every 15 minutes they would move their watches ahead, and show Mr. Ingalls, and finally when it got to 5 o'clock, it was really only 2:15. He then took them home, with all of the kids riding the same way on his 1936 Plymouth as they had going out in the morning. When he got home and discovered a trick had been played on him, he was furious. The kids found out the next day that they were not to be paid for the whole day they pulled the trick.

Don Swinton had the job of carrying the baskets of cucumbers at night down to the pickle vats on Ferry Avenue. He had a 1929 Model A ton-and-a-half truck with a 14 foot stake rack on it. One day, when the work was done, Dale said three or four kids asked Don if they could ride on the top of the load of pickles to town so they could help him unload. The kids had rigged some of the baskets with big squishy, overripe yellow cukes under the good ones. They pulled out of the farmyard and got the yellow mushy ones out and had them ready to throw at kids who caddied, who would be eating at Fred Debbs' hot dog stand at the corner of Marion Center and Clark Roads. Fred was a nice little Italian fellow who made his entire yearly living selling hot dogs, milk, candy and pop at that stand. It still is there today at the edge of the Belvedere Golf Club property.

When the Model A came by loaded with cucumbers, Dale, his brother Dean and a couple other mischievous boys let the overripe cucumbers fly. They hit the tree branches and splattered all over. It made a terrible mess. Mr. Debbs and the caddies threw up their hands, and the cucumber innards were flying every where.

The next day, when Don Swinton found out, he told the boys that the sheriff would be out to pick them up and take them to jail. They were so scared, they could hardly work. Of course, it was a lesson learned, and the sheriff never came, but the boys towed the line for the rest of the summer.

Victims of Venetian fireworks explosion do their best to cope with life and losses

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

Instead of mourning the loss of his two limbs, Tad Dobrowolski is counting his blessings. To him, the biggest blessing is that he's alive and that he — not someone else in his family — was hit by a flying piece of shrapnel from the Venetian fireworks explosion.

"The way I look at it, I'm glad to be alive," Dobrowolski said. "I know what I can handle, so I'd rather be the one to get it."

It's hauntingly ironic that Debbie Yager made a similar comment about her deceased husband, Mark.

"I know Mark would have wanted it to be him and not one of his kids who got hit," Debbie said.

Charlevoix's Mark Yager lost his life July 26, while he, his wife, Debbie, and their four children were watching the Venetian Fireworks display from a grassy spot near the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia.

Tad Dobrowolski, also of Charlevoix, lost his left arm and leg while sitting with his wife, Janet, and friends. Fourteen other people were injured in the explosion, including Charlevoix's Francis Ladi.

"I'm doing fairly well," Ladi said, not wanting to elaborate on the nature of her injuries. She did say that, although she's still recovering, she's resumed her regular daily activities. Ladi was called shortly after the explosion by the Concerned Citizens of Charlevoix, who offered to do her housework and water her flowers. "That was very nice of them," Ladi said.

Thousands of people scrambled to help the victims after the explosion rocked the town.

Help from volunteers has eased some of the worry about practical concerns, leaving the families to concentrate on healing themselves.

While the donations, prayers and support offered throughout the last few months have helped, nothing can bring back the victims' lives before the explosion.

At the Yager home, friends have laid in a supply of wood for their wood burning stove and are installing a new furnace.

"Some of the guys Mark worked with are finishing his projects," Debbie said. The # School board in search of land again

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff writer

The search for land for a possible new middle school continues. Board member Ike Boss gave an update on the search at the beginning of the board's meeting last Monday night.

The board's first focus was a handful of properties off May Street, next to the bus garage and behind the Archway Motel. Boss said the district ran into a roadblock, as a critical piece in the middle of that area is not for sale.

Boss did say, though, that alternative options have been found. He was most excited about an 8.5 acre piece between Division Street and U.S. 31. The land is across the street from the elementary school on Division and across the street from the reformed church on U.S. 31.

Boss reported that the price tag is $275,000, and the owner is willing to take a $10,000 escrow account from the district to hold the land for them.

Another option is a 54 acre piece of property in Charlevoix Township across the street from Stroud Hall on Waller Road. While the price is $1.1 million, Boss said this piece would give the district flexibility down the road for a new high school and athletic fields.

"It really wouldn't be a bad idea to pick up options on both pieces of land," he said.

In other action, the board approved joining the Northern Michigan Soccer League and the hiring of Joe Johnston as varsity wrestling coach for the 1997-98 season.

Athletic director Keith Haske said the soccer league may only be temporary. He said there are indicators that other schools in the Lake Michigan Division may have varsity soccer within the next two to three years. If that happens, Charlevoix would opt out of this league and into the Lake Michigan Division, which is their conference for every other sport.

State guidelines require at least five schools to have a conference and only Elk Rapids, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix, from the Lake Michigan conference, play varsity soccer. The Rayders, though, are the only one of the three schools to enter this new soccer league, which will consist of Harbor Light Christian, Burt Lake Northern Michigan Christian, Forest Area, Roscommon, Houghton Lake, McBain, and Pine River.

Meanwhile, the hiring of Johnston, a local preacher, ends specula-

Newborn cover-up

Joanna Gunn keeps newborn heads covered with caps

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

Although she had a college degree in home economics, Joanna Gunn didn't have a clue about knitting when she was a young wife.

So it was frustrating to her when she attended week-long conferences with her husband, Carl. All the other wives would sit and knit while Joanna twiddled her thumbs.

Joanna would sew, mending clothes and changing the hemlines on her dresses — but she would be done in a matter of hours. That left her with four days with nothing to do but watch other women knit.

"I told my husband, 'I'm not going to another one of your conferences until I learn to knit,'" Joanna said.

That was 35 years ago and Joanna did, indeed, learn to knit.

Today, she has knitted over 2,500 tiny, pink and blue caps for babies born at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Amazingly, almost no caps are alike.

It's quite a feat for a woman who taught herself to knit.

"I learned how to knit out of a dime store book I bought for 29 cents," Joanna said.

Not wanting to lose his wife's company at conferences, Carl bought Joanna one knitting pattern and gave her a gift certificate to a local yarn shop so she could buy yarn.

Trying to figure out the pattern almost drove her to distraction, so Joanna headed to the five and dime for an instruction book.

That solved all her problems.

A few decades and 356 sweaters later, Joanna's knitting skills were well known in Charlevoix. That made her the obvious choice for Kathy Boss, vice-president of professional services for the hospital, to ask about knitting baby caps for newborn babies.

It took a few tries for Joanna to get the size right, but she quickly knitted a nice supply.

"After I knitted a dozen, Kathy said 'that's all we'll ever need,'" Joanna said. The intent was to keep the little caps at the hospital, using the same ones over and over.

But neither Boss nor Joanna knew how popular the little caps would be with the infants' mothers. Every mother wanted to keep the cap.

Since 1986, Joanna has been knitting about 20 caps a month, one for every newborn, making each cap just a little bit different. December babies get red, green and white caps with little candles. The first baby of the year gets a blue cap with a snowflake. Valentine's Day babies get caps with red hearts and Fourth of July babies get red, white and blue caps.

Joanna spends over 700 hours a year knitting baby caps. It's just one of the few volunteer projects the spry woman has taken on.

"At my age, I need something to do," Joanna said.

Although arthritis in her hands sometimes makes the knitting painful, Joanna doesn't mind.

"It's good for my fingers," she said.

Post office move delayed

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff writer

The hustle and bustle that surrounds the downtown post office will remain as such, at least until the new year.

Originally planned to be open this month, the new, $2.5 million post office on M-66 next to Kmart has been pushed back to a November opening. According to postmaster Jay Wheatley, the new facility now will not be operational until late January of 1998.

"We're having the normal delays you get when you build a facility of this magnitude," Wheatley said.

Wheatley said a series of waits for new supplies will prevent the structure's completion until December. Then the post office needs to train and acquaint their employees with the new building, which adds to the delay of the projected January opening.

Meanwhile, the city of Charlevoix will have its post office for the remainder of the year. The future of a downtown post office, after that, remains unclear.

"While I can agree with the need of a post office in the Charlevoix Township, I have a firm belief that the city of Charlevoix is entitled to one," Mayor Josh Barnes said.

For now, all that will remain behind is a vending machine with postal supplies, which is already in operation at city hall. Barnes holds expectations to have a manned postal station in the city and said that discussions with postal officials have led to a "wait and see" detente in regard to the move's effect on the city.

"I've had a number of people concerned about the move and a number of people without concerns," he said. "I just worry about the people and the businesses downtown. A city tends to build around a post office."

When the post office relocates, it will leave behind a vacant building on Mason Street. The city owns the building, but Barnes said the building will neither be leased nor sold in the immediate future.

While against city hall expanding into the building, he said some city hall business will be moved temporarily into the vacated building this spring, while the interior of the city hall building is being remodeled.

Barnes admitted that no urgency is being placed on a new use for the building because something may be worked out to keep a post office in the city.

"I just can't see how they could ignore a city of this size," Barnes said.

OPINIONS

Laurie Lounsbury

When I told people in other communities that I was returning to Charlevoix to be the Courier editor, their response always had a similar theme:

"Boy, that town will keep you hopping — lots of controversy over there."

"Good luck — you'll need it to keep up with the controversy in Charlevoix."

I guess it's true. Charlevoix has a reputation for being a controversial town.

I think that's great.

Yes, I admit it. I'm fond of controversy.

Like being presented with a plate full of Oreos, I just can't stay away from it, no matter how hard I try.

The word 'controversy' has a most unfortunate negative connotation. Because of the hard sounds of the letters O,R, and C, the word sounds mean and nasty — not unlike the words 'divorce' and 'abortion,' which contain those same hard syllables.

You'll never catch the words Baby, Love, Kiss or Hug crammed with those harsh-sounding letters. It would tarnish their meaning.

So the word 'controversy' gets a bad rap even before we think about its meaning..

Webster's Dictionary defines controversy as "a discussion marked by the expression of opposing views."

Well, now, that's not a bad thing, is it?

I think controversy is healthy. It means people care enough to get involved and express their feelings.

Controversy is what forces people to consider a viewpoint other than their own.

It was controversy that resulted in a beautiful, Earl Young-style band shell that blends in gracefully with the slopes of East Park.

Controversy gave us a new, indoor swimming pool without spending a drop of taxpayers' money.

Ongoing controversy prods our school board into making financially sound decisions while improving our district.

The outcome of controversy is often a better solution than anyone thought of in the first place.

In addition to beautiful lakes and rolling hillsides, controversy is what makes this town so wonderful. It is only after everyone has lavishly offered their varying opinions that decisions are made in the city council chamber room and the school board meetings.

If the word 'controversy' was a softer, fluffy word, maybe people wouldn't find it so offensive.

What if the word 'wuzziedoodle' meant the same thing?

Conversations would sound like this:

"Say, did you hear about the new school board plan? It caused quite a wuzziedoodle at the last board meeting."

"Oh, isn't that nice. I'm sure the wuzziedoodle will help them arrive at a fine solution."

Wuzziedoodle.

We could embrace wuzziedoodle. It sounds so positive.

We are repulsed by controversy. It sounds so negative.

It's been suggested to me that I use this space on the opinion page to write about positive things, not controversial things.

To my way of thinking, I'm doing just that.

Writing about controversial issues is like putting Bactine on an open cut. It stings for a minute, but it cleans the wound and hastens the healing process.

Just think of me as Nurse Ratchett with a bottle of antiseptic lotion.

And the next time folks in town are voicing strong, diverse opinions, don't think of it as controversy.

Think of it as wuzziedoodle.

Letters to the editor

Dobrowolskis thank town for support

Editor:

Tad and Janet Dobrowolski and family would like to thank everyone for all the cards, letters, flowers, food, gifts and donations. We especially thank them for their thoughts, prayers and concern.

We are very grateful for all the people that gave of their time, talents and all around help in our time of need.

Our Sincere Thanks,
The Dobrowolski Family

Scrapbook photo known by local historian

Editor:

I believe the picture in your "Scrapbook" section of the Oct. 1 issue was taken in the 1920's.

The wooded area that now contains cottages would indicate that, and it must have been in the late fall because no boats are moored in front of the Chicago Club boathouses.

It was my father's job at the end of the season to hoist the boats in these boat houses on their cradles and rest them on 12 by 12 oak timbers for the winter.

I have seen more boats on Round Lake than the picture indicates during the fall run of perch to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix).

There were fabulous catches of the so-called yellow bellied perch, some weighing five and six pounds.

Respectfully,
Ralph Hamilton.

Country Club earns praise

Editor:

You all bave heard the saying, "If we were in a perfect world..." well, on Sept. 27, we and many of our local, out-of-state and European guests shared part of a perfect world at the Charlevoix Country Club celebrating our daughter's wedding ceremony and reception held there.

Known to be a difficult person to please, I found the most professional performance of this club's staff, under the direction of Wendie Waha, to be absolutely flawless. The food, the service, the entire club's atmosphere was five star quality. We were made to feel most welcome and comfortable by the club's staff who saw to our many last minute requests willingly and with a smile.

Compliments are deserving also to Sweet Creations for the beautiful and delectable wedding cake. Plain Jane & Co. for her many masterful floral arrangements. Tom Kaufmann and partner for their great mellow and lively music. Brumfield's Photography who filmed this perfect evening with enduring patience and obvious skill.

Our thanks to all of you for making our celebration one we'll remember always.

Sincerely,
Naomi and George

Editor shouldn't have written about a minor

Editor:

I was extremely disappointed in your first editorial as Editor of the Courier. Just because you are now Editor and Chief does not give you the right to publicly humiliate anyone! Freedom of the press is one thing — printing family names and minor children's names is quite another. The entire issue should have been kept within the school, between the parties involved, not editorialized in our local paper.

I too, Ms. Lounsbury, hope that as a mother of teens you never have to be put in a similar situation. My mother advised me many, many years ago, "never say never" when it comes to what or what not your kids will do!

I fully support Coach Volovsek's zero tolerance position, and have been told the team as a whole agreed to it at the beginning of the season. I sincerely hope the school board will adopt such a policy for the sake of our kids. Alcohol and drugs are a serious problem in our community. Adults — everyone of us — need to be role models for kids — we can't talk-the-talk if we're not willing to walk-the-walk!

Sincerely,
C.J. Mansen

Reader outraged by editor

Editor:

I am feeling outraged and betrayed at the "Opinions" article which ran in the Oct. 8 issue of our Charlevoix Courier. I am wondering if you realize the power you possess. The "Power of the Press" can be used to motivate, inspire, inform, and thus cause wonderful positive action when the people may read an article that truly moves them. We may laugh, we may cry — words can do so many things! The words that you the editor, chose to write in the "Opinions" article were indeed thought-provoking — a mischievous musing of words, that had the power to hurt someone deeply. That someone was publicly named, her parents also! Apparently you have the right to do this. You the editor decided to run ions article, you also the author. What has happened to a sense of decency, privacy, and a respect for others?

As a parent, I know that my children are not perfect. They may or may not do what any other child may or may not do. We do our best to teach them what we know is right, and hope they make the right choices. We love them — we want what's best for them! However, they will make mistakes — they will disappoint us at times. We also will make mistakes and disappoint them sometimes, but God willing, we hang in there together. We keep loving each other, and we do our best to right the wrong. We learn so much from this life we're given together as a family. I feel it doesn't matter whose family may be involved — we all have a right to privacy in how we deal with our problems — everyone has that right — that is of course, unless it's taken away by an article written in the local newspaper, which feels they have a right which supersedes our individual rights. In Ms. Lounsbury's words "it may not be fair, it's just the way it is," when it comes to the telling of a public figure, and his family.

I read the Courier every week. My children and friends have "made the paper" always a positive and good thing for us. However, when I see the power of the words expressed, to our town and beyond, that can hurt and embarrass, I feel betrayed! Please, no more name calling and unpleasant town gossip articles!!!

I am one of the people who has not lost faith in Mr. Swenor. He is a kind and caring person, and I am very sure we can totally trust our children to his care. We can trust that the decisions he makes in regard to our children, are the same loving decisions he makes for his own family at home.

Sincerely,
Nancy Whitley

Welscott, who came in May to help open the pool, will return to the academic world to obtain a master's degree. He plans to remain on the job until Nov. 3.

The organization also needs water safety instructors, additional certified lifeguards and office help. Those interested may call Dr. Hansen at 547-0436.

Wedding

Melissa Ann Norman and Dave Collins, both of Charlevoix, were married Aug. 16 in a lakeside ceremony at the Depot Beach Pavilion.

The bride is the daughter of Donald Norman of Cheboygan and Gloria and Josh Barnes of Charlevoix.

The groom is the son of Dennis Collins of Charlevoix and Audrey and Ray McMullin of Petoskey.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Mayor Josh Barnes, the bride's stepfather.

She was given in marriage by her father, Donald Norman.

The bride wore an ivory, A-line gown with lace on the bodice.

The bride's mother made the veil and bouquet of wildflowers and a sunflower. The bride also carried four white roses; one for each of her grandmothers, one for her Aunt Jill and a fourth for her cousin Robbie, all of whom were very close to the bride.

Maid of honor was Laura Arntz, cousin of the bride, of Harbor Beach, Mich.

She wore a simple, loose flowing dress of periwinkle and carried wildflowers with sunflowers.

Flower girl was Abbey Barnes of Charlevoix, niece of the bride. She wore a dress matching the maid of honor.

The best man was Paul Loucks of Petoskey, friend of the groom.

A reception at the Charlevoix Yacht Club was given by the bride's family. The rehearsal dinner was hosted at the groom's mother's home.

The bride is currently attending school to become a child care worker, while the groom works at Continental Plastics of Petoskey.

Reading volunteers needed for kids

Have you ever considered becoming a volunteer?

The Charlevoix Elementary School has initiated a new volunteer program called STAR. It involves working with children in first and second grade who need extra help in reading. You may have already heard about the program.

This is to inform you how easy it is to be a volunteer. The school is in need of parents, grandparents, and other members of the community. They especially want male volunteers to work with many of the boys.

If you think you would like to become a volunteer and are a little apprehensive, maybe the following details will help you decide.

A Volunteer Handbook will be given out to explain volunteer work.

You do not need higher education —

You do not need specific skill training —

You do need to have a love for children —

You do need to want to experience the joy of helping —

There will be folders for each student with everything you need for the child in that folder. Training sessions will take place.

This program will continue through May. We need the help of many people if this program is going to work. Please think about becoming a "buddy" for these children, so there can be "Success To All Readers" the meaning of STAR.

If you would like to volunteer, call Joan Carson, STAR coordinator, at 547-9881.

Harry Ladd

Harry W. Ladd, 90, of Charlevoix, died Tuesday, Oct. 7 in Lilburn, Georgia. Mr. Ladd was a retired local accountant.

Mr. Ladd had been living in Georgia the past two years, first with his son and then at Plantation South Assisted Living Facility of Lawrenceville, Georgia.

A memorial service was held at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix Friday, Oct. 10. The Rev. Phillip Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated. Mr. Ladd's body was cremated.

Mr. Ladd was born May 28, 1907, in Gaylord, to Arthur W. and Nora (Shockley) Ladd.

As a young boy, his family lived in Roscommon and as a teenager he lived in Pontiac, where he graduated from high school.

While he was a youth, he spent his summers with his grandmother, Ada Shockley of Charlevoix, who managed the dining room at Sequanota Club on Lake Charlevoix.

Mr. Ladd earned a masters degree in business administration from the University of Michigan in 1931. On Jan. 26, 1934, he married May Lytle and in 1935 they moved from Pontiac to Charlevoix, making their home on State Street and later on Park Avenue.

Mr. Ladd's employment in Charlevoix included cashier for Charlevoix County State Bank, business manager of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, bookkeeper at Freedman Artcraft, field auditor for the Michigan Employment Security Commission and bookkeeper for the Beaver Island Boat Company.

As a Charlevoix resident, Mr. Ladd played softball for many years, enjoyed fishing and gardening, was treasurer for the Charlevoix boy scout troop and was an avid sports fan of the Rayder teams. He was conscious of physical fitness before it was popular, regularly swimming in Lake Michigan until he was 84.

Younger residents may remember him riding his bicycle about town until he was 80. He was a volunteer weather observer for the U.S. Commerce Department Weather Bureau, recording the daily temperature extremes and the precipitation. His records include temperatures from 1947 through 1994.

Mr. Ladd was interested in genealogy and was a ninth generation descendant of Daniel Ladd, who came to Massachusetts from England in 1634. Mr. Ladd had three ancestors who were Revolutionary War soldiers. Mr. Ladd's mother was descended from the New England Saville and Ellery families; William Ellery, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Ladd was preceded in death by his wife, May,

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

I met a man from Denver who is the vice-president of design at a company that builds custom kitchens. He is marrying a local girl next fall and they came to ask my help in pulling things together. In asking about Ken's background, he told me the most intriguing story. It seems what parents let their children do when they are young can influence them for their whole lives.

You see, Ken's dad always encouraged him to work with wood. He gave him some basic tools early on, but basically said that if he wanted to do any building, he had to do it from the materials he found in his dad's scrap pile. That meant that if he needed nails, he had to pull out old ones from other places and straighten them out.

You could tell how real the story was from listening to Ken. He said for many years his dad would never let him go with him to buy building supplies, but one day he did. On that day, he made a great discovery and couldn't wait to share it with his dad. As his father was settling his account, young Ken brought him a box in great awe and wonder.

"Look Dad, you can actually buy nails that are already straight!"

When I hear stories like that, I cannot help but rejoice in my heart at what love can do, not just the love a child clearly has for his father, but the love God has for me and for you. He takes us where we are, and if we are willing, lifts us up to where we need to be.

It amazes me how anyone could think that God is indifferent toward us or has forgotten or ignored anyone of us as individuals. The signs of His loving presence surround us every day. His Word is filled with reminders that He is very aware and very sensitive to the various trials and challenges we may face.

One of my favorite reminders of that is the precious story of Jesus and Lazarus, the brother of Mary and Martha. If you are a trivia person, that's the story where the shortest verse in the Bible can be found: "Jesus wept." The fact that he wept ought to say a great deal. Lazarus may just have been Jesus' best friend, closest confidant — the one person He could relax with. His death saddened Jesus. Mary and Martha both felt Jesus could have prevented it when it happened. Little did they realize what the Lord had in mind.

If you know the story, you know that death did not hold Lazarus in its clutches for long. Jesus called him forth from the grave and gave us a message of hope that lasts forever. You see, the Lord would love nothing better than to call you forth from the clutches of sin. He would love nothing better than to set you free of the bonds of fear. It would thrill Him beyond words to help you let go of past regrets forever. He already committed His very all to do just that for each of us. It's up to us to be willing to receive such care.

Like my new friend Ken's childhood memories, more of us have been working with bent nails in our lives for a lot longer than we might care to admit. When Jesus went to the cross, he went there to show us that it was possible to put the pieces of our lives together with new and straight nails, holding our hopes and dreams on a firm and right track. Why settle for working with scraps when God loves you enough to give you everything you need to build your dreams with brand new courage and peace?

Fireworks victims take life one day at a time

family boat has been winterized and helpers are completing a renovation project Mark started before his death.

The emotional recovery process is still daunting.

"It's a struggle every day," said Debbie Yager. Tears come to her eyes when she talks about Mark. Her 15-year-old daughter, Katie, also weeps quietly at the mention of her father.

"There's not a day that goes by that we don't do this," Debbie said of their tears.

Debbie was deprived the opportunity to say goodbye to her husband. She was knocked unconscious from the blast and received injuries of her own.

"It was so hard for me, being knocked out and not knowing what happened to him until I woke up and they told me he was dead," Debbie said.

Shrapnel tore the cartilage in Debbie's knee and her shoulder was also grazed by flying debris.

"I was hit with something that was very forceful in the arm," Debbie said.

Since her knee has been unstable, Debbie exercised in swimming pool therapy for five weeks and just started regular physical therapy.

Like the other survivors, Debbie wanted to know how the other victims were doing. She smiled to hear that Tad Dobrowolski is able to crack jokes. The Yagers and Dobrowolskis knew one another from attending the same church.

"We'd see them in church," Debbie said. "We'd sit about six rows behind them with our families. It will never be that way again."

For Debbie, the loss of her husband marks the end of 32 years together. The two went to grade school together, became high school sweethearts, then married.

They would have celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary last Saturday, Oct. 11.

While the Yagers are receiving private grief counseling, their loss still weighs heavily on them. Their oldest daughter, Megan, 18, is attending Michigan State University, but has difficulty being away from the family right now. Debbie arranged for Megan to room with Becky Blissett, another student from Charlevoix.

"It's nice for her to have a roommate who understands what she's going through," Debbie said.

Their only son, Mark, 16, has taken the loss of his father the hardest.

Seven-year-old Emily — perhaps because of her youth — is more resilient than the other children, Debbie said.

"Mark was really good with kids," Debbie said. "He really cared. My kids have a lot to be proud of."

Tad Dobrowolski also remembers Mark as a kind, caring individual. Their paths in life first intersected when Tad's son, Chris, was being treated for a cancerous brain tumor. Mark, a radiation technician, performed some of the radiation treatments on Chris.

Having gone through that frightening time seven years ago, when his son's life was in jeopardy, Tad said he finds his current situation more manageable.

"That was far more devastating to me than this," Tad said. "That's the worst thing that happened in my life. This is an easy second."

Chris is doing well and cancer-free today. Tad is also doing well, after nearly losing his life from the explosion.

"I didn't expect to make it," Tad said. "When it happened, I looked at Janet and said, 'It's been a good 26 years.'"

Tad will live to enjoy more years with his wife, Janet, and his three boys; Chris, 25, Adam, 18 and Kyle, 13.

Smiling from his wheelchair and tapping his good leg, Tad said, "I enjoy life. If I have to sit here with an arm and a leg gone to see my kids, well then, fine."

Although he still has a long way to go, Tad is ahead of schedule in his recovery process. He was fitted for his first prosthetic leg last Thursday. Doctors had initially predicted it would be eight months before he would be ready for a prosthetic device.

"I guess they like the way I'm a patient, trying to get myself together," Tad said.

A key to Tad's recovery is the help he got from friends and the Venetian Fireworks Victims' Fund while he spent 30 days in the hospital. Doctors wouldn't release Tad until his home was handicapped accessible.

Like a swarm of industrious ants, friends came to his home and built a wooden ramp to the back door, widened interior doorways for wheelchair access and raised the floor of the back room to be level with the rest of the house. A furnace was installed so that Tad will no longer have to chop wood for the wood-burning stove that used to heat the house.

"Because of them doing that, I got out of the hospital earlier," Tad said.

"I've never liked people doing things for me, so it's almost embarrassing. They all took care of the things I needed to be functional. I didn't need to worry about it, which was good."

Of the help he received from the Venetian Fireworks Victims' Fund volunteers, Tad said, "It was a phenomenal thing they did. I hope someday I can help someone else like that."

Phantom pain and physical therapy are an integral part of Tad's life right now. The phantom pain is an eerie reminder of the arm and leg he no longer possesses. Physical therapy gives him a positive direction in life.

"I'm going to try my best to get myself back as much as I can," Tad said.

For a man accustomed to working 16 hour days as a chef, being dependent on others is not Tad's cup of tea. He quickly taught himself to tie the shoelace on his sneaker with one hand.

"I wasn't going to have Janet doing everything for me," he said.

Each sliver of progress brings Tad closer to his former, self-reliant way of life.

"Yesterday at physical therapy I got off the floor and into my wheelchair by myself. It was a small victory for me," Tad said.

Accepting the way he looks without two limbs, Tad said, "I'm not a vanity type of person, and that helps. I don't care if people gawk at me."

Most important, Tad is happy to be alive, surrounded by his family and rejoicing in life's little pleasures.

"Look at this beautiful weather," Tad said last week. "If I'd been a dead man, I couldn't have enjoyed this."

Ace Hardware gets new owners

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

The small community atmosphere attracted Mark and Vicky Greyer Beihl to Charlevoix, but that attraction was not the main reason the couple moved here. Ace Hardware needed a new owner, and the couple was more than qualified for the position.

The Greyer Biehls have big plans to improve the Ace Hardware store. They are working to increase stock in the areas of well pump supplies, water-softening and filtration systems. Heating equipment such as boilers and furnaces will also be carried.

The bike department will see new improvements with a new, specialized line of mountain bikes, road bikes, and dirt bikes. Other new stock will include skate-boarding equipment and a wide variety of snow toys such as sleds and toboggans.

An increase in services will also be made. Automatic, computerized engraving will be available along with custom pipe threading. In a guaranteed 24 hours, customers will be able to get screen door, glass door and window repairs completed. Before the new ownership, this service was weekly.

In an effort to make the ownership transition a smooth one, Mike Hilligan, previous owner of Ace Hardware, will stay on staff at the store until Wednesday, Oct. 15.

"I am very pleased to hand over my business to someone who knows what they are doing. The new changes will add a lot to the business," he said. Hilligan owned the store for over 10 years, and is now moving to Cincinnati, where he will work with his brother in the arcade business.

Continuing as the store manager is Mark Rowbothan. He also heads up the bike department and is the "key master."

Rayders head for state finals in golf

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff writer

The Rayder golf team who, earlier in the week took top conference honors, placed second in the regionals. Here Craig Siwarga, Jon Sell, Jason Vincent, Ryan Murdick, and Keith Grunch are presented with their awards. Their second place finish qualified them for the state finals. (Photo by Jamie MacMillan)

While their scores may have looked uneven this week on the links, the Rayder golf team met their expectations by cruising to conference championship last Wednesday before placing second in the regional meet last Friday.

Their second place finish in regionals qualifies the team for this weekend's state tournament in East Lansing.

"We were a little disappointed because after the way we shot Wednesday we felt we could win regionals," junior Keith Grunch said. "Still, we qualified for state and that's what matters."

Indeed, Wednesday was spectacular as the Rayders blew away the field in what was supposed to be a tightly matched event at the Mistwood golf course in Traverse City.

Their team score of 329 bested second place Traverse City St. Francis (354) by 25 strokes. Rayder Ryan Murdick shared top individual honors with Gene Davis of Elk Rapids. Both shot a 77. Grunch shot a 78 and teammate Jason Vincent shot an 81. Murdick, Grunch, and Vincent were placed on the six-man, all conference team along with Davis, Matt Allen of Kalkaska and Mike Pater of Harbor Springs.

Regionals moved the competition to the Gaylord area on the Michawye Pines Golf Course where the stakes, tension and scores all increased.

"For some of our younger players, there was more pressure that second day (regionals) than they had seen before," Vincent said.

Both Vincent and Grunch said the course was one of the tougher ones they had competed on all season, as the fairways were tight with each bordered by wooded areas. Vincent also said that piles of fallen leaves dotted the course, making for some interesting lies of play.

While their team score of 354 was much higher than their performance at the conference meet, it was good for second place, behind Sutton's Bay (342). It also earned them a spot in the state finals. Traverse City St. Francis (356) also advanced.

Grunch shot an 80, which tied for third place in the race for individual honors. He was placed on the all regional team. Davis bested Lee Warren of Newberry in a one-hole playoff for top honors. They tied with a round of 79. Drew Rummel and Chad Kircher, both from Sutton's Bay, equaled Grunch's 80, rounding out the all-regional team.

Completing the Rayders scorecard was Murdick, 86; Vincent, 90; Sell, 98; and Siwarga, 109.

"This team has been real supportive of each other, especially the seniors (Murdick and Vincent)," coach Jim Glynn said. "They are really enjoying their last year of golf together; it's been great being with them."

The state tournament is a two-day affair with 25 teams set to tee-off on Friday. Only the top 12 teams advance to Saturday, with scores carrying over for a final score. The event will be at the East Lansing Forest Acre's east course on the Michigan State University campus. While the Rayders have never played golf into the second day, they are confident their chance is as good as anyone's.

"They are not happy just to be there," Glynn said of his team's psyche going into the weekend. "They want to make a real good showing and put two strong days in a row together."

Rayder football team plays best game yet

The Rayder football team put forth their best effort of the season, only to fall to the Kalkaska Blazers 28-18 last Saturday night.

Trailing 8-6 at the half and 16-12 after three quarters, the Rayders nearly earned the season's first victory, but the Blazers, a big, physical smash-mouth type of team, flexed their muscles on two scoring drives to salt the game away in the fourth quarter.

"It was the most complete game we've played all year," Rayder coach Todd Klinger said. "We didn't give up any big plays and on offense we moved consistently on them."

Colin Carr led the squad with 87 yards on 22 carries while Nate Metiva moved 84 yards on just 12 carries. Steve Felter gained 32 yards on three options and Jeremy Rafacz ran around the ends for 26 yards on five attempts.

"We're real encouraged coming out of there and we're looking forward to homecoming this coming Friday," Klinger said.

The homecoming opponent is Elk Rapids. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Kipke Field.

1977 Rayder football team plans reunion

The 1977 Charlevoix Rayder football team will be having a reunion dinner and celebration starting at 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24 at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Refreshments will be served at 5 p.m., followed by dinner. All players, coaches, cheerleaders and spouses are invited to attend.

After the dinner, the group will attend the Charlevoix-Boyne City home football game, then return to the Knights of Columbus Hall for a post-game celebration.

The 1977 football team was the last Rayder team to enjoy an undefeated season.

For more information, call Tom Jones at 547-4006.

City basketball, volleyball leagues being formed

It's not too late to sign up for the city recreation department's basketball and volleyball leagues. Men's, women's and co-ed teams will be formed.

Registration forms are available daily at the recreation office in city hall. Forms should be returned to the recreation department no later than Oct. 31.

B squad enjoys undefeated season — a first at the Charlevoix Middle School

The Charlevoix Middle School girls' basketball "B" team celebrated their undefeated season last Thursday with a pizza party at the middle school.

"It's the first B squad to have an undefeated team," said coach Bill Dreyer, who helped coach the girls to a 9-0 record season.

Because of their ability, the girls were chosen to play in a non-conference game against Harbor Springs.

One is by land, two is by sea

During last week's incredible weather, Carole Hardman chose to take a nap on the beach near Lake Michigan. Her husband, Al Hardman, preferred sleeping in the shade of a tree on the grass.

They were undisturbed by others who were out strolling on the beach or on the pier during the long stretch of sunny, warm weather.

"You have a beautiful, beautiful place here," said Carole, after she woke up from her nap.

Ace store to offer new products

Mark Greyer Biehl has been in the plumbing and heating business since 1978. Ten years ago, he and his wife opened an Ace Hardware store in Highland, Mich., which they still own. Their Charlevoix store is approximately 2,500 square feet, while their Highland store is 11,000 square feet. Vicky Greyer Biehl said she liked the more laid back atmosphere of the small store.

The Greyer Biehls' three children, Michael, 9, Kevin, 7, and Kelly, 3, were also a big influence in their decision to own the Charlevoix store. Running a smaller store will allow the family to spend more quality time together. Mark Greyer Beihl coaches a soccer team which both sons play on.

Both of the Greyer Biehls' stores belong to an Ace Hardware dealer co-op. There are 5,000 Ace Hardware stores worldwide.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club recently added more members to the Hixson Award roster. They are (standing from left) Harold J. Pletz, Merle Vandenberg, Fritz Puffpaff and Ralph Hamilton (seated).

The club honors their members for outstanding service to the club and community. Charlevoix is one of few Kiwanis Clubs with four Hixson Award members.

St. Mary's School second and third grade students spent the day at the Heritage Celebration held at Clinch Park in Traverse City. The children experienced life in the 1800's, with quilting demonstrations and hands-on demonstrations, such as weaving techniques, as part of the historic day. While in Traverse City, the students visited the dinosaur-exhibit at the Dennos Museum. (Photo courtesy of Rebecca Jeakle)

Charlevoix County Fire Departments recently held their annual water shuttle drill in Boyne City. Departments from the City of Charlevoix, Boyne City, Boyne Valley, Charlevoix Township, Melrose/Chandler Township, East Jordan and Hudson Township practiced together. Many of these departments respond for mutual aid to another fire district during a fire. This drill gives firefighters the opportunity to train together and increase effectiveness at rural fires. # School is closer to new discipline policy

By Jamie MacMillan
Courier reporter

In Charlevoix schools, drinking a beer merits a season-long suspension but poor grades merits a grace period.

In a sentence, that sums up the new student athletic code expected to be passed at a special board of education meeting at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 at the school's central office on Clinton Street.

Students, parents, faculty, and coaches gathered last Wednesday evening to discuss a reformed code of conduct in regard to alcohol, tobacco and drug use.

Differing viewpoints were tossed around, but the predominant notion was the code which suspends an offender for 20 percent of the scheduled games for violations occurring only during the season needed to be revamped with a tougher stance.

"There is a middle group of kids who are wondering, 'Should I or shouldn't I,'" assistant principal Keith Haske said. "They aren't sure what to do and this will give them a little fire."

The new policy suspends anyone caught with beer, cigarettes, or drugs for the remainder of that season's scheduled games. Should any violation occur between seasons or during the summer, the offender is only suspended for 20 percent of the scheduled games. The student will be allowed to play during the next sports' season.

A second violation would merit the same suspension but be lengthened to include half of the following sport season's games. A third violation, and a student will lose eligibility for one full calendar year. Violations are cumulative from the first day of a student's freshmen year. Before any reinstatement after a suspension, a student must follow through on any recommended counseling.

Volleyball coach Brenda Bryan and cross-country coach Ken Plude, while favoring the policy, discussed the need not to just throw someone off the team.

"I would love the chance to still work with that kid," Plude said. "If we're going to make a difference, then it is still my responsibility to help that kid.".

Haske did include language in the final draft which would allow a coach to keep the troubled athlete on the team, but was not swayed by any arguments for leniency because kids will be kids and make mistakes.

While much of the rhetoric involved those students playing sports, the policy is meant to blanket all extra-curricular activities, ranging from band, student council, performing arts, and French club.

In those cases, a first offense will equate to a suspension of 45 school days or 20 percent or scheduled activities from those organizations. Second offense will be a 90 school day suspension or 50 percent of scheduled dates suspension from that group, while a third offense is a full calendar year.

In each case, the student can remain in the class, but must attend the recommended counseling before actually receiving their letter grade.

Students seemed in favor of the new policy.

Senior Erik Halverson had concerns about extending the policy into summer vacation. He said kids would drink and say that it's not a big deal because they just won't play sports. His classmate, Candace Vandergriff pointed out, though, that the dedicated ones would not fall into that mind set.

"There is no perfect foolproof policy," senior Amanda Eaton said. "The high school is just trying to protect us while we're here. After that, our own values will come into play."

Board of education members became convinced with the new policy as the evening wore on.

Scott Boss said at first he was leery of the new policy until the students voiced not only their approval, but their want of a new policy.

Pete Spieles also admitted to being unsure about such a tough policy until a self-disclosure section was added. In the policy, any student who steps forward to admit a wrongdoing will only be suspended for 20 percent of scheduled games. If the wrongdoing happened in between seasons, then no suspension will be handed down.

"For me, it changes the whole policy," Spieles said. "A student can come out, be honest, and say 'I was involved.'"

Haske pointed out that self-disclosure would be null and void if the student comes forward only because they were busted by the police and were just tattling on themselves before the authorities spoke.

During their regular meeting Monday evening, Haske presented to the board an updated academic eligibility policy which would require students to be passing all their courses to remain eligible in athletics. Haske explained that a student would have an eight day grace period to improve any failing grade before being declared ineligible. Haske explained a D-minus is a passing grade.

"I have some problems with the policy," said resident Pete Phillips, who attended both meetings. "A kid smoking a cigarette gets suspended for the season while a kid whose getting a D-minus in school gets to play."

The board decided to delay actionon the policy change until their special meeting at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 16.

Post office knew a lot of homes

By Geoffrey D. Reynolds
Courier Special writer

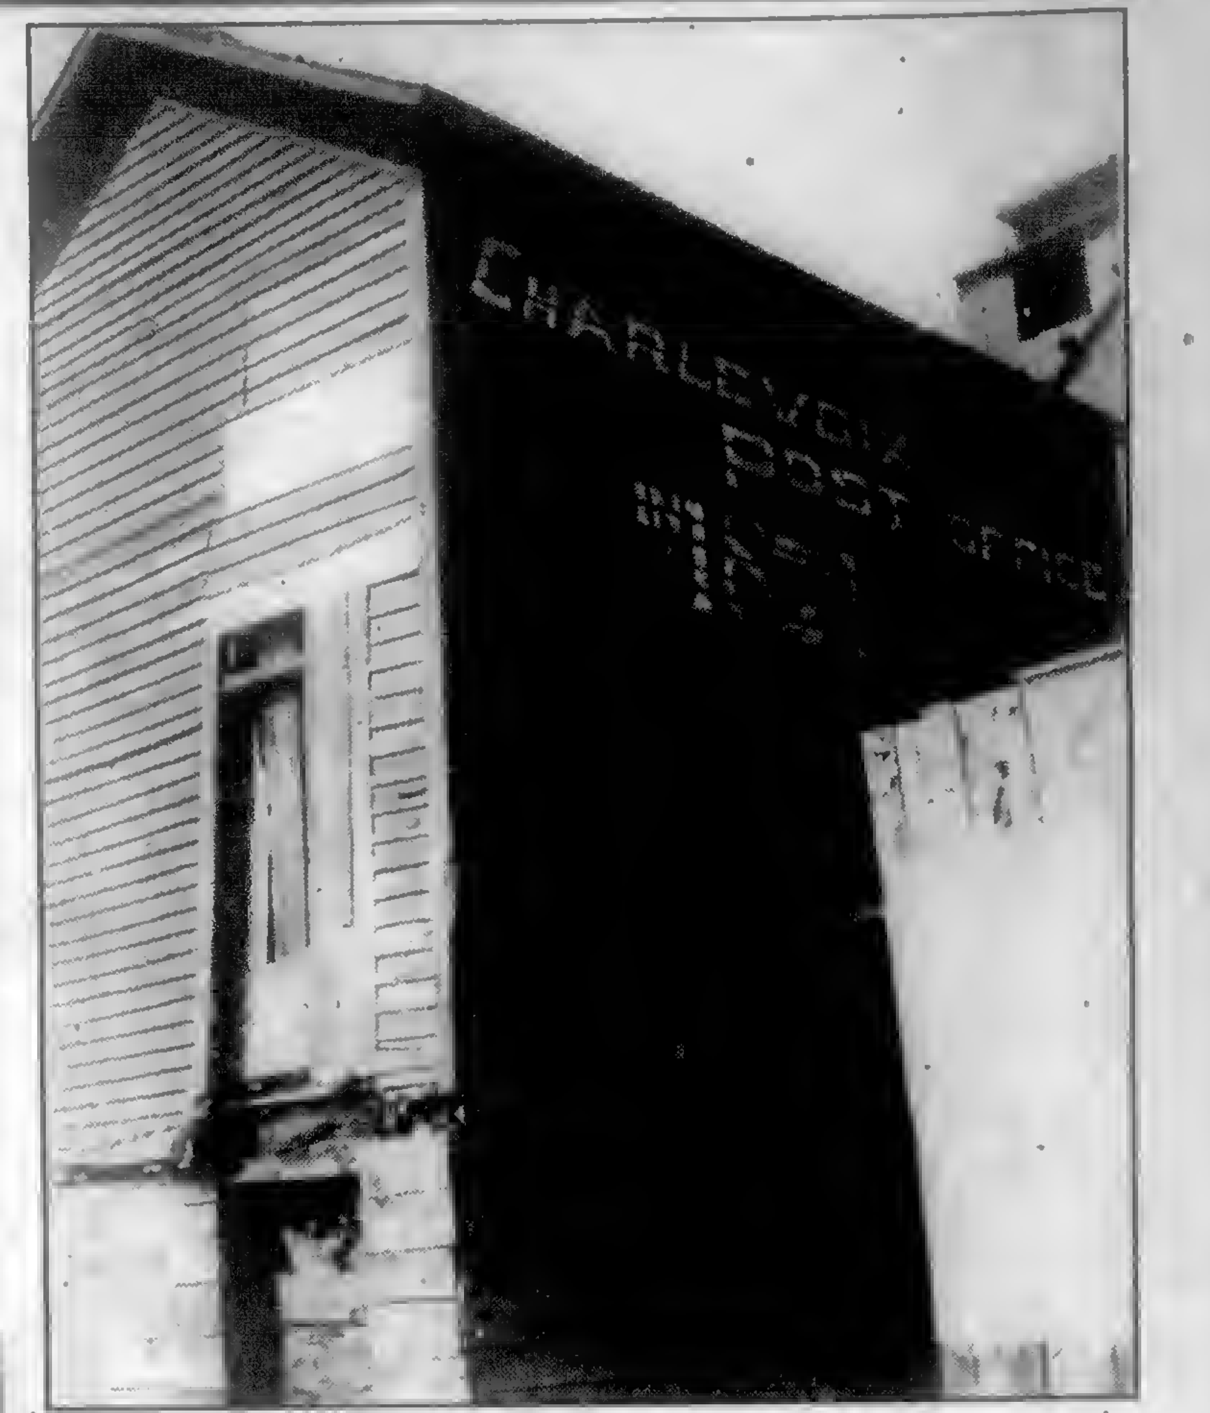
In November, Charlevoix will receive a new post office building and move its operations to the latest spot in a host of locations and colorful postmasters. But this move, for the first time since 1854, will be outside the confines of the city's borders.

According to records available at the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum, Charlevoix established its first post office as early as September, 1854. This date coincides with the arrival of one of our city's earliest settlers and first postmaster, George Preston. Preston, a Strangite Mormon, relocated with his family from Mormon controlled Beaver Island. Service had ceased only once and that occurred between June and September of 1857, under the direction of John Dixon. Reasons for this interruption are unknown.

In the spring of 1867, Nelson Ainslee received the mail contract for service between Charlevoix and Traverse City. Soon after, he appointed Philo Beers, Charlevoix's fifth postmaster, who then promptly established the service out of his home just south of Pine River. That location is now occupied by the Pine River Building. Later, an illness forced Beers to forfeit the postmaster position to Richard Cooper, his Deputy Postmaster. Cooper later moved the office to the Fountain City House in 1870. This building was later removed from the current Pine River Lane. In 1872, Postmaster Willard A. Smith was appointed and the location of the office was relocated to the Charlevoix Sentinel office on Bridge Street. The office remained there until about 1885. Subsequent moves occurred throughout the last half of the 19th century and the first half of the 20th. One such site was the office of the Charlevoix Courier newspaper, then located in what is now known as the Trademark Clothiers store. Other newspapers, such as the Charlevoix Journal and the Charlevoix Democrat also hosted the office.

The current office location has remained constant for the last 41 years. This building was dedicated in June of 1956 and was the center of attention for a day-long celebration. Postmaster Peter Timmer and his staff of 15 were treated to a parade, formal addresses from local civic leaders and later presented the key to the city.

If you would like to learn more about the Charlevoix Post Office or other interesting Charlevoix history, call 547-0373 to make an appointment to use the historical materials at the Harsha House Museum.



When Willard A. Smith was appointed Postmaster in 1871 he moved the post office to the Charlevoix Sentinel building on Bridge Street, where it remained until the office was moved to a building in the vicinity of the old state bank building in the late 1880's.

Write-in race is on

By Laurie Lounsbury

Third ward residents will have a chance to vote for a city council representative instead of having one appointed for them.

A.J. Witthoeft, 31, of 102 Belvedere Ave., and Charmaine Jill Pieha, 59, of 122 Belvedere Ave., will be running as a write-in candidates.

A third ward council seat was vacated by Bruce Reid when he withdrew from the race. Reid's name will still appear on the ballot, but he will resign if inadvertently elected. Had no one filed to run as a write-in candidate, the council would have appointed someone to the third ward seat.

"I want to bring in an open mind and a younger, positive feel to the council."

— A.J. Witthoeft, on his approach to city council

Both Reid and Mayor Josh Barnes are supporting Witthoeft as a candidate.

"I'm supporting him simply because I think he's an excellent candidate," Barnes said. "I will continue my support despite the arrival of other candidates on the scene."

Witthoeft said he's planned on running for city council for some time. He currently serves on the planning commission.

"I decided to start on the planning commission," Witthoeft said. "Now that I have a good idea of how the planning commission works, I'm ready for the next step — to be on the city council."

Indicating a desire to continue in city politics, Witthoeft said he would also con-

1977 football Rayders were last team to go undefeated

By Jamie MacMillan

Back in the Fall of 1977, Jimmy Carter was president, people were abuzz with the new sci-fi flick Star Wars, grooving to Fleetwood Mac's "Rumors," stunned by the demise of Elvis, and the football gods were smiling on the team from Charlevoix.

Regularly using late game heroics, the Rayders streaked that season to an unblemished 9-0 record.

The late 1970's were heady times for the Rayder football program which, at one point, won 15 straight games. The meat of that streak, sandwiched over three seasons, was the undefeated 1977 team. Twenty years later it remains as the last Rayder squad to go without a defeat.

"Our core of seniors in the '77 season had two seasons of varsity ball under our belt and that made a difference," Kip Cinnamon, tackle and co-captain of the '77 team recalled. "The team was built instead of just happening."

The team had depth, with 45 Rayder players on varsity, and overall they all could ring your bell.

"The thing I remember about that team is how physical they were," Roger Gowell who was an assistant coach for the team said. "Even in practice, it was sometimes more physical than the games."

That was, in large part, due to defensive coordinator Pras Presnall's group of junk yard dogs. The dogs were a unit created each

U.S. Representative Bart Stupak (D) may have said it best when he said, "I ask everyone here to share the complete memory of the evening — Not only the bright flash of light from the explosion, but the warm, glowing effect of the heroes that night."

Stupak was addressing the throng of citizens in the high school gym who gathered Monday to pay tribute to the many people who performed heroically during the Venetian fireworks accident.

Mayor Josh Barnes opened with remarks about the Coast Guard and their reaction to the incident that occurred July 26.

"I'm proud to have personally witnessed the prompt and professional response of the United States Coast Guard," Barnes said. "It was absolutely perfect."

Barnes also thanked "Our neighbors throughout the hills and valleys of northern Michigan who came to our aid."

Along with the Coast Guard, the Charlevoix police, fire department and emergency workers and the Michigan State Police were recognized.

Former Acacia crewman Thomas Henning received the Coast Guard Medal for heroism during peacetime.

"He tended to the most seriously injured and is credited for saving the lives of at least two people," said Admiral Roger Rufe, who presented the award.

Henning was off duty at the time of the accident, visiting friends in Charlevoix.

No more sounds of silence

High school students will record the music they make

By Laurie Lounsbury
Editor

When Ken Paul was eight years old, his grandfather gave him a tape recorder for a present.

"When I got it, I knew this was what I was going to do," Paul said.

So, in spite of pressure to "get a real job," Paul followed the music in his heart and went into the sound engineering business.

After achieving success in his field, he came home to share the wealth — and his expertise.

Using spare pieces of equipment from Kengineering, his sound studio in Chicago, Paul returned to his home town of Charlevoix to build a sound studio at Charlevoix High School.

"Life's been awfully good to me," Paul said while standing in the newly created studio at the high school. "I decided it was time to give something back."

It was two years ago, when Paul returned to Charlevoix for his 20th high school reunion, that he got the idea to do something for his old alma mater.

Paul used to play the trombone in the high school band under the direction of Gary Stutzman. Wandering down memory lane at his class reunion took him to the old band room, which looked much the same as it did 20 years ago.

Paul decided the band room facility needed an injection of modern technology.

After speaking to a few friends and customers in the industry, he quickly came up with the equipment needed to round out his donated pieces and build a sound studio.

The rest of Paul's donation is his time to help train students to utilize the room.

"To just give them the equipment wouldn't do any good," Paul said. "You have to make the commitment to see it through to the finished product."

Paul's inspiration to do something for his home town school came from his father, the late Jerry Paul. Jerry was a 1954 Charlevoix High School graduate who played the sousaphone in the band. After high school, Jerry actively volunteered to help the community.

"He never had any time for himself because he was always giving to others," Ken said.

"Dad believed in Charlevoix a lot. After meeting a few of the kids here, I believe in Charlevoix a lot too."

Students Adam Laucher, C.J. Winnell and Caleb Levengood were the first recruits to learn how to work the sound studio.

The young men already have plans to put the room to good use.

After they master the mixing board, band concerts and performing arts music will be turned into CDs, which will be sold in the community.

"It will be great for fund raisers," Levengood said.

After the students record the music, Paul will turn it into a finished CD.

Beyond using the room for students' musical recordings, Paul has stipulated that the room be available to everyone in town.

"There's an amazingly rich pool of musical talent here," Paul said. "This is an opportunity to preserve the musical culture of Charlevoix."

Band director Rafe Rittenhouse is thrilled to have the new studio.

"It's incredible," Rittenhouse said. "It came as a blast out of nowhere and it will have a positive effect on everyone."

The sound studio will be dedicated to Jerry Paul, who died in 1987.

Witthoeft, Picha both run as write-in candidates

sider running for mayor in the future.

Witthoeft said he brings no axes to grind or personal agendas to fill to the council.

"I want to come into position without any blinders on," he said. "I want to bring in an open mind and a younger, positive feel to the council."

Witthoeft moved to Charlevoix with his family in 1975, when he was in fourth grade. He has always been active in community events, donating his time to projects such as the Venetian Fireworks Victims' Fund.

"I've always been very community aware," Witthoeft said.

Witthoeft works in the family business, Charlevoix Electrical Services. His wife, Michelle, works at LexaLite International Corp. They have two children; Taylor, 8, and Mikaela, 5.

A.J. Witthoeft

Charmaine Jill Picha is a Charlevoix native who wants to give local citizens representation.

"The locals never seem to have a good voice in government and I think it's time they did," Picha said.

Picha would like to see the millage rate kept low while continuing to work on the city's infrastructure, including new streets and sidewalks.

Jill Picha

Better maintenance at the city cemetery is also something Picha would pursue, if elected. Eventually, she would like to see the road going through the cemetery blacktopped. Picha favors more frequent leaf and grass pick-ups. She also said she'd like to see the city trees trimmed more frequently.

Picha is married to John Picha and has four grown children; Casey Culbertson, Cristin (Culbertson) Alpert, Rick Ross and Michael Picha. She also has four grandchildren.

Election day will be Tuesday, Nov. 4.

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

By Edith Gilbert

We are used to having new people moving in and out of Charlevoix, and usually they make little impact on our community. Francis "Brownie" Flanders is a rare exception.

From the moment Brownie accepted the position as President and Chairman of the Charlevoix County State Bank five years ago, he has wholeheartedly thrown himself into the numerous concerns of Charlevoix and its people. Among other activities, he has supported the Charlevoix Historical Society by donating old bank papers, records and files dating back from the late 1800's. But first, he wrote to the Historical Society in Lansing and learned the cut-off date for sharing this information! This historical material is now being enthusiastically researched by local families. He also underwrote the publication of the popular Charlevoix book, Summer Resort Life, Tango Teas and All. For this and other numerous endeavors, he received the singular honor for a newcomer, the Presidents Award from the Chamber of Commerce, last year.

As he now faces retirement, he looks back on the last unsettled five years with assured calmness.

"When one goes through a major setback, you don't sweat the small stuff," he readily admits.

Nor did he when, shortly after taking office, the bank merged with the First State Bank and changed its name to CB North. Subsequently, it was sold on June 30 to a Flint-based bank and went through another name change to Citizens Bank. Brownie ultimately was in charge of 75 people located in 10 offices ranging from Beaver Island to Traverse City.

As if this professional turmoil wasn't enough, Brownie's private life, according to him, has been even more exciting. Widowed after 37 years of marriage — in 1993, he met and married Susan Wilson, mother of a teenage daughter, Kelly, who now attends the University of Michigan, and the little family settled in Charlevoix. Another momentous adjustment was a bout with cancer. Brownie cheerfully calls himself a cancer survivor.

He came by the nickname Brownie honestly, since his mother's maiden name was Brownell. Born in Flint, raised in Oscoda, and a graduate of Michigan State, Brownie has been in Michigan banking for 40 years. He taught economics, accounting, money and banking, and commercial law at the Alpena Community College for seven years.

What does retirement mean for a man like Brownie? The whole wide world is now his oyster!

For starters, he describes his recent boat trip on a friend's 49 foot Grand Banks trawler. Before Labor Day, they cruised from Round Lake to Frankfort, on to Cheboygan, Chicago and down the Illinois river to the Mississippi, ending in St. Louis. On Nov. 1, the Flanders will fly to St. Louis and continue their trip to Mobile, Alabama, Fort Myers, Fla., through Lake Okachobe and end up in Green Turtle Cay in the Bahamas by Dec. 1. However, the trip will be interrupted by a brief detour north again to go deer hunting for 10 days at the family's 640 acre camp near Harrisville, Michigan.

After that, Brownie may volunteer for six months as an administrator in Beijing Asian Children's Hospital, with Project Hope for the Peace Corps. Or he may become a consultant to business, but whatever he decides, he is eagerly looking forward to traveling and spending quality time with six grandchildren, four children and their spouses.

Wherever the future takes him, he still looks forward to Charlevoix being his adopted home, and Charlevoix looks forward to having a man like Francis "Brownie" Flanders being a welcome member of its community.

Letters to the editor

Editor owes apology to Swenor family

Editor:

The majority of us consider Charlevoix to be a unique community. As much as we would like Charlevoix to be a perfect place to live, we all realize that Charlevoix is not problem free. Unfortunately we, like so many other communities, have young people who, because of peer pressure or bad judgment, occasionally experiment with drugs, alcohol or tobacco. These kids must be held accountable for their actions. But that does not mean that we are to castigate the families of these young people. Good strong families are not immune from this scourge. When one of our families experiences a setback, those of us who know them should lift them up with encouragement and support. We must not engage in finger-pointing or some other form of degradation. Generally speaking most of us realize that but by the grace of God, we could be going through a similar situation.

The above is stated to preface my address of Laurie Lounsbury's disgusting and destructive editorial in the Courier concerning the Swenor family. Her editorial was a classic example of someone being essentially right in her statements, but wrong in her inappropriate use of a medium, demonstrating a complete lack of discretion.

We have witnessed what a destructive influence a wayward press can have on our nation. We absolutely do not want that irresponsible, negative and destructive reporting in our local newspaper. We expect a much higher standard. An apology is due the Swenor family.

Parents the problem with school athletics

Editor:

Welcome to Charlevoix the beautiful!

Your editorial regarding the actions of a teacher-parent with an erring offspring was commendable even though the delivery contained a "tread softly" touch.

It's difficult to imagine a teacher, caught up in such an unfortunate situation, seeking "fine-line relief" to ward off their child's penalty for a "major infraction" of the most basic of all rules in athletics. Evidently ethics, character, sportsmanship and conduct stipulations are only applicable to others. Teacher's families are exempt!

The most often complaint voiced to me by teachers, as my own children were growing up, was

Events in brief

Eastern Star meeting shows club is solvent

Worthy Matron Dorothea Kelley presided at the Oct. 8 meeting of the Order of Eastern Star, Charlevoix Chapter 72.

Annual reports were given by all officers, which showed the chapter is solvent and that it presently has 130 members, of which 31 are life members.

The 131st session of the Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, State of Michigan, called the Treasure Heritage Session, will be in Grand Rapids Oct. 14-16.

Ghost ship returns

United States Coast Guard Cutter Acacia, located at the Charlevoix Bridge Park mooring facilities, will be hosting a Halloween "Ghost Ship" from 6-9 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 31.

The event is open to persons of all ages and children under the age of 6 should have an adult escort. Any businesses interested in donating costumes, decorations, candy, or other ghoulish accessories can contact HS2 Daniel Gambino at 547-4447 for more information.

The Acacia recently returned from Escanaba and is back at its moorings at the base of Bridge Park.

In 1996, the Acacia was unable to host this popular event due to operational commitments requiring the cutter's presence in Cleveland, Ohio.

A bone chilling event is in store for all!

Michigan submarine veterans to meet in Charlevoix

The Michigan Chapter of U.S. Submarine Veterans of WW II will hold a fall meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25 at the Weathervane Terrace Conference Room.

For more information, contact Violet at the Weathervane Terrace Hotel at 547-9955.

"How can we have discipline in the classroom if the parents won't back us up?" The coach involved is most likely asking the same question today — unless he or she has "given up" and returned to teaching.

Two of my good friends are retired teacher-coaches. They both retired as teachers—not coaches. I questioned them about this and remarked that the kids must have been more than they could handle. "Nope!" they both replied, "The kids were never a problem, it was the parents we couldn't take!"

Perhaps the parent-teacher involved may want to reconsider all the facts and become the "solution" rather than the "problem".

Thanks again, guys! You did a great job and a great service to the community.

Swim lessons start for kids

Fourth and fifth grade students from Charlevoix Elementary School began nine weeks of water safety lessons Monday, Oct. 20 at the Charlevoix Community Pool.

The students were under the direction of David Smith and the watchful eyes of volunteer Coast Guardsmen from the U.S. Coast Guard Station.

Other volunteers from the elementary school Parent Teacher Organization will drive the students to the pool and assist in the locker rooms.

All expenses for the sessions, eventually to be given for all elementary students, are paid by a grant from Glen's Markets.

"This is a prime example of people in Charlevoix working together to make sure all children now have the opportunity to learn how to be safe around water and enjoy water sports," said Steve Hansen, president of the pool board.

Some changes in the pool schedule were made to accommodate the staff shortage. Call the pool at 547-0982 to verify swim periods.

week to simulate the new opposition's defense. Presnall would whip the unit into a frenzy and give the first "O" (offensive team) a run for their money.

"The competition in practice was more wicked than in the games," team member and quarterback Jim Alger said.

Talent dominated the team. Nine Rayders earned spots on all-conference teams, including fullback/nose tackle Tom Jones, who also made the class "C" all state team and the Detroit Free Press' "Dream Team" for his nose tackle play. Running back Greg Krueger rushed for 1,198 yards, a still-standing school record, while the swarming defense forced 36 turnovers and sacked the opposition for three safeties.

More than anything, though, a karma of sorts enveloped the Rayders that fall, leading them to four, fourth quarter comebacks.

Against Grayling, Cheboygan, Gaylord and Petoskey the Rayders trailed by at least one touchdown as the fourth quarter began. Each time, however, the Rayders sailed to victory.

The Rayders ended the year with a number one ranking, but, because of a flimsy computer formula, they did not qualify for the state tournament. The oversight didn't take anything away from what they did that season on the gridiron.

"I have such a range of memories," Cinnamon said. "We found out what it takes to be a champion."

Those memories will be toasted and retold this weekend as members and supporters from the squad will converge in Charlevoix for a reunion. Coming from various points in Michigan, Colorado, North Carolina, and Washington D.C., the weekend kicks off with a dinner at the Knights of Columbus Hall 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24. After dinner, they will head to Kipke Field to watch the present day Rayders battle with Boyne City. The 1977 team will be honored at halftime and afterward reconvene at the Knights of Columbus Hall for a post-game celebration.

Crop Walk a big success

With the weather co-operating and with one of the nicest fall days imaginable, the 1997 Charlevoix County Crop Walk turned out to be a huge success.

With preliminary reports now in, Marge Teske, East Jordan chairperson, reported 45 walkers and pledges turned in totaling $4,061. Diana Walls, chairperson of the Boyne City portion of the Crop Walk, reported 50 walkers and $3,750 earned. Kay Smith and Mary Helen Riggle of Charlevoix turned in receipts of $7,500 from 116 walkers. This tally shows the 1997 goal of $14,000 was exceeded with a total earned in the county of $15,311.

The ladies would like to extend their thanks to all who participated and hope that even more walkers will turn out in 1998. The money will go to help feed the world's hungry, with 25% of the money earned here returned to be shared by the three food pantries in these communities.

Thanks, too, to the various pastors in these communities who promoted the Crop Walk in their churches and some of whom participated in the walk itself.

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

One of my students at North Central Michigan College this term was born in Laos. Ma Yang was three years old when the Vietnam War was going on and he still has some remarkable memories of fleeing through jungles and swamps to freedom. Though he speaks seven Asian languages quite well, he is just working on his English. His phrasing is very basic and almost child-like..

The assignment was to write a position paper, an essay on an issue that you have strong convictions about. Ma chose to write against smoking. When I read his essay, his logic was so simple and basic that it stopped me cold.

He wrote of chimneys and smokestacks. He reminded us how they all vented upwards toward the heavens. Then he talked about human beings and our noses. He pointed out how they all vented downward toward the ground. It was what came next that got to me. With unmistakable clarity and innocence, Ma said if God had intended for humans to smoke, he would have made their noses vent upwards toward the sky, just like chimneys and smokestacks.

Didn't somebody somewhere once write, "Out of the mouths of babes..." Now, a lot of people I know would jump in here and say, preacher, you know there's far more to it than that. But is there? Smoking is a habit, just like a lot of things that we do in life. And what's bad about a lot of those habits is that we do them without thinking. If we really did think about them, we might just decide that we don't necessarily need to do them.

Don't get excited. This is not an anti-smoking column. That's between you, your body and the good Lord. It is a column designed to remind you that we make an awful lot of things in life far more complicated than they need to be. Having a relationship with God is one of them.

A fellow named Nicodemus visited Jesus late one night and, in their conversation, a now-famous phrase was born.

"Marvel not that I say ye must be born again."

Jesus, in essence, was telling Nicodemus that he had made life too complicated. For faith to really be meaningful and alive, it is supposed to be child-like and basic.

For some reason or another, the older we get, the more complex we believe things have to be and because of that, we aren't as willing to trust or take things on faith like we should. Why? Your body may change and mature. Your education may find you wiser and more aware. But inside most of us, there is still a child in need of nurturing, encouragement and support. That's one reason why God is known as our heavenly Father. That's one reason why even grown-ups have been known to sing, "Yes, Jesus loves me!" That's one reason why Sunday after Sunday, worshiping with God's family ought to be the high point of your week.

Yes, there are creeds and catechisms. Each denomination has its own unique heritage. But the bottom line has always been anchored in simple, child-like trust. It all rests in knowing Jesus, and getting to know Him is the easiest thing of all. He says, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock, if anyone opens the door, I will come in and sup with him and he with me." Just like my student, Ma, spoke of chimneys venting upward, your heart naturally vents upward. It seeks and desires the closeness that can only come from knowing God.

Country Club honored with special employee

By Jamie MacMillan

Last week, people across the state of Michigan recognized "Investing in Ability Week," a promotion of businesses employing people with disabilities.

The focus of the week, according to Jama Moffett of Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services, was to promote people's abilities and not focus on their perceived disabilities.

To that end, Moffett's organization presented the Charlevoix Country Club and Kelly May of Charlevoix awards of recognition for championing the cause.

May, who has a developmental disability, worked for the country club this summer as part of the club's service crew, doing bussing, cleaning and other club chores.

"She did a number of different things," country club general manger Ron Vrainicki said. "It was hard work — she had a big area of responsibility to cover."

"Investing in Abilities" week dates back to 1988. Moffett said her organization takes a different approach to placing those with disabilities into the work force. The typical placement strategy involves finding a business with a hole to fill and simply hiring for the job. Moffett, though, said her organization tries to focus on the individuals' interest and abilities to pinpoint possible employment. They go on job tours to see first hand if a particular job would hold interest.

"Our placements are only limited by what our clients are interested in," Moffett said. "It's really less of a gamble for employers because they know they are getting someone who is motivated with a good attitude."

Figures released from the U.S. Census Bureau show an increase in employment of those with severe handicaps from 23.3 percent in 1991 to 26.1 percent in 1994. Other Charlevoix businesses who employ those with disabilities through Community Mental Health's networking include Bullfrog Light Company, Alexander's, Burger King and Brady's Carpet Cleaning.

May said she had fun working during the catered weddings and birthdays. The circle of friends and the camaraderie gained during the summer were also highlights. She said, however, that cleaning the bar area after a raucous night was one of the worst tasks.

"There was a real team spirit here and we appreciate that," her mother, Pat Miller, said.

During the award presentation, memories of another hot summer were shared and promises made to return next season.

"We were grateful to have her," Vrainicki said. "Her spirit rubbed off on a lot of people. We can't wait until next summer."

Ted Walker eats his roadkill

But he doesn't eat his words in his new book, We eat our roadkill — Tales from Horton Bay, Michigan

At a book signing party Friday at the Charlevoix Country Club, Ted Walker (seated) greeted fellow Horton Bay resident G.T. Long. Walker signed books for nearly 400 people at the event. The book is based on fanciful tales of Horton Bay, originally created by Walker for the popular but short-lived newspaper, the Horton Bay Gazette. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

There's no wrong door to a better job

By Laurie Lounsbury

If you want a job — or want a better job — now's the time to go for it. But if you're confused by the many government agencies designed to help people find jobs, don't worry.

All you have to remember is the name Jobnet.

"The whole system is called Jobnet now," said Fred Nelson, business liaison for Jobnet. "Most people don't have any idea of who we work for and they don't have to."

Jobnet, located on U.S. 31 North next to the Total station, is a partnership of the Council of Governments, Michigan Employment Securities Agency, the community college, the intermediate school district, Michigan Rehabilitation Services, the Family Independence Agency and the area agency on aging.

It's a lot to remember.

So don't bother.

"What the government is pushing now is the 'no wrong door' system," Nelson said.

So anyone needing a job, or wanting a better job, can walk in the door at Jobnet and get the assistance and direction they need. Businesses looking for employees enjoy the same ease of service.

"The idea is a system of employment and training that is seamless on either side, for the employer or job seeker," Nelson said.

Whether it's just needing to use a computer to write a resume or needing training and a new career, Jobnet can provide help.

Tom Dionne, employment specialist, said there's never been a better time to consider moving up the job ladder. The economy is so strong that lots of jobs in a variety of fields are up for grabs.

"This is a terrific opportunity to move up," Dionne said. "This might happen once every generation and it's happening now."

Dionne, Judy Skippergosh and Carla Burns are specialists in different areas of employment.

Burns is a case manager who places people in job training programs.

"That's my area of expertise," Burns said. "I can determine if someone is eligible for on-the-job training."

Kid's clothes back in town

By Lisa Wheat
Courier special writer

Cynthia Themm's life-long dream of opening a children's clothing store was made reality on Oct. 17. After about two months of planning, she opened Just For Kids in Captain's Corner plaza.

After living in Florida for 10 years, Themm came to appreciate the beauty of Charlevoix, the town where she was raised. She moved back in order to open the store. Before moving to Florida, Themm worked with her aunt at Captain's Kids, a children's clothing store once located where Little Caesars Pizza is presently situated. While in Florida, she worked as a beautician.

Themm prides the store as having affordable, quality clothing. Unlike many stores in Charlevoix, the merchandise is not priced for the tourism industry.

"Everybody can afford it (the clothing), but it doesn't look cheap," she said.

Oshkosh, Carters, and Lee are the main lines of stock the store will carry. Sizes infant to seven are now available, and Themm plans to carry up to size 14 by December.

Although a good selection is already available, Themm expects to carry the remainder of stock in time for the holidays. A grand opening will also be scheduled for around that time.

The interior of Just For Kids portrays a nautical theme with boats, fish, and anchors. The store has an area for children to play while the parents are shopping.

Themm offers gift-wrapping and gift baskets. The gift baskets are filled with various items of the customer's choice, arranged in a basket with a ribbon and bow. Gift certificates are also available.

Just For Kids will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. For more information, call 547-7970.

Cynthia Themm returns to the children's clothing business in Charlevoix. Themm once worked in a kid's clothing store in Captain's Corner before moving to Florida. Here, she stands next to a new rack of clothes, while more deliveries are expected by the holiday season. (Photo by Lisa Wheat)

Jobnet offers lots of services

People with very low income or people who lost their jobs because a local industry closed usually qualify for such training programs.

Dionne helps find jobs or training for low income workers who have been on some form of government assistance.

"In the multi-generation cases of dependence, they have an umbilical cord made of steel and we need to break it," Dionne said.

Getting off welfare or losing a factory job can be an emotional struggle. Jobnet also connects people with the counseling and help they need.

"We're a resource for other resources," Burns said. "One of the advantages of coming here is we tend to be plugged into all the help."

For those who have lost a long-term factory job, the barriers are often their feelings of loss and fear of trying something new.

"It's a lot like getting a divorce," Nelson said. "Your job left you and there's a lot of grief involved."

"Part of our job is to help people see options," Burns said. "We show them where else they can use their skills."

Anyone is welcome to walk into Jobnet and scan the bulletin board, where jobs are posted by the dozens. While there, customers can get assistance writing a resume or use a computer to do a job search. Even for the person who just wants to brush up on their math or typing skills before pursuing employment, Jobnet can help.

"We're a clearing house for information," Dionne said.

Just before homecoming kickoff, Charlevoix students and parents paraded along State Street.

Lower Left: School board members and their families hammed it up for the onlookers. The crisp fall weather must have agreed with them, judging by their smiles.

Reruns, revisions, and redecoration are on the horizon for Hayes Township residents.

The rerun deals with Ann and James Fielder's request to rezone their ten acre property on U.S. 31, between the community pool and Nazarene Church, from A-1 to R-4.

An R-4, multiple family zoning district allowing for a home per quarter acre, was granted by a 5-2 vote by township planners last month. Leo Burnett Jr. and Nancy Nash cast the no votes. On Oct. 7, the county planners gave the rezone a thumbs-up, but then it was discovered that township officials had failed to notify all adjacent property owners.

In all rezoning cases, any property owner within 300 feet must be notified, and township clerk Ethel Knepp said two owners across the township line in Charlevoix Township were not contacted. She characterized the mistake as a simple, yet embarrassing oversight. As a result, the rezone request goes back to square one, with a public hearing in front of the township's planning commission.

The Fielders plan to sell the land, and Richard Joseph, attorney for an undisclosed buyer, told planners last month that the initial plan is to build apartments or affordable condominiums.

Knepp said the matter will likely be revisited during the planning commission's November meeting.

The planners have also been busy making revisions to the township's zoning rules, adding regulations for wireless communication towers.

Regulations include allowing tower construction in certain agricultural, industrial, and rural residential districts, provided that the lot is 10 acres in size. Advertisements will be prohibited on the tower and new towers must be engineered to allow for co-location of other types of antennae. Any structure must be removed by the lessee or property owner within 12 months of abandonment.

Also proposed is a requirement that any owner of a tower must deposit money in an escrow account or insurance bond in the amount of one and one-quarter times the estimated cost of removal.

For example, if tower removal is projected to be $1000, then a $1,250 bond needs to be fronted.

A tower needs to be set back from any roads or property lines by at least the distance equal to the height of the tower, and the township's planners hold veto power on any new tower if it's deemed that required lighting of the tower would infringe the neighbors' rights.

In other business, the township has ideas of redecorating their cemetery on Boyne City road while also expanding it into an adjacent property owned by the township. A new path needs to be constructed to join the two cemeteries and tree stumps need to be removed to provide additional grave sites. A viewing area with benches and overall landscaping were suggestions made by the township's cemetery committee. A survey of the cemetery to include an accurate map of all grave sites was also discussed.

The board tabled any further discussion on the cemetery until their next meeting 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10.

Beethoven appreciation classes offered at McCune Arts Center

What was Beethoven thinking when he composed his ninth symphony?

Oh, what a win!

It was a long time coming and it couldn't have happened at a better time. The Charlevoix Rayder football team pulled out their first win of the season at the homecoming game Oct. 17 against Elk Rapids.

The score was tied at halftime 12-12, but the Rayders came on strong during the second half.

During the first half, Steve Spiegl scored the first touchdown for the Rayders on a 48-yard pass. Quarterback Steve Felter followed suit with a touchdown on a one-yard run.

In the second half the Rayders totally dominated the game. Colin Carr scored on a 38-yard run, followed by Jeremy Rafacz, who scored on a 12-yard run. Carr came back to score on a 32-yard run and kicked the extra point.

"The kids played really well, especially in the second half, when we came out and were able to control the game," said coach Todd Klinger. "The offensive line and defensive line were able to control the line of scrimmage all night."

Colin Carr lead the rushing with 129 yards on 122 carries, followed by quarterback Steve Felter with 35 yards on 10 carries.

Felter also completed seven of 13 passes for 134 yards.

Leading receiver was Steve Spiegl, with five catches for 109 yards. While playing defense, Spiegl picked up two interceptions.

Nate Metiva lead the defense with 14 tackles.

The Rayders will play at home this Friday, Oct. 24, against Boyne City.

Lady Rayders take a run at Ellsworth

The Charlevoix Lady Rayders admirably held their own against number one-ranked Ellsworth in girls' basketball last week.

They may have even defeated the powerful team, had it not been for trouble at the free throw line.

In the end, Ellsworth beat the Rayders by seven points, a small margin against a big team.

So far this season, no team has scored within 20 points of the awesome Lady Lancers.

After the first quarter, the two teams were tied. By halftime, the Rayders were still holding their own, but down by two points.

"It was a pretty tight game," said coach Tim Volovsek. "It was really exciting. Ellsworth just hit their free throws at the end."

It was at the free throw line that Charlevoix struggled. Only 46% of their attempts were successful.

In regular play, Jamie Gowell scored 19 points and 14 rebounds. Julie Gregory got 10 rebounds, and Katie Conlan was there for seven rebounds and three assists.

"The girls played really good defense," Volovsek said. "Ellsworth usually averages 75 points a game and we kept them well below that."

Ann Marie Terryberry, Katie Conlan and Amanda Eaton provided the defensive backbone.

Ellsworth coach Ike Boss gave the Lady Rayders a lot of credit.

"They hustled," he said. "I think they played their best ball game of the year. They came with a mission, but we hung tough and won it."

Junior Varsity:

In the junior varsity game, which preceded the varsity game last Thursday, Charlevoix beat the Ellsworth team 53-28.

Taya Drost and Meghan Vogel each scored 12 points.

Autumn sailing over

Yachting notes
By A. Nother Mouse

With a fall nip in the air, the Charlevoix Yacht Club sailors took to the water to finish up the fall series and — for most — the season, last Wednesday night. Even with the race course shortened to only three legs, the light air left many boats finishing and heading back to the docks under an almost full, spooky, moon.

In the incredibly shrinking Fleet A, Newsense (0:55:57) nabbed another first place over Gotcha! (1:07:03) and Hoo-AAH

Say goodbye to fall sailing, hello to arena races

(1:07:31). Apparently bored with first place finishes, the Newsense gang announced they would be defecting to the J-22 fleet next season, where they'll have to finish first without the benefit of PHRF ratings.

M3 and Mint Julep did not finish.

In Fleet B, Tireless (0:52:43) finished first. Blasen III (0:56:20) came in second, followed by Lost Vermonter (1:01:46), Stalworth (1:08:21), Cygnus (1:10:51), Original Sin (1:14:40), and Our Thyme II (1:23:58).

Mi Joy (0:56:24) took top honors in the Jib and Main Fleet. Booma (0:59:49) held on to second place by 10 seconds, over Apothecary (0:59:59). Babe (1:00:52) finished fourth over Flash (1:03:15) and Sarah Belle (1:04:17).

In the J-22 Fleet, Hussy (0:58:51) enjoyed a come-from-behind victory, finishing first after rounding the first mark in sixth place. H.S. Moisture Missile (1:00:11) held on to second, with Gecko (1:02:21) close behind in third. Reckless (1:02:35) took fourth, followed by Swine Flew (1:03:05), Paleface Lite (1:06:53) and Cathach (1:07:20).

The official final results for the fall series are as follows:

Fleet A: Newsense, Gotcha!, Hoo-AAH, Mint Julep, Kamikaze, M3 and J Hawk.

Fleet B: Stalworth, Tireless, Our Thyme II, Lost Vermonter, Blasen III, Original Sin, Cygnus and Sandpiper.

Jib and Main: Booma, Mi Joy, Apothecary, Babe, Flash, Cabaret, Sarah Belle and Bald Eagle.

J-22 Fleet: Hussy, H.S. Moisture Missile, Reckless, Gecko, Swine Flew, Paleface Lite and Cathach.

Awards for this season will be presented at the annual awards banquet, scheduled for Nov. 22 at the yacht club. Skippers and crew are invited to attend.

The J-22s will be in Round Lake on Sunday afternoons for arena racing until their grand finale, the Cranberry Cup, on Dec. 7. Now that the crowds have thinned out, there are plenty of good places to park your warm car and watch from the shore.

1977 Rayder football season was filled with suspense

By Jamie MacMillan
Staff writer

The 1977 Charlevoix Rayder Football Team

The 1977 high school football season started easily enough for the Rayders. They whipped Kalkaska 35-0 and Benzie Central 35-6. Little did anyone know how tense the following weeks would be. Charlevoix had a troubling habit of starting each game slowly, only to pull victory away from defeat, all the while stirring the heartstrings of the faithful.

"They put our stomach in knots," said Corinne (Ranger) Vita, a cheerleader for Charlevoix High in 1977.

In week three, Charlevoix and Gaylord exchanged fumbles and interceptions and were even at 0-0 entering the last quarter. A poor Gaylord punt gave the Rayders the ball at the Blue Devil 20-yard line. After five plays, Greg Kreuger plunged over the goal line for the first six points of a 7-0 win.

The following week, the Rayders trailed the Cheboygan Chiefs 18-6 going into the fourth quarter. Behind the running of Kevin Kratt, who had fourth quarter TD runs of one and four yards, the Rayders took the lead.

The Chiefs had one last possession, marching inside Charlevoix's 15-yard line. However, Darrin VanLoo blocked a last second field goal attempt, preserving the win.

The next week, the Rayders found themselves on the wrong end of a 7-0 score against Grayling heading into the final quarter. A 26-point explosion during that stanza put the game in the win column for Charlevoix.

The Rayders gave their fans' anxiety some time off, cruising in consecutive weeks to wins over Rogers City, 42-6, St. Ignace, 48-8, and Boyne City 34-6.

The easy wins did nothing but set up the Rayders for the season's final showdown with rival Petoskey.

Both squads came in highly touted. The Rayders were unblemished and ranked number one in the class "C" poll, while the Northmen came in with their own honored resume, just one defeat and a number two ranking in the class "B" poll. Throw in the fact that the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference Championship was on the line and dramatics were expected.

All the cheering remained on the Northmen's side of field, though, as they burst out to a 19-0 lead midway through the third quarter. The Rayders' season of destiny seemed to have struck midnight.

"There were some pretty long faces in the crowd that night," Vita said. "It was an absolute miracle for them to pull it off."

The miracle began when flanker Jim Elzinga wrestled away a sure interception away from a Petoskey defender for a touchdown pass.

"That play was questionable, it was one of those 'throw it up there and see what happens' kind of throw," quarterback Jim Alger recalled. "But he pulled it in and it really got us going."

Alger hit Neil Dziedzic for a 57-yard score, closing the gap, but with the final sands sifting through the hourglass, the Rayders found themselves 81 yards away from the end zone.

"One thing we had was an unshakable belief that we would win," tackle Chris "Kip" Cinnamon said.

That confidence helped. The team picked its way to midfield on eight plays. Then Kreuger burst through the line for a 23 yard gain and Alger connected with Elzinga for another 23 yard gain and the Rayders had a first-and-goal at the Northmen 6-yard line. Kreuger swept over the left end for the tying score. Guy Carter kicked the extra-point and the Rayders had their first lead of the night with the score at 20-19.

When Pat Klooster picked-off a pass during Petoskey's next drive, it sealed an improbable win and an undefeated season.

"It was the strangest sensation once the game was over," Alger said. "I never once remembered ever considering losing that game. There never was a point when we thought that, and we just kept hacking away at it until we got it done."

The theft occurred at 11:45 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 11. Davis was located and arrested and all property recovered by 3:30 p.m. the same day.

Boater unfashionably late for the shower

A boater who decided to use the marina facilities under the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce building was a little late in the season for showering.

After entering the facility, the person locked the door and went about the business of showering.

The city work crew came along; checked the door to find it locked, and proceeded to bolt the door closed for the rest of the season.

The bather was locked inside the shower room for several hours before someone heard him and discovered the error.

Like father, like son

1938 vintage cutter to spend winter here

By Laurie Lounsbury

Like a father and son hanging out together, the Coast Guard Cutters Acacia and Maple are hanging on their mooring lines together, stern to stern, in Round Lake.

It's an appealing sight, particularly since the two ships do share a father and son relationship.

Except it's the smaller of the two — the Maple — that's the father.

"It really is the father of the Acacia," said Chris Bloswick, director of operations for the Great Lakes Center for Marine History. "Both the Acacia and Maple were built in Duluth, Minnesota by Marine Iron and Ship Building. The Acacia is the next generation of cutters."

The Maple will winter in Round Lake this year, waiting for a final coat of paint before it moves to its permanent home in St. Ignace.

Once there, it will become a floating, maritime museum for Great Lakes history.

And what a history the Maple has.

Built in 1938, the Maple is the oldest functioning Coast Guard Cutter on the Great Lakes. It was originally built for the United States Lighthouse Service. Six months after the Maple was built, the lighthouse service merged with the United States Coast Guard, making the Maple the last lighthouse tender.

"The lighthouses used to be manned, so the tenders took them everything from toilet paper to toothpaste, even coal to heat the lighthouse," Bloswick said. "It was her (the Maple's) job to keep the lighthouses going."

After lighthouses became automated, the Maple became a buoy tender — a smaller version of the Acacia. But then, buoys were much smaller in the Maple's glory days.

It must have been a glorious day for the Maple when the ship was chosen to be the first American ship to pass through the new St. Lawrence Seaway in 1958. President Dwight "Ike" and Mamie Eisenhower rode aboard the Maple through the Eisenhower and Snell Locks.

Even the rarefied soles of royal slippers have stepped on the Maple. Queen Elizabeth stood on the decks of the Maple for the St. Lawrence Seaway dedication.

The Coast Guard retired the Maple from active duty in 1973, when the buoys outgrew the Maple. As a 400 ton ship, the Maple was quite small compared to today's cutters, such as the Acacia, which weighs 1,000 tons.

After retiring, the Maple almost took a nasty turn to the south.

Because they had an obligation to provide the Dominican Republic with a ship, the Navy tried to snag the Maple and send her to Caribbean waters. Jack Kemp rescued her from that fate when he stepped in and acquired the ship for the Environmental Protection Agency. Instead, one of the Maple's sister ships was sent to the Dominican Republic. The sister ship was sunk soon after that.

After escaping the hazards of the Caribbean, the Maple became the first water quality survey ship on the Great Lakes. Sailing under the new name of Roger R. Simons, she spent nearly 20 years plowing through the waves while her crew took water samples.

County prepares to expand local jail

Sheriff says no to a new juvenile detention facility in Charlevoix

County officials expect to be breaking ground next spring on a $2.1 million jail expansion at the county sheriff's department on Grant Street.

"We are basically in the starting stages," county commissioner Carl Price said. "We have a list of wants and needs."

On that list are 30 more cells, a 20 bed work release dorm, two additional holding/observation cells, a more secure booking area, a new roof, and a larger kitchen, library, and visitation room.

In its current state, the jail houses between 20-35 prisoners a night in 25 block cells, an adult and juvenile holding cell, and a drunk tank.

The booking area is presently in the front entrance area of the jail, an obvious zone of officer and civilian traffic. Both Sheriff George T. Lasater and jail administrator Babette Meggison stressed the importance of including in the expansion a safer and separate booking area.

"With so many people going back and forth, there is potential for an assault," Meggison said. "We handcuff them to desks sometimes, but that is not a good idea."

One thing discussed in preliminary expansion talks was the inclusion of a juvenile detention center, but Lasater said plans for that have been scrapped and that he was against it in the first place.

"It is a whole different arena than adults," Lasater said, pointing out there is a juvenile facility next door in Antrim County. "We would need to staff it which would be expensive, and it's just accepting too much liability for the citizens of the county."

The county has sent their list of needs to Harrison and Landmark, a downstate architecture firm specializing in correctional facilities. Price said the county expects to hear back from them by the first week of November with a design and cost estimates. The county has budgeted $2.1 million from their general funds for the project. Price also said the county will be pursuing grants to cover a good portion of the price tag.

Overcrowding and space crunches preventing expansion have created a multi-county movement for a regional jail. Lasater said the jail does get maxed out, but there is plenty of room on the property for an expansion of this size.

"Talking with people in other counties like Otsego and Emmet, they have no room to go but up," he said. "When this jail was built in 1971, the county commissioners were looking ahead. We have the same obligation to those who will be replacing us that they have a facility agreeable with the future."

On the land bound for expansion sits a baseball diamond used by many to play the national pastime. Price assured that the expansion will not encroach the ball field — instead, the jail will expand mostly to the east and also into the site of the county humane society.

The humane society, Price said, will relocate onto county-donated land in Boyne City on Rockway and M-75, adjacent to the road commission building.

Northwest Academy students celebrated Octoberfest last week with a traditional German meal. German teacher Christa-Maria helped the students prepare the meal of kielbasa, sauerkraut, and apple plum cake, which they sold to students and faculty as part of their fund raising activities to pay for a trip to Frankenmuth. Eventually, the school hopes to send German students to Germany. The students are (from left) Christina Whitley, Jennifer Zeitler, Justine Thayer, Jessica Thayer, Matt Barnadyn and Nicole Whitley.

Maple brings Great Lakes history to Charlevoix

cranny in the Great Lakes," Bloswick said.

From 1991-95, the Maple became idle. Her paint peeled and her decks rusted.

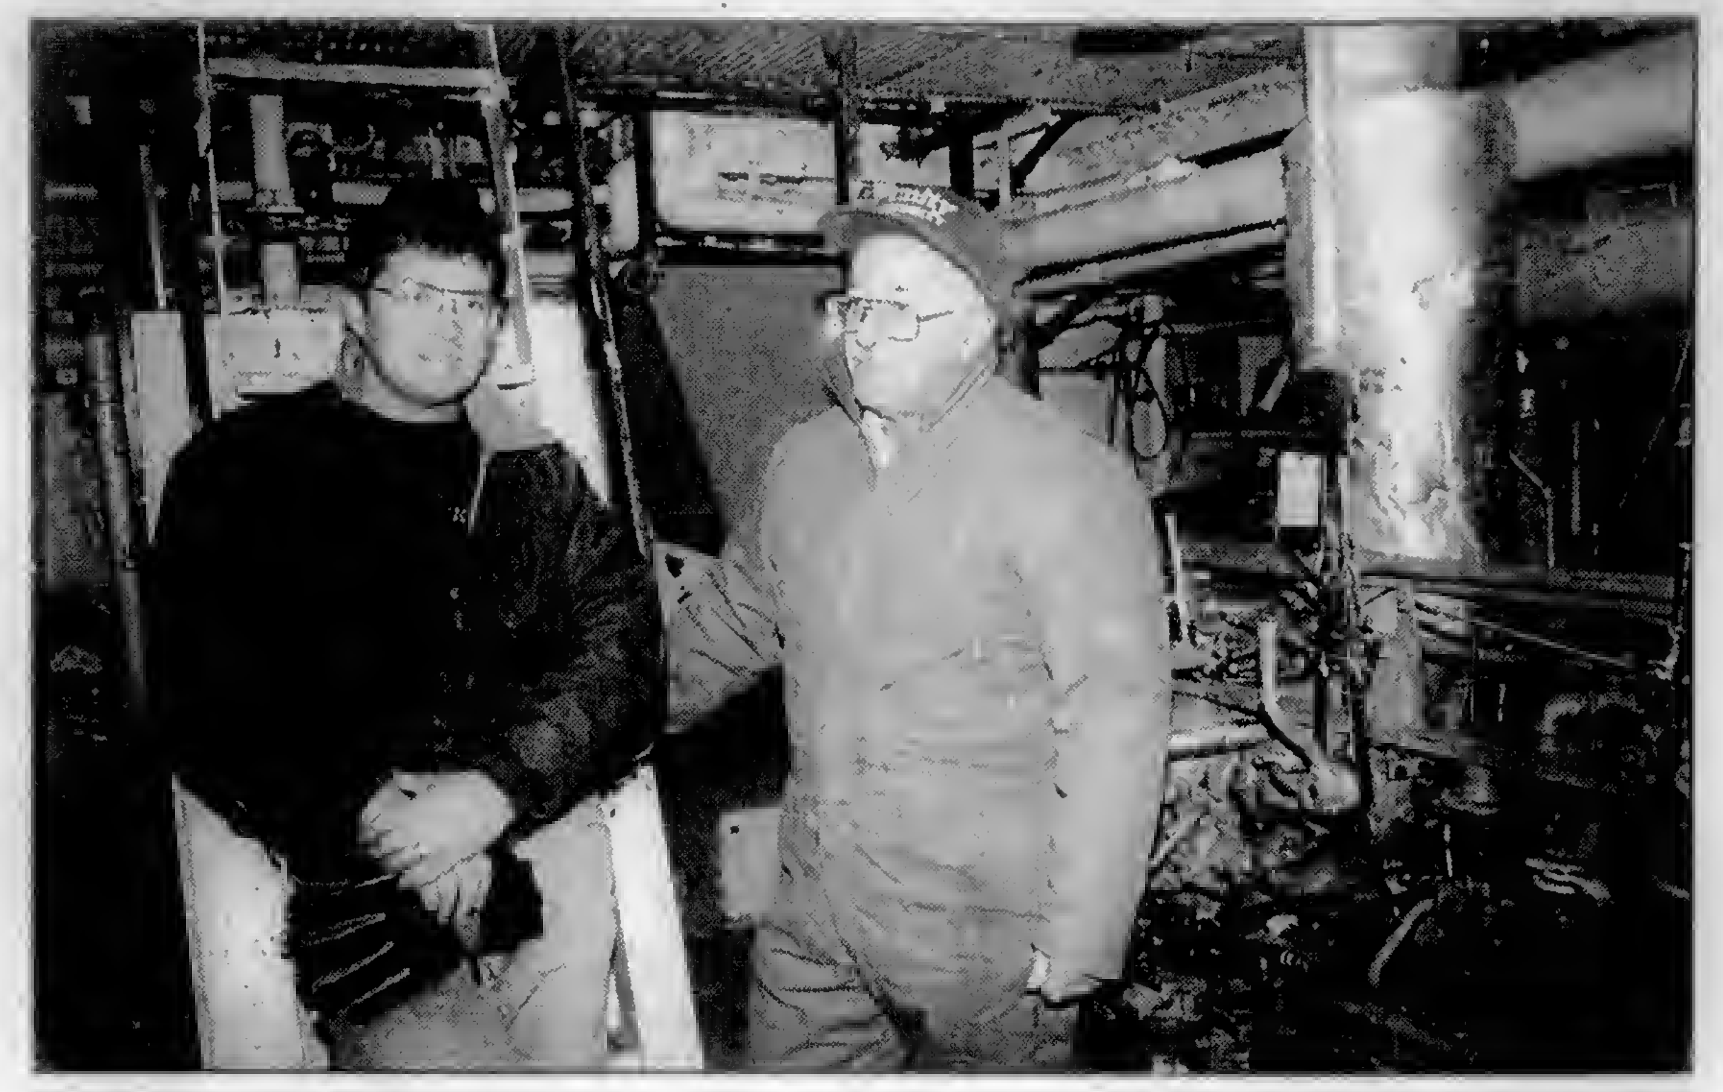
When Bloswick and his brother, John, discovered the Maple, they decided to form a nonprofit marine museum. Theirs is the first new museum ship to arrive on the Great Lakes in 10 years.

"We acquired the Maple in '95 and began putting it back together," Bloswick said.

While John created the nonprofit organization, Chris set to work on the nuts and bolts of fixing the ship. A skipper himself, Chris is also self-employed in the boat business.

"I'm a broker of odd ball boats," Chris said. Born and raised on Mackinac Island, Chris has spent his life around boats and the Great Lakes. He's particularly fond of unusual boats, which he will buy, then renovate and sell.

The Maple is almost completely restored. A new coat of paint on her hull this spring will complete the job. Then the Maple will return to her permanent home in St. Ignace, where the ship will be open for tours.



Chris Bloswick (left) with his brother, John, stand in the open engine room of the Maple, which they've restored to its original condition over the last two years. The 59-year-old ship will spend the winter in Round Lake, where she is protected from the harsh winds, then move to her home port of St. Ignace. Chris plans to paint the hull in the spring before moving the ship. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Fourth and fifth grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School will be taking swim lessons, thanks to the help of many volunteers. The Charlevoix Community Pool staff has a goal of eventually teaching water safety to all elementary school children. Volunteers from the United States Coast Guard Station and helpful people in the community are assisting with the lessons, which are taught by Dave Smith. Learning proper kicking form while sitting on the side of the pool makes a big splash with the kids. On the front, volunteer Chuck Jadwin helps Hunter Hoaglund with his back floating technique. # Pool gets new director

Dr. Libby (Holtz) Hicks has been named interim aquatics director for the Charlevoix Community Pool, replacing Todd Welscott, who resigned. The appointment was announced by Dr. Steven Hansen, president of Friends of the Pool, who praised Hicks' outstanding qualifications.

At age 17, Hicks was sponsored by the Emmet County Chapter of the American Red Cross to attend an ARC National Aquatics School in Whitehall, Mich., where she earned her first water safety instructor certifications in aquatics and related fields.

Following graduation from Petoskey High School, Hicks earned degrees from several universities, including Western Michigan and Georgia. Her doctoral dissertation research focused on aqua phobia (fear of water). One of her speciality areas is working with fearful non-swimmers of all ages, especially adults.

As an Aquatics Specialist and Consultant, Hicks has served as an expert witness, supervised pools and water fronts, conducted aquatic liability workshops, and taught an array of aquatics courses at the community and college levels.

The long-time resident of Petoskey and Bay View explained she accepted the interim position because, "I did not want to see the aquatics program lose its momentum."

OPINIONS

Politically correct types should stay home on Halloween

Laurie Lounsbury

With Halloween fast approaching, it's time for all of us to carefully consider one thing — political correctness.

What began as a night to honor the dead — and lure them back to earth for a visit — has turned into a mine field of minding your manners.

Last year at this time, we received a fax full of Halloween no-no's. I can't remember who sent it, I just remember that it took a lot of fun out of Halloween.

The information, sent by some politically correct group, said that children should no longer dress up like cute little devils. It's Satanic. Nor should they dress up like hoboes. That would be unkind to the homeless.

Indian chiefs and Pocahantas were completely out of the question — it's insensitive to our Native American friends.

Ballerinas and princesses were ruled out for encouraging sexist, gender bias careers.

Cowboys with little six-shooters in their holsters encouraged violence.

The list pretty much ruled out everything except Casper the Ghost. I suppose if they had given it more thought, they could have ruled Casper out, too. He represents white male dominance and is dressed like a Klansman.

Since I want so very much to be politically correct — at the expense of having fun — I've compiled my own list of offensive Halloween get-ups. I've also gathered a posse of politically correct, Halloween patrollers, and we'll be in Charlevoix on Halloween night, checking everyone's costumes. So consider yourself warned.

Topping the list of offensiveness are Barbie and Ken. I don't care if you're a good-looking couple, you can't dress up as Barbie and Ken, because they're anatomically incorrect, and that makes them politically incorrect.

Dressing up as the Marx brothers is a perennial favorite, but it's got to go. The Marx brothers share the same last name as a well known communist, and communism is out. One of the Marx brothers was also a mute who communicated through horn-honking. Imitating him would be offensive to all the mutes in the world.

Count Dracula is unacceptable. Those protruding canine teeth offend anyone without good dental insurance who can't afford orthodontia and cosmetic teeth-capping.

Thinking of going as Elvira? Dolly Parton? Wonder Woman? Forget it. It's totally sexist and demeaning to women who aren't well endowed in certain physical areas.

Men dressed up in drag is always funny, but we can't have that. It's making fun of the gay community.

Speaking of funny, all humorous costumes must be avoided. The humor-challenged people won't find it amusing at all.

Ghouls and gargoyles used to be good, scary costumes. But they are undoubtedly offensive to people who are innately unattractive.

Dressing up like a witch might seem like a safe thing. Wrong! Witch rhymes with another word that got Connie Chung into big trouble, so you'd better avoid that similarity.

Donning the rubber mask of a Republican political figure offends the Republicans. The mask of a Democratic political figure offends the Democrats. Of course, most politicians offend everyone, so I'm not sure we need to put these items on the politically incorrect list. But we might as well, just to be safe.

Werewolves are out. They offend men who are growing undesirable hair on their backs and in their ears.

Little Red Riding Hood and the Big Bad Wolf must be dropped, because they send a negative message about women being naive and men being wolves with only one thing on their minds.

The three little pigs offend obese people.

Belly dancers or Arabian Sheiks are absolutely forbidden. We're having enough troubles in the Middle East — we mustn't insult their culture.

Little Bo Peep offends people with attention deficit disorder. It wasn't her fault she lost her sheep. She got distracted.

I'm sure I forgot a few other politically incorrect costumes, but if you're dressed in one Halloween night, I'll be sure to call it to your attention.

Of course, I don't know what this leaves us for politically correct costume attire. Maybe we'll all have to pretend it's the '70's and go as streakers.

Letters to the editor

Post office location was wrong in Scrapbook

Editor:

I read with great interest Geoffrey Reynolds' story about the post office locations, but, if my memory serves me correctly, it was never located in the Trademark building, but was located in the Van Pelt building, not the current Abstract and Engineering location.

George Weaver was postmaster there and Winnie Finucan the first postmistress. It was a political plum in those days.

Another interesting item is the fact that the new postmaster general spent one summer in Charlevoix, at a tourist home on Belvedere Avenue.

Respectfully,

Ralph Hamilton

Students should not be treated like robots

Editor:

Here's my vision of the future. Charlevoix High School's name will be changed to Stepford High. There will be a secret room where a select group of parents, faculty and school board members will meet to determine the perfect student/athlete. In an assembly, special pills will be administered to every student. It will be required to take these pills. At exactly 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., a subliminal signal will be emitted — all students will take their pills and they then will always complete homework assignments, excel on the MITs, SATs/ACTs etc., and on Tuesday and Friday nights, go forth and do Stepford High proud on field and court. Any student who refuses to "go with the program" will be sent off to the nether world of detention and/or expulsion.

This is, of course, a worse case scenario, so let's get back to the present. There are a lot of good kids out there who occasionally do things that we parents, teachers and coaches aren't proud of, but please — let's not turn our high school students into a bunch of audio-animatrons!

Golf team coverage was inadequate

Editor:

We, as parents of the 1997 Rayder Golf Team, would like to voice our disappointment in the coverage of the state finals in the Charlevoix Courier, dated October 22, 1997. You may ask at this point, what coverage? Our point exactly.

The Rayder Golf Team this year has been a very successful team, and has deserved more coverage in our community paper than it has received. Your reporter, Jamie MacMillan, has done an excellent job with articles in the past, and we were looking forward to seeing the article on state finals. There was wonderful coverage in other papers from the surrounding communities, but not a single word in our community paper.

We would at this time like to express how proud we are of this group of young men, and appreciation to their coach Mr. Jim Glynn. Congratulations to you all for an excellent season. Be proud of yourselves, 14th in the state is a great way to end your season. The hard work really does pay off!

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. Charlie Vincent

News in brief

Jacquelyn Klintworth's Pontiac was badly damaged in a head-on collision that injured six people. Klintworth had three passengers in her car when she was hit by Merle Caswell, 81, of Mackinaw City. ### Mysterious car accident knocked driver's socks off — and a few other clothing items

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's department is investigating a single car accident which occurred sometime during the early morning hours of Thursday, Oct. 23. The accident occurred on M-66, south of Norwegian Road in South Arm Township.

It is unclear what caused the 1982 Plymouth Horizon, owned and driven by Thomas James Haney, 42, of East Jordan, to leave the road. The car was northbound on M-66 when it went across the center line and then off the left side of the road. It went down an embankment, through a barbed wire fence, across a small creek, and then up the opposite embankment.

The car continued across a horse pasture until it came to a stop when it struck a large sand pile.

At about 7:45 a.m., the property owner discovered the car embedded in the sand pile. They checked the vehicle and found no one in it or around it. The property owner then phoned the police.

When the police arrived, they discovered a man sitting on the

Two car accident injures six people

Two cars collided in a head-on crash when one driver crossed the center line on Bridge Street. The accident occurred at 1:10 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 26 near the intersection of Bridge and Carpenter Streets. All six people in the two cars were injured.

Jacquelyn D. Klintworth, 32, of Charlevoix, was driving a black, 1993 Pontiac with three passengers: Lloyd Swadling, 13; Travis Jakeway, 9; and Joseph Washburn, 7. All of the people in Klintworth's car reside at the same address on Green Street.

Klintworth's car was southbound on Bridge Street when a 1993 Ford, driven by Merle Caswell, 81, of Mackinaw City, crossed the center line and hit Klintworth's car. Riding with Caswell was his wife, Catherine, 82.

City police chief Dennis Halverson reported that the accident is still under investigation. At this point, it appears that Caswell fell asleep at the wheel and crossed the center line.

No one in Klintworth's car was wearing seat belts. Klintworth was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, where she was treated and released. Lloyd Swadling and Travis Jakeway were also taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital, treated and released. Joseph Washburn was taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital, then transferred to Northern Michigan Hospital.

The Caswells were wearing seat belts and a driver's side air bag deployed on impact. Catherine Caswell was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, then transferred to Northern Michigan Hospital. Merle Caswell stayed overnight at the Charlevoix Area Hospital for observation. He was expected to be discharged the following day.

On Monday, both Joseph Washburn and Catherine Caswell were still in Northern Michigan Hospital and were reported to be in fair condition.

Free diabetes screening offered

Diabetes is on the increase in the United States. Early detection can mean control and a near normal life. A free diabetes screening is being offered from 7-9 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 19, at the Boyne Area Medical Center, 223 N. Park St., Boyne City.

Participants should not eat or drink before the test, which involves a finger prick. Those already diagnosed with diabetes will not gain any new information from this screening.

The event is part of Charlevoix Area Hospital's observance of National Diabetes Month. Warning signs of diabetes include extreme thirst, blurry vision from time to time, frequent urination, unusual tiredness or drowsiness, and unexplained weight loss. You need to be screened for diabetes if you are over 30 and overweight, if you have a parent, brother or sister with diabetes, and if you are of Finnish, Native American, Hispanic or African American descent.

The screening is open to the public and no reservations are necessary. For further information, call the Boyne Area Medical Center at 582-5314.

National Hospice Month recognized in Charlevoix

November is National Hospice Month and Charlevoix County Hospice and Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (formerly known as District Health Department No. 3) have several events planned.

Both President Clinton and Governor John Engler have issued proclamations designating November as National Hospice Month. Governor Engler has declared Nov. 3 as Hospice Day in Michigan.

For this special day the Michigan Hospice Organization has planned a "Bells For Hospice" to create statewide awareness of hospice care. They are asking the churches, synagogues and public places to ring bells or offer a moment of silent reflection at noon on this day in celebration of the caregivers, the families, and the patients who benefit so much from hospice care. They are asking the churches here in Charlevoix and Antrim Counties to participate in this very meaningful event.

They will be having a celebration at Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, 202 W. Garfield, Charlevoix at 11:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 3, and all who would like to attend this ceremony are invited.

At 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 17, in the Community Room at Charlevoix Area Hospital, they will be offering a program, "Handling the Holidays," for all those who have experienced a loss and would like some help in just how to handle these special days.

At 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 23, they will be holding their annual Memorial Service to commemorate all those patients that were served and lost this past year. They encourage anyone who has suffered a loss to attend this very meaningful service. It will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 207 Williams St., East Jordan.

If you have any questions, please contact:

Margaret Lasater, Executive Director, Charlevoix County Hospice 536-2842; or Helen Curtis, Hospice Supervisor, Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, 547-6092.

Church organist honored

Organ dedication and recognition of Frances Boss to be combined Sunday

The Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix will feature a combined organ dedication and recognition of Frances Boss's 68 years as church organist at its 6 p.m. evening worship service Sunday, Nov. 2. The public is invited to attend. The Reverend Larry Grooters will dedicate the new Allen organ, which was purchased and installed this summer.

David Cogswell, Minister of Music at Newhall Reformed Church in Wyoming, Mich., will give a concert of classical, sacred and contemporary music to demonstrate the capabilities of the organ. Cogswell majored in music at Western Michigan University with a pipe organ specialty, and has taught high school band and choir for over 30 years. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and the American Theater Organ Society.

Following the concert, Frances Boss will be honored for her lengthy musical ministry to the congregation of Community Reformed Church. Boss started playing for church services shortly after she married the late Jack Boss in 1930, and began attending the South Barnard Reformed Church (which later became Community Reformed Church) in rural Marion Township.

Frances continued to serve as pianist and organist as the church moved from Klooster Road to Barnard Road, and in 1962, to the corner of Meech and Petoskey avenues, within the city of Charlevoix.

Currently 86 years old, Boss still plays the piano for both morning and evening worship services.

A reception with refreshments will follow the service in the church fellowship hall.

Brahm's Requiem to be performed

The Charlevoix Area Chorale will present Brahms' "A German Requiem" at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 9, along with chamber orchestra and soloists. The program will be at the Charlevoix Congregational Church on Park Avenue, and is the third in the concert series, Sundays at Four.

In the strictest definition of the word, a Requiem is a mass for the repose of the souls of the departed, using the Latin text of the MIssa de profunctis, and is usually performed as close to All Saints Day as possible.

This Requiem by Brahms, in the purest sense, is not a Requiem, but a sacred cantata, using poems and scriptural texts chosen by Brahms to offer consolation to the mourner. It contains warnings against the pomp and vanities of this earth and closes with the victory of the saints over death and the grave, and the reassurance of eternal life.

This magnificent work is evidence of Brahms' power as a composer of beautiful melodic choral lines, intricate chord structure and as a master of warm, rich orchestra accompaniments.

There is no charge for the performance, but contributions will be accepted. The public is cordially invited. A reception in the Fellowship Hall will follow the performance.

For more information, call 536-7018 or 547-9122.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Ever been on a treasure hunt before? That's when you go out in groups, scouring the town for clues that have been placed on different businesses and landmarks. The object of the game is to figure them out before the other teams in the contest, and hopefully figure them out without having to call for help.

Friday night, my wife and I were a part of just such a hunt. One of the clues was 'Pastor Bruce's kin and 19.' Pastor Bruce's kin stood for one word. Linda and I had some folks from out of town in the car with us. We stewed over that one for a long time because we were thinking the mother, son, daughter, brother route and nothing was coming up right. Then one of the girls said, 'What about Alexander Hamilton?'

My first reaction was, it said kin and since I was hung up on talking about it literally, he's not my kin. The number 19, by the way, represents the letter S because it's 19th in the alphabet. You can figure out the rest - Alexander plus S equals that wonderful restaurant on the north side. I wasn't sure, but I trusted the girl's lead, and boy was I glad I did!

I've always said that one of the most unique things about Jesus' earthly ministry was the diverse group of guys He pulled together to be His disciples. Peter the fisherman, Matthew the tax collector, James and John the sons of thunder and — though later he'll be remembered forever as the one who betrayed Jesus — there was also Judas.

If there has ever been a doubt in your mind about the lengths the Lord will go to touch a life, when you look at all the Lord went through with Judas, the doubts ought to be wiped away. Make no mistake. Jesus loved Judas just as much as he loved anyone. If He did not see some potential in Judas, I doubt He would ever have made him the treasurer, the keeper of the money bag, for His earthly Ministry.

Some say it was because Judas was locked into a business mind-set. Some say it was because he was skimming a little off the top for himself. For whatever reasons, when Judas saw Jesus allowing Mary to anoint Him with perfume, he saw wasted money. Maybe it's because I want to see the good in everybody, even a fellow like Judas, but have you ever known anyone who was too practical for their own good? Always looking for the fine print or the loop holes in life? Someone who might laugh now and then but not really catch the meaning of why he was laughing? That's how I see Judas, not necessarily a bad guy, but someone who was always about a step-and-a-half behind and never quite being able to catch up.

Jesus tried hard to help Judas understand what was going on, but Judas wasn't sure. He wasn't sure that he could or should let down his guard like Mary did. He wasn't sure that all the feelings and emotions he saw in others were as genuine and sincere as they made them out to be. He wasn't sure that his whole experience wasn't like some kind of fairy tale that would just lead him down a road to disappointment. He had had enough of those in his life.

Judas would learn from bitter experience what you and I ought to already know. You can trust the Lord. You can find real hope in His touch. You can find clear direction in His touch. You can find a brand new life, but again you've got to trust Him.

Church

Did someone say Christmas already?

By Laurie Lounsbury

Most would agree that it's way too early to start thinking about Christmas.

Most, but not all.

The women who organize the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project are already huddled in the basement of the Congregational Church, mapping out strategies for the massive food-gathering, gift collecting and distribution project that lies ahead.

Last week, 12 women representing 10 area churches made plans while the season's first snow fell lightly outside.

"This is really wonderful to have all these girls come out; way before Christmas," said Mary Helen Riggle, co-chairman of the project.

What they do is, indeed, wonderful.

Last year, 64 large families and 75 small families received a Christmas dinner. Gifts were presented to 98 senior citizens and 185 kids.

When the last food basket was delivered and the final present tucked under a tree, a total of 549 individuals had a brighter Christmas, thanks to the project.

To help so many of the less fortunate people in the community requires a sizeable amount of help and donations. The Giving Tree in St. Mary's church is covered with the names of children who might not get a present without the help of others. Gifts must be bought, received and organized in time for delivery.

Food donations or donations of money are always welcome. Volunteer committee members are always needed to help organize the massive undertaking.

If any business or individual would like to help, call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515 or Kay Smith at 547-2229.

ground about 200 yards north of the vehicle.

The man was wearing only a red T-shirt and appeared to be suffering from exposure to the elements.

According to Sheriff Lasater, Haney was not wearing a seat belt and has no memory of the accident.

Haney was transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, where he was hospitalized for his injuries and hypothermia. He was released the next day.

It's not yet known if drugs or alcohol were involved, and no citations have been issued. The case is still under investigation.

Mailbox vandals caught

After smashing 89 mailboxes in Hayes, Marion and Eveline Townships, five people have been arrested and charged with malicious destruction of property.

Sheriff George Lasater reported that the mailboxes were apparently smashed with a baseball bat during June and July.

Arrested for the destruction were: David Morales, 21, of Charlevoix, Laurie Teal, 18, of Harbor Springs, Marlene Kewagshken, 18, of Charlevoix, Josiah Russell, 18, of Charlevoix, and Jarod Hoffman, 17, of Ellsworth.

Lasater said that leads were generated by several deputies in the sheriff's department and the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE).

Get ready for things that go bump in the night

By Jamie MacMillan

Friday night expect the bizarre.

Shedding their normalcy, people will paint their faces, don masks and capes and dress-up as their favorite celebrities and monsters.

Halloween, this year disguised as a winter chill, has set upon us, and while the holiday is just a one-day affair, it has created its own lingo. Pumpkins are Jack-O-Lanterns, pillow cases are grab bags, and door to door solicitors are trick-or-treaters. Between pumpkin patches and costume stores, the holiday has even manifested its own part-time businesses.

"It will be an absolute zoo all week," Rick Flora, owner of Mary's Magic Mirror said.

Flora and his wife Lynn bought and moved the Boyne City store to Traverse City for a larger storefront and customer base. Eventually they hope to parlay the store into a full-time situation, but, except for this time of year, the costume business is light.

"In this area Mardi Gras isn't that big and neither is St. Patrick's Day," Flora said. "We do get some business during Thanksgiving, Christmas and we do a lot of Easter Bunnies."

Flora estimated his store will do 50 percent of their yearly business in the two weeks leading up to Halloween. Typically closed on Sundays, the shop opened its doors on the final Sunday before the 31st and the store wasn't empty all morning, Flora said.

Flora has noticed three big sellers this season: Cruella DeVille, the villainess from 101 Dalmatians; Bat Girl; and Mimi from the Drew Carey show.

"We've been selling blue make-up for her eyes as fast as we can order it. It's been a lot of fun," Flora said.

Video stores report a rush on horror flicks this week as well. Horizon Video clerks mentioned the year goes by without anyone inquiring about horror flicks, then late October rolls around and everybody clamors for the new horror releases. This year "Scream" is the top rental, along with the classic hack 'em ups like "Friday the 13th," and "Halloween."

"The weather is a little mysterious this time of year and it begins to be darker earlier," Charlevoix resident Amy Cook said. "It's fun to sit down and watch scary movies."

As a holiday, Halloween's appeal is basic. People can drop their everyday "blahs" and dress-up in outlandish attire, taking on a new identity, if only for a night.

"There is a lot of stress at Christmas and Thanksgiving, and you would think it would be the same in finding a costume," Flora said. "Everybody is in a good mood, laid back, and ready to play."

Charlevoix resident Quintin Walker Sr. is used to playing on the last day of October. While the neighborhood children were growing up, Walker and company would spoof up the entrance of their home into a gruesome scene. One year it was an operating room gone awry, another time it was a casket.

"The parents got a big kick out of it," Walker said. "We never look at it as a holiday, just as a time to see old friends and give a little scare while we pass out candy."

Sheriff offers holiday cautions

Some of the gremlins that come out at Halloween are very real, warned Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater.

"These are the people who have no fun in their hearts and seek to discourage or injure children who come to their homes for trick-or-treat night," Lasater said.

Parents are cautioned to be extra aware of their children's safety during the Halloween season, especially with so many activities taking place after dark. The sheriff's department offered these safety thoughts:

— Parents should escort small children to homes in the neighborhood, visiting only people they know.

— For older children, it is a good idea to put safety reflecting tape on their costumes to make them easier to see at night by motorists.

— Remind children to look both ways before crossing the street and to use the crosswalk wherever possible.

— Go out in daylight and carry a flashlight in case of delay.

— Advise youngsters to approach pets with caution: wearing a costume may frighten the animal.

— Make sure a child's vision is not blocked because of a mask or overhanging wig or hood.

— Only give and accept wrapped or packaged candy.

— Inspect each treat before permitting your child to eat it. If you find any contaminated foods or other safety violations, report them to Sheriff Lasater.

Lasater and his deputies will help parents and children practice "safety first" and keep our neighborhoods gremlin-free this Halloween.

Performing arts team presents fall show

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts team will present a fall show with a travel theme, "Bon Voyage," at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 1, in the high school gym.

The skits have been carefully written and selected by team members.

Also offering a great ensemble of music this year, the team will perform numbers such as Country Roads and I'm Going Back There Someday.

The night will be lightened with a variety of crazy characters in crazy situations.

The novice class this year is excited to put on the fall show. They have spent a lot of class time learning the terms and stage moves that are critical to have a productive show. They all have good acting qualities and are going to be able to carry on many more great shows in the future.

Along with performing, the group has a strong debate team this year. The debaters made their debut last Wednesday in league competition in Gaylord.

While preparing for the show and competing in debate, the team is raising money to support their various projects. This year, St. Mary's Church has generously given them the Sally Foster wrapping paper sales business. Anyone interested in helping the team can get orders from team members or place an order at the fall show.

Tickets will be on sale at the door for $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

Practicing the Camel Walk for the fall performing arts show are: (front, from left) Kari Jo Boss, Kadie Bogart, Dannica Kilander, Jennifer Ricks, Rhonda Williams and Irina Gapon. (Back row, from left) Jon Heise, Jon Sell and Ryan Borths. The show will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 1. (Photo courtesy of Connie Ford)

Radio Days in Petoskey

On The Air lights up and for two hours you'll be transported to November, 1944.

Back by popular demand, Radio Days will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 4 at the Petoskey Middle School. Tickets are available now at the McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey.

The troupe of six actors and singers offer a well-choreographed mix of classic songs, radio jingles, commercials and serial excerpts.

At this performance, holiday classics such as White Christmas and Sleigh Ride will be included with such favorites as Moonlight in Vermont, Any Bonds Today and Let's Remember Pearl Harbor.

If you're too young to remember these classics, let the cast of Radio Days sing and tell it like it was — old commercials and programs that kept everyone glued to the radio. The music, dances and commercials helped several generations cope and hope during those long war years.

Advance ticket purchases are encouraged, as previous Radio Days performances in northern Michigan were standing room only.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $8 for students. Special rates are available for groups of 10 or more. Call the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center at 347-4337.

County raises taxes for 911system

By Jamie MacMillan

Charlevoix County residents can expect a slight increase in their 1998 county tax bill, in large part due to a major increase in the county's funding of the three-county 9-1-1 emergency phone system.

Last week, the county board approved raising their operating millage rate by a 6-0 vote to 4.2 mills, up .042 from last year. According to equalization director Carla Spencer, the new millage rate will haul in 6.81 percent more money than last year.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 in taxable value. A person with a home of $25,000 in taxable value may see an increase of about four dollars, Spencer said.

Last year's millage rate raised $3,845,617, while this increase is expected to bring over $4.1 million into the county through the taxpayers, Spencer said.

As for the reasoning behind the increase, board chairman Phil Johnson explained the main factor was a 24 percent increase in the 9-1-1 budget, up from just under $256,000 to $340,000.

The 9-1-1 system covering Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Emmet counties has been under heavy scrutiny of late, having gone over budget by $300,000.

Johnson, who is Charlevoix County's representative on the nine member board overseeing 9-1-1, explained that the uneven ledger was a result of hiring more staff than intended and that staff turnover created a situation where more training was needed leading to over-staffed shifts. He also cited a lack of diligence on everyone's part.

Still, for Johnson and the rest of the commissioners, it is a system and a public service worth a slight tax increase to support. In addition, the commissioners appropriated $25,000 out of the county's general funds to help offset this year's budget quandary.

"It saves lives, and you can't put a price on a life," Johnson said. "Maybe if it's Joe Blow, but when it is your son or your own (family member) you might think, 'Maybe we should have spent more than $25,000.'"

Other factors for the tax increase include an increase of the retirement package for county employees to offset the lack of a 1998 pay raise and the hiring of new personnel in the building inspection department.

The County Board of Commissioners next meets at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Rayders beat one of the league's best teams

By Jamie MacMillan

When the Rayders' gridiron squad was in the dumps with a 0-5 record, it was clear they had an offense to win ball games, but the defense had been letting teams roll up and down with alarming frequency.

All that is history, at least for this week, as the defense made stand after stand on their way to a stunning 20-14 upset of rival Boyne City last Friday night at Kipke Field.

"It was a tremendous effort by everyone on this team," coach Todd Klinger said. "It was the first game we played without the foolish turnovers and penalties."

The Rayders did commit an interception on their opening drive, which Boyne City converted into a score. After adding a second seven, it appeared the game would go like most others have this year.

On this Friday night, though, the game was turned in Charlevoix's favor with two critical defensive stands.

The first came in the second quarter with the Ramblers rambling towards a third score. Feeling confident, Boyne City tried converting a fourth-and-one, but Rayder tackle Brian Ward broke through the line, pinning the Rambler running back in the backfield for a loss.

"That play gave us a big lift — from there we pretty much controlled the game," Klinger said.

The Rayders drove sixty yards on a Steve Felter pass to Steve Spiegl seconds before intermission.

The Rayders didn't look like they would give the ball back as they nickel- and dimed their way 95 total yards on 20 plays before scoring on a one-yard plunge by Colin Carr. The drive was kept alive by a key third down catch by Tom Cunningham and a gutsy six-yard run on a fourth and one fake punt by Spiegl.

"He did that on his own," Klinger recalled. "He saw the Boyne kids peel back for a return a little early and he decided to tuck it in and go."

After forcing Boyne into a quick punt, the Rayders had the ball 60 yards and six minutes away from a win. Again they picked their way down the field with a power running game, hitting Nirvana on an eight-yard scramble over the right end by Felter, whose path was cleared by a good block from Wally Wujcik.

With just 41 seconds remaining, Boyne had little chance and after three incomplete passes, the Rayders had there first win over the Ramblers since 1992.

The statistical star of the game was Carr, whose number was called 37 times for 169 yards. He also kicked two extra points.

"He just kept getting stronger and stronger as the game went on," Klinger said. "It was evident that with the line surge we were getting if we kept giving him the ball we would move down the field."

Wujcik, Ward, Cunningham, Spiegl, Caleb Levengood, Carl Goff, Mike Potter, George LaBlance and Justin Thorp rotated in and out of the game, opening up many of the holes Carr ran through.

Nate Metiva, Ward and Felter led the defensive charge that limited the defending Lake Michigan Division champions to just 15 total plays and two first-downs during the second half.

The Rayder record stands at 2-6, 2-4 in league play, with one more game against rival Petoskey this Friday evening. (Front page photo courtesy of the Petoskey News-Review)

Rayder Cross Country team ran into trouble at regional meet

Charlevoix's long-distance runners ran into overpowering Benzie Central squads and an upstart East Jordan team in last weekend's regional cross-country tournament.

The top three schools advance to this weekend's state finals, held in Brooklyn at the Michigan International Speedway.

Unfortunately, the Rayders failed to advance. The girls' squad narrowly missed placing fourth out of 16 teams, while the boys trudged to a 13th place finish out of 19 clubs.

Two Rayders did qualify for the state meet on an individual basis. Seniors Tricia Hodge and Candace Vandergriff, placing sixth and 15th respectively, will run for the Rayders this weekend.

Rounding out the Rayder roster this past weekend were: Monica Browe, 30th; Alyssa Westenbroek, 35th; Laura Schairbaum, 36th; Liza Gorkiewicz, 51st; and Candy Siwarga, 58th.

The top Rayder among the boys' field was Jeff Popenhagen, who placed 47th. Others included Luke Whitley, 63rd; Ben Mays, 79th; Matt Campbell, 80th; Allen Keehn, 84th; Mick Grosberg, 92nd; and Will Wright, 107th.

Golf team enjoyed state championships, placed 14th overall

In August, 119 Class C teams hit the links for the varsity golf season. When the season ended with the state's final 24 squads teeing off at Michigan State University the weekend of Oct.17-19, the Charlevoix Rayders found themselves a few spots shy of a top 10 ranking.

The Rayders placed 14th, shooting a 335 on the first day of competition, which failed to earn them a spot in the event's second day. The top 12 scores from day one advanced. The cut for day two was 329 strokes.

Coach Jim Glynn said afterward that some disappointment lingered in not advancing into the final day, but that the team thoroughly enjoyed themselves and reveled just playing in the state finals.
